The highway in the vicinity of the Sullivan farm runs generally east and west, and is composed of asphalt measuring approximately 16 feet in width, with three feet dirt shoulders on both sides. It is generally level to the east of the said farm, and has no houses on it for a considerable distance. As the highway passes the Sullivan farm, which has a dwelling house about thirty feet in from the northerly side of the highway, it goes down a slight grade for about three hundred yards, and rises again at about the same grade and for the same distance.

At the said farm there are three private driveways leading to the north entering the grounds of the said farm. The two westernmost driveways are over the brow of the hill and the westernmost of these two is not visible to a traveler proceeding westerly on the road until he is about 400 feet from it. This latter driveway also runs southerly across the highway to a pasture on the south of the highway opposite the house lot with its dwelling house and barns and other buildings.

The entrance to the said pasture land is closed by a bar-way which is 17 feet in from the highway and southerly therefrom. The view of this entrance from the brow of the hill is obstructed by the side of a hill which rises from the southerly part of the highway and continues at about the same height from the brow of the hill to the aforementioned entrance.

On the said date the said Raymond J. Sullivan had driven the cows from the pasture to the cow barn for the purpose of milking them. In the herd there was one cow which was not milking, but would follow the rest of the herd to the barn and would return with them after milking. This latter cow was accustomed to lag behind the others, both coming to the barn and going back to the pasture. With the help of the hired man, the said Raymond J. Sullivan finished the milking at about 6:40 a. m. (standard time), and the hired man took the milk to the milk house. Then the said Raymond J. Sullivan drove the herd back across the highway to the pasture and had all but one in the pasture lot. This latter cow probably was the slow one and had to be driven in and not led. The said Raymond J. Sullivan turned his attention to this cow and attempted to get her into the lot. In all probability the said cow turned back and started across the highway, with the said Raymond J. Sullivan at its left rear flank trying to drive her around so that she would head into the pasture lot.

On the said date and at the same time, Paul K. Rogers was operating an automobile alone on the said highway past the said Sullivan home. The said Paul K. Rogers is about thirty-nine years of age, married, and lives in New Britain, Connecticut. He is the Treasurer of the Skinner Chuck company of that city, and also an officers in one of the National banks located there. The said Paul K. Rogers is a licensed motor vehicle operator and the holder of a 1928 Connecticut Motor Vehicle Operator's License, No. 198092. On the said date he was operating a Pierce-Arrow touring car owned by his mother and registered in Connecticut during the current year as P-162. At that time the brakes and mechanical condition of the car were good.

On the said date the said Paul K. Rogers left Weekapaug, Rhode Island, where he had been staying over the week-end, and intended to drive to his home at New Britain. He left there at about 5:36 a. m. (s. t.) and came through Westerly and Norwich and started westerly on the Norwich-Colchester turnpike. While on the said turnpike road at a place about 10 miles out of Norwich, he noticed two automobiles pass him going in the same direction. This caused him to notice his speedometer and at that time it registered 45 miles per hour. He continued at about the same rate until he came to the said Sullivan home, which he reached at about 6:40 a. m. (s. t.). When he came to the brow of the hill at the said Sullivan home the two cars which had passed him were out of sight beyond the next hill and there was no traffic on the road ahead of him, and the road was clear. He was driving his automobile slightly to the right of the center of the road.

When the said Paul K. Rogers came to the brow of the hill on the said highway, he was going at about the same rate of 45 miles per hour. As he started to go down the grade he lifted his foot from the accelerator and the automobile slowed down a little.

When he was at a point about 156 feet from the aforementioned bar-way, he suddenly saw a cow, with a man, whom he later learned to be said Raymond J. Sullivan, beside the cow's left rear flank appear on the road, coming out of the aforementioned entrance to the pasture lot. The cow was going directly across the street or road and appeared to be traveling at a relatively fast rate. The said Paul K. Rogers applied his brakes and continued along in the same direction for a short distance. It then appeared to the said Rogers that the automobile would hit the cow and threw her over onto the said Sullivan if the cow and the said Sullivan continued at the same rate and the automobile maintained the same speed and direction, or if the automobile were turned to the right. The said Rogers then steered his automobile to the left thinking that if the said cow and the said Sullivan continued, he would pass safely in the rear of them. As the automobile came to a point opposite the entrance to the pasture lot, the left wheels went onto the dirt shoulder and the automobile headed for the highway fence on the side of the road. At this moment the said cow had cleared the path of the automobile but the said Sullivan was hit by the right front fender and head light, and was thrown to the right and onto the highway. In all probability the said Sullivan became greatly confused and terror-stricken when he saw the automobile loom up suddenly at the side of him, and either stopped in his tracks or instinctively tried to jump back to safety. The injuries caused by the blow resulted in the death of the said Raymond J. Sullivan.

After the said automobile had struck the said Sullivan, it continued along, left the highway fence, road along the fence and came to a stop approximately 17 feet from the first point of contact. From the time of the first application of the brakes, the marks on the road showed that the left wheel had locked and remained so until the auto stopped.

The said Rogers after stopping his automobile, got out and went back to where the said Sullivan was lying unconscious on the road. He picked the said Sullivan up and carried him to the automobile. At this time Jerome Sullivan, a brother, arrived from the house and assisted the said Rogers in putting the said Raymond J. Sullivan in the car. The latter was taken up the road in the automobile to the Sullivan home, and the doctor was notified. The said Raymond J. Sullivan was dead when he was brought into the house.

The State Police at Groton were notified and reported at the scene in a short time and conducted a thorough investigation.

In making the investigation of this sad and unfortunate accident, it was found that there were no witnesses to the accident, other than the said Paul K. Rogers. Together with this testimony there was the unspoken evidence of the condition of the injured man, of the highway and its surroundings and the marks of the tires of the automobile which clearly showed the path of the automobile and from which the probable speed might be inferred.

In analyzing the situation as it presented itself at the time of the accident, there are many circumstances which require consideration. There is the fact that the highway in this section is a main highway, with no houses or buildings on it for a considerable distance to the east, and no houses or buildings for a distance west of the scene of the accident. It was early morning and there was no traffic on the road, and the condition of the highway was good. When the said automobile came to the brow of the hill there was nothing in the road or no indication of danger that would put a driver on his caution. Immediately before the appearance of the said Sullivan and the cow on the road from the concealed entrance, the said automobile was not being operated in such a grossly or wilfully negligent manner as to constitute criminal negligence, and after the condition arose where there was a possibility or a probability that the said automobile would strike either the man or the cow, the automobile was not operated with criminal negligence.

In all probability, if the entrance to the pasture lot were open to view, so that the driver of the automobile could have seen the man and the cow, and the man could have seen the approaching automobile, this accident might not have happened.

I am satisfied and find that the death of the said Raymond J. Sullivan was not caused by the criminal act, omission, or negligence of any other person or persons.

RAYMOND TESTIFIES IN HIS OWN DEFENSE

o'clock on the evening of April 6, he was just coming out of a store and about to return to work when Raymond's car went by. He recognized Raymond who tooted the horn a few times and waved. He had known Raymond for four or five years. He said that he knew the horn because it had a peculiar sound. There was another man in the car with Raymond but he did not recognize him. When he heard of the trouble, he said under cross-examination by Attorney Harvey, he had told Mrs. Raymond that he would be a witness if he was needed. He stuck to it that he had not told anyone else about his intended testimony, not even the defense lawyers.

Mrs. Rose Walcott said that Mrs. Raymond, mother of the accused, had been her dressmaker for some time. On Monday of the week of April 6, she had taken a coat to Mrs. Raymond for repairs and was told it would be ready Friday or Saturday, in time to be worn Easter, the following Sunday. After a shopping tour in Worcester she went to Mrs. Raymond's house, arriving there about 7 o'clock. She was sitting in the sewing room when Albert, familiarly called "Bert" came in the front door and while passing through the room into the kitchen said "Hello, Mrs. Walcott." She did not see him after that.

Miss Dorothy Vickstrom, 17, of 174 Belmont avenue, Worcester, and "girl friend" of Albert Raymond, entered into the defense of the alleged murderers. She said she was the daughter of Henry Vickstrom and a chum and coworker of Miss Mary Bickford. She told of going to Boston to see a show on the night of April 5. She did not see Raymond on April 6, but about 9:30 o'clock that evening he called her on the telephone and they held a conversation. About 7 o'clock that evening she had called Raymond's house but was informed that Albert was out. She knew it was 9:30 o'clock because the parlor clock struck the half-hour as the telephone rang and her father requested her to hurry the call as he wanted to turn on the radio. She had been "going" with Raymond since early September, 1927. The evening of April 7 she and Albert went for a ride to the Worcester airport and the car got stuck in the mud. She described the Ford coupe and said it had a "moo" horn. She was cross-examined as to her statement made to Officer Donald Tettis of the Worcester police.

Edwin Faucher, of Worcester, young brick-layer, said that he was a friend of Miss Jeanette, otherwise called Jean, Lalone, sister of Roland Lalone and had been calling on her for about two years and a half. He said that on oodG Friday night, April 6, he drove his mother to the Notre Dame church after 7 o'clock and then went to the Lalone home. On the way he saw Raymond and Lalone in the former's car near Grafton square.

Arthur Lachappelle, employed as a druggist at the LaVasseur drug store at 321 Grafton street, said he had known Raymond for some time. He said that Raymond came to the drug store about 9:30 o'clock on the night of April 6 and remained a few minutes. He was not sure whether Raymond used the pay-station telephone or not. Under fire of cross-questioning by Attorney Harvey, Lachappelle gave evidence of a jogged memory when reminded that in his statement to the Worcester police shortly after the arrest of Raymond he had said that he was "positive that Raymond had not used the telephone."

Mrs. Bessie B. Ascher of Springfield, who was the third witness for the state, was called to the stand to verify her statement as to the time when she alleges she sold caps to Raymond and Lalone and a third young man.

Joseph J. Richart of Dudley, Mass., another state witness, was also questioned at the time he alleges to have seen two men tinkering with an automobile near his garage in the vicinity of Brandon road where the abandoned Willys-Knight sedan was found. He said that the time was about 9 p. m. as he returned into the house just in time to hear it announced over the radio.

Captain Daniel F. McCarthy of the Springfield Detective bureau was asked if it was not true that after Raymond and Lalone had been taken to the Springfield jail he refused counsel for their defense to see them on a particular occasion. He affirmed this. An attempt was made by Attorney Moynihan to show that the Springfield newspapers had mentioned the alleged "hammering" of the accused during the grilling, but the question was excluded by Judge Yeomans.

Miss Jean Lalone, 18, of 139 Fair-mont avenue, Worcester, and sister of Roland Lalone testified that in April she was employed as a hairdresser at the Annetta Beauty Parlor in the Grafton hill district. About two o'clock of the afternoon of April 6 she saw her brother riding in Raymond's Ford with Miss Bickford. Shortly after that her brother brought her sandwiches for her lunch and remained to wash the floor of the beauty parlor. He left sometime about three o'clock. She saw him again at 8:30 o'clock that evening when he walked passed the parlor and rapped on the window. She said that she left the employ of the beautiy parlor early in May.

She said that on April 6, her brother came to the parlor about 11 o'clock in the forenoon and remained but a moment. That evening she had been to Edwin Faucher's home to visit the latter's sick sister, returning to her own home at 9:15 o'clock. She was undressed and saying her evening prayers in her room at 10:15 o'clock when she heard Roland come in and go into his room. She did not speak then so as not to interrupt her prayers but later cried out, "Good night, Mr. Roland Lalone." She said that he did not hear her and there was no reply. She concluded with testimony as to the presence of guards at all times upon her visits to her brother in Brooklyn jail.

Frank Spiewakoski," alias Frank Spinny, Webster, Mass., taxi-driver, was recalled for brief questioning as to routes taken by him on order of two male passengers in his tax: on the night of April 6.

George Raymond, brother of Albert to whom he bears a striking likeness, entered the witness chair as witness No. 10 for the defense. He said that he worked in an automobile garage in Harre, Mass., some 23 miles from Worcester. On Saturday, April 7, his brother Albert and Roland Lalone came to the garage in Albert's Ford and he loaned his brother some tools to be used in making repairs on the Ford. He described Albert's Ford and said that it had a "Toro" voice horn that sounded like a cow. Albert, he said, had parted his hair in the middle since he had started combing it.

To the majority of those in the courtroom, including some 40 spectators, the defense sprung the surprise of the day at 4:20 o'clock in calling to the stand Albert J. Raymond. Raymond's speech is quite rapid, but clear and well modulated. He still wore the blue suit and light sport sweater beneath the coat that has been his characteristic attire since his first appearance in the local courtroom. Raymond said that he had resided in Worcester for 11 years. He had attended the Worcester schools up to 1923 and then attended Dean Academy, a preparatory school in Franklin, Mass. He gave his home address as 394 Grafton street.

Coached by Attorney Moynihan, Raymond then proceeded to give a detailed account of his activities on the day of April 6.

On the morning of Good Friday, April 6, he arose at 7:30 o'clock. About 11 o'clock he went down to Grafton's square, some ten houses away. He returned home to dinner and at 1 o'clock went to the square again and stopped at the LeVasseur drug store, met Roland Lalone shortly after 3 o'clock and in his (Raymond's) Ford car went to Chatham street, the business section of Worcester, where they parked the car. At the corner of Chatham and Main streets he went into the Liggett's drug store and telephoned his mother that he was going to a show at the Palace theatre. He and Lalone sat in the first balcony with three young ladies, with whom they struck up a conversation. They did not know the girls but had secured their names on a card, which he later turned over to Detective Lieutenant Finneran. They left the show at 6:30 o'clock and drove back to Grafton street, Lalone getting out at the square. Raymond said that when he walked into the house shortly before 7 o'clock his mother and sister and Mrs. Rose Walcott were in the sewing room. He said hello to Mrs. Walcott and went into the kitchen where he had a light lunch. He returned to the square in 15 minutes and picked up Lalone. They drove around several streets, the names of which were given and returned to the LeVasseur drug store, in front of which they parked the car.

They then went to the bowling alleys three doors away, and he and Lalone played pool until 8 o'clock when they again went for a ride this time to White City, an amusement park, Shrewsbury, Mass., returning to Grafton square about 9 o'clock. In the LeVasseur drug store the pair had a "college ice" and Raymond called up his mother to ask if anyone had telephoned him at the house. He recalled that a friend of theirs (Raymond and Lalone) Eddie King, had come into the drug store and said hello to both he and Lalone. Acting on information received from his mother, he went to a booth across the street and telephoned his girl friend, Dorothy Dixon. After the telephone call he drove Lalone home and returned to the drug store and remained there until about 11 o'clock, then going home.

He was reading a newspaper when the doorbell rang. He answered and saw two detectives, one of whom was Andrew Bryan of the Worcester department. He was asked, "Is Albert Raymond home?" Witness said that he answered, "Yes, I'm Albert Raymond." Witness then asked the detectives what Albert was wanted for and they replied, "Oh, nothing." The detectives then left and he went to bed. Attorney Moynihan asked if the testimony given on the stand was identical with the signed statement of his activities he had given to the police and Raymond said that it was.

Raymond then told of his doings the following day, Saturday, April 7. He told of going to his brother's garage in Barre to borrow tools. On that night he and Mrs. Dickson went riding in his Ford and at the Worcester airport the car became mired in the mud. When asked how long the car was mired, Raymond answered about five hours. The scene of activities then shifted to April 11, when Lieut. William T. Finneran of the Worcester detective bureau called for Raymond at 7:45 o'clock in the morning and took him to the police headquarters. Lalone was also there. Raymond was questioned as to details of the occurrences at the detective bureau, leading up to the lineup. Raymond said that Lieutenant Finneran had brought in seven men who were placed in line. He and Lalone were told to select positions in the line. Raymond said that he was the second man in line. Officer Gallagher of the Springfield police was escorted into the room and, according to the witness, he walked at once over to Raymond and then to Lalone and placed his hands on them as a sign of identification. Officer Gallagher, he stated, did not even look at the remaining seven men Frank Spiewakoski, alias Frank Spinny of Webster, was then taken into the room. Spinny looked the men over and was then heard to remark by Raymond, "The two fellows that I drove to Worcester are not in that lineup."

At this point court adjourned until Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. The defense now has examined 13 witnesses, including seven who had previously testified for the state. The mothers of the two accused have been in the courtroom almost continuously since the beginning of the trial. It is expected that they and Raymond's sister, Florence, will take the stand Thursday. Roland Lalone will also probably take the stand. An endeavor is apparently being made by the defense to complete all or nearly all of its direct testimony before adjournment Thursday afternoon as announcement has been made that there will not be any session of court Friday, owing to the fact that Judge Yeomans is to preside at a civil session in Hartford on that day. In that event court may be adjourned until next Tuesday and the major part of next week would be consumed with conclusion of the case. Following the defense testimony, there will be rebuttal. These will be followed with arguments by the attorneys, giving the defense four arguments and the state two, should the full allowance be taken advantage of. The next step will be the reading of the charge to the jury by Judge Yeomans and then the retirement of the jury for deliberation and return of a verdict of guilty or not guilty. It is understood that a verdict of not guilty in the defendants' absolute freedom while one of guilty necessarily carries with it the death penalty.

SAVINGS BANK DEPOSITS GAINED HERE IN AUGUST

In the annual report of business activity in cities of the state, which is assembled by the state chamber of commerce, Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of the Norwich chamber reported as follows: Bank debits for August, 1927, amounted to $8,872,450 and for August, 1928, to $8,822,679. Savings bank deposits for August, 1926, were $38,551,493 and for August, 1927, $40,804,810, an increase of 4.7 per cent. For August, 1928, they amounted to $43,740,743, an increase of 7.2 per cent. Gas consumption for August a year ago amounted to 13,056M cu. ft.; for August, 1928, 14,470M, showing an increase of 4.4 per cent. August, 1928, showed a gain of 4.6 per cent in kwh. of electricity consumed, the figures being for August, 1927, 781,380 and for August of this year, 817,320. Forty-nine telephones were installed in August of last year compared with 63 last month; 36 telephones were removed in August, 1927, and 47 in 1928, showing a net gain of 23 per cent. Post office receipts for August, 1927, totaled $9,563 and for August of this year, $8,557, showing a loss of 6 per cent.

The Virginia, of the Panama-Pacific line, to be launched in August, will be the largest electric-driven ship built.

WHY NOT ALLOW THUMM'S TO SUPPLY YOUR PARTY NEEDS

Thumm's Delicatessen Store of 40 Franklin street is the proper place for you to buy those things you require for eating and for special parties.

It is always pleasant to know that there is a delicatessen store near your home, but it is more pleasing to know that Thumm's is located in Norwich.

As the time grows rapidly short before the special day when guests are to be entertained something must be figured on lest the housewife desires that terrible shock of running short of something to eat just at the time when it is needed the most.

Careful planning for wants for parties and special events has always been the policy of Thumm's Delicatessen Store, 40 Franklin street, and our store today abounds in hundreds of things which, gracing the table on those occasions will make the hearts of all housewives sing with joy.

Our cooked meats are known everywhere as a delicious treat and no less popular is our home-made mayonnaise. Utmost care is taken in preparing all foods in this store and every patron may rest assured that their purchase has provided them with the best money can buy.

If you are planning a party in the immediate future or if you are planning an outing of any kind let us quote you on prices and show you how to save money on your purchases.

FORBES & GRENIER WILL GUARANTEE GOOD PLUMBING

This is the time of year when people realize most what good plumbing has meant.

Fobes & Grenier of 62 Shetucket street, phone 368, have always done efficient work and they stand ready now to handle your heating problem or plumbing work.

Before rushing ahead blindly why not consult them about plumbing or heating arrangements for your house or garage. Carefully prepared estimates always mean a saving of dollars in a new house. Careless plans, a mistake in radiation or boiler capacity, means the loss of hundreds of dollars during the lifetime of a new house owner.

A few more dollars spent at the start, the installation of a heating plant of sufficient size to properly heat house, and with no need of forcing of tons of coal as the winters roll by.

This type of service, one which looks ahead to the future savings, is the type specialized in by Forbes and Grenier. Let us handle your problems for you, and rest assured that we will handle them carefully.

ELDREDGE HARDWARE CO. KNOWN FOR GOOD HARDWARE

After having been in the hardware field in Norwich for many years we feel that we have the right to claim that the Eldredge Hardware company ranks among the leaders in the city. For years the quality of goods carried at this store has been kept at a high standard. Nothing has ever been handled by this store that has not been looked into by a representative of our firm to see that the good name of this company would not be injured through our selling that product.

At this time of the year we are making a special mention of articles and implements for use about the farm and home.

Of course you know that these things are but a few of many hundreds that we have on hand for home use. We welcome a visit by you at any time. Perhaps there is something you need about your home, something you have long denied yourself.

Come in and see us and let us show you why you should no longer deny yourself. A timely investment saves many dollars. See us and save now.

AETNA BOWLING ALLEYS PROVIDE EXCELLENT SPORTS

The Aetna Bowling alleys, located in the Majestic building, 55 Shetucket street, offers the Norwich people a fine home for fall and winter sports.

Bowling is always a pleasure at this time of the year and at the Aetna alleys you will find seven of the finest alleys in eastern Connecticut fairly tempting you to roll them down the alley to beat the 100 mark.

For years the Aetna alleys have been conducted in a manner which makes it possible for the men of eastern Connecticut to bring their wives and daughters with them to enjoy a game or two. Alleys at anytime may be reserved for women, excepting of course specified alleys which are held for tournament games now underway.

Besides the bowling alleys there are over a half dozen excellent billiard tables. Here again is a game which is as suited for the ladies as for the men.

The policy of the Aetna alleys has always been that of allowing only gentlemen to use its alleys and tables for pleasure and because of this policy has established the reputation of being an ideal place for winter games for the entire family.

LOCAL MERCHANTS CAN PROVIDE FINE SERVICE

Whether it is in the automobile tire business, the hotel business, contracting, or in any other line of business, listed on this page is the firm or the business house which stands ready to give prompt and courteous service.

In rainy or pleasant weather, whether it is hot or cold hundreds of local business men await the calls of the patrons for service, that kind which they allege cannot be provided by the concern in cities miles away.

In particular this is true of the automobile accessory business. A tire or tube purchased from these dealers, if it gives trouble, can be serviced best by the concern from which the purchose was made. If it's radio trouble it's the local dealer who gets the call for assistance. If it's any type of quick service you need—it's the local dealer who supplies it.

Back up this type of local service by trading at home. The local dealer stands ready to serve you—isn't it fair that you should give him your trade?

Let us estimate with you for a Memorial that will give everlasting satisfaction.

HIGH CALL MONEY CHECKED PRICES AFTER EARLY OUTBURST OF STRENGTH

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—(AP)—Marking up of the call money rate from 7 to 8 1-2 per cent., the highest rate since July 2 when money loaned as high as 10 per cent., turned the course of prices irregular again today after an early outburst of strength. Extreme losses in some of the highly speculative issues ranged from 4 to 10 points, but these were cut down in a late afternoon recovery in which a few specialties sold at their best prices of the day.

Trading showed a marked reduction in volume, with the ticker keeping fairly close to the market during the greater part of the day. Total sales were 2,864,000 shares.

Banks called upwards of $30,000,000 in loans during the day, presumably in reflection of government withdrawals of almost a like amount. Call loans advanced from 7 to 7 1-2, 8 and finally to 8 1-2 per cent. Time money held firm around 7 per cent., with 7 1-4 asked for some of the shorter maturities. Sterling exchange eased fractionally to $4.85 1-16, or about the price which further gold imports would be profitable, although none were reported.

There was little in the day's trade news to influence the price movement. A continued good demand was reported for export copper, yesterday's withdrawals of 15,000,000 pounds being the largest of any single day in recent months. Directors of the Commercial Solvents corporation declared a stock dividend of 2 per cent., and the annual dividend on Newton Steel was raised from $2.50 to $3.

Atlantic Refining was a strong feature, climbing 9 points to 182 1-2, the highest price since the declaration of the 900 per cent. stock dividend years ago, and closing within a fraction of the top. Sinclair was taken in large blocks, but closed fractionally lower, as did Texas Corp., and some of the other popular oils.

General Motors crossed 209 in early trading, fell back to 206 1-2 and closed 1 1-8 points lower at 156 5-8 after having sold nearly 2 points above that figure.

Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Radio, International Nickel and Murray Corporation all closed higher after intervals of heaviness.

Case Threshing broke 10 points and rallied 5. Abraham & Straus, Adams Express, American Linseed, Commercial Solvents, Coty, Dupont, International Business Machines and Wright Aero lost 3 to 5 1-2 points.

New high records for the year or longer were registered by American Safety Razor, American Zinc & Lead, A. M. Byers, General American Tank, Household Products, Howe Sound, Inspiration Copper, Kelsey-Hayes Wheel, Liquid Carbonic, Miami Copper, Spicer, Superior Steel, Trico Products and Walworth.

Bankers hold out little hope of much easier call money rates this week, pointing out that income tax checks are being cleared unusually fast by the government, and that heavy presentation of Third Liberties for repayment might necessitate further government withdrawals of deposits.

Commodity markets were firmer. Wheat advanced a cent or more a bushel in reflection of the increased demand for nearby deliveries. Cotton rallied about $1.50 a bale on buying influenced by reports of storm damage. Coffee quotations advanced 3 to 10 points and sugar prices held fairly steady.

Foreign exchanges moved within extremely narrow and irregular limits, with a 12-point drop in Japanese yen to 45.73 cents as the only feature.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Bobby Coon Grows Angry

Disappointment often will Make short tempers shorter still.
—Old Mother Nature.

Inside a hollow log crouched Whitefoot the Wood Mouse. It was a small log and it was a very small hollow. Whitefoot had darted into it through a knothole that was just big enough for him to squeeze through. "It's a lucky thing for me that this old log was right handy," said Whitefoot to himself as he pulled his long tail in after him. "Bobby Coon would have had me, I'm afraid, if this old log hadn't been right here."

"I wonder if I could pull him out of there"

A moment later Whitefoot was by no means sure that Bobby Coon wouldn't have him anyway. Bobby had seen just where he went. He came over to the old log and sniffed at the knothole. Of course, he got his nose full of the scent of Mouse. That scent was so strong that Bobby knew that Whitefoot couldn't be very far inside that hollow log. He suspected that it was a small hollow.

"I wonder if I could pull him out of there. If I can once get my claws into him he'll come out," muttered Bobby.

So he thrust in through the knothole one of his paws, which was very like a hand. Then he began to feel about. He felt all around very carefully. Once something smooth and round slipped out from under his fingers. He knew what it was; it was Whitefoot's tail. He knew then that that hollow was so small that Whitefoot was having hard work to keep out of reach. Two or three times he felt the touch of fur, but there was nothing he could get hold of. It was very exasperating. Yes, indeed. It was very exasperating. He pulled his arm out. "Come out of there!" he commanded. "I'll get you anyway, so you may as well save me the trouble of pulling you out."

Of course, Whitefoot didn't come out. He simply tried to make himself smaller than ever. He was terribly frightened. How he did wish that that hollow was just a little bit larger. If he could only have had another inch he would have felt entirely safe. How he did wish he could shrink! Yes, Whitefoot was a badly scared little Mouse.

Bobby Coon reached in with his other arm and felt about as before. He felt and felt this way and that way. As before, he just touched Whitefoot once or twice. And then something happened. Bobby Coon gave a yelp of pain and yanked his arm out of there in a hurry. Whitefoot had bitten one of Bobby's fingers. Yes, sir, Whitefoot had used his sharp little teeth.

My, such a rage as Bobby Coon flew into! He snarled and growled and threatened to do all sorts of dreadful things to Whitefoot. But Whitefoot noticed that he didn't put his arm in there again. Then Bobby began to claw at that old log. He was trying to tear it apart. But he soon found he couldn't do this. That old log was not old enough and decayed enough. Then he tried to roll it over. He thought there might be an opening on the under side. He pulled and he hauled and he hauled and he pulled. As I said before, the log was a small one. Bobby found that he could move it. It wasn't heavy. Presently it suddenly rolled over so that the knothole was down against the ground. Whitefoot was a prisoner.

"If I can't get in you can't get out," growled Bobby Coon, and licked the finger that Whitefoot had bitten. Then, very well satisfied with what he had done, Bobby Coon headed for the Laughing Brook to wash his hands, for you know Bobby Coon is very neat.

"I'll come back by and by," muttered Bobby to himself, "and have another try for that Wood Mouse."

ATWATER KENT RADIO

Here's a 1929 electric radio—

greater range

MORE than a quarter million homes are already enjoying the performance of Atwater Kent electric sets. The dependability of Atwater Kent Radio (battery sets included) is satisfying more than 1,650,000 families.

Power? Range? Tone? Snap the switch and let the house current course through the tubes. Touch the FULL-VISION Dial. How the stations come rolling in—each one natural and separate.

Performance? Yes! Dependable performance. The kind of performance that's assured by 222 rigid tests or inspections of each set before it leaves the factory. The kind of dependability that makes five-year-old Atwater Kent sets work perfectly today. Dependability that you can count on!

It took years of research to develop a radio like this Model 40—and it takes modern precision methods to make as fine a set as this for only $77.

We're sure it will satisfy you. So sure that a phone call to your nearest dealer today will bring a free demonstration in your own home.

Model 40 A. C. set (illustrated above). For 110-120 volt, 50-60 cycle alternating current. Requires six A. C. tubes and one rectifying tube, $77 (without tubes).

Also Model 42 A. C. set with automatic line voltage regulator, $95, and Model 44, an extra-powerful seven-tube A. C. set, $156.

Battery sets, $69 and $86 (less tubes and batteries).

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Frigidaire

Fewer school children will be tardy this session than ever before due to the increase here in the number of homes equipped with automatic refrigeration, making it possible to serve luncheon on time every day, according to Mr. Brown, Frigidaire dealer.

"Many cases of tardiness in the afternoon," he said, "are caused by serving luncheon so late that the child does not have time to eat his lunch and get back to school on time. Often a child fails to eat enough for fear of being tardy. Even experienced housekeepers have found it hard to serve lunch exactly on time every day.

"The automatic refrigerator has solved the school day luncheon problem, however, by making it possible to prepare most of the dishes ahead of time. They are kept fresh until time for serving them and the meal can be put on the table quickly and on time.

"Biscuits may be cut out days ahead of time and put in the food storage compartment," he stated, "making it a matter of a few minutes to serve hot biscuits for the school day lunch. A great increase in the number of households here, many of them containing several school children, installing automatic refrigeration equipment has been noted since the close of school last June," he said.

Palace Theatre

Jetta Goudal wears long skirts whenever it suits her fancy to look taller than she really is. And, so when it came to designing her gowns for "The Cardboard Lover," the latest Marion Davies starring picture, which will be at the Palace today, tomorrow and Saturday, it was natural for her to make the skirts long in order to accentuate the difference between her role as the adventuress, and the role of Miss Davies as an innocent and beautiful schoolgirl.

Exotic in type in "The Cardboard Lover," Miss Goudal's gowns deftly carry out a bizarre note, exactly in keeping with the role.

A house gown of black velvet is extremely simple in cut. Featured with this is a cap of cut crystals. The sole ornament on the gown is a crystal bar.

In addition to Miss Goudal, Miss Davies' supporting cast includes Nils Asther, Andres de Segurola, Tenen Holtz and Pepi Lederer, a niece of Miss Davies.

In addition to the feature picture, an outstanding vaudeville program is presented, which is headed by Mepa Dexter and Band with Bougard and Pearce, a company of ten artists who chow syncopation and steps with special scenery and settings. Ross and Costello provide many laughs. The Anderson and Graves company offer a sketch, "Fishing for Laughs," and are successful. Chenko and Kaufman have a novelty surprise offering.

MOLINARA'S CASE CONTINUED TO TODAY IN NEW LONDON CITY COURT

NEW LONDON, Sept. 19—Fortunato Molinara, 129 Thames street, Norwich, was arrested yesterday at a shack in Colchester occupied by Martin Fazio, and was charged with criminal libel in connection with the distribution of circulars in New London two weeks ago tending to indicate that judges and attorneys in New London county had been guilty of fraudulent practices. He was presented in the police court this morning. The case was continued to Thursday. In default of $5,000 bail, Molinara was committed to jail.

Molinara was arrested by County Detective William Lewis and Deputy Sheriff Hoxie, the latter of Lebanon when the officers followed Molinara's automobile, which had been driven to his Norwich home and two shot guns taken from the house and carried to the shack. When Molinara appeared from the shack he was covered by the revolvers of the officers and arrested. He was taken to Norwich police headquarters and then brought to New London.

Molinara's wife was arrested on the same charge the day that the literature was distributed in this city and is now in jail here awaiting trial at the January term of the criminal superior court, she also having been unable to procure bail.

Mrs. Molinara was detected in the act of distributing the circulars and it is known that a male companion assisted her in the work. The companion is supposed to have been Molinara. However, if Molinara did participate in the distribution, there was another man performing that work, for a Negro was observed making the distribution as well as Mrs. Molinara. The Negro is described as being about five feet five or six inches in height, weighed about 145 pounds and had curly hair. his appearance indicating that he might be of Portuguese type. He was hatless and coatless, but wore either a white short or a colored figured shirt and flannel trousers of gray texture and with a dark stripe. Molinara declares that he did not participate in the distribution of the libelous literature and attempted to restrain his wife from doing so.

James Bernardo, 35 Shaw street, was presented in court on a charge of reckless driving. He was arrested on Ocean avenue last night by Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin when the former failed to reduce speed at intersecting streets.

The only other case was that of intoxication, a fellow who was creating a disturbance on State street last night. He was arrested by Patrolman John Clifford and today was given a suspension of judgment.

DR. R. S. LINSLEY WEDS MRS. BRADLEY OF GROTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 19—Dr. R. Scott Linsley, son of Dr. James R. Linsley, of this city and Mrs. Florence Bradley, of Eastern Point, Groton, were married at noon today, the ceremony being performed by Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church, in the chapel at Eastern Point. They were unattended and only members of the two families witnessed the ceremony.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the return of the driver's license of E. F. Kepler, Crocker house and New Rochelle, N. Y. The license was suspended a week ago.

Traffic Officer Frank Linehan and Station House Keeper Frank Corcoran are on their vacation of two weeks.

An automobile driven by Frank Freeman, Truman street merchant, struck John Tassi, employed by the street department as the latter was at work on Truman street, corner of Hempstead street, this morning. Tassi was taken to the office of a physician where it was found that his injuries were slight.

Mrs. Thomas Doyle, 131 Asylum street, Norwich, today informed the New London police that she had found markers of a machine registered in the name of a man named Christman, residing at 56 Jefferson avenue and stated that Christman could recover his property by going to Norwich and applying for the markers.

OBITUARY

Christopher C. Clark

Christopher Culver Clark, 85, died late last night at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Clark Rogers, 49 Truman street, after a lingering illness caused by infirmities attending Mr. Rogers' advanced years. His daughter is his only surviving relative. Mr. Rogers was for 35 years employed by the Mallory line steamers plying out of the port of New York. He was retired about 10 years ago and since that time had resided with his daughter.

Burial at Stafford Springs

The funeral of Robert H. Small, former alderman, was held this noon at his residence, 151 Willetts avenue and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners, including delegations of Union lodge, No. 31, F. & A. M., and New England Order of Protection. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. The bearers were Arthur M. Green, Henry L. Sykes, Herbert P. White and John D. Austin. The body was taken to Stafford Springs where burial took place this afternoon.

Conrad Hester

The funeral of Conrad Hester, of Quaker Hill, Waerford, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Quaker Hill Baptist church and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Herbert B. Hutchens. Burial was in Union cemetery, Waterford.

WEDDING

Callahan-Richards

Miss Ethel Julia Richards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hobart A. Richards of Versailles, Conn., became the bride yesterday of Lawrence Edward Callahan, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Callahan of this city. The ceremony was performed at St. Mary's Star of the Sea rectory by Rev Michael Reagan. The bride wore royal blue georgette with hat to match and carried pink Columbia roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Her brideamaid, Miss Harriet Thompson of this city, was attired in brown velvet and carried butterfly roses. William McCue of Rhode Island State College was best man.

After the ceremony a breakfast was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Earl E. Kenyon, 147 Crystal avenue. After a honeymoon through New York state, Mr. and Mrs. Callahan will be at home to friends at 47 Crystal avenue.

Edith Cavell lodge, No. 45, American Independent Order of Daughters of St. George gave an enjoyable whist party last night in its lodge rooms on State street. Nine tables were in play and the prize winners were Mrs. Janet Black, Mrs. Annie Mallon, Mrs. Hannah Apes, Mrs. McQuillan, Donald McArthur and Mrs. O'Leary. Pinochle was also played and the winners in this game were Mrs. Edward Herman, Mrs. Joseph Jordan, Mrs. Mattie Brewer, Thomas Isaacs, Mrs. John Holland and Mrs. William Manice. After play there were refreshments.

Orient Rebekah lodge of this city will observe its 37th anniversary tomorrow night following a short business session in Odd Fellows' hall. A musical program and a schedule of games has been arranged. The committee in charge is Mrs. W. Alpha Lewis and Mrs. George Holmes.

A whist party is to be held tomorrow night after the regular business meeting of Joynt assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus. The hostesses will be Mrs. William Guerin, Mrs. Arthur Martin and Mrs. Nora Greenman.

Associate employes of Miss Maud Leuba of Pleasure beach, at the Connecticut Power company tendered her a miscellaneous shower yesterday at noon, in anticipation of her marriage with Wilfred Vine of Hoxie, R. I. Many attractive gifts were presented the young lady following which refreshments were served.

The Hackley Dramatic club held its first meeting of the season last night at the Community house in Tilley street. Edwin H. Hackley of Philadelphia, for whom the club was named was present and stated that he would remain in the city for a time for the purpose of directing the activities of the club.

At the September board meeting of the Y. M. C. A. held last night, Miss Reba Coe, new recreation secretary was introduced.

After having been tied up at the dock of the Thames Towboat company for nearly a year, the tugboat Bess today was seen plowing its way through Long Island sound. The boat has been chartered by the Packard Dredging company of Providence for use at New Haven.

The tail end of the Florida hurricane struck this city at an early hour today but no damage resulted. High winds and a driving rain caused many to fear that a repetition of the havoc wrought further south might occur here.

At the September meeting of W. M. I. Alumnae association held last night at the Y. M. C. A. Miss Ira Musante was elected secretary, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Edna Smith.

The E. P. Barber Manufacturing Co., at Flanders has reduced the number of employes from 100 to 20. Slack orders is the reason for the reduction in the force, but the management is hopeful that the plant will be running to capacity before very long.

NEW $45,000 SEWAGE PLANT TO KEEP REFUSE OUT OF RIVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 19—New London will soon have a modern new sewage disposal plant in the riverside section. According to plans of City Engineer George E. Watters the total plant will cost in the neighborhood of $45,000. Upon its completion a great boon will be conferred upon residents of the city as under the present system all refuse goes into the Thames river.

Under the terms of her father's will Dorothy Hall Hislop, wife of Dr. Gordon Hislop of Waterford, has received her share of an estate reputed to have been in the neighborhood of $200,000. She is a daughter of the late Joseph Hall, Norwich woolen manufacturer.

Those dismissed from the Home Memorial hospital were Mrs. Fred Lawrence and son of 66 Connecticut avenue.

At the 111th anniversary of the New London Baptist association, held yesterday in Niantic, Richard M. Mansfield of this city was again chosen as moderator of the organization. Rev. R. R. Ferguson of the Montauk avenue Baptist church was elected vice moderator and Mrs. George Mosher of Waterford was re-elected secretary and treasurer. The meeting yesterday was one of the most enthusiastic ever held and more than 200 were in attendance. The morning and afternoon sessions were chiefly devoted to business. In the evening a social time was enjoyed.

NEGRO WELFARE COUNCIL IS DOING GOOD WORK

It was announced recently that Samuel M. Prentis of Federal street has accepted an invitation of the United Negro Welfare council to become a member of its executive board. This fact was stated by Mrs. Sadie Harrison, secretary of the council. The council is doing valuable work in stimulating worth-while projects in the Negro population of this city and has the enthusiastic support of many of New London's leading citizens.

Other members of the executive board are: Mrs. Laura A. Coleman, chairman; Mrs. Frank Harris, vice chairman; Miss Lois Taylor, secretary; Col. Henry S. Dorser, treasurer; Mrs. Rosemary O. Anderson, James Brown, Prof. M. A. Cobbledick, Thomas W. Coleman, C. C. Costello, Henry Fulford, Mrs. Mary E. Hawkins, Mrs. James N. Kelley, Mrs. Julia Taylor, Mrs. Lena Thompson.

DR. C. F. FERRIN SUES WIFE TO GET BACK RESIDENCE

NEW LONDON, Sept. 19—Dr. Carlsle F. Ferrin, a former prominent local physician, who mysteriously departed from the city several weeks ago, and whose whereabouts have since remained unknown, through counsel has caused suit to be brought against his wife, Blanche Ferrin, to obtain possession of title in the residence, heretofore occupied by the physician, corner of Huntington and Jay streets. Papers in the case were served today and the case is returnable before the superior court the first Tuesday in November. According to the action which is brought through Attorney Philip Z. Hankey, the plaintiff seeks to establish title to the property now standing in the name of the defendant and to compel her to transfer the same to plaintiff and enjoins defendant from conveying the property to someone else. According to the records on file in the office of the town clerk, Dr. Ferrin caused title in the property in question to be transferred from himself to his wife Jan. 12, 1923.

Two women, one a wife and the other a daughter, have communicated with the detective bureau, one seeking the whereabouts of her husband and the other asking assistance in locating her brother, both of whom when last known of, were in this city. Mrs. Luke M. Nolan, a resident of Pennsylvania, seeks knowledge of the whereabouts of her husband, who several weeks ago departed for Groton to visit relatives. Since then nothing has been heard of from her husband by the wife. Miss Jeanette Rogers, Philadelphia, is anxious to ascertain knowledge of the whereabouts of her brother. Harold Chase Rogers. In 1920 Rogers, who was then employed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, engaged in a strike when employes of the railroad at Midway became aggrieved at working conditions. Since then his sister has remained in ignorance of her brother's whereabouts. He is described as being about five feet eight inches in height, has auburn hair and blue eyes. His last known residence was in New London.

The funeral of Ann, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Agostino Alfieri, of 25 Ocean avenue, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of the parents. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The storm of today occasioned but little or no damage, for although a constant rain prevailed, and was accompanied by a heavy wind since about 2 o'clock this morning, no damage of consequence was reported. The fire alarm system was somewhat disrupted for the heavy gale caused a disconnection of wires in one or two sections of the city.

BOOTLEGGER AND BARMAID ARE CAUGHT WITH THE GOODS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 19—Eudey Rutsko, alias Freddie Rutsko, 101 North Bank street, was arrested this morning charged with violation of the liquor law and will be in court tomorrow charged on two counts, actual sale and keeping with intent to sell. He furnished a surety on his bond of $1,000 in Michael Doyle, North Bank street resident. Mrs. Josephine Truken, 37, married and a cook, who is estranged from her husband, was also arrested charged with interfering with an officer and was held in bail of $100 for appearance in court tomorrow. Patrolman Dennis Murphy was walking along North Bank street about 11 o'clock and, scrutinizing Rutsko's store, noted patronage there which indicated what the police had long suspected, that Rutsko was selling liquor. He entered the place and stealthily moved to a counter of which the Truken woman was in charge, managing to grab two milk bottles containing home-made gin. As quick as Mrs. Truken realized what had occurred she seized the officer and called to Rutsko who was lying on a bed. Both Rutsko and Mrs. Truken endeavored to recover the so-called gin, but were beaten off by the officer, who arrested the man and woman and took the evidence, the two milk bottles containing the gin, to police headquarters. Rutsko and the woman were locked up, but only for a short time, for both secured surety on their respective bonds. Rutsko has been arrested once before, charged with violation of the liquor law, having been taken in by Officer Murphy, April 1, 1928, but at the trial in the police court he was found not guilty. He will probably not fare so well tomorrow for William Glossenger, one of the frequenters of the place, has made a confession and he was in the store when the officer entered today and seized the containers of gin. Rutsko is married and his wife also has been arrested on charges of selling liquor in violation of the law. Mrs. Rutsko and her husband lived apart for a year or more.

Archibald S. MacFarlane has sold a parcel of land, corner of Connecticut avenue and Cedar Grove avenue, to Henry E. and Marian M. Wagner.

William M. Darrow has sold to Morris Feldman a house and lot, corner of Ocean and Willetts avenues.

Percival E. Hall has sold to Laura A. Wragg a building lot, corner of Jefferson avenue and Colman street.

William, Anna and Mabel Faitoute have sold a building lot on Fowler court to Peter J. Caron.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway.

If you are, in any sense, a baseball fan, don't miss Richard Dix in "Warming Up," the Paramount star's latest photoplay, which opens at the Broadway theatre tonight for a run of four days.

Dix will come to the Broadway theatre in a screen story which, from all appearances, will be ranked alongside of "The Quarterback," one of his best. In "Warming Up," he is the same athletic, lovable Dix but this time his toe is in the pitcher's box.

The story concerns a young rookie whose troubles are not confined to the diamond and particularly to a jinx which seems to have settled on his trail for good. There is also a delicate and charming little love theme which runs through the production.

Jean Arthur, playing opposite Mr. Dix for the first time has a chance to prove why the star cannot be blamed for loving her. She is quite pretty and capable.

At his apiary at Exeter, N. H., Harry I. Noyes has evolved a scheme that benefits himself, his bees, and fruit growers. This year he leased six colonies to Walter B. Farmer, of Applecrest, who employed the bees to pollenize the apple blossoms to insure a good crop. At the end of ten days Mr. Farmer returned the bees and paid a rental of $3 for each hive. Meanwhile the bees filled up with a large store of the choicest apple blossom honey.

ROTARIANS HEAR HARTFORD MAN GIVE INTERESTING TALK ON SPORTS

Holding the interest of his listeners for nearly an hour, Albert W. "Bert" Keane, sports editor of the Hartford Courant, gave a highly interesting talk on sports to the members of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. During the course of his talk Mr. Keane spoke directly to the members of the Rotary junior baseball team, runners-up in the Junior Twilight league, who were guests of the club. He also complimented the Rotary club on its support of the Junior team.

Mr. Keane, who was a student at the Norwich Free Academy about 25 years ago, recalled some of his experiences as a member of the football and baseball teams. He was introduced to the Rotarians by Myles E. Standish, chairman of the program committee for September. Mr. Keane said:

I wonder if any one of you realize what it means to a wanderer to come back to his home after many years of absence, to view scenes fraught with boyhood memories, to meet schoolmates of 25 years ago and to learn that some of those we have held dear in our memory all these long years have heard the call of the Great Referee?

If you can realize such a feeling you know what my emotions are at present. I feel that I am a foster-son of Norwich, being born in Danielson, reared in Montville, and started in my search for higher education in good old Norwich Free Academy back in 1901, a member of that famous class of 1905.

To be conventional, I would have to tell you that it is a pleasure to be here, but I am not conventional. It is more than a pleasure to be with you. It is a privilege.

If you will bear with me for a few moments I would like to take you back a little more than two decades and a half ago, when Norwich boasted of a championship football team at the Academy one fall and a championship baseball team—a claim which Bridgeport, Deep River or any other city in the state could not dispute—the next spring.

Henry Tirrell, then a young teacher with hair that always stood up like a brush, coached those teams. I was a freshman and was fortunate enough to be a member of both. A gawky country boy, I was used both at end and at halfback in football and in baseball Mr. Tirrell never could seem to find just the right place for me. Probably it should have been on the bench, but I remember being tried at second base, third base and in right field.

Those were the days of the big linemen and the little quarterbacks, the guards back play, the famous flying wedge and wild piling up after every down. Long hair was stylish as a shock absorber, and we wore canvas jackets laced down the front, and, as we bought our own uniforms, some of the richer of the players had real moleskin breeches.

I can look back over the far reaches of the years to visualize Billy Bent, now a lawyer, as our fullback and captain; Gibbs as one halfback and "Henney" Frisbie as the other, with little Mullen calling signals and handling the ball behind McNamara, one of the fattest boys who ever played school football. "Puz" Gleason, from the East Side, and I were the ends, with Claire Barber of Jewett City, Bill Vars of Mohegan, Avery of Laurel Hill and Briggs as the linemen.

Then came baseball. The state was divided into two sections, in each of which a league operated. The winners met for the state title in a game at Yale field. We were either good enough o. lucky enough, perhaps both, to beat Bulkeley in the eastern section for the title and then move on to Yale to beat Meriden for the state championship. Our reward was a supper prepared by the girls of the cooking class.

Frisbie was the catcher on that team, one of the best I have ever seen in schoolboy ranks. Bill (Puz) Gleason and Louis Porteous pitched and played in the outfield. Briggs was at first, Tommy Gallivan at second, Louis Good at short, Don Hamilton at third, with Bill Burke in the outfield. Murphy, a youngster from the East Side, was our second string catcher.

World series games will never fade from my mind the deciding game played with Bulkeley that year. For failing to report at practice the day previous to the game, Coach Tirrell had punished me by keeping me on the bench—or perhaps he had at last discovered where I really belonged. But in the ninth inning, with the bases full, the score tied, and two men out—if my memory does not fail me—I was in to pinch hit. Of course, to make the story a good one, I won the ball game only because the Bulkeley pitcher hit me with a pitched ball, forcing in what proved to be the winning run.

There is no other field of amusement or recreation as diversified and attractive as that of sportdom. It is not an exaggeration to say that there is scarcely a man, woman or child in these United States who either does not participate in some form of athletics or is interested to some degree as a spectator or a newspaper follower of some branch of sports.

This is a healthy condition for our country and to my mind it explains why the United States is so progressive in its business, its keen perception of public duty and so enthusiastic in its interest in sport contests. It is the spirit of competition imbedded in our boys and girls as they compete in organized games in our public schools which in later life leads to success.

Putting aside personal feelings I find that there is more interest in professional boxing than in any other sport. Wherever I go eight out of every ten questions asked me touch on boxing, fights I have been fortunate enough to see and the personal characteristic of the leaders in this professional sport.

I believe this interest is due to the red blood which every real man—and most real women—have in their veins. There's something primitive, something which attracts when man meets man in a ring, where blood is likely to flow and where knockdowns and knockouts rouse the animal spirits within us to a high pitch.

Baseball, I find ranks second to boxing in public opinion, probably because most of us in our early school days played one-old-cat in the backlots and the school yards. Our love for the game continues as we grow older and our interest seldom wanes, no matter where we are, in the major league races or local baseball classics.

Golf I place third in this ranking with tennis fourth. There is more interest in these great outdoor sports by those who participate in them than we find in any other sport. This is especially true of golf, such a fascinating and time consuming game that once one is bitten by the bug of the links he never recovers. Hooker, water polo, basketball, wrestling, soccer football, horse racing (both the runners and the harness horses) have their followings and in different sections are rated as major sports.

I am especially happy to be here today and break bread with the baseball champions of your organization. I congratulate you both as a team and as individuals and desire to impress upon you that it is in clubs as yours—and from competitions such as you have had—that we find our future major league stars and in my mind the salvation of minor league—and perhaps major league—baseball.

Perhaps you do not know that minor league baseball—leagues such as the New England and the Eastern—is gradually losing ground, that each year we find fewer fans at the games and correspondingly fewer ball players who are able to make the grade in professional baseball.

This, I believe, is in a great measure due to the automobile and the joys and evils its brought to us. In our larger cities such as Hartford and Springfield, where ten to 15 years ago not more than one automobile was evident for every thousand persons I am told today that there are six families in every ten who have their own car.

Answers Many Questions

At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Keane asked if there were any questions and there were. The Rotarians held Mr. Keane for nearly half an hour plying him with questions regarding sports events, personalities in the sporting world and dozens of other questions. The speaker in answering questions told of personal glimpses of Gene Tunney, Jack Dempsey, visits to prominent sports events, including the recent golf championships at Brae Burn. In answer to the question that in his opinion would Jack Dempsey ever return to the ring he replied emphatically that he believed he would. It was simply a matter of money. Mr. Keane also told of many humorous incidents connected with his work as a sports writer.

He was accorded a hearty vote of appreciation for his mighty fine talk.

Presented Silver Baseballs

The members of the Rotary junior baseball team who were guests of the club were presented silver baseballs by the club. Charles E. Taylor, chairman of the boys' work committee, introduced the members of the team and the presentation of the baseballs was made by President Jewett.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

WIFE GRANTED DIVORCE ON CRUELTY GROUNDS

Following some sensational testimony in the superior court at New London Tuesday, Clara Briemer Stahr, of New London, employed as a cook, was granted a divorce on the grounds of intolerable cruelty and alimony of $300 by Judge John Richards Booth from Paul W. G. Stahr, a New London baker.

The case was slated to be contested but Attorney Arthur T. Keefe withdrew as counsel for the defense, in open court.

Attorney George Curtis Morgan, counsel for the petitioner, first called Dr. Joseph M. Ganey to the stand, and he testified to a time when Mrs. Stahr called at his office, with her face, arms and other portions of her body bruised.

Mrs. Stahr then testified that she married Stahr on Sept. 21, 1920, it being her third matrimonial adventure. She said that on June 6, 1924, they had a "big fight" and she left him for a couple of weeks. Later, she said, she went back to him. They lived together off and on for a while, but on Sept. 4 1927, according to Mrs. Stahr, her husband came home drunk one night and brought a strange man with him.

Mrs. Stahr said that she had retired. She said that a child was in the house and that during the night, the man got into the baby's bed and the latter cried.

The witness said she got up and then a fight ensued in which she was beaten about the face, chest and arms. She testified to being chased out of the house on one occasion by her husband who wielded a beer bottle.

She told of having a nervous breakdown and Dr. Hugh F. Lena said that she was under his care for a while with a bad nervous breakdown. The petitioner said she was 51 years of age and her husband was 60.

Other witnesses in the case were Mrs. Emily Back, who told of taking the plaintiff to her home on the night of the fight; Mrs. Augusta Vogt, who saw the bruises, and Albert Neirman, son of Mrs. Stahr, who told of one fight the couple had.

MEMORIAL TO O. M. PRICE AT REGIMENTAL MEETING

A memorial to the late Orrin M. Price of this city, who was commander of Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., and who died in December, 1926, was read at the 58th annual reunion of the 13th Connecticut Veteran association, which was held at Savin Rock, Aug. 29.

The following was the memorial, which was signed by Lewis L. Johnson, president, and Henry H. Wells, secretary, of the regimental association to which Commander Price belonged:

Orrin M. Price of Norwich, Conn., a former president of this association, died in office Dec. 1, 1926.

At our annual meeting Aug. 15, 1922, Comrade Price was chosen our president. It was at this same meeting that Comrade Eugene M. Ward was chosen vice-president. These comrades continued to hold their respective offices until their deaths, both passing on during the year 1926-1927.

It has been well said that a man's real worth may be judged by the value placed upon him by his neighbors. We find from an account of Comrade Price's life in a Norwich paper that during the three years he lived in Bozrah he took an active part in town affairs, holding at times most of the offices except selectman and town clerk. In Norwich he was for several years up to his death, commander of Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R. For a term he served as department commander of the Connecticut Grand Army of the Republic.

Such was the esteem of those who knew him well.

This esteem he deserved from his record and his personality. Enlisting on Dec. 6, 1861, he saw active service under Generals Butler and Banks in Louisiana, being at the siege of Port Hudson. Later he fought under General Sheridan in the Shenandoah valley. Twice wounded in action, he was honorably discharged in April, 1866.

His kindly manner and generous thoughts won for him friendships and place he well deserved. His comrades and friends of the 13th Connecticut Veteran association here record our esteem and pleasant memory of him.

CRESCENT BEACH COTTAGERS NAMED FIFTY-FOUR YEARS

Saturday was the 54th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad G. Bacon of 569 Main street, Middletown, who spend their summers at Crescent beach, East Lyme. They were married September 15, 1874, when Mr. Bacon was clerk of the General Assembly. Mrs. Bacon was then Miss Annie Donaldson of St. Catherine's, Canada, the daughter of Captain John Donaldson, commander of one of the large steamers running on the St. Lawrence river. Mr. Bacon, who is in his eighties, was postmaster at Middletown during President Cleveland's administration.

Wednesday's rain brought down great quantities of leaves from the village elms and maples and made driving on Providence street rather slippery in spots.

Miss Mary Nolan, the president, had charge of the regular business meeting of the members of St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society held Wednesday evening at the society's rooms on Providence street.

Postmaster Edward Adams got his first experience with the Christmas rush Wednesday when large numbers of packages of Christmas cards came in from a Boston mail order house. Accompanying each package was a request to remit a dollar and keep the cards or return the cards and keep the dollar.

Taftville was treated to a miniature wild west show Tuesday evening when a troupe of cowboys put on some stunts at the local theatre. Before the show they rode through the town in their cowboy outfits and ten gallon hats. The front of the theatre was trimmed with skins of wild animals and other trophies of the chase. The show was well patronized.

The Ocowasin Camp Fire girls are to disband, according to an announcement. The group was started by Mrs. Edwin Gordon Crowdis, and later some younger girls continued the organization under the leadership of Mrs. Harold E. Linderson, the guardian and Miss Helen C. Aberg, the assistant guardian.

The sum of $30 was realized from the food sale held Tuesday afternoon by the members of the American Legion auxiliary, in one of the vacant stores in the Ponemah building.

Miss Louise White has been named chairman of a committee that will take charge of a card party under the auspices of St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society in the near future.

The members of the American Legion auxiliary held a business meeting Wednesday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building. The president, Mrs. Thomas Perkins Sears presided. Mrs. Sears is to be a delegate to the national convention held at San Antonio, Texas, October 3rd to 16th.

The annual census of the members of the Sacred Heart church parish is being taken.

Among the list of flowers at the funeral of Mrs. George Campbell held Tuesday afternoon were: George E. Campbell, pillow; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kinder, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bowers, pillow; grandchildren, basket; Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Larkin, wreath; Mr. and Mrs. John E. RABALM STOPPED TERRIBLE PAIN IN MY FEET

"Having suffered untold agonies for many years from painful swelling (arthritis) in my feet, I was about to give up my work which required much standing and walking, as I was advised that no treatment would otherwise be effective. Then Rabalm was called to my attention. The first few applications gave me such astonishing relief that I was soon convinced that I had at last found the help I had sought so long in vain. My trouble has been so fully overcome, that for over a year now, I have continued at my work without a particle of pain or inconvenience, and with no treatment whatever. Certainly Rabalm did the seemingly impossible for me."—C. E. Phippen, 5 Milk Street, Salem, Mass.

If you also are tormented with painful swellings in legs and feet, if your toe joints are sometimes so stiff and tender you can hardly touch them, you too, like Mr. Phippen, can find relief in Rabalm. Two sizes, 50-cents and $1.00 containing 3 times as much. RABALM is for sale by all druggists.

SMITH SEES RELIGION AND POLITICS AS THINGS APART

Democratic Presidential Candidate Declares He Does Not Wish Any Member of His Faith to Vote For Him on Any Religious Grounds—Defends His Record as a Public Executive—Assails Former Senator Owens For Bolting His Party—Rebukes Mrs. Willebrandt For Injecting Religion Into the Campaign—Infers That By Silence the Republican Councils Have Approved Her Un-American Appeal to Methodists of Ohio—Flouts Claim of K. K. K. Members to 100 Per Cent. Americanism.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 20—(AP)—Carrying his fight for the presidency into the border state of Oklahoma, which is torn by political strife, Gov. Smith tonight deplored the injection of the religious issue and "whispering" methods into the campaign, defended his record as chief executive of New York, and urged the voters of the nation to make their choice in the November election solely on the ground of what best promotes the intgrest and welfare of the republic.

In a speech prepared for delivery here in the coliseum, which has a seating capacity of about 10,000, the democratic nominee directed an attack at former Senator Owen of this state, who has bolted the democratic party to support Herbert Hoover, assailed Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, an assistant attorney general, as a "dishonest" campaigner in behalf of Mr. Hoover, and made specific reference to the Ku Klux Klan, whose members, he said, "have the effrontery to refer to themselves as 100 per cent Americans."

The New York governor, in his advance draft, did not refer to the Rev. John Roach Straton, of New York, one of his most out-spoken critics, for whom a place on the platform had been reserved. Friends of Smith said he probably would have something to say extemporaneously about the Baptist clergyman, particularly if he attempted to challenge him to debate.

In condemning some of the campaign methods used against him, Gov. Smith declared there was "abundant reason for believing that republicans high in the councils of the party have countenanced a large part of this form of campaign if they have not actually promoted it."

"They may, through official spokesmen," he added, "disclaim as much as they please responsibility for dragging into a national campaign the question of religion, something that according to our constitution, our history and our traditions has no part in any campaign for elective public office."

The democratic nominee rebuked Mrs. Willebrandt particularly for her appeal to Methodists in Ohio to take a stand against his candidacy, and asserted that "by silence after such a speech the only inference one can draw is that the administration approved such political tactics."

"What would the effect be upon these same people if a prominent official of the government of the state of New York under me suggested to a gathering of the pastors of my church that they do for me what Mrs. Willebrandt suggests be done for Hoover?" the democratic nominee inquired.

"It is dishonest campaigning. It is un-American. It is out of line with the whole tradition and history of this government, and to my way of thinking, is in itself sufficient to hold us up to the scorn of the thinking people of other nations."

Then, in his prepared advance from which he was expected to deviate somewhat in delivery, Gov. Smith made this declaration:

"I here emphatically declare that I do not wish any member of my faith in any part of the United States to vote for me on any religious grounds. I want them to vote for me only when in their hearts and conscience they become convinced that my election will promote the best interests of our country.

"By the same token, I cannot refrain from saying that any person who votes against me simply because of my religion is not, to my way of thinking, a good citizen."

The democratic standard bearer, who was acclaimed by a cheering throng on his arrival today, many in the crowd having come from various sections of Oklahoma and nearby states for the occasion, trained his guns on former Senator Owen at the outset of his prepared address. He charged the former Oklahoma senator "and all his kind" to point to one single flaw in his public record "upon which to base their case."

"One scandal connected with my administration would do more to help out the republican national committee in its campaign against me than all the millions of dollars now being spent by them in their malicious propaganda," Smith declared. "Unfortunately for them they cannot find it, because the truth is it is not there."

Reviewing in detail his record as a legislator and governor, the democratic nominee inquired "if there was anything wrong or out of the way, does it not strike you, as men and women of common sense, the republican party in New York would leave no stone unturned to bring to light?

"The fact is they have searched and searched in vain for the slightest evidence of improper partisanship or conduct. They find no such thing. It did not exist.

"And in the face of this Senator Owen and his kind have the nerve and the effrontery not to charge, but merely to insinuate some evil which they are pleased to call Tammany rule."

Asserting that Owen "and his kind are not sincere" Smith declared that "they know that this Tammany cry is an attempt to drag a red herring across the trail."

The nominee said that "one lie wildly circulated, particularly through the southern part of the country," was that as governor he had appointed practically no one to office except Catholics. He then reviewed his appointments to show that this was not the case.

Referring to the Ku Klux Klan, the New York governor said that the order breathes "into the hearts and souls" of its members "hatred of millions of their fellow country men because of their religious belief."

EMBEZZLED $168,000 FROM BANK DURING PAST 35 YEARS

MEDFORD, N. J., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Edward R. Reeve, 65 who during the past 35 years embezzled $168,000 from the Burlington County National bank here, of which he was cashier, has gone to the home of relatives in New Jersey to recuperate from a breakdown after his confession of guilt.

Reeve is under $5,000 bail for the grand jury on one charge of forgery, as a result of his confession.

The Reeve home where the banker has lived for many years, was closed today for the first time, as he never took a vacation. He found it so necessary to watch the bank every minute it was open, to prevent a possible slip whereby his defalcations might be discovered, that, it is recalled by his friends and business associates, he seldom went home for lunch, although his house was only half a block from the office. He arrived at nine, and left after the last employe had gone for the day.

EITHER JUMPED OR FELL TO DEATH BROM NINTH FLOOR

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Grace Pruden, 75-year-old widow and distant relative of the late Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation's board, either jumped or fell to her death today from her ninth floor West Side apartment.

Mrs. Pruden, police learned, had been suffering for 18 months from a nervous breakdown and had several times expressed herself as "tired of living."

She was breakfasting with her sister, Miss Elizabeth Gary, when she excused herself and left the room. When she failed to return, Miss Gary and a maid searched for her and found the body in the courtyard.

Mrs. Pruden was the widow of W. E. Pruden, pioneer hardware man who died 14 years ago leaving a considerable estate.

"FRESHMAN WEEK" TO BE INSTITUTED AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 20—(AP)—"Freshman week" will be instituted at Yale this year for the first time in an effort to provide the new students an opportunity to become familiar with their surroundings. The week will open next Monday when students who desire to help work their way through college will be given employment. On Thursday evening President Angell will address all classes. Recitations will begin Friday.

TILSON CRITICISES SMITH'S STAND ON FARM RELIEF

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20— (AP) — Representative Tilson of Connecticut, director of the eastern speakers' bureau for the republican national committee and the majority leader of the house, after declaring today that Governor Smith had "apparently indorsed some of the worst features of the discredited McNary-Haugen bill," said that the purpose of the measure was to create and maintain artificial domestic price levels for foodstuffs.

His statement, issued through republican national headquarters, said that the McNary-Haugen plan and equalization fee seeks to augment the largest item of expense to be met by the average family, the food bill.

He predicted that if the bill were put into execution that food production would be artificially stimulated, and that in consequence large losses would be sustained through shipments overseas of foodstuffs.

"Thus year by year," he said, "the spread between the prices of foodstuffs and other farm products in the United States and foreign countries would widen, placing American industry at a progressive disadvantage with foreign workers."

SHOT BABY AND HERSELF BECAUSE BABY WAS CROSS

BALTIMORE, Sept. 20—(AP)—Because "baby was cross and I was tired," Mrs. Virginia Zilka, 26, shot her three months old son and herself, she told authorities at a local hospital where she was reported in a serious condition today. The child died soon after and the mother were brought to the hospital from their home at Earleigh Heights, Maryland.

Paul Zilka, the husband, said his wife had brooded over their poverty. He had only last week obtained work after a long period of unemployment.

COTTON MILLS TO REDUCE SUPPLY OF WIDE SHEETING

SALEM, Mass., Sept. 20—(AP)—The Naumkeag Cotton company announced today that it would close its plant here for the first two weeks in October in accordance with the plan of all wide-sheeting mills connected with the Cotton Textile Institute to reduce the supply of wide sheeting which accumulated last winter and spring. NEW ENGLAND REPUBLICAN LEADERS IN CONFERENCE

BOSTON, Sept. 20—(AP)—New England republican leaders gathered here today for a conference to outline the campaign in this section. They heard Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the republican national committee, give a most optimistic report of party conditions throughout the nation, picturing the Hoover sentiment as being carried forward by a "ground swell" of tremendous proportion.

"In my travels," said Dr. Work, "I have been able to get a good perspective of the political situation in the country. It is not too much to say that the officers of the republican party have been kept in closer touch with the central organization than ever before. The reports coming in are most assuring."

Dr. Work spoke of the part women are playing in the campaign as "a very substantial element." They are well organized and appreciative of their responsibility, he said. He reiterated his opinion that a large share of the "great majority" in Hoover's favor at the election will be due to the work of women.

Dr. Work was accompanied here by Col. John Q. Tilson, head of the eastern speakers' bureau of the national committee who said that his bureau is constantly receiving tenders of help from speakers of national reputation. He said that New England will be well taken care of in the matter of speakers.

The conference will close tomorrow and will be the last that Dr. Work will attend in the east.

DELAYED OCEAN LINERS TO DOCK AT NEW YORK TODAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 20—(AP)—Three New York bound passenger liners from the West Indies, all delayed by the tropical hurricane, are scheduled to dock tomorrow.

The Monterey of the Ward line, carrying 81 passengers and a crew of 150, is four days overdue. She has been battling the storm all the way from Havana, whence she sailed last Saturday, and is expected to reach quarantine Friday afternoon.

The Santa Marta of the United Fruit company is only a day late out of Kingston, Jamaica, while the Matura of the Trinidad line is two days overdue from Trinidad. All three have radioed their positions in the last twenty-four hours.

The Fort Victoria, bound for Bermuda, the Cuyamapa, for Honduran ports and the Cristobal, for Panama, sailed early today, after being held nearly a day in the lower harbor by the storm.

RESCUE AT SEA OF WOMAN AND TWO CHILDREN

NEW YORK, Sept. 20—(AP)—The thrilling rescue in mountainous seas of a woman and two children from a leaking and waterlogged San Francisco steamer off Cape Hatteras was told today in radio messages from the liner Guayaquil.

Caught in the terrific West Indian hurricane, the lumber steamer Willababoo sprang a leak. On board were the captain, C. H. McGahan, of Brooklyn, his wife and two small children, a boy and a girl, and his crew of 39 men.

The crew worked night and day at the pumps, but the water finally reached the engine room. With the gale still raging, the steamer drifted helpless in the mountainous seas.

Yesterday the Willbaboo's S. O. S. was picked up by the steamship Guayaquil of the Panama Railway line. The Guayaquil went to the rescue and the skipper's family were transferred to her in the high seas.

600 ATTENDED BARBECUE AT LAKE COMPOUNCE

BRISTOL, Sept. 20—(AP)—More than 600 attended an outing and barbecue at Lake Compounce today of the sixth senatorial district of the Smith for president club to hear the principles of the party expounded in the democratic platform. Former Mayor Joseph F. Dutton, was toastmaster.

Morris took occasion to attack the republican state management since Gov. Baldwin retired from office, pointing out that the expense of the state has mounted from $8,000,000 a year to over $30,000,000 in the fiscal year ending in June 1927.

THE HARTS HAD ENTERED INTO A DEATH PACT

DETROIT, Sept. 20—(AP)—A death pact entered into by Burr Hart, Detroit apartment house operator and his wife Grace, was revealed today by Mrs. Louise Harms, a nurse in the Hart home from April to Sept. 1, Lieut. John Hoffman of the police homicide squad, announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Hart were found shot to death in their home last Saturday night.

Hoffman, in charge of the police investigation, said Mrs. Harms told him the Harts had been in financial troubles and that Hart had told his wife that if he took his own life he would take her life first. The nurse, the officer said, was located yesterday in Wickliffe, a Cleveland suburb.

POHN REESE ELECTED COMMANDER OF G. A. R.

DENVER, Sept. 20— (AP) —John Reese of Broken Bow, Neb., was elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic today.

Reese, who in the last year served as judge advocate of the organization, succeeds E. L. Hawk of Sacramento, Calif. The election was unanimous.

Portland, Me., was chosen as the 1929 encampment site over Sacramento, Calif.

Other officers elected were: Dr. W. S. Hopkins, Lodi, Calif., surgeon-general; J. King Gibson, Dayton, Ohio, chaplain-in-chief, and Louis F. Arensberg, East Millsboro, Pa., trustee of the permanent fund.

Lalone Corroborates Raymond Testimony

Alibi Testimony of [illegible] Accused of Slaying Policeman is Unshaken—Case Rests.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 20—The defense in the trial of Albert J. Raymond and Roland G. Lalone, alleged "ice-box" bandits of Worcester and charged with the murder of State Policeman Irving H. Nelson, April 6, at Pomfret, rested its case at 4.10 o'clock this afternoon, having called to the stand but 15 of its own witnesses. During the opening hours of its case the defense had also called to the stand seven witnesses who had previously testified for the state. The principal witness today, the seventh day of the trial, was Roland G. Lalone who was on the stand for two hours and 10 minutes.

Albert J. Raymond, who had been on the stand for 40 minutes up to adjournment Wednesday afternoon, resumed testimony at 10 o'clock this morning. Cross-examination by Special State's Attorney Samuel B. Harvey started at 10.25 and continued to 11.45, when Lalone was called. Other than covering periods of time when he had been alone, Lalone's testimony was a virtual corroboration of that given by Raymond as to what the two young accused had done during the days of April 4, 5 and 6.

The sudden announcement made by Attorney Moynihan that the defense rested its case created a stir throughout the courtroom and when rebuttals by the state started at 4.30 following a recess, witnesses and spectators displayed a tense feeling.

The day was entirely devoted up to 4.10 o'clock to taking testimony of the accused and members of their respective families including the mothers of the two accused and Raymond's sister. This testimony came as the climax to evidence introduced to prove alibis as to the whereabouts of the defendants on the days of April 4, when a Willys-Knight sedan was stolen in Worcester and they were alleged by the state to have been in Springfield and on April 6 when the shooting of the officer took place.

In his testimony Wednesday afternoon Albert J. Raymond had testified in detail as to his whereabouts and doings on April 6 and April 5. He was under questioning as to occurrences on April 11 when he was taken to the Worcester police headquarters to be placed in a line-up when court adjourned. He had told of his and Lalone's alleged identification by Officer Gallagher of Springfield. His last statement was that Frank Spiewakoski alias Spinny, Webster, Mass., taxicab driver had looked the lineup over and then remarked to someone "The fellows that I drove to Worcester are not in that lineup."

Resuming the witness stand today he told of being taken to the police headquarters at Springfield on the afternoon of April 11. He told of the line-up there and related how he had been questioned for half-hour periods from early evening to midnight. He swore that violence was used, mentioning Lieutenant Bicknell, prominently in this connection. He said that he was knocked off his feet several times and then picked up by the neck and slapped in the face. He said that he was questioned again after 2 a. m. until about 3.30 a. m. He said that the next day his face was disfigured. He had a black eye, five cuts on one ear and three on the other. He said that Lalone's face was also swollen and his eyes bloodshot.

He was then led through a review of his activities on April 4, his testimony in this regard corresponding with that given by Miss Mary Bickford who had been in his company that day from early forenoon to after five o'clock in the afternoon. Upon leaving Miss Bickford, witness said he went home to supper and then met Lalone at Grafton square. In Raymond's Ford they went to Webster, arriving there about 7.30 o'clock. Shortly after 8 o'clock they went into a lunch cart. While there Rene Langevin, a friend from Worcester, came in. He repeated Lanevin's testimony as to the conversation held between Langevin and witness. He said that his Ford car was parked outside near the lunch cart. After walking up and down the street in Webster, he and Lalone returned to Worcester and at Grafton square met a friend, who was subsequently referred to as the "third party" and during the testimony of Lalone was named as Henry Clouthier, alleged fugitive from justice at the present time. With this friend they drove to the garage of Mrs. Georgianna H. Comptois of 12 West street, about two and a half miles from Grafton square. Raymond and Lalone rode in the former's Ford and the "third" party drove a Willys-Knight sedan which was placed in a stall of the garage. The driver of the sedan was having difficulty in driving the car into the garage and Lalone backed it in for him. Raymond opened the garage doors. While this was being done a woman drove a car into the garage.

This testimony in a sense dovetailed with that given by Mrs. Comptois, one of the state witnesses. The trio then went home, Raymond said that this "third" party was a member of the "gang". Raymond said that he and Lalone were accompanied by the "third" party when the garage was hired from Mrs. Comptois but that he had not had anything to do with the garage until that night of April 4.

He was asked by Attorney Moynihan if he had any suspicion as to who the man was that was lodged in a cell at Brooklyn jail between himself and Lalone. Raymond said that he did. He further stated that very few of the statements alleged to have been made by himself or by Lalone as given from a notebook by State Policeman Roy B. Pettengill, the man in the middle cell, were true. He said that later another man was placed in the cell for three or four days.

Reviewing the conference held between County Detective Jackson, Lieutenant Urquhart and himself in the chapel of the Brooklyn jail he said that he had cried out, "You're a dam liar" when the officer tried to tell him that Officer Gallagher was right when he said that Raymond was in Pomfret on the night of the shooting. In thundering voice Attorney Moynihan asked "Albert, were you ever in Pomfret?" Witness replied "No." He made a similar denial to the question as to whether he was ever in Willimantic prior to being taken here by a police escort.

The first questions in the cross-examination of the witness by Attorney

Demand For Cotton Goods Increasing

Investigators Are Confident That 1929 Will Be a Big Cotton Year.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20—(AP)—Six weeks of direct investigation supplemented by information furnished by nearly 250 firms and individuals representing every element of the cotton goods industry has led the new uses section of the Cotton Textile Institute to conclude there is an increasing demand for cotton dresses and piece goods, President Walker D. Hines announced today.

The conclusions reached after the survey were that more cotton dresses are being worn; more cotton dresses were made and sold during the summer of 1928 than in 1927; retail sales of cotton piece goods this summer were larger in volume than in 1927, and retail stores have been advertising fine cotton goods more extensively.

The report said the trade was confident 1929 would be a big cotton year, but had suggested that the popularity of cotton fabrics would depend largely upon superior styling.

BARNES TO EXPOSE HIGHER-UPS IN ALBANY BALL POOL

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 20—(AP)—Having appeared before the Albany county grand jury under subpoena today to tell what he claimed to know about the operation of the Albany baseball pool Clarence R. Barnes, Boston attorney, checked out at his hotel and was reported to have returned to his Massachusetts home.

"It is now in the hands of the district attorney," said Mr. Barnes on leaving the courthouse today. Before going there he expressed his intention of exposing "higher-ups" in the pool. He declined to discuss the matter after submitting his testimony.

Barnes was in the grand jury room two hours and a half. Afterward, he made this statement:

"District Attorney Herrick told me that the subpoena for my appearance before the grand jury was made at the direct request of Governor Smith."

The district attorney, however, said he was acting on instructions issued by the governor "some time ago" that the "proper place for people who had information on the pool was before the grand jury," and that on these grounds he had a summons served on the Boston attorney when he arrived here last night.

Mr. Barnes, when he was subpoenaed, expressed amazement at the course taken by the district attorney. He said he came here with the idea that he might serve as a special prosecutor or at least as an assistant district attorney in tracing the alleged pool's "higher-ups."

Mr. Herrick declared tonight that he would "subpoena more witnesses" on the strength of information placed in his hands since the Boston man arrived.

BODY OF KIDNAPED BOY FOUND NEAR HONOLULU

HONOLULU, Sept. 20—(AP)—Gill Jamieson, ten-year-old son of Frederick W. Jamieson, wealthy banker, who was kidnaped from school three days ago, was found dead today near the Ala wai canal, opposite the Royal Hawaiian hotel. The body was badly bruised. It was covered with a rude cross of sticks tied together with a white string.

The boy apparently had been dead 24 hours. Physicians said he had been strangled. His body lay on old gunny sacks and newspapers covered the chest and face. One hand clutched a piece of paper which appeared to have been torn from a book.

Nearby was found a book, "Father's Son A-Whaling," which Gill was known to have taken with him when he left the Punahou school Tuesday morning with his abductor on the pretext that he was to be taken to his mother, falsely said to have been injured in an accident.

A broad enclosure in which there was a chair was located near the body. Officers expressed the opinion that this was the meeting place of the kidnaping gang.

The body was found by searchers who had struggled through 50 yards of underbrush, ending a hunt for the lad that had continued unremittingly since he was taken Tuesday by one or more persons who demanded $10,000 ransom of his father. Death for the boy was threatened unless the ransom were paid.

ATTEMPTED BLACKMAIL MRS. JOHN J. RASKOB

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20—(AP)—Charged with attempted blackmail and extortion in demanding $100,000 from Mrs. John J. Raskob, wife of the democratic national committee chairman, under threat of death to her husband, Frank C. Mooney, 57, formerly of Wilmington, Del., today was held for the grand jury in $10,000 bail.

Four letters alleged to have been written by Mooney from Philadelphia are the basis of the charges. Detectives said Mooney had confessed writing the letters.

In one letter the writer reminded Mrs. Raskob of a recent accident when an elevator in which Mr. Raskob was riding in a New York hotel fell, inferring he was responsible for the accident.

A decoy letter was sent to the North Philadelphia post office and Mooney called to get it Wednesday night. Well dressed and slightly stooped, he walked up to the general delivery window where detectives watched him. Mooney was not arrested then but was captured 18 blocks away when he tried to jump from an automobile driven by a Negro who escaped.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 20—(AP)—About 100 policemen were massed at the Page mill this morning when a crowd of 2,000 gathered at the plant. Police Sergeant A. F. Velho who yesterday engaged in a pitched battle with strikers and arrested 15 today directed the arrest of four without violence. Among the prisoners are Augusto C. G. Pinto who was also arrested yesterday. Pinto is just back from recuperating in Maine from previous strike activities and a few days in jail. This is his 14th arrest. Another prisoner was Organizer Jack Rubenstein of the textile mill committee.

BETWEEN 700 AND 800 DEAD OF HURRICANE IN FLORIDA

Estimate Given by Howard Selby, Chairman of the Palm Beach County Red Cross Committee—Virtually All of the Dead Are in the Everglades District Around Pahokee, South Bay and Canal Point—Bodies Are Being Buried in Quickline—Health Conditions Are Growing Worse Every Minute.

WEST PALM BEACH, Florida, Sept. 20—(AP)—A death toll of between 700 and 800 persons mostly in the Lake Okeechobee Everglades region of Florida was estimated late today by Red Cross officials to have been taken by last Sunday's disastrous tropical hurricane which, after sweeping over the West Indies, wreaked destruction in the thickly-populated Palm Beach county of that state.

The menace of disease arose as hundreds of bodies laid unburied while relief workers worked day and night to alleviate conditions. Property damage estimated ranged from $80,000,000 to $57,000,000 for the county, while it was reported not more than five per cent of the buildings in the section came thrown the hurricane without damage.

Chairman Howard W. Selby, of the Palm Beach County Red Cross committee, declared that virtually all the dead are in the Everglades district around Pahokee, South Bay and Canal Point. Previously a death list of 400 had been estimated in the county.

Declaring that health conditions are growing worse every minute, Selby said it may be necessary to place the whole area of 100 square miles under quarantine.

A method of remedying conditions was proposed by the Red Cross chairman "to spray the whole section with lime from airplanes."

Federal funds may be required he declared, as the county has not the money to carry on the rehabilitation work.

"Unless bodies are recovered and buried within the next 48 hours complete evacuation of that territory will have to be effected, including relief workers," Selby said.

Workers, he declared are resorting to burying the bodies in quicklime "as it is impossible to pick them up and bring them to the cemetery."

Selby said his estimate of the property damage to the county still is $30,000,000, but insurance adjusters estimated that the loss may reach as much as $75,000,000.

The majority of the dead are Negroes and loss of life among the white people, Red Cross officials said, was much less because they largely resided on high ground.

Chairman Selby denied reports that any rioting has occurred in the stricken area. Plenty of armed guards are on duty, he said.

An airplane has been scouting over the area, spotting bodies, he declared, adding that many corpses had drifted away to almost impenetrable places.

"Approximately 75 bodies have been stacked up near Pahokee for two days," he said, "and we have been unable to bring them here for burial. Communications to towns in the area are entirely cut off except by boat."

Virtually all the Everglades section in Palm Beach county has been evacuated of women and children, he continued, while the abled bodies men are being kept and drafted for work.

Fred C. Stuck, in charge of work at Pahokee, reported to the Red Cross today that cremation was the only solution of handling the bodies.

Available reports here today showed that more than 300 bodies mostly Negroes, already have been recovered in the action and buried in and near West Palm Beach.

HOOVER AT WORK ON SPEECHI TO BE DELIVERED OCT. 6

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20—(AP)—Bert Hoover today began to lay the framework for his speech on economic and industrial development to be delivered at Elizabethton, Tenn., on Oct. 6.

There were few callers at the big stone house, his headquarters, on Massachusetts avenue, and the republican presidential nominee spent most of the day at his desk. In addition to his work on the address, however, Hoover was forced to divert his attention frequently to attend to the multitudinous tasks of campaign arrangements that fall to his lot as the leader of his party.

A number of messages of commendation on his labor speech at Newark Monday night continued to reach him, including telegrams from five Pittsburgh trade union leaders, Henry O'Neill, Louis McGrew, John B. Cooper, John Kennie and Verna Stepp

O'Neill, who was Pittsburgh's representative of John Mitchell while the latter was president of the United Mine Workers of America, considered the speech a "guarantee for industrial and economic stability."

The others praised it highly and the message from Verna Stepp, a member of the Pittsburgh Pressmen's and Assistants' union, No. 64, declared that the "women and girls who work in industry can all congratulate Mr. Hoover on his labor speech in which he recognizes the rights of the working women."

"It is a wonderful relation in our behalf," she said, and added: "His work is truly humanitarian."

COOLIDGES ARE SPENDING NIGHT AT PLYMOUTH, VT.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Sept. 20—(AP)—After a hard day's travel through the regions of Vermont which most suffered from the floods of last fall, President Coolidge turned to his native Plymouth late today for a night's rest before inspecting more of the rehabilitation work in his state on the way back to Washington.

Greeted by enthusiastic crowds at all the numerous stops he made on his way across the state, the chief executive abandoned his inspection tour for an hour at Burlington to accompany Mrs. Coolidge to the cemetery to deposit flowers on the tomb of her father, the late Capt. Andrew I. Goodhue.

Earlier in the day, on the way north from Washington to Vermont, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge stopped for a brief call at Northampton, Mass., to visit Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Coolidge, at the hospital where she has been critically ill for many months.

17 AIRMEN IN RACE FROM LOS ANGELES TO CINCINNATI

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20—(AP)—Seventeen aviators seeking shares in a $20,000 pot of gold today thundered away from Mines field here and swept over the airways toward El Paso, Texas, en route to Cincinnati.

Starting at 10 a. m., 14 of the pilots in the Class A race took off in the order of their entry, two minutes apart. A half hour later, A. K. Owen of Reading Pa., and Emanuel Turner, Alexandria, Va., held back by motor trouble, got away.

Le Tereitsky in a Waco plane took off twice and returned to the field twice because of poor visibility, and then, an hour after the others, decided to buck the fog once more. Forecasts were not too optimistic for weather conditions along the route.

Fog banks were reported over the mountains ahead.

BEITZEL FOUND GUILTY OF MURCER IN FIRST DEGREE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20—Russell St. Clair Beitzel, young Philadelphian, today was found guilty of murder in the first degree for the alleged slaying of Barbara Mauger, 19, waitress of the Pennsylvania City. No recommendation accompanied the verdict, making the death sentence mandatory.

LIFE SENTENCE FOR SECOND DEGREE MURDER

WATERBURY, Sept. 20— (AP) — Philip Rausch, 24, of New Haven, was sentenced to life imprisonment at Wethersfield state's prison by Judge Carl Foster here today in superior criminal court after changing his plea of not guilty of first degree murder to guilty of second degree murder. Rausch killed Albert Hoag, a guard at Cheshire reformatory, in December, 1923, and escaped. He was indicted in 1924, sought in a nation-wide search, and finally arrested in February of this year in Jacksonville, Fla., on a charge of passing a worthless check. Authorities recognized him as a man wanted in Connecticut, and he was extradited.

Rausch was working in a woodlot with Hoag and another inmate of the reformatory on the day of the murder. The second inmate was sent to the institution with a team and Hoag and Rausch were left alone. When the second inmate returned, he found Hoag dead, his feet and hands tied, and Rausch's clothing on him.

Rausch took his sentence hard. He had to be assisted from the courtroom by two deputy sheriffs, and he wept openly. When he changed his plea to guilty his voice was barely audible.

CATHOLICS PETITION MEXICAN LEGISLATURE

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Roman Catholics who recently petitioned congress to amend the constitution so as to ease the restrictions of the present laws on religion, today sent a further memorial to the national legislature. It contained arguments in support of the petition.

This step was taken in the hope of inducing congress to debate the petition instead of rejecting it without discussion, as has appeared probable. The senate committee on constitutional points has made no report to the upper branch on the petition.

The house of deputies recently decided not to take action until the senate had made some move in the matter. Senate leaders, however, declared that discussion would be impossible unless the petitioners publicly condemned the rebellious activities of the elements who are in the field against the government.

Today's memorial expands the previous argument that annulment of present restrictive legislation is the only practical means of settling the dispute between the church and the state.

SCHOOL BUDGET WILL CALL FOR $191,000

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 20—The first meeting of the school year for the town school board was held Wednesday evening in the office of Superintendent Egbert A. Cass at Windham high school, with all of the members in attendance with the exception of Charles H. Backus. Dr. Frank E. Guild, chairman, presided over the session. Most of the time was taken up with the reading of the report of Superintendent Cass, including the budget for the coming year. A statement concerning the schools coming under town supervision was given in this connection, similar to the reports of past years, showing the cost as a whole, each school separate, cost of teaching maintenance in general, and a comparison of the cost of the local high school with other similar schools in the state, showing that Windham ranks among the lowest. Superintendent Cass had figured that a budget of $191,000 would be required for school expenses during the coming year as compared with $185,000 last year. One of the matters bringing about the increase is the introduction of the new trade school here.

Committeeman Walter R. King and William B. Sweeney were appointed to appear before the town meeting in the near future to speak for the appropriations which will be inserted in the warning as one of the clauses. It was also voted to instruct the selectmen to incorporate as these clauses in the warning the following appropriations to be voted on: $4,500 for the purchase of Hayden's Field, so-called, to be used as an athletic field for the schools of the town; not over $3,500 for the purpose of making suitable improvements to the field; and $400 for the purchase of land adjoining the North Windham school for playground purposes.

Committeeman Christopher C. Case reported for the committee appointed to consider the cost of making alterations during the summer on the trade school building. This report was accepted as was also the annual one of the town school committee and signed by all of the members as follows:

"To the citizens of the town of Windham:—

"Herein is presented the thirty-first annual report of the condition and cost of the public schools of the town of Windham.

"The total cost of schools for the year 1927-1928 is $184,446.53, which is $553.47 less than appropriations made for that purpose. All buildings are in excellent condition, and a part of the coal and many of the school supplies for the ensuing year are bought and paid for.

"Very few repairs have been necessary. The walls of one room at the high school have been painted, and the Natchaug school grounds have been improved. Many unexpected additions and improvements were necessary at the trade school building to make it satisfactory for school purposes, but it has been possible to provide for these within the regular appropriations.

"The new State Trade school is already in operation. There is every indication that the building will be filled to capacity before the close of the first year. This is a benefit not only to the students but also to the business men. The cost to local taxpayers will not be in excess of $2,000 a year, but on account of this school more people will live in Willimantic, and representatives of at least one hundred families will come into the city each day.

"The committee has given careful thought to the salary schedule and has decided to increase the maximum for grade teachers to $1,600, for high school women to $2,000, and for high school men to $2,500. This increases the budget by $2,100; but the kind of teachers we want for our children cannot be retained for less money. If we should continue to pay less than the average we would be obliged to supply our schools with the kind of teacher that nobody else wants. Many such teachers could be found, but there is no indication that the public can be satisfied with anything less than the best.

"Transportation becomes more of a problem each year. The committee would have no child walk an unreasonable distance, but does not believe that a limit of one and four-tenths miles will tax the endurance of anybody. Having set this limit it has been possible to provide for everybody for the ensuing year at no increase in cost.

"Immediate measures should be taken to provide an athletic field for the high school. The American Thread company has been most generous in permitting the use of Recreation park, but a field nearer the school is desirable for daily practice. The owners of Hayden Field offered it to the town at the very low price of $4,500, and a public spirited citizen has bought it and is holding it against any increase in price. It is the unanimous opinion of the committee that this field should be purchased at once, and made available for school use as quickly as possible.

"The budget for next year calls for an appropriation of $121,000. Of this $3,500 will be spent to meet the town's obligation for the trade school; but the state in return will spend about $50,000 in local support. There is an increase of about $2,000 in the cost of the high school, but it will be more than repaid by the increase in tuition income. Deducting income, the net cost of the schools will be about $152,000. This will occasion a tax of 8 1-2 mills for school purposes, which is much below the average rate for the state of Connecticut."

The local Woman's club held its first regular meeting of the season at the Nathan Hale hotel Wednesday afternoon. A luncheon was served at one o'clock to about one hundred members and guests. The tables were attractive with autumn flowers of brilliant coloring. The invocation was offered by Rev. Mrs. Florence Jones and the state song sung by the members. The president, Mrs. Frederick R. Noble, in a brief address, introduced the delegates who attended the convention of the State Federation of Woman's clubs held in New Haven last May. Interesting and instructive reports were given by Rev. Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Walter Abbe, Mrs. J. B. Fullerton, Mrs. Charles W. Tryon and Mrs. Carl R. Alford, in giving out the new year books, Mrs. Dwight E. Abel, chairman of the program committee, called attention to the many interesting programs in store for the members and for all who care to avail themselves of the privilege of hearing them, as well as the fact that the State Federation of Woman's clubs will hold its annual three-day meeting in this city in May, 1929, with members of the local club as hostesses, assisted by those of the Storrs Woman's club.

A special meeting in recognition of Constitution day was held by Anne Wood Elderkin chapter, D. A. R. at the home of Mrs. Charles Larrabee in Windham Center Tuesday, with a large attendance. The regent, Mrs. Charles Larrabee, was in charge of the meeting and extended greetings to those present. Mrs. George M. Graves, as chairman of the program committee, introduced the speakers of the afternoon; Miss Katherine A. Nettleton of Derby, state regent, and Miss Emeline Street of New Haven, state vice-regent. The first mentioned spoke enthusiastically in regard to the plans for the year's work while Miss Street told about the "Manual of the United States," which is placed free of charge in the hands of immigrants and foreign speaking people. At the close of the speaking, "America" was sung. This was followed by the serving of refreshments by the committee for the afternoon, consisting of Mrs. Lillian Higbee, Mrs. Charlotte Cook, Miss Clarissa Sibley; Mrs. Hattie Guild, Mrs. Kate Maine and Mrs. Edith Foehrenbach.

J. F. BRICK BUYS PLANT OF DEFUNCT S. P. S. CO.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 20—The S. P. S. Silk Co. plant at the foot of Wilson street was purchased at public auction conducted today on order of Referee in Bankruptcy Louis A. Woisard by John E. Brick, member of the local shoe firm of Brick & Sullivan. There were but two bidders, Mr. Brick and an out-of-town resident. The sale price of the machinery and rights to the business was given as $6,400, considered a remarkably low price. Mr. Brick stated this afternoon that he had purchased it with the intention of causing the plant to resume operation in a short time in the manufacture of silk goods and sewing thread. The plant has been idle for about six months. The incorporators were Gordon Scholes, president; Arthur L. Steitz, secretary-treasurer, and Mr. Price, a director. All three are residents of Windsor Locks. Leslie F. Hartson of North Windham was trustee. The machinery is located in a one-story brick building, 60 by 120 feet, erected ten years ago by the Natchaug Industrial Co. of this city. The purchase includes a three-year lease on the building and wooden store house, 60 by 90 feet. The dyeing department is fully equipped and located in the basement of the mill. The purchase of the plant by Mr. Brick will be generally hailed with approval locally as it is felt that under local backing the mill can be successfully operated, giving employment to about half a hundred hands. Mr. Brick stated that the machinery was in good condition, and that it was hoped to make use of it as soon as possible.

FUNERAL

Miss Adele Slopak

Miss Adele Slopak, 24, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fishel Slopak of Lebanon avenue, died at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning in a Hartford hospital as a result of an attack of acute appendicitis. Miss Slopak was taken ill last Saturday and Sunday afternoon was removed to the hospital where an operation was performed which however, proved of no avail. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from her home, a large number of friends and relatives attending. The services were held at 3.30 at the synagogue in Lebanon avenue, Rabbi Levine officiated. Burial was in the Jewish cemetery in Linwood avenue. Miss Slopak who was a graduate of Bacon academy, for the past four years was a teacher in the Unionville school, not far from the former Giles Taylor farm. She is survived by her father and mother, four brothers and one sister. She was endowed with a quiet and pleasing disposition which made her a host of friends who have expressed heartfelt sympathy to the family.

The large display of dahlias on the side lawn of the Charles F. Brown property is much admired by passers-by.

Nurse Soper Says

After Baby's Bath Mothers Should Use Sykes Comfort Powder

Peekskill, N. Y.—"I am sending you the picture of a dear little boy on whom I have used Sykes Comfort Powder with wonderful results. In my work as a nurse I have never found any powder so soothing and healing

When used daily after a baby's bath it keeps the skin free from chafing, rashes, scalding and soreness. There is nothing like it."—Mrs. Sadie A. Soper, Nurse, Peekskill, N. Y.

The reason Sykes Comfort Powder is successful in such cases is because it contains six healing, antiseptic ingredients not found in ordinary talcums.

An Unusual Opportunity

To Own Your Own Home in a Good Healthy Community

A number of Single and Two-family Dwelling Houses, located in Voluntown, and owned by The Briggs Manufacturing Company, are being offered the public at a cost of a little more than building a good private garage.

Dwellings are ready for inspection and at the prices asked we do not believe they will last long.

Nearly every dwelling has a lawn and large shade trees with land enough for a large garden. Some have over an acre of land while others have land running back to Beachdale Pond.

There is plenty of nearby land available that can be bought right if more is wanted.

When your wave is a has-been—

When you tear said hair in a frantic attempt to regain that band-box neatness—

When you wonder how stage stars achieve that perfect sheen and manage to keep a wave—

Buy a bottle of my Wave and Sheen. It makes a soft, lovely wave always possible. It gives your hair smart sheen. It adds finish to the exquisite toilette which otherwise might be easily ruined.

Wave and Sheen at all toilet counters is 75c a bottle. Your money returned if you are not satisfied.

THE BEST SINCE 1820

What Do You Expect of Your Heater This Winter

NATURALLY, you expect heat—heat that is steady in ordinary weather, and adequate through the cold snaps.

You expect heat without giving an excessive amount of care to your heater, and with reasonable coal bills.

All these things you have a right to look for from your heater, provided that the heater is clean and that you choose good coal.

You should have soot deposits removed from heater and flues before starting your fire. Soot acts as an insulator and cuts down the efficiency of any heater.

Then, have your bins filled with Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite. This is the coal that wise householders have been specifying for over a hundred years.

It gives the steady, even heat that you desire most of the time—and it has ample reserve to give you all the extra heat you need in emergencies. That is just a matter of draft regulation.

With this coal you won't wear out the cellar stairs in coaxing a stubborn fire, nor will you have more than a minimum amount of ashes to handle.

Old Company's Lehigh is an unusually pure anthracite. And it is prepared for your use with extraordinary care.

Your local Old Company's dealer, handling good coal, is a good dealer—dependable, and competent to advise you. If you are not sure that you know the best size of coal for your heater, let him tell you. If you would like to learn how firing methods have lately been improved, ask him.

You will find that he is interested, not merely in selling you coal, but in giving you heating service.

"OVER THE COUNTER"

DEAR DOT:

A SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT FOR YOU TODAY

There will be a live model display of the famous CRAIGLEIGH COATS under the auspices of J. B. Fullerton & Co., at the Gem Theatre during intermissions of the special motion picture shows this Friday afternoon and evening. Watch the Gem advertisements for the hour.

This coat show will be followed by a continuous display of these coats by two New York models at the Fullerton store Saturday afternoon and evening and I am sure you will find it both interesting and educational from economical and fashion standpoints.

Now just a word about CRAIGLEIGH COATS. These coats to be shown by the models are the newest for Fall and Winter and represent the standard stock at Fullerton's. The price range starts at $33.50. You will find them quite unrivaled in smartness, and you will find each model, from the frankly simple to one expressing intricacies of hand-tailoring, possessing a distinctive charm.

CRAIGLEIGH COATS are all made of unadulterated 100 per cent. virgin wool yarn KNITTED (not woven) into fabrics insuring delightful warmth while extending their serviceability far beyond that of the average coat.

CRAIGLEIGH COATS are authentically proof against any of the common causes of wrinkles. They are virtually rain-proof and are not affected by dusty motor trips, misty days and shopping tours. They look a lot more than they cost and cost a lot less than you can imagine and it is said of them that they can always be depended upon to Look Their Best. In the many styles and effects one finds the luxurious fur collar and cuffs to the strictly tailored furless models. Their lines are inimitable in the youthful slenderizing silhouette they impart. Of course they are to be found in all approved shades, although subtly blended or solid shades of tan and brown seem to predominate.

Indeed I am convinced that you will find the CRAIGLEIGH COAT display most satisfactory, whether you attend the stage performance at the Gem Theatre, Friday afternoon and evening, or call at Fullerton's store Saturday afternoon and evening. Through me, Mr. Fullerton extends you and all your friends a welcome. That welcome includes me, and I'm going. Are You?

YOURS, JANE.

POETRY

What Is Your Life?

James iv. 14.

A little gleam of time, 'twixt Where and Where,
So brief and fleeting,
Seems it a sacred burden which we bear
Till life's completing.

'Tis golden opportunity bestowed,
Wherein to press
Onward and upward, on the pilgrim road,
To holiness.

A time in which, by loving word and deed,
We may essay
To help the fall'ring ones, and all in need,
On life's highway.

Till—when earth's pageant shall have rolled away,
And dawns to sight
The vision beautiful—time's finite day
Merge in the Infinite.

P. D. van der Swan, British Weekly.

Send the Rescuers Ahead

This "Farthest North" procedure,
This poking 'round the Pole,
For certain makes you need your Best lip and eye control;
The news is far from pleasing,
As reading matter goes,
Of men stretched out and freezing
Upon the icy floes;
I've told myself about it
And this is what I said—
"These Arctic rescue parties,
By George! should go ahead."

There's not a doubt about it,
The "help" should hold the line;
No logothete can flout it,
No sophist undermine;
The news is desolating
Of human specs and "spots"
On ice-floes starving, waiting
While Fate completes her plots;
There's always succor needed
For those who've Northward sped
It's plain the rescue outfits
Should start a day ahead.

White bones the White North gloats o'er,
How precious few emerge!
Whatever banner floats o'er
Septentrional urge,
The frenzied ones return not
Unless some succoring keel
That polar oceans spurn not
Transmutes their woe to weal;
It doesn't pay to quibble,
When all is done and said,
Let rescuers, not explorers,
Itinerate ahead.

The rescuers have outnumbered
Explorers, two to one,
Since Sir John Franklin slumbered
Beneath the midnight sun;
On every Arctic landing,
On every cape and coast,
First-aiders should be standing
On peg or other post;
The life-guards ought to be there
With medicine and bread;
The strong who save the stranded
Should hop along ahead.
—Daniel L. Cady, in Burlington Free Press.

Gellman then set about the task and for thirty days he worked an hour a day copying the Old Testament on a postcard with a drawing pen. At the end of the month the card was filled and the count of words was 14,041.

Skeletons of prehistoric animals have been unearthed in fossil beds recently discovered near Redington, Neb. One of the specimens is believed to be the skeleton of a mammoth. The skull is about four feet across and seven feet long. The complete head weighs 1,100 pounds. The five-foot jawbone of another unclassified fossil was found. Further evidence of prehistoric life was discovered in the way of shells and prints of vegetation. The fossils were obtained from beds that are believed to have been the banks of an ancient river.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

According to the proclamation which has been issued by President Coolidge the week of October 7 will be Fire Prevention week. While there are many of such special weeks, or weeks for special attention upon a certain cause, that of impressing upon the people the importance of fire prevention is among the best.

Fire prevention is a matter in which everyone should be interested. There are countless opportunities for putting it into use and there is no chance that anyone will become overindulgent in the prevention of fire.

Some of the months this year have been particularly good in regard to fire losses as compared with the same months last year, but there is no telling when the toll from fire will send the losses bounding in the other direction. It is a huge waste that is caused every year by the destruction of lives and property by fire. It will not be possible to prevent all of it. There are causes of fires over which there is to control, but there are so many which can be prevented that there will be plenty of opportunity to keep those to the minimum without dwelling upon the impossible.

When we stop to realize that carelessness is responsible for such a large proportion of the fires it becomes evident that fire prevention work had a large field. It may not be possible to eliminate carelessness but it is possible to bring about a greater concentration of thought upon the small things which will serve to prevent fires. One doesn't have to study and practice such things very long before they become firmly established as a part of the daily routine.

When we begin to appreciate that the removal of rubbish, the checking of the careless disposal of fire brands, the observance of certain precautions where fire hazards may exist will prevent many of the needless fires it isn't necessary to hammer home the importance of such acts very many times before individuals are automatically responding and taking safety measures. It may not be quite as easy, but it is safer and where safety is involved humanity should be deeply concerned.

DON'T GET CAUGHT

Just how much reason there is for urging upon investors the importance of being careful is repeatedly disclosed. Not only does it become evident that those who might be expected to be the victims of swindlers should surround themselves with proper safeguards, but there are times when it is found that even those who are regarded as fully able to take care of themselves under most circumstances get caught. It thus becomes apparent that the good advice about investigating before making investments may well be taken to heart by each and every one.

There is never any telling where lightning is going to strike. There is no telling when a bad proposition is going to be found among the good ones. There are times when those that appear to be sound and trustworthy go bad but it is perfectly evident that when there is chance taking, when there is a willingness to risk funds by trusting to alluring promises there is a good chance that those who get out to get the speculator's money will succeed. He figures that if something is going to land it he might as well be Johnny on the spot and he gets all kinds of encouragement from those who are ready to yield to his appeals.

During the summer there has come to light how a promoter of banking and loan schemes got a million and a half from investors who in many instances at least have a high rating in intelligence. The president of a university was caught to the tune of $70,000 seemingly because he failed to conduct an investigation that ought to have been his first thought when such a large sum was involved. If such persons can be hoodwinked it becomes clear that there is all the greater reason for the amateur, the fellow with a small bank roll, to look well to his dollars.

Every time such a case is brought to light it accentuates the importance of that slogan, "Before you invest, investigate!" Such good advice ought to be recognized and followed before, rather than after, the promoter has forgotten in his work and the investment is found to be worthless.

ANOTHER AVIATION ADVANCE

Cape Cod has been famous for its windmills, but the past summer it was the locality selected for the demonstration of gliders in this country. Perhaps it might have been a good place for setting forth the merits of the windmill airplane which was perfected by a Spanish engineer, Juan de la Cierva, but a trip across the English channel was picked and it is not surprising that it has gained the attention of all those interested in aeronautics inasmuch as it was a success.

The machine which is termed an autogyroplane has a gyroscopic attachment which revolves in such a way that it is expected to reduce the speed of a machine in descending so that even if the engine fails it will be possible to land without serious damage. Likewise it is expected to reduce the speed of a machine in descending so that even if the engine fails it will be possible to land without serious damage. Likewise it is expected that it will make perpendicular ascents and descents possible. The London to Paris flight being made in an hour shows that the machine was speedy and its performance was such as to attract widespread attention.

It was unfortunate, however, that on further test in Paris the autogyro attachment failed to prevent a crash. This is attributed to a broken cable connected with the landing gear which threw the mechanism out of balance so that it did not operate until close to the ground, but the force of the fall was so broken that the two in the machine, including the inventor, were not badly injured.

This machine has been hailed as fool proof and adding a most valuable safety provision to flying. Perhaps this has not been fully demonstrated by such performances as have been given but the long flight and the easy landing on that occasion indicate that there is merit in the idea and that through its development a marked advance is going to be made in aviation.

It means that scientists are still at work as ever in bringing out something new and something better. The Spanish engineer has produced proof of the practicability of his device, and even though he has figured in a crash almost at the start it is no more than all types of flying machines have encountered in their early stages. The flying windmill promises to be heard from yet.

CONNECTICUT APPLES

Raising apples in Connecticut and New England is not a new undertaking. It dates back to years ago but each year there is shown the need of giving more attention in this part of the country to supplying the fruit that is consumed here.

If it is possible to raise 77 varieties of the fruit here and if it is so that the quality of the New England apple is the best in the world, as claimed by the Massachusetts Fruit Growers' association, it is time to make the most of that business. Is there any good reason why the New England states should not be dotted with large orchards, with large packing houses for grading the fruit along railroad sidings or efficient marketing organizations for the handling of the product?

Is there any good reason why New England shouldn't be devoting as much attention to raising apples as Georgia does to raising peaches and other fruit, or as Nova Scotia does to apple production?

The New England states raise much fruit, but they import much more. Frequently it is easier to get apples that are raised outside of New England than it is to get home grown or New England fruit. The reason for this seems to be that it is possible for the fruit dealers to get this fruit raised in other states out of New England when native fruit is not offered. Again the idea of putting the fruit up in a more attractive way appears to have been capitalized by the other apple raising states. Yet with the apples of the best quality in the world there should be no difficulty on the part of New England orchardists in successfully meeting this competition. Let us have more Connecticut, or more New England apples.

BYRD'S TRIP

If the elaborateness of the provisions and equipment is all that is needed to spell success for the expedition of Commander Byrd to the south polar region then there ought to be no question as to the result.

Getting away piecemeal two of the ships have left and it will be only a few days before the commander himself sets sail from the Pacific coast. It is the purpose to have the several units meet in New Zealand and sail from there for the establishment of the central base at the great Ross ice barrier.

How much confidence there is in Commander Byrd is reflected in the fact that he is being provided with a million dollar expedition and all but about $15,000 has been raised. The money has come from people in all walks of life, those with plenty of money and those with little, but they are all interested and feel certain that the leader will be successful in his undertaking.

Commander Byrd has established a worldwide reputation as a flier and as he sets out to explore an unknown area in the antarctic his purpose is to accomplish it without the loss of a single one of his party. This explains the elaborateness of his equipment. It doesn't mean that there will be no risks, for those are bound to accompany such an undertaking but it is his hope to keep them to a minimum.

There hasn't been an expedition into the polar regions, either north or south, but what has awakened keen interest on the part of the country from which they went. In these days of radio there is an even greater interest for closer touch can be kept with the explorers. It is certain to be another great adventure for the man who flew around the north pole.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Those who had been anticipating a warm and delightful September are not saying "I told you so."

It is now time that some one stared out to place effective regulations in the way of West Indian hurricanes.

Philadelphia has decided to fight to keep its airport. That is a logical decision. Many cities are fighting to get theirs.

It won't be long now before the lawn mower can be packed away for the winter and the pan under the ice box is requiring less and less attention.

TWO LETTERS

"So happy to hear of your engagement to Emily. Wishing you unending felicity. Yours, Sylvia."

Still clutching the silly little gold tipped pen, Sylvia straightened and stared at the letter on the desk before her. Her lovely mouth narrowed into a taut, red string. "Liar! Liar. Liar!" she accused herself. And dashing the prim little note out of her way she bent forward and wrote furiously, with swift jabs of the pen:

"Peter, dear, dear Peter I love you. Love you. All the time we have been saying these cruel things to each other I have loved you. No matter what you try to put between us, you will always, always be surrounded by my love. Sylvia."

Then came the tears.

Twilight settled over the still room, shadows wove in and out, erasing colors and outlines until the room was lost in night. Slowly her eyes found the letters, gray white blurs, side by side upon the desk. One a gentlewoman's lie—the letter Peter expected. The other a piece of her own heart, torn out in a moment of anguished honesty. In the half region of twilight they were twins—and the writing vanished.

Would it bring Peter back—knowing that she cared? In her heart she knew it would. Sternly the training of three well-bred generations stayed her fingers. The A'nsw'rth women were imperious. Her mother's words, heritage from her haughty grandmother, echoed in her ears: "Never throw yourself at a man." And Aunt Charlotte's little, high-pitched voice: "Never let him know how much you care for him. It gives him the whip hand. And, anyway, it isn't ladylike."

Out of the past a fleeting memory of Uncle Richard, gay, debonair, unsuccessful, happy. Uncle Richard, who always took a chance. "If you want a thing fight for it. But don't whine if you lose." And: "I love women—as women. But as people I hate them—they are such cowards."

Slowly her fingers found an envelope. Slowly she wrote the words in the darkness. "Mr. Peter Waidron." A square red stamp. And beside it an oblong blue one. This letter must speed on its way. Tomorrow the engagement of Peter and Emily would be announced.

Her fingers searched out the two letters, side by side. Resolutely she folded one and thrust it into the envelope. Resolutely she tore the other into fluttering squares and scattered them on the dying fire.

A whirl of restless wind tugged at her cape as she sped down the street. The postman was just scooping the 6 o'clock mail from the corner post box. Silently she dropped her letter into his hand.

"Ha! Love letter," he hazarded.

"Or death sentence?" whispered Sylvia to herself.

Sylvia huddled in the great chair beside the library fire. The tall clock told off determined minutes. It would be 12. Twelve would make it tomorrow. And tomorrow, Peter would belong to Emily—Peter, who today, tomorrow, always and always, would be hers.

Peter would be coming to his home now. He would find the letter on his table. He would tear it open. And then what? Sylvia stiffened. Would she ever know which letter she had sent? There would be long years of silence, years of meeting Peter at dances and golf and house parties. If he looked at her pityingly she would know which letter! The one he had read torn to shreds, and then muttered: "Spoiled, silly goose."

But hadn't a woman the right to fight for her love? Her mother's round eyes saying, "A lady wouldn't." Her Uncle Richard's cynical smile. "Put don't whine if you lose."

A flurry of steps on the stairs. The door thrust open. The rush of outdoor freshness, caught in the roughness of a man's coat. Peter's voice, tingling with eagerness.

"Sylvia!" Sylvia's voice out of the dark.

"Here Peter!"

"Sylvia darling, you do care. Tell me you do." His arms drawing her lips down to his. His head suddenly buried in her lap, his voice, struggling through laughter and tears.

"What do I care for all the Emilys in the world if you love me. Tell me you do." Sylvia, mothering his hair with her hands. Whispering his name. Crying and not caring where the tears fell.

"Your letter told me Sylvia." Long stillness. Then Peter's voice. "So like you, dearest. Little prim note. So happy to hear of your engagement!"

"Oh—! But Peter, how—?"

"There were tears on it. Sylvia mine. The words were lies. But by the tears I knew."—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20— It begins to look as though Governor Smith mapped his campaign plans for the middle west invasion with a view not only of recouping his loss of Senator Simmons of North Carolina as a supporter, but possibly returning with two or three republican irregular senatorial scalps dangling from his belt.

And the real bait on the hook with which he contemplates fishing in farm belt waters, it turns out, is more apt to be his ideas on water power policy than farm relief.

This, at least, is the construction put on the governor's announcement that Nebraska would be his main talking point in his western invasion. He might just as well have said he was going big game hunting with Senator George Norris of Nebraska as his hoped for political trophy so far as Washington observers were concerned.

Norris was still skulking in his political tent which happened physically to be his summer home in Wisconsin, when the Smith plans were announced. Water power was the subject on which the Nebraskan crusaded in the senate during the last session with all the ardor of his nature.

Norris' Influence

Norris has always been held to wield much influence with others of the group of irregular republicans in the senate who were continuously a painful thorn in the side of Curtis of Kansas, now Hoover's running mate, as majority leader.

"Young Bob" Lafollette has indicated many times a great degree of respect and admiration for the political principles and abilities in statecraft of his Nebraska colleague. Blaine of Wisconsin to some extent takes the same view. Neither has yet declared himself in the presidential race. Blaine has denied having announced for Smith, although admitting that many of his friends in Wisconsin were going to vote for the New Yorker.

It seems possible that Smith's drive to capture Norris, if successful, might bring him also one or both of the Wisconsin senators.

Two "Irregular" Hooveritcs

Brookhart of Iowa, also of the irregulars, is out for Hoover, as is Howell, Norris' colleague in Nebraska. Norris and Howell have been rated as friends as well as political associates. The fact that Howell is up for re-election, and has "gone regular" in support of Hoover possibly might influence Norris' action. Shipstead, the lone farmer labor senator, like Norris, is still an unknown quantity in Minnesota, and presumably a neutral in the presidential race.

Brookhart holds that Smith's power policy pronouncement in his acceptance speech precluded the adhesion of Norris to the Smith cause. Such authorities as Senator Copeland of New York, however, insist Governor Smith's policy of public development and generation of power with lease to public utilities companies or other users only "at the gateway," which means continued public ownership of generating plants and thereby strict regulation of power rates to consumers, meets exactly the Norris viewpoint.

What Do You Know About Eastern Connecticut?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The New Electric Rate

Mr. Editor: Just a word in regards to the new electrical rate. The commissioners tell us we are to get a reduction. The former rate was 10 cents a kilowatt hour. I have five rooms and in the summer months my bill never exceeded 10 hours, or $1. Under the new rate I am to be charged $1.55 for five kilowatt hours and three cents over five hours. Therefore where my bill under the old rate for 10 kilowatt hours was $1. under the new rate it will be $1.10 for 10 hours. Don't look much like a saving to me.

The commissioners admit that for the plant to prosper more power must be constmed. The new rate may benefit some of the people but the majority will be paying more for exactly the same amount as formerly. Strange the management of the local plant can't make money when Fitkin & Co. wanted to pay $3,000,000 for it. They knew there was money in it. Something wrong somewhere. Municipal ownership is the bunk. Sell the plant to some private concern that would know how to operate it right.

YOUR HEALTH

AN AMERICAN PROFESSION.
By D. D. Stockman, D. D. S., Salt Lake City, President Utah State Dental Association.

Do you know a profession that is strictly American in its development? There probably is but one, and yet few can name it.

A recent leaflet recently issued by a travel agency states that its representatives in foreign countries will tell the tourist how to find a good doctor, a trustworthy lawyer, an American dentist. So now you know. To convince yourself just ask those who have been abroad to tell you of the visible neglect of the teeth among prominent people in all lands and of the few foreign dentists.

The first dental college in the world was founded at Baltimore in 1839. Every development in dentistry has been American, the methods of procedure, instruments, materials, and research. Of course, attempts at the relief of toothache and crude restorations of lost teeth have been made from the time of ancient Egypt, but no scientific development came until after the Civil war.

Dentists alone are responsible for this development. You—the American people—are equally so. Your desire to have better than your parents had and for your children to fare better than you has been evidenced nowhere more than in the increasing attention given to the teeth in each succeeding generation. This attitude and your expressed appreciation have been a constant stimulus to the dentists to know each advancement and to endeavor to do the best they know.

It is the hope of the profession that some immunizing agent or dietetic element will be discovered which will prevent tooth decay.

The increasing number who make it their rule to have their teeth examined every six months are wise. If cavities are discovered when small, the tooth is left stronger, the preparation hurts less, the cost is small, and there is no danger of dead nerve and resulting abcess. If all abscessed teeth were sore, there would not be so many cases of rheumatism, neuritis, heart and kidney diseases become chronic. But often there is no soreness or swelling, and the abscess is discovered only by X-ray pictures of the teeth.

Don't—especially in the presence of children—say complainingly that you have to go to the dentist. You may need to visit one but you don't "have to."

Less than one hundred years ago the wealthy could not procure, nor the monarch command, services which would prevent or relieve toothache. So be thankful that you are living in this present age and in this progressive country where scientific dentistry is available to all.

Aren't you surprised and proud to know that dentistry is our American profession?

IN THE DAYS NEWS

Explorations Reveal New Alaska Wonderland.

Startling and magnificent scenic features that may make it another distinctive American wonderland were revealed today by Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar in further advices to the National Geographic Society in Washington concerning the society's expedition which he headed in the Mount Pavlof Volcano area of the Alaska peninsula.

The area, in its own way, the reports indicate, may be as remarkable as are the now famous Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, in Alaska, and the Carlsbad Caverns, New Mexico, both of which were set aside as national monuments after National Geographic society expeditions had revealed their natural marvels and scenic beauty.

Dr. Jaggar wired his report to the society's headquarters in Washington from Seattle where the expedition has just arrived in the states after a summer's adventurous exploration which disclosed huge volcano cones, a far northern lake country of amazing beauty, caribou, bears, foxes and hair seals in unexpected numbers, and yielded valuable collections of rocks, minerals, fossils, flowers, mosses and seaweed.

Through Pavlof bay, at the tapering end of Alaska peninsula, which looks so slender and small on maps of North America, the party sailed 75 miles to the head of Canoe bay, an almost landlocked body of water, hitherto unexplored, which Dr. Jaggar describes as a veritable "baby Mediterranean." North of that bay to the Bering sea, and west of Port Moller, the explorers entered an area which disclosed hundreds of lakes scattered among treeless wastes and low ridges of great geologic interest.

The expedition mapped 2,500 square miles of United States domain which hitherto has been unsurveyed, recorded scores of physical features hitherto unnoted, and also corrected many details placed on older maps from traditional and hearsay.

"Old small scale Russian maps of this interior are quite erroneous," Dr. Jaggar says. "On the Bering sea side several bays marked and named do not exist; the long glacier extending west from Pavlof is a great field of clinker lava. Mountains are misplaced and six lakes shown south of Nelson's Lagoon amount to a vast flat containing 500 lakes and ponds. The so-called Otter bay, mentioned on some pilot charts, is in reality a valley."

By boat, foot and horse the party travelled some 1,300 miles. Often they pressed on amid gales, fogs and driving snows; sometimes they came upon valleys carpeted with the gorgeous flowers of the far north—violets, daisies and lupines, and across miles and miles of tundra were the rounded "pin cushions" of moss, made pink, white, blue and yellow by clusters of tiny flowers.

Animal life was far more profuse than had been expected. The party had been in camp at Canoe bay only an hour when members saw tracks of the red fox and brown bear. On a short trip out of camp the explorers counted 42 caribou and three bears. Crossing a mountain north of the bay the brown bears were so numerous, Dr. Jaggar noted, that "I began to wonder whether we could get back to to boat without stepping on a bear."

But it was on a volcano that a dramatic capture was made of a remarkable specimen. The bear was skinned for mounting, and will be presented to the Cleveland Museum of Natural History. It measures 9 feet, 10 inches, from nose to tail. Skull and leg bones were preserved.

The caribou were in small bands, usually from three to nine, and it was near the inner narrows of Canoe bay that a colony of hair seals appeared and splashed about the boat with great unconcern.

On Canoe bay the party encamped on a site where there was fine clamming and on islets were scores of huge olive-drab gulls' eggs, flecked with brown.

Along hundreds of miles of shore line Dr. Jaggar employed the amphibian boat, especially built by the expedition, which could run along stony beach, penetrate the grass flats and tundra, and take to the water when headlands impeded its course.

The boat was steel, equipped with an automobile engine and twin screw propellers, having an enclosed body with water-tight compartments fore and aft. It carried freight, it made inland trips, it conveyed fuel, it was used in trolling and hauling a beach seine, and by night it was drawn up beside the tents where it served as a sleeping cabin for the expedition's leader. It needed no harbor; it could run ashore in a surf and continue on its way.

"Canoe bay is a glorious place," Dr. Jaggar wires. "North is a fine, snowy volcano with its cup crater in full view, rugged encircling outliers, and sweeping 'wash fans' leading down to the water's edge, covered with dark purple tundra.

"Then again no one can accurately describe the panorama that spread itself when the clouds lifted before our camp at Divide Lake. Close at hand were the exquisite, pencilled cones of Pavlof Sister and Pavlof, both glistening with ice. In the north face of Pavlof, the side toward us, a mighty gash or split, where the whole north rim of a former circular crater had fallen away.

"Now we look to the right. Here is something unbelievable, so fantastic, so marvelous in sculpture, so delicate in outline that nothing in scenery elsewhere remotely resembles it—the Aghileen Pinnacles. Jutting black minarets, spires, columns in clusters, towers, domes, snowdrift in the crannies. Individual steeples rise from the great square tower in the middle of the cathedral mass so slender, so utterly straight sided, like the Campanile, only thinner, that it seems incredible they do not fall with the first breath of wind. Yet they have withstood centuries of Arctic gales from the Bering sea."

Stories That Recall Others

Polite

Aunt Eva had with considerable patience trained her little niece, age four, to say "Beg your pardon" most politely. Imagine her surprise on "showing off" little Evelyn to some admiring elders to find that what the child was actually saying was "Baking powder!"

Unwelcomed Assistance

For three consecutive evenings he had complained about the condition of his pipes. They needed cleaning, every one of them, but there was this to do or that to do that kept him from giving the few minutes required for that particular task.

On the morning of the fourth day his wife decided to surprise him. She would just clean them for him. With a sharp-bladed pocket knife she carefully scraped out the bowls down to the new wood. One she thought did not seem sufficiently clean even after the scraping process and she promptly disappeared with it into the kitchen.

That evening after dinner hubby promptly settled down to his newspaper and pipes as usual. He was indeed surprised.

"What in the name of heaven have you done to my pipes?" he called out to his wife, as he examined one after the other.

"Cleaned them for you, dear," she replied in a pleasant tone of voice.

"And this one!" he exclaimed, as he fingered his favorite. "How in the sun did you clean it?"

"Oh, that one?" she replied innocently. "Why, it just smoked too strong for anything, so I boiled it awhile."

Talks on Electric Service

"MORE ABOUT THE PROPOSED ELECTRIC RATE"

Many customers in Norwich are being served at less than cost. To partially offset this, the Department is making more than a fair return on some other customers.

In other words, some of the customers are paying the cost of giving service to the others. This is not fair and unless we try to correct it, we cannot hope to prosper and our customers cannot look forward to lower rates.

The customers who will be asked under the new rate to more nearly pay their own way may resent their increased bills, but we trust they will remember two things:—

1. The increase is not going into the cash box of the Department but is being paid back to the community through decreased bills to other customers.
2. Even those customers whose bills are increased can benefit through the use of additional electricity at 3 cents a kilowatt hour.

The new rate is the best rate even for the small customer, in that it is the only form of rate which offers him the same low price per kilowatt hour for additional use as is offered to every other customer.

OLD RATE
10c per Kilowatt hour.
NEW RATE
3c per Kilowatt hour, plus the initial charge.

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

WEDDING
Wilson-Jackson

The marriage of Miss Mary Isabel Jackson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Curtis Jackson of Willimantic, to Frank Ralph Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lyon Wilson of this city took place at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the summer home of the bride's parents at Beach Park, Conn.

The ceremony was performed before a bank of evergreen and flowers, by Rev. Dr. Mathewson of Beach Park and was attended by fifty relatives and friends.

The bride's sister Mrs. Ward Harkness Bushee of Holyoke, Mass., acted as matron of honor and Dr. D. J. Coyle, Jr., of Norwich was best man. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white chiffon and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a platinum chain with crystal pendant, a gift of the groom. The matron of honor wore nile green chiffon and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and summer lilac.

The bride is a graduate of Norwich Free Academy and Willimantic Normal school and has been a successful teacher at Stafford Springs. The groom is a prominent business man and is freight agent at the Central Vermont station in this city.

The couple left for a three weeks' trip to Montreal, Quebec and Niagara Falls. They will be at home to their friends after Nov. 1st at their newly furnished home at East Great Plain.

FUNERALS
John P. Gahagan

With many relatives and friends present the funeral of John P. Gahagan was held Thursday morning at 8.30 o'clock at the funeral parlors of Hourigan Bros., and at 9 o'clock there was a requiem mass at St. Patrick's church, Rev. Myles P. Galvin, celebrant, Henry La LaFontaine presided at the organ and at the offertory Roderick F. Sullivan sang De Profundis. For the waiting hymn Mr. Sullivan sang Lead, Kindly Light and Mr. LaFontaine played Chopin's funeral march at the recessional. The burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May conducted the committal service.

The bearers were Owen F. McVeigh, William P. McVeigh, Charles Morgan and Charles Corkery. Mourners were present from Hartford and other cities and there were many beautiful floral tributes.

Mr. Gahagan, who lived at 46 Cedar street, died late Tuesday night after a long illness. He was born in New York city, the son of the late Patrick and Jane Gahagan. He had been a resident of Norwich for about 30 years and was a member of St. Patrick's church. He was a laborer by occupation. Surviving is a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Kelly.

CHARLES A. SAXTON SCORES LOW NET IN WOOLMEN'S ANNUAL GOLF TOURNEY

Charles A. Saxton, local woolen manufacturer, won the low net prize with 83-24—69 to lead a field of 108 golfers at the annual outing of the Connecticut Woolen and Manufacturers held at the Norwich Golf club on Thursday. Dave Morton, another local woolen manufacturer, had low gross in the monufacturers division. In the dealers division Arthur Dupee of Boston with a net 72 was awarded the first low net and Newton Hislop of Boston was first low gross with an 81. Others in the tournament were strung out, the scores ranging from the low eighties to 206, for which a consolation prize was awarded.

The outing, which was the sixth, was the second to be held at the Norwich Golf club and as usual the weather man beamed upon the wool brokers and their customers. The woolmen started to gather bright and early and golf was the leading attraction, several of the members of the organization playing as many as 54 holes during the day. When the long drab shadows of early evening fell the last of the golfers straggled in and the scores checked up. Nearly 50 prizes were awarded in all and they included a beautiful set of matched clubs, won by Mr. Saxton, silver, cut-glass, choice pieces of cloth and numerous other trophies.

A chicken dinner was served the guests by Mrs. Murphy and proved one of the most enjoyable of the club season. At the dinner there were numerous speeches and the prizes were awarded by "Buck" Freeman of Boston. A notable visitor was Frank Gowdy, of the Unversity of Chicago team in 1924, when he was chosen on the all-American team.

The committee in charge of the affair which was pronounced as one of the best yet was Harry Bloomfield, "Buck" Freeman, Mark Lucas, William G. Park and O. W. Forte.

ATTORNEYS WILL SUBMIT ARGUMENTS IN WRITING

Trial was finished in the superior court at New London Thursday afternoon before Judge John Richards Booth in the $6,000 suit of Warren L. Maynard of Southhold, N. Y., against John James and Alex Perry, proprietors of the Commercial garage in this city. Judge Booth directed the attorneys to submit their arguments in writing on the question of law involved in the case, appertaining to the contract of bailment which the plaintiff had raised in the case.

Maynard sued the garage proprietors because his $5,500 automobile which he had left at the garage to be washed was taken from there on Nov. 24, 1927 by the washer, Leoy W. Bashaw, driven against a telephone pole on Thames street and practically demolished. Bashow died in the hospital from his injuries.

Judge Arthur F. Libby was attorney for the plaintiff, C. V. James and V. P. A. Quinn for the defendants.

Witnesses called for the plaintiff included "Joe" Moore as to the damage to the machine, Capt. Brennan of the Norwich fire department, who saw the accident and Officer Henry Fenton of the police department. There was also a written statement from E. B. Patterson who sold the car to Maynard.

For the defense the witnesses were Mr. Masteritis, night foreman at the garage, Mr. Ceccarelli as to the value of the damaged machine, Mr. Desjardins, and Mr. Wiener of New London who was driving an automobile with which Bashaw collided after hitting the pole.

MAYFLOWER DESCENDANTS ELECT NEW MEMBERS

The board of assistants of the Society of Mayflower Descendants in the state of Connecticut met September 13th at the home of the governor, Edwin H. Bingham in Hartford. The following were unanimously elected to membership: Mrs. Clarence Spring Benham of Waterbury, 9th in descent from Stephen Hopkins; Mrs. Henry Seymour Mygatt, of New Milford, 7th from John Howland. The acting secretary, Miss Jane B. Watson, reported the resignation of Benjamin Bolles Crocker of Hartford and the deaths of Mrs. Charles W. Barnum of New Haven, who died on Jan. 19, 1928; Mrs. William H. Beckwith, New London, on June 4, 1928; Mrs. Olcott B. Colton, West Hartford, on May 4, 1928; Mrs. Thomas Emery, Jr., Cincinati, Ohio, on Oct. 11, 1927; Rev. Dr. Azel W. Hazen, Middletown, on July 4, 1928; Mrs. Billings Neff, Portland, Conn., on Nov. 30, 1927; Mrs. Alfred Ely Pulford, Hartford, on Aug. 20, 1928; Meigs H. Whaples, Hartford, on May 15, 1928. Plans for the annual meeting and luncheon, to be held in the latter part of October, were discussed, the date of which will be announced later.

EUGENE SAUNDERS HURT IN AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

C. Eugene Saunders, proprietor of a grocery store at 318 Laurel Hill avenue, was badly shaken up and sustained a fractured jaw Thursday afternoon a little before 3 o'clock when the motor truck he was driving was in collision with a trolley car on Laurel Hill avenue near the corner of Winchester street.

He was driving southerly on Laurel Hill avenue and the one-man trolley car in charge of Charles Anderson, motorman, was traveling in the opposite direction. The motor truck had both wheels on the right side smashed. Dr. A. C. Freeman attended Mr. Saunders and Officer John O'Neil assisted in clearing away the wreckage.

The ground floor will have two locker rooms and dressing rooms, each to accommodate 20 persons. The rooms will be separate, for home and visiting teams. There will also be separate shower rooms, each with eight showers with hot and cold water. The heater room for the hot air furnace and hot water boiler is also on this floor.

The main floor will contain an assembly room about 26 feet square, adjoining which will be the coach's room, about 10 x 12, with connecting shower and lavatory. At the left of the entrance will be a drying room for clothes, 8 x 14, and back of this a room, 12 x 14, for the visiting team. Stairs will lead to the shower and locker rooms on the floor below.

Erection of the building has been made possible by the offer of $5,000 made by Charles F. Noyes of New York, an Academy alumnus, which stimulated the raising of $6,000 more by pledges by the board of corporators and other Academy graduates.

Plans for the building were by Chandler and Palmer, the Peck-McWilliams company has the general contract and Harold C. Dahl the plumbing and heating.

DEFENDANT WINS IN ELECTRIC METER CASE

Judgment for Louis Sadernisky and the Norwich gas and electric department in a suit brought against them by Herman Rapaport has been rendered by Justice of the Peace Frank N. Gardner. Rapaport and Sadernisky occupied adjoining stores on Central avenue and Rapaport sued for $100 damages on the claim that wires in the electric meter box had been so transferred that he was paying for the electricity which Sadernisky used.

In the memorandum of decision, Judge Gardner says:

The plaintiff and defendant, Louis Sadernisky, are co-tenants in the Bray block, Greeneville, in the city of Norwich, Conn. The plaintiff has occupied a store known as No. 219 Central avenue, about six years and the defendant, Louis Sadernisky, store known as No 225 Central avenue, since July, 1926, each of whom, when they moved into their respective stores made application to the Norwich G. and E. department for meters to be set in their meter boxes which were duly installed by the service men of said Norwich G. and E. department. It was agreed by all parties interested that judgment should be entered for said defendant the city of Norwich and at a hearing on July 12, 1928, judgment for said city was duly entered.

The following facts are found from the evidence presented at said hearing: That the plaintiff's monthly bill for electricity from the Norwich G. and E. department had substantially increased since the defendant Sadernisky, had occupied the store in said Bray block; that the plaintiff never made a complaint to said department on account of the increase of his bill; that the fuse on the plaintiff's meter box blew out that caused lights in the defendant's store to go out as well as in the plaintiff's; that on examination by an electrician they found wiring had been at some time attached from the meter in the defendant's store to that in the store of the plaintiff; that the defendant Louis Sadernisky, denied at that time and so testified that he did not attach the wiring to the plaintiff's meter; that he, the defendant, Louis Sadernisky, paid said Norwich G. and E. department each month the amount called for on said bill; that the meter installed in the defendant's store had always read zero up to the time when the fuse in the plaintiff's meter box blew out; that the plaintiff testified he had paid approximately $70 more since the defendant, Sadernisky, became a tenant in said block than he had on previous years.

As it has been well said in the case of consentual contracts, the agreement defines the contract. The duty which thus forms the foundation of a quasi contractual obligation is frequently based on the doctrine of unjust enrichment. In other words, the circumstances present between parties must depend on facts at least from which a quasi contractual relation will be found to exist; without such relation no duty or obligation from the defendant Sadernisky, to reimburse the plaintiff will arise.

I do not find such a situation between the plaintiff and defendant, Sadernisky, to be present.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ACTIVITIES IN THE WEEK

A brief summary of a few of the activities in the Norwich chamber of commerce office during the last week gives some idea of the work in progress. The fall opening committee, J. Fred Fleming, chairman, held three meetings in connection with plans for the fashion parade and window contest.

Three conferences of the officers of the chamber were held in connection with the hotel project.

The legislation committee, headed by Judge Nelson J. Ayling, is now considering United States Referendum No. 52 on agriculture. Careful consideration is being given to the credit pool plan by a special committee.

The chairman of the industrial committee, Charles W. Taggart and the secretary were out a half-day with an industrial prospect who was interested in two different plants here in the city.

A meeting of the nominating committee, of which Charles V. James is chairman, was held and consideration is now being given by the members of that committee toward the selection of six candidates for election by the members to the board of directors for next year.

The publicity committee, Chairman Max Hanover, has completed the final copy for the publicity booklet and in addition are getting together new cuts and pictures for a new leaflet which will describe Norwich as a summer resort, showing lake scenes, fishing scenes, etc. The credit bureau handled a total of 56 calls during the week. The weekly credit bureau meeting was held Wednesday evening and was attended by eight members, presided over by President Curland. The solicitations committee acted on two applications for approval of program advertising.

The merchant's bureau held a meeting on Monday night attended by over thirty-five merchants.

The membership meeting committee have been assured of three speakers for three dinners during the coming year:

John M. Fitzgerald, formerly president of the Western Maryland Railway Co., and now assistant to the chairman of the committee on public relations of the eastern railroads, is to address a meeting in April.

Major General Paul B. Malone, recently appointed by President Coolidge as commander of the Sixth Corps Area of Chicago, Illinois, is to address the February meeting.

Fred Kamiller, vice president of the International Harvester Co. of Dubuque, Iowa is to address the Farmer-City meeting in May.

James L. Case accepted the chairmanship of the Merchants Institute which is to be held the week of October 14th. The executive committee for this work is now being organized.

Henry D. Johnson, chairman of the monthly business survey completed his report for the month of August, which was published all over the state.

The fashion parade which was held Thursday night entailed a great deal of detail work. There were a large number of conferences and the usual volume of inquiries, both by telephone and by letter, to be answered.

ERECTING NEW ATHLETIC BUILDING AT N. F. A.

Work has just been started on the erection of a new modern athletic building at Norwich Free Academy, to cost about $12,000. The building will be of brick, two stories in height, and is placed on the south side of the Academy campus, near the Joseph Perkins road, and about 100 feet away from the manual training building. It will be 52 feet long and 26 feet wide.

HENS AT STORRS DO BETTER IN 46TH WEEK

During the 46th week the hens in the egg laying contest at Storrs laid 4,032 eggs. This is an increase over last week's production of 78 eggs. The total to date is 245,517 eggs. The average eggs per bird to date is 175.

George Lowry's pen of White Leghorns from West Willington, Conn., won the week with a lay of 60 eggs. This makes three consecutive weeks that the pen has had a total of 60 eggs. It makes 17 consecutive weeks that he has taken first honors. Once more Clarence E. Lee's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Auburn, N. Y., captured second place with a net of 55 eggs. George Lowry's pen No. 65, the second string pen in the contest, was third with a production of 53 eggs. Three pens of White Leghorns owned by George B. Ferris of Grand Rapids, Mich., Spring Brook Poultry Farm of Seneca Falls, N. Y., and Egg and Apple Farm of Trumansburg, N. Y., tied for fourth place with 50 eggs each.

At the end of the 46th week a new pen record has been established. Heretofore Hollywood Poultry Farm White Leghorns from Woodinville, Wash., ended the contest last year with 2,669 eggs. At that time we thought this was a remarkable record, but the pen owned by George Lowry from West Willington, Conn., has to its credit so far 2,726 eggs. This pen has six more weeks to go before the end of the contest.

In the Barred Rock class, Spring Brook Poultry Farm from South Wethersfield, Conn., has captured third place. No changes have taken place in the White Rocks or White Wyandottes. In the Rhode Island Red class Red Mount Farm pen from Franklin, Mass., has changed places with West Neck Farm from Huntington, N. Y. In the White Leghorn class the two pens entered by George B. Ferris seem to be having a race with each other. One pen has a record of 2,326 eggs relegating his other pen to sixth place.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties:

LIONS' PRESIDENT REPORTS ON STRENGTH OF ORDER

With President Kopland K. Markoff in the chair the weekly luncheon meeting of the Norwich Lions club was held Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel. After opening the meeting President Markoff presented William R. Frisbie as the presiding officer for the session. Mr. Frisbie appointed Jean Kieffer as the song leader and the meeting opened with the singing of America. Nicholas J. Spellman presided at the piano. C. Edward Carpenter asked the blessing.

President Markoff gave the members a resume of the activities of the Lions clubs in the southern and western states. The Lions are strong in those sections, the average club membership being from 300 to 500.

Louis M. Crandall, secretary of the New London County Agricultural society and a member of the club, spoke of the plans for the annual fair to be held this month. The entertainment for the meeting was provided through the courtesy of the New London County Agricultural society and was given by the Coleman Brothers, entertainers. Mr. Coleman and his entertainers were given a vote of thanks for the programme and the meeting closed with the Lions roar in honor of the guests and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

CINCINNATI SPLITS WITH BOSTON BRAVES

BOSTON, Sept. 20—(AP)—Cincinnati swept its way to a 7 to 2 win over Boston in the opening game but lost the nightcap 9 to 5 here today after the Braves had made eight runs in the first inning. In this inning Bell hit a homer into the left field bleachers with the bases full. His single in the seventh gave the Braves another run.

Picinich hit for the circuit off Cantwell in the eighth with two men on. Score:

RECORD LIST DESIRING TICKETS FOR YALE GAMES

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 20—(AP)—General Manager Harold F. Woodcock, of the Yale Athletic association announced today that 32,336 applications for the Dartmouth, Army, Princeton and Harvard football games have been mailed to alumni in the United States and Canada. The number of applications for the four games totals 129,344.

The number of inquiries for applications already received indicate a greater interest than ever before in Yale football, Woodcock said. "They are coming in from all parts of the country and while we always receive a great many, the number of applications sent out this year seems to have set a record."

CARDS AND GIANTS IN EVEN BREAK

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

POLO GROUNDS, New York, Sept. 20—(AP)—Big Frank Hogan, stepping into his role like the best of dime novel heroes, saved what little remains of the New York Giants pennant hopes today, just as it seemed the St. Louis Cardinals were about to dash off with a double victory and all but clinch the National league flag on the spot.

With two out and the bases filled in the eighth inning of the second game, Hogan, the herculean catcher of the Graw clan, smashed one of old Pete Alexander's curves into the left field stands for a home run. This rending wallop enabled the Giants to come from behind in spectacular fashion to win the second game, 7 to 4, after the Cardinals had bombarded Larry Benton and captured the first game, 9 to 8, chiefly through a trio of home run drives by George Harper.

50,000 Present

A crowd of close to 50,000 fans, on hand at the start of this crucial contest, saw Hogan deliver the cleanup punch that kept the Cardinals from jumping into a four game lead that would just about have settled the pennant tussle. As it is, by dividing the day's spoils in two bitterly contested games, the St. Louis club kept a lead of two games over the Giants. The rivals meet again Saturday but with only nine games remaining for each club it appeared tonight anything but a promising chase for the fighting young men of McGraw.

Defeat in the second game was a hard breaker for the old campaigner, Alexander, who was outpitching his youthful rival, Carl Hubbell, and seemingly headed for victory until the cracks in the Cardinal defense paved the way for the big Giant rally in the eighth. There were two out this frame when a passed ball by Jimmy Wilson let in O'Doul with the tying run. An error on Jackson's grounder by Rabbit Maranville a few minutes later, filled the bases where there was an easy opportunity to retire the side, gave Hogan the chance seized by lofting the ball into the left field stands.

With one out O'Doul and Ott opened the decisive attack in the eighth with singles. Lindstrom drove a long one to Douthit that advanced O'Doul to third base, from where he romped home on a passed ball. Billy Terry walked them. Maranville juggled Jackson's grounder to fill the bases. The rest of the story is all about Hogan's homer.

Harper Beats Benton

Harper's spectacular hitting played the biggest part in the downfall of Benton, the Giants' ace, in the first game. Two of the Cardinal outfielder's three circuit blows were made off Larry the Red, the first starting the scoring in the second inning, with no one on, the other coming in the sixth with two on base and boosting the Cardinal lead to five runs for the time being. The third was hit off the veteran Jack Scott in the eighth, following one to the same right field target by Chick Hafey.

Harper had a chance to equal the all-time record for four homers for a single game when he came to bat in the ninth inning. It was the well known story book setting for our hero, with the bases full, but prosperity was too much for George. He took a third called strike, protesting so vigorously that Rabbit Maranville had to drag him away from trouble and toward the bench.

Sherdel Hit Hard

Sherdel was hit hard by the Giants in three successive innings, the fifth, sixth and seventh, but the breaks were against him in the sixth, when his support wobbled. In that inning, after Harper had misjudged Reese's two bagger, Lindstrom raised a short, high fly to right that looked like an easy third out. Instead, Maranville, Hafey and Douthit did an Alphonse and Gaston act, letting the ball fall safe. Reese dashed home with one run and big Frank Hogan took advantage of the "break" to smash a homer into the left field stands, accounting for two more.

This aroused the Giant fighting spirit to such an extent that they came back in the seventh and pulled up to within one run of the Red Birds when Andy Cohen larruped another homer, with Bill Terry on base.

Sherdel settled down in the last two innings, repulsing further Giant sorties, while Hafey and Harper put on their home run duet in the eighth to make the outcome a certainty.

ATHLETICS WIN EASILY FROM DETROIT TIGERS

DETROIT, Sept. 20—(AP)—The ever threatening Philadelphia Athletics cut the lead of the Yankees in the race for the American league pennant in half today by winning the first game of the series from Detroit by a 6 to 1 score while the Yanks were losing to Chicago. With but ten games left on the schedule for New York and nine for Philadelphia, the Yankees hold first place by the margin of a single game.

The aged right arm of Jack Quinn, oldest of the major league pitchers, was too much for the Tiger batters today. They could get only six hits off his delivery and the only run they made was due directly to a fumble by Jimmy Dykes, Philadelphia shortstop.

Earl Whitehill started in the box for Detroit and for the first six innings his left handed delivery was almost as effective as that of Quinn. The only run the Athletics scored in that period was a homer by "Mule" Haas in the sixth which tied the score.

In the seventh Whitehill suddenly cracked and the Athletics put the game on ice with three runs.

Foxx, the first batter, drew a pass and Miller followed with a single, sending him to second. Both runners advanced on Hale's long fly to Fothergill and the Tiger strategists went into a consultation over what to do about Jimmy Dykes. They decided to walk him, filling the bases, and take a chance on Quinn, notoriously a weak hitter even among pitchers. Quinn made this strategy look extremely bad by dropping a single in short left center, sending Foxx home with the run that put the Athletics ahead. With the bases filled, Bishop began the unloading process with a single to center that scored Miller and Dykes.

Whitehill gave way to a pinch hitter in the seventh and George Smith faced the Athletics when they came to bat in the eighth. Without giving him a chance to find his bearings the Mackmen laced out a pair of hits and a sacrifice which, with a pass to Foxx, gave them their last two runs.

Detroit's only run was made in the second. With one out, McManus walked and went to second on Fothergill's single. Another single by Tavener filled the bases and McManus came home when Whitehill hit a grounder to Dykes and Jimmy fumbled it.

SMITH WINS VERDICT OVER SILVIA IN FAST BOUT AT NEW LONDON

Again the threatening weather failed to dampen the ardor of the followers of the fight game last night in New London and another good crowd turned out to witness another excellent card of six bouts at Ernest Fakourey's Hamilton St. arena. Every go was hard fought and while there was quite some blood spilled there was only one knockout, that in the last bout between Young DeForest of Danielson and Al. Gillette of New Bedford. Joey Duggan for the second time in as many weeks managed to pull through by his gameness but was in a bad way from the hard lefts of Spike Marino of New Haven. Steve Smith won from Tiger Silvia in another tough battle.

Joe Thomas of New London won all the way from Mickey Price of the Coast Guard who substituted for Max Marevitch, in the opening 6 round bout. Price was trying hard all the way, but Thomas with a good left hand kept Price away. He crossed his right to the jaw and had Thomas in a bad way in the third. But the latter weathered the storm. Thomas weighed in at 124 1-2 and Price one pound more.

Rene Labear, of New Haven, with a devastating right hand, beat Gene Pecheeni of Norwich in the second bout. Labear brought his right over the Norwich boy's jaw in the first with about ten seconds of the round to go and Gene went down, but the bell saved him. For the remainder of the fight he showed plenty of respect for the New Havener's right and although Labear managed to get it over occasionally Gene escaped another knockdown. Pecheeni fought a good fight but Labear had an edge a good part of the way. Pecheeni weighed 126 and Labear 124.

The main go was put on next on account of the threatening weather and gave the fans a real old fashioned slugging match between Steve Smith of Bridgeport and "Tiger" Silvia of Fall River. Smith took the lead in the early rounds, but Sylvia warmed up and gave Smith a mighty tough battle and Smith had to fight every inch of the way to cop the win.

In the sixth Smith drove Silvia to the ropes with a volley of blows and had the Fell River lad covering up. Smith missed two hard drives and Silvia worked his way out and into a clinch. The ninth round was a furious affair with Smith taking the honors. The final round also went to Smith after being hard-fought from the bell. Silvia put up a good battle and the Bridgeport boy certainly knew that he had been in a battle. The decision was well earned and well recieved. Silvia tipped the scales at 132 1-2, four and a half pounds more than Smith.

Joey Duggan, the New London boy, took another walloping in the next gruelling affair, but put up a tough battle, against Spike Marino, of New Haven. The latter with his hard left to the body had Duggan in a bad way in the sixth and had him on the floor at the bell after knocking him down twice previously in the same round. Spike took the lead from the first keeping on top of Duggan and sent home lefts and rights from the start. Duggan fought back, however, and made a good stand in the seventh, after being down in the previous round. Spike, with a bad cut on the nose, kept piling in but was rather tired himself in the last round. Joey came out at the final bell and outslugged Marino for the duration of the round. Duggan's fighting heart is great but the beatings that he has taken in the last two fights should earn him a little layoff for his own good. He weighed 121 and Marino 121 1-2.

The last bout brought together Al Gillett of New Bedford who made so many friends at the last show when he won over Duggan, and Young DeForest of Danielson. DeForest had evidently been warned of Gillette's right hand. He kept away all through the first round content to land a few light lefts to Gillett. Al tried to get in close to get his right to work but didn't succeed. In the third, however, he found an opening, and it landed—and how! DeForest went down for nine, badly stung, but gamely struggled to his feet and lasted the end which was evidently not far away.

Both boys came out in the third and swapped a few hard punches, but the Danielson lad backed away. DeForest accidently butted Gillette over the left eye which drew blood and made Gilette furious. Gillette drove him to the ropes and with a shower of lefts and rights, dropped over the right to DeForest's jaw and the latter went down head first. Gillette outclassed the Danielson boy as much as he did Duggan last week and Fakourey will have to seek further for a suitable opponent for him.

REVAMPED BROWNS MAKE SURE OF THIRD POSITION

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 20—(AP)—Picked by most critics to finish in the second division, the St. Louis Browns clinched third place in the American league standings with a 5 to 2 victory over the Boston Red Sox here today.

General Alvin Crowder, leading hurler of the junior circuit, pitched his nineteenth victory against five defeats for the season. Manush, leading batsman of the league, got one single in three times up. Score:

Athletic Events at County Fair

An athletic program is now being arranged for the fair on Sept. 29 starting at 2:30. The events are in charge of T. F. (Chic) Spivery and Frederick (Slim) Jackson. Prizes will be given for each event. The events will be 100 yd. dash, 220 yd. dash, running froad jump, high jump, half mile and boxing.

All wishing to participate are asked to get in touch with Chic Spivery, phone 2779 or Frederick Jackson, 1261-2 or by reporting at the gate at the fair Saturday at 1:30.

Bozo, the sturdy little craft driven by Albert Gebrath of Groton, son of Henry Gebrath of this city, which won the recent outboard motor race between New London and Norwich and return in C class and the boat owned by Mr. Rettberg of Hartford, winner of class B in the same race have entered for the 35 mile race to be staged on the Thmaes by the Duwell A. A. Saturday afternoon.

The winners of the Shennecossett race will find the competition much keener in the coming Duwell affair, as the entry list shows the names of a number of boats all capable of turning in record time over the longer course that has bene mapped out for the week end spin. Although the entry for Saturday's race will not close until an hour before starting time there is every indication right now that fifteen or more boats will start. To date the majority of the entries are from New London, Norwich and Groton with two from Hartford but it is probable that befors today is over Westerly will be heard from as word has been received here that the boat owners from the city across the border line are planning on turning out strong for the race.

Although motor boat racing is still a novelty here from the spectators standpoint, the coming event is creating considerable interest and it is expected that there will be a big gathering at both the starting and finishing points. A number of the merchants here have shown their interest in the affair by offering to contribute prizes and it is probable that before Saturday several more will be heard from. Those to contribute prizes to date are: J. H. Ferguson, J. and C. Bliss, Jacks Sport Shop, Pequot Brass Foundry and G. H. Alexander of New London. With the exception of the Pequot company the merchants have donated cups. The foundry will give a pair of brass polished oar locks and sockets to the racers who do not finish in the prizes.

Rules and regulations governing the running of the race will be announced Saturday morning.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20—(AP)—The Yankees' margin of leadership over the Athletics was reduced to one game here today when the White Sox nosed out the champions by 4 to 3 in twelve innings after the Mackmen had won from Detroit by 6 to 1.

Urban Faber, the veteran spitballer and Yankee jinx extraordinary, went the route for the home team, giving the champions only eight hits and three scattered runs. He thus won his fourth victory over the house of Huggins this season, and in winning it continued Babe Ruth's batting slump for one additional day. The Babe got nothing in five attempts, while Gehrig got one out of three.

George Pipgras held the White Sox fairly well in check for seven innings, although he permitted a two run lead to be shot away from him in the fourth. Miller Huggins sensed real trouble in the eighth when the home team tied the score on singles by Metzler, Kamm and Hunnefield, and Waite Hoyt was rushed to the rescue.

Hoyt retired the White Sox without difficulty in that crisis and in the ninth and the eleventh, but he was threatened in the tenth on singles by Swanson and Hunnefield, and lost in the twelfth on a hit, a steal and two sacrifices.

Reynolds opened what proved to be the final round with a drive through short for a single and stole second with the aid of a short passed ball. Metzler then was purposely passed to make a force-out at every base, but Kamm laid down a perfect sacrifice and Swanson raised a sacrifice fly to Ruth.

Tony Lazzeri was forced from the Yankee lineup in the eighth when he strained his old shoulder injury after making a force play at second base. It could not be determined how long the battering Italian might be kept inactive by this latest mishap, but it was presumed that he would start tomorow's game, if this were at all possible. Score.

WESTERLY

NEW LIBRARY ADDITION TO BE DEDICATED TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 20—Friday afternoon at the Westerly Memorial and Public library the formal dedication will take place at 3 o'clock of the new addition planned by Wm. D. Hoxie just before his death and made possible through the generosity of his widow, who has carried out his plans. The addition contains a new children's department, an art gallery and a museum. The dedicatory address will be delivered by Rev. Nehemiah Boynton, D. D., of Newton Center, Mass., formerly pastor of Mr. and Mrs. Hoxie at the Clinton Avenue Congregational church, Brooklyn N. Y. The public exercises will include, besides Dr. Boynton's address, the unveiling of a tablet stating that the addition was built as a memorial to William D. Hoxie, the presentation of the structure to the trustees and the latters' acceptance of the gift.

The afternoon and evening will be given over to a general inspection of the library, in addition to the erection of the new section, many other improvements have been carried out.

The Westerly fire department was called out Wednesday evening about 6:30 o'clock by an alarm from box No. 68, Oak and Tower streets for a chimney fire at 139 Tower street. The house is owned by Mary Dollery widow of Edward Dollery, and she resides there. The fire started around the chimney and burned a hole in the roof. Three pieces of fire apparatus responded and the flames were extinguished with chemicals after about an hour's fight.

Residents about Westerly beaches reported that during the storm of the past few days the ocean at high tide did not reach anywhere near record marks. Although the waters off the southern coast of Rhode Island were choppy and rough, the steamer Elizabeth Ann from Stonington to Block Island made its regular trip Wednesday. On the return from the island the boat had a rough voyage. The downpour of rain in Westerly was almost continuous and at times was driven by a strong northeast gale, which was not from a quarter to make high surf along the Watch Hill and Pleasant View beaches.

Westerly Chapter of the American Red Cross has been receiving subscriptions for relief work in Florida and Porto Rico, following the generals appeal for funds throughout the country. At noon Thursday in Westerly the sum of $322.00 had been contributed for the relief work

NOANK

Groton Long Point is slowly closing its doors and the season closes for good around November 1. The swimming rafts and life lines are being put away for the winter The electric lights on the streets are turned off making the shore places dull. Truckman W. Wheeler in his red truck is no longer seen taking the trunks to the railroad station. About five families stay on the point all winter. About 75 cottages are locked up, the owners having gone back to their homes in the city It has been reported that seven new cottages will be built during the winter, ready for next season. The water service is left on until the last day of October Many week end people come down to the point if the days are fine. The tall end of the big hurricane that hit the south paid a visit to the fishing village Wednesday. The wind was blowing 70 miles an hour and the rain fell in sheets Branches and leaves cover East Main and Pearl streets The gutters were in good shape and carried off the rush of water The fishermen put in a busy morning at the docks getting out extra lines for their boats as the rough water was breaking over the docks, sending spray several feet into the air. One boat, the Bolt, got away from the dock as the line was not heavy enough to hold the craft. Up the channel it went without a captain at the wheel. A Stonington boat came along and saved the boat from being wrecked. It took 30 minutes before the boat was safe again at the dock. All day long it rained steadily. Several row boats were washed high on the shore. One local woman said hailstones as large as walnuts fell on the tin roof during the day. A neighbor said she must have been walking in her sleep but she sticks to the story and can prove it by the neighbor's testimony.

Mrs. Jack Ellis has a sister in Miami, Fla., where the big hurricane landed in full force sweeping everything ahead of it. Receiving no word from her sister, Mrs. Gill has her worrying; she cannot get a telephone message or telegram through, and knows only what is in the newspapers. Mrs Gill spent the summer in the village and left for the south only about three weeks ago.

She is a former Noank woman and her friends hope for her safety through the storm. A Noank young man Herbert Fitch, is in Jacksonville. His father, Station Agent Charles Fitch received word that he and his family ducked the big hurricane and are safe, getting only a little of it where he lives. He is the only Noank fellow in the danger zone, as far as is known in the village

Charles Ellis and John Jensen have been called to New York by the death of their brother August Jensen.

Lyle Chesebro, who is a singer, has sung at different entertainments and churches, also sings at his work at McDonald's hardware store People will stop to hear him. They call him the tenor singer from Shipyard avenue. He is going to start a Glee club that will fill in with the other clubs in the village. He claims that Noank has some good singers but they are afraid to try out their voices.

STONINGTON

WOMEN CUT BY GLASS WHEN SEDAN BUMPS TRUCK

A Chevrolet truck, property of Shaw the florist and driven by Miss Annie S. Shaw of the Stonington road, was run into on Lord's Hill Thursday at 7 a. m by a Buick sedan driven by Walid Keshfy of 43 George street, Pawtucket, R. I. Miss Shaw and the wife of Keshfy were badly cut about the face and head by glass They were attended by Dr. D. E Taylor. Keshfy was held in bonds of $100 for appearance in the town court of Stonington Saturday morning. The accident was investigated by Patrolman Adams of the borough and state police of Groton barracks.

Tax Collector Edward A. Monjo collected more than one-half of the total assessment of the Stonington Fire district tax, at the first sitting at the fire house. The final sitting will be on Oct 1.

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post

George R. Fratus, a local veteran of the World war, is heading a movement in the borough to organize a Veterans of Foreign Wars post. A get-together meeting will be held in the Muller hall at an early date. According to the by-laws, 16 members must be enrolled before a post can receive a number and be named. There are about 30 veterans in the borough. Mr. Fratus has secured nine names Any veteran in the borough who has seen service across the seas may communicate with Him.

The warden and burgesses of the borough of Stonington are to meet next week to act as a board of relief at which appeals will be heard from the work of the assessors of the 1928 levy. This will be the only sitting of the board.

Stonington Savings and Loan association met in the council room at Borough hall Thursday evening.

Joseph Sousa, Frank J. Raymond, Edward Perry and Manuel Lalo were in Pawtucket, R. I., Tuesday evening.

Bobby Coon Meets Cubby Bear
By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Suspect the gift too freely offered;
Find first the reason it is proffered.
—Cubby Bear.

Bobby Coon had gone over to the Laughing Brook. Bobby is very fond of the Laughing Brook. He loves to play in the water. He loves to catch fish and he likes to eat them as well as he likes to catch them. He is never happier than when he is prowling along the bank of the Laughing Brook.

Now Bobby Coon is a happy-go-lucky fellow. By the time he reached Laughing Brook he had forgotten all about Whitefoot the Wood Mouse, whom he had vainly tried to get out of the hollow log. He washed his hands, combed his hair and then decided he would see if he could catch a few minnows in a certain little pool. He knew all about that little pool. He knew that the minnows dearly loved to play about it in where it was very shallow. If one were quick enough a minnow could be scooped out of that little pool. Bobby had a favorite spot from which he fished. He stole to this very softly. The moonlight lay on the little pool, but Bobby was in the blackest of Black Shadows. Bobby had been there only a little while when a school of minnows began to play about. They would come to the surface and make little rings in the water. Bobby's eyes sparkled. Fish would be better than a Wood Mouse. Just as Bobby was about to try for one of those minnows he heard the shuffling of feet and out on the bank stepped Cubby Bear. In the moonlight he looked like a living Black Shadow. When he stepped out that way all the minnows disappeared in a hurry. Bobby Coon was provoked. He wasn't afraid of Cubby Bear. He wouldn't want to get in a fight with Cubby, but Cubby was not yet big enough for Bobby to respect him, as he did great

"What do you mean by spoiling my fishing?" he demanded angrily

"What do you mean by spoiling my fishing?" he demanded angrily.

Cubby Bear merely grinned. "Why didn't you tell me you were fishing?" said he. "How do you suppose that I knew you were fishing? Did you get any fish?"

"No," replied Bobby shortly. "I would have if you hadn't come along and frightened them all away. What right have you to go prowling around and meddling with other people's business?"

Cubby was feeling good-natured. He usually is good-natured. "Next time," said he, "you let me know when you're fishing and I'll keep away. I like fish myself. Fish are very, nice eating. I would rather have some nice tender Mice but fish will do very well."

At the mention of Mice, Bobby Coon suddenly remembered Whitefoot the Wood Mouse. A plan suddenly popped into his head. "Would you really like a Mouse if you could get it?" said he.

Cubby's eyes sparkled. "Would I?" he exclaimed. "I should say I would!" Cubby licked his lips.

"If I show you where there is one, will you keep away from the Laughing Brook until I am through fishing?" Bobby asked.

Cubby Bear looked at Bobby a little suspiciously. "If you know where there is one, why don't you get one yourself?" he demanded.

"I can't," replied Bobby promptly. "He's in a hollow log that I can't tear open, but I think you can."

"Just show me that log!" exclaimed Cubby. "Just show me that log!"

"If I do will you promise to keep away from the Laughing Brook until I get through fishing?" demanded Bobby.

"I certainly will," replied Cubby. "It's a bargain."

JEWETT CITY

SCRAPPERS STOPPED TROOPER AMONG OTHERS HELD UP

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 20—State Trooper Castaga, from the Danielson barracks, brought in Bert Shorey and lodged him in the lockup. He will be charged with intoxication in the town court Friday morning.

John Burns was stopping cars on the state road north of the borough, where he and Shorey had engaged in a little private mix-up. Burns held up Officer Castaga among others, but made a get-away into the nearby woods. Later Officer Vegiard and the trooper overhauled him and he will have to tell the judge about it in the morning.

The awards on the floral exhibit at Pachaug Grange fair were incorrectly printed and were as follows: First, on best and largest Coll. of dahlias, Mrs. F. C. Whiting; 2nd, Mrs. F. L. Kanahan; 3rd, Mrs. William Bitgood; 1st on best basket 12 decorative dahlias, Mrs Whiting; 2nd, Mrs. Kanahan; 3rd, Mrs. Charles Ruszenas; 1st on best basket of 12 cactus dahlias, Mrs. Whiting; 1st on best show basket, Mrs. Whiting; 1st on best Coll. 12 varieties, Mrs. Kanahan; 2nd, Mrs. Whiting; 1st on largest single bloom, Mrs. Whiting; 2nd, Mrs. Kanahan; 3rd, Mrs. Ruszenas. The gladioli and potted plant awards were correct. Mrs. F. H. Gilbert received 1st on salvia; 1st on best 12 blooms white asters, Mrs. H. T. Jeffers; 2nd, Susie Morgan; 12 pink asters, 1st, Mrs. Jeffers; 2nd, Mrs. Gilbert; 12 lavender asters, 1st, Mrs. Gilbert; 2nd, Mrs. Jeffers; 12 red asters, 1st, Mrs. Jeffers; 2nd, Mrs. Gilbert; best 25 blooms, 1st, Mrs. Gilbert; 2nd, Mrs. Henry Olson; 3rd, Mrs. Jeffers; best bouquet petunias, 1st, Mrs. Byron Kinnie; 2nd, Mrs. Gilbert; 3rd, Mrs. Jeffers; marigold, 1st, Mrs. Gilbert; 2nd, Mrs. Frank Morgan; 3rd, Mrs. Kanahan; roses, 1st, Mrs. Whiting; 2nd, Mrs. Whiting; 3rd, Mrs. Gilbert; snapdragon, 1st, Mrs. Walter Tanner; 2nd, Mrs Gilbert; 3rd, Susie Morgan; zinnias, 1st, Mrs. Jeffers; 2nd, Mrs. Arba Browning; 3rd, Mrs. Gilbert; sedum 1st, Susie Morgan; tassel flower 1st, Mrs. Frank Morgan; verbena, 1st, Mrs. Tanner; 2nd, Mrs. Gilbert; larkspur, 1st, Mrs. Gilbert; 2nd, Mrs. Kanahan; African daisy, 1st, Mrs. Gilbert; Calliopsis, 1st, Mrs. Gilbert; love in a mist and poppies, 1st, Mrs. Gilbert; godetia, blue salvia, stock and seabiosa, 1st, Mrs. Jeffers; 2nd, Mrs. Kanahan; best bouquet named wild flowers, 1st, Grace Lockwood; 2nd, Edith Bartlett; best bouquet garden flowers, 1st, Mrs. Jeffers; 2nd, Mrs. Byron Kinnie; calendula, 1st, Mrs. Jeffers; 2nd, Mrs. Morgan; nasturtiums, 1st, Mrs. Gilbert; 2nd, Mrs. Tanner; 3rd, Susie Morgan; balsam, 1st, Mrs. Gilbert; annual phlox, 1st, Mrs. Gilbert; 2nd, Mrs. Morgan; perennial phlox, 1st, Mrs. Tanner; bachelor's button, 1st, Mrs. Morgan; pansies, 1st, Mrs. Gilbert; 2nd, Mrs. Jeffers; cosmos, 1st, Mrs. Gilbert; 2nd, Mrs. Kanahan; 3rd, Mrs. Morgan; sunflower, 1st, Lillian Swanson; plumosa globosa, 1st, Mrs. Morgan; geranium, 1st, Susie Morgan; cockscomb, 1st, Mrs. Ruszenas; 2nd, Mrs. Fred Maynard; annual chrysanthemum, 1st, Mrs Morgan.

Miss Betsy McKay of Norwich, Mrs. Frank Mell of Lisbon and John, William, Theodore and Hugh Davis attended the funeral of Mrs. George Forbes in Fitchburg, Mass., Tuesday.

Charles Ruszenas is of a decidedly generous disposition when he says that if the person who appropriated a pair of bantams at the Grange fair will call at his store, he will give him a bag of grain with which to feed the fowls during the winter. Another case of theft, or else of "cake-walking" was the disappearance of a loaf of chocolate layer cake from the exhibit, while the lights were out for a time one night. The next day the loaf was found on the ground in the "dog" house. Evidently the cake-walker had a prickly conscience or else lost his nerve.

One of the features of the coming Oriental bazaar is to be a fortune teller, who comes from a nearby city, imported especially for the event. The beautifully decorated hall and booths are to be done in artistically blended colors, and with quantities of Chinese lanterns.

Jewett City chapter, American Red Cross, has sent $100 from the treasury to headquarters in Washington to be used for the hurricane sufferers' relief. Mrs. Walter A. Richardson is to take charge of a public benefit whist, the proceeds of which she will donate to the Red Cross. T. A. Rioux gives the use of his hall and the Congregational Ladies' society the decorations, which are to be left in position after their bazaar. Mrs. Richardson will name a large committee from Jewett City, Lisbon, Pachaug. Voluntown and Glasgo to assist her. This is not under the auspices of the Red Cross chapter, but the proceeds will be sent through the organization, as a contribution to the relief fund.

Japanese Sausage.

When Occidentals speak of "sausages," they have in mind frankfurters, bologna or liver sausage. But when the natives of Java think of sausage they usually have in mind a peculiar concoction all their own. The Oriental apparently can hardly think of food without having the idea of rice come to mind. Therefore, in making sausage, rice is the chief, indeed the only ingredient of the preparation. The rice is thoroughly boiled in water, or more rarely in milk, until it has assumed a thick consistency, whereby the grains of rice have lost their identity. It is then, after cooling, molded into lengths by being rolled with the fingers. Finally the whole is incased in oil paper, which takes the place of the skin employed in this country. It is then ready to serve. In appearance the rice sausage somewhat resembles a cigarette, and may be served whole or cut into sections and eaten with other delicacies which appeal to the appetite of the little brown Javanese.

A commotion was caused in a Leicester (England) tram car by the alleged extreme shortness of a skirt of a girl passenger. The other passengers complained to the conductor and the girl was requested to leave the car.

Stomach Trouble Caused By Acidity

Stomach troubles, gas, indigestion, bloating and sourness are in probably nine cases in ten caused by "too much acid" in the stomach. For safe, quick, certain relief, the stomach needs an alkaline to neutralize the acid, sweeten its food contents, and make digestion easy and painless.

A wonderful help in such cases is Bisurated Magnesia—powder or tablets. One teaspoonful of powder or three or four tablets in a little water instantly neutralizes the excess stomach acid and so speedily stops the pain, sourness, gas and bloating.

Bisurated Magnesia is the standard Magnesia treatment for Acid Stomach purposes, because it is so pleasant and convenient to use and gives such wonderfully quick results that reliable druggists everywhere sell it on a positive guarantee of satisfactory results or money back. Try a test package on this plan, and enjoy your future meals with no more fear of indigestion.

O·K.

For the South Pole

THAT'S WHAT COMMANDER BYRD THINKS OF

THE NEW VEEDOL MOTOR OIL

IF THERE'S a weak spot in a motor oil, an airplane engine will find it. And Commander Byrd put the seal of a scientist on the New Veedol when he tested it and chose it out of hundreds for his South Pole flight.

Made 100% from Pennsylvania and other paraffine base crudes, the New Veedol shows its quality—in the sky and on the land. It lasts longer. It keeps motors cooler. It makes them run smoother and sweeter. For your modern automobile motor is a close relative of the airplane motor. A single crank case filling will show you why Commander Byrd was right. The orange and black Veedol sign is the place . . . The Tide Water Oil Sales Corporation, New York City.

THE SELF CONCEITED FARMER

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

A good many people, when they speak of a self-conceited fellow, mean one who thinks too much about his clothes—who is insistent that his cravats be always correct and his coat sprucely tailored and his shoes immaculately shined, etc.

The vice of these dandified creatures is less self-conceit than mere childish vanity. Men usually grow out of it as they grow out of their 'teens, except in cases of persistent moronism or too slavish subjection to feminisi: fads.

But self-conceit, at its worst, is less manifested in a man's devotion to what's on him than to his adoration of what he thinks is in him. He may be shock-haired and unshaven, muddy-booted and overall-breeched, grimy-fingered and callous-palmed, and yet be as chock-full of self-conceit as an egg is of meat.

Indeed, such a man is often actually proud of his uncouthness. He often boasts that he is too deeply interested in really important things to give any heed to outward appearances.

The disappointing thing about him is apt to be that, when you eventually find out what those more important things he talks about are, they turn out to be just his opinions about things in general.

Now a man is popularly held to have the indubitable right to his own opinions about anything and everything. However that may be, there hasn't yet been published any method of preventing him from forming them and holding them. They are also undeniably effective in modifying conduct.

A rather common phrase in the mouths of shallow-brained praters is that which declares "As a man thinks so he is." Of course, this is not so.

He may think he is a second Napoleon in strategy, or another Washington in statesmanship, or a Webster in oratory, or a Huxley in science, or a saint in impeccable personal righteousness—without possessing even enough intelligence to comprehend the fundamental Why of these men's superiority.

His opinions may be and often are of considerable importance to himself. Very, very rarely are they matters even of passing interest to others.

Furthermore—and this is of basal and fundamental application—no opinion is worth anything whatever, whether to its holder or anyone else, unless it is solidly based on the widest possible observation, made with absolute candor of mind and tested with unsparing severity against possible flaws.

The popular phrase condemns "leaping to conclusions." Philosophic caution warns against generalizing from insufficient particulars. Bed-rock is admittedly a good foundation. But you can't build a Woolworth tower on just one two-ounce fragment of rock. You need a whole stratum, wide and thick and deep and compact to hold up your superstructure, whether that superstructure be one of masonry or of opinion.

An oak tree grows slowly, adding to its above-ground spread only as its underspread roots burrow and clinch. It may get to be 60 feet high in 60 years. A squash vine will grow 60 feet in one July—and die in one sharp October frost.

A common phrase reminds us that "One swallow doesn't make a summer." No more does one occurrence in any order of life warrant us in building upon it a theory or even an opinion. It is only by the slow gathering of often widely separated and seemingly unrelated facts and the arranging of them in interlocking order that we can, sometimes, get a base solid enough to promise adequate support of a theory or an opinion.

At the same time, the universe—even that of mud and matter—is so vast and so mixed-up that no one man's observations, alone, even when made with the least bias and the shrewdest sense and the sharpest vision, are likely to suffice for the construction of any formula which will stand the racket when the rains fall and the winds blow and the floods rise and beat upon it.

It is because of this that the most eminent scientists, after no matter how long experimentation and test in their own laboratories, are chary of publishing the results till they have been checked up and confirmed by crucial re-trials by other men in other laboratories. They may timidly suggest their findings as hypotheses or suppositions or guesses, but require that they be subjected to all sorts of re-trial and all forms of hostile criticism and, above all, to the slow test of time, before they venture to dignify them with the name even of theory.

Darwin used 20 years or more of time, traveled over the whole known world, spent weary months in dusty museums, corresponded freely with students of natural history everywhere, piled facts on facts from all the five continents and all the seven seas, before he ventured to set forth his so-called theory of evolution—and then only as a hypothesis which seemed best to explain in terms of orderliness the hitherto unsoluble puzzle of natural life.

But I know farmers—and so do you—whose sole sources of information are their own acres and what they read in the papers, yet who have not only theories and opinions but dogmatically formulated creeds about practically everything in nature and in society and in politics and in religion, which they hold to with a stubbornness and an inflexibility which too often degenerates into bigotry.

Not all. Some of the humblest and, therefore, wisest men I am privileged to call friends are farmers: men who have learned how little they really know, and whose daily prayer is apt to be "Lord, be merciful to me, not only as a sinner but a poor ignoramus." To such men I take off my hat in real respect. Moreover, I have no preachments to make and no advice to give to them. I am more moved to emulation than to propaganda by their examples.

But, side by side with them, are others—too many others—who measure the whole universe by their 36-inch yardsticks, and more or less loudly proclaim their own half-baked opinions as solid nuggets of absolute truth.

One doesn't need to specify instances or relate examples. There are such in every farming community—I don't say they aren't in other communities and other classes. But we're a bunch of farmers talking among ourselves, and we've got all the job we can handle correcting our own faults without undertaking to reform the rest of humanity with one "Thou shalt not." So let's attend the the means in our own eyes before undertaking to clear the motes out of other peoples'.

As a matter of simple, practical day-by-day living, I haven't found these know-it-alls the best advisers to go to when I want counselor suggestion or explanation. Have you?

Nor have I found that their nearest neighbors and closest observers are always as deeply impressed with their superior wisdom as they themselves are. Have you?

We can laugh tolerantly at the spectacle of the over-ribboned and under-dressed city flapper or the immaculately clad tailor's dummy. Their vanity is ridiculous, perhaps, but hardly dangerous.

But self-conceit is the father and mother and nurse-maid of obstinacy and opinionativeness and dogmatism and bigotry. It is not only a vice in the individual but a peril to the community. It is less to be laughed at than to be deplored, and, so far as possible, ignored or ostracised.

There's no more use arguing with an addict of his own self-conceit than with the wooden Indian in front of the cigar-store. Both are about equally impervious to reason or common sense. The most practical and effective treatment is neither to answer them nor pay any attention to them beyond the requirement of decent courtesy. "Answer not a fool according to his folly, lest thou also be like unto him."

We've all got to work out our own problems for ourselves according to our lights and our abilities. But self-conceit doesn't astop there. Having, as it thinks, worked out its personal and particular puzzle, it demands that you and I and the rest of the world docilely accept its solution as that of our differing puzzles. It sneezes justifiably enough when its own nose itches, and then looks over its handkerchief in irritated wonder because we, whose noses don't happen to itch just then, won't sneeze, too.

It is, usually, the bastard child of prejudice begotten upon ignorance or that half-knowledge which is even more dangerous that utter ignorance.

The self-conceited farmer is rarely the one whose fields show the best tilth, whose buildings are in the best repair, whose crops give the best returns. He is apt to work his mouth more assiduously than his hoe. He is apt to be freer with unsought monitions than with neighborly help in times of emergency.

He's almost invariably a bore; he's apt to become a nuisance. He can't, of course, be abolished off hand. He must be endured. But that's no reason why he should be encouraged or even accepted as an equal.

In the meantime, let's you and I pray daily that we be saved from his contagion. We may be more infected than we suspect.

The Stumbling Block

Don't quit when the road gets rougher—
Jump over the biggest rock!
For the winning one there's a star and sun
However the shadows mock;
Don't run when the troubles grab you,
Don't faint when the failures knock;
Rise up and say: "'Tis the hero's way;
Thank God for the stumbling block!"

Don't stop when the sun grows hotter
And crisp is the burning heat;
There's a rose that grows by the longest rows
And the hours of rest are sweet;
Don't bend when the heavy burdens
Hard down on your shoulders flock;
Earth gives her spoil to the hands that toil—

Don't run when the troubles grab you,
Don't faint when the failures mock;
Rise up and shout to the foes about,
"Come on with the stumbling block!"
For the prize at the goal is waiting,
The gold in the granite rock;
To earth's sons cry, "'Tis the gods that try.—

— Freeman E. Miller.

HANOVER

Mrs. Allison Ladd and Miss Gertrude Ladd took a trip last week up through the northern part of the state, into the Berkshires and over the Mohawk trail returning by the way of Boston and Providence and calling on a number of friends.

The first meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the Congregational church wrs held in the parish house Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Henry B. Hazen, leader and Misses Caroline and Jennie Gallup hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. John Firth are to occupy the house recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ladd.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Hazen motored to Moosup Sunday afternoon calling on friends with whom they drove to Providence and back.

Word came by wireless reporting the safe arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Doyle at Bermuda Monday last. After a stay of five days or the islands they will return from their honeymoon trip to occupy their new home some time next week.

THE WORLD HAS A NEW AND FINER MOTOR CAR

* Art Goebel won the Dole Race from San Francisco to Hawaii, then he hung up a new record for a Coast to Coast continuous flight, with a twin ignition, high compression, valve-in-head motor. And then he bought a new Nash "400," to get the same kind of performance from his motor car.

Special Six "400" Sedan $1345 f. o. b. factory Fully equipped

It was a Twin-Ignition Motor

In history-making flights Lindbergh, Byrd, Goebel* and a host of others have established dramatically and conclusively the superiority and reliability of twin ignition, high compression, valve-in-head motor performance.

And all three principles are combined in the great new Nash Twin Ignition Motor which powers every Nash "400" Special and Advanced Six model.

The Nash Twin Ignition Motor, with two ignition coils instead of one, two spark plugs (airplane type) to each cylinder instead of one, 360 sparks a second instead of 180, at top speed, burns the highly compressed gases more thoroughly and economically.

Once you drive the great new Nash "400," you are certain never to be contented with the performance of older types of motors.

DANIELSON

SENDS $200 FOR HURRICANE SUFFERERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 20—This morning $200 from the Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross was wired to Washington and is to be added to the growing fund for the relief of the West Indian hurricane sufferers. This money was taken from funds the local chapter had on hand. Chairman W. E. Parker of the Danielson chapter said today that it is the policy of the local organization to meet such calls for assistance as the present one from this chapter treasury, rather than to institute at the development of any emergency situation a canvass of the community for contributions.

In view of the policy of going to the public only once a year—at the time of the annual roll call in November—it is the hope of the chairman and other officers of the chapter that the response of the public will be liberal at that time.

At last evening's meeting of the board of directors, Mrs. Marjorie Waller was elected chairman of the roll call committee, a position in which she served with conspicuous success last November. This year's roll call will begin in that period of November around Armistice day.

Treasurer Francis E. Storer reported at the meeting that during the past year the chapter has extended between $500 and $600 of its funds in home service work, this being in aiding disabled veterans who are in hospitals or in support of families of such veterans. This service is regarded as so highly important that a special appeal is made for generous giving at roll call time that it may not only be continued, but expanded.

Deputy Game Warden Gurdon E. Withey pointed out this afternoon that under a new federal law it will be unlawful to shoot woodcock in Connecticut before October 20 this year. The open season on pheasants and some other protected game birds begins on October 1. In the past it has been legal in this state to shoot woodcock from the opening day of the season, but that is not the case this year. Warden Withey said this afternoon that he felt that sportsmen should be appraised of the change in order that they might escape violation of the law. It is also of interest as the open season approaches that again this fall it will be illegal to hunt quail. There has been no open season on these game birds for several years past, and it will remain closed during all the coming hunting period. Meanwhile quail have increased considerably in numbers in Windham county towns, but by no means are over-running the country as yet. As to pheasants, they appear to be quite plentiful in this section this September and will furnish much of the interest in bird hunting in October and November. Partridge are about but in depleted numbers.

There were apparently well substantiated reports here today that the two young men who were picked up on the street by Officer Hosea Greene Monday evening as suspicious characters after some visitations they had made to stores, also aroused suspicion by their actions in Moosup sometime before they appeared in Danielson. This would appear to establish that their tale of how they come to be in Danielson, their explanation being that they were given a ride in from Willimantic, was not wholly true; at least they said nothing to officers who quizzed them here about having been in Moosup.

There are three candidates for town offices in Brooklyn who need do little worrying over the outcome of the balloting on the first Monday in October. They are E. M. M. Marlor, Oscar F. Atwood and John M. Bessette. Each of them has a double nomination, republican and democratic caucuses endorsing their candidacies. Mr. Marlor has the dual nomination for first selectman, Judge Atwood for agent of the town deposit fund and Mr. Bessette for tax collector. All of these men have long served the town of Brooklyn in public offices.

Observers of the crowd attending the Brooklyn fair today noted with interest that practically every one of several thousand people on the grounds came in motor cars. There were so few horse-drawn rigs as to make them notable. A score of years ago the reverse was the case. The horse was king of the highways, and a motor car a strange contraption sufficiently unusual to hold the attention of the crowd while it made a trip around the track.

What appears to be the one contest looming up for the town election is that involving the struggle for places on the board of selectmen. There are four candidates. Only three of them can be elected. With the heavy registration of new voters, this contest may develop some interesting angles. It is likely to be the most intense in the second district of the town, which is the most strongly democratic, in proportion to the number of voters registered, of any of the districts of the town. The democratic objective is to elect two members of the board of selectmen, something the party has not achieved for time out of memory.

An annoyance that has been complained about by Danielson people on more than one occasion, but which was overcome for a time has again developed. It has to do with distributors of hand bills and sample packages leaving whatever they have to leave at a door and then push the bell as they walk away. This practice interrupts people in whatever they may be doing and is an irritant, often having the effect of turning away a prospective customer rather than winning one.

Mrs. Alice Woodworth was a visitor in Boston today.

Friday afternoon of this week members of the Roundabout club are to hold their first meeting of the season with Mrs. Walter Anderson at Broad street.

Mrs. Eugene Vetter of Norwich was a visitor with relatives in Danielson today.

There was an outpouring of Danielson people to attend the fair at Brooklyn this afternoon, leaving this community more or less deserted in its business section, where stores were open as usual.

Ernest Kennedy will be among those from Danielson attending the fair at Springfield on Friday.

The meeting of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., this afternoon was in the Congregational parish house.

Edward J. McBride will be in Springfield in attendance at the Eastern States exposition Friday.

Except for some minor washouts there was little damage to Killingly highways as the result of the heavy rain storm of Wednesday.

Lieut. Rose V. Urquhart of the Danielson state police barracks is in regular attendance at the Lalone-Raymond trial in Willimantic.

Relative to the loss in operation shown by the town court during the past fiscal year, it was pointed out today by a court official that all of the fines imposed in motor vehicle cases go to the state, and half the fines go to the state in other cases brought before the court by state police officers.

To the many who are inquiring about the matter, town officials state that there will be another opportunity, in October, for those who wish to be made voters in time for the national and state elections in November.

Numerous local amateurs appear to be in line for boxing bouts at the state armory when matches are resumed next week Friday evening and boys from neighboring towns also will get their chance.

In order that the employes might have an opportunity to attend the fair at Brooklyn, the Windham County National bank was closed this afternoon.

While a very considerable amount of the annual borough tax has been received by Collector S. H. Perry, many others are delaying payment until some time before the time limit expires on October 10.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Atwood and Miss Dorothy Atwood of Wauregan have been spending a few days at Bretton Woods and other points in northern New England.

GOSHEN

Mr. Bushnell gave a fine sermon Sunday from Cor. 4-12. "The things that are not seen are eternal and the things that are seen are temporal." Jared Hinckley led the C. E. meeting in the evening. Next Sunday evening the local society goes to Bozrah where they will have charge of the C. E. meeting.

Last Friday evening the Community club had its annual harvest supper and fair with an attendance of more than fifty. As it was also achievement night for the Goshen Girls' Canning club, part of their work was on exhibition, also a display of cultivated and wild flowers. Their entertaining program comprised group songs and recitations. Those taking part were Edith Jones, Ethel, Alice and Ruby Faulkner, Olive Cox, Annie Pelkerson, and Eleanor Thomas. Samples of their work were taken by Mr. Whaples, the county 4-H club agent, for display at the coming fairs in this county.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Jones had the largest variety in their display. Other exhibitors were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Randall, Miss Annie Gillette, Michael and Leon Shalda, Kenneth and Harold Hinckly, Stephen Goski, William and Eddie Barrows, Annie Mitchell and Mrs. A. B. Kenyon.

E. W. Jones presided at a short business session at which time it was voted to pay for the nails used in the recent shingling of the church. Mr. Bushnell and the Boys' club have the October meeting in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brooks and daughter Josephine of Athol, Mass., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Jones.

Miss Fannie Woerinik recently sprained her ankle while playing at school, necessitating her absence from her classes for a time.

While receiving the tag end of the storm here, no damage resulted. The earth received a good soaking and the wells and springs are well filled.

There isn't much question which high school, Atlantic, Ia., or Griswold, Ia., has the better baseball team. Atlantic beat Griswold 109 to 0. The winners made ninety-two hits, sixteen home runs, six triples and twenty-three doubles. The Atlantic pitcher struck out sixteen and got fifteen hits in seventeen times at bat. Thirty runs were made in the second inning and twenty-seven in the lucky seventh. One player made five home runs. Another scored fourteen runs in fourteen times at bat. The scorekeeper quit his job and the game was called at the end of the eighth.

PUTNAM

UNIVERSITY HOME COURSE IS TO BE OFFERED HERE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 20—Supt. of Schools Leon M. Farrin announced this afternoon that plans are now under way for the inauguration of a university home course to be offered to the faculties of the schools of Putnam and others interested. The study is called Physiological Principals of Teaching.

This is the first work of this nature ever offered before in the schools of the city and is solely for the teaching staffs. Arrangements have been made with the Yale university of New Haven to have a professor from the college sent to Putnam once each week for a period of 15 weeks. Each visit of the educator will bring from him a lecture, which will last two hours.

At the completion of the course, each teacher attending will be credited with 30 hours of university work in one subject, which is equal to about a half year's work at a college. This credit awarded the teacher students will be accepted towards a bachelor's degree, and when this degree is accomplished the student will be entitled to work toward the goal of a master's degree.

Mr. Farrin said that he expects the series of lectures will begin in October and will continue for the 15-week period. The place of study will be in on of the class rooms at Putnam high school.

There still exists some doubt as to whether any action will be taken by the school officials concerning repair of the Putnam high school athletic field this season, due to the unfavorable weather conditions and the lateness of the season. Many successful efforts were launched last year by the student body and a considerable sum was accumulated to improve the field. Included in the plan of repair was the erection of bleachers for the seating of spectators at the athletic contests, but it is not definitely known whether these will be built this year. There are several low spots on the football gridiron that are to be filled in before any contest can be held at home. Principal E. L. Robinson of the high school was in conference with Superintendent Farrin yesterday, relative to the action to be taken, but no decision was made.

Republican organization is a strong factor among the Putnam women voters and much interest is centered in the meetings that are planned for the coming week. A republican club among the women has been organized and strong efforts are to be made to place the feminine vote in Putnam in the G. O. P. column this year. Speakers are to be obtained and larger meetings are planned for a later date.

An accident involving two out-of-state cars occurred during the heavy rainstorm Wednesday evening at the intersection of Grove and Ring streets. Both cars were badly damaged, yet the occupants escaped miraculously uninjured. Police investigated the collision, but held neither driver at fault.

At the south intersection of Ring street, the road runs directly on to Grove street, giving an unfamiliar operator the impression that Ring street is the continuance of the trunk line, which in reality is Grove street. Many narrow escapes have been witnessed at this point, due to the fact that a driver unfamiliar with the highway turns almost into Ring street before he discovers his mistake and then attempts to relocate his car on the concrete highway. Residents at this point have applied for a warning to be placed here, which will eliminate the lurking danger.

The Brooklyn Fair and Cattle Show at Brooklyn resumed today and attracted several Putnam visitors to the grounds. Many of the clerks and business men, afforded the weekly half holiday, passed it at the fair grounds. The activities at Brooklyn were adjudged by Putnam visitors as to have been on a much larger scale than those of Woodstock fair, held last week.

According to telegraphic dispatches received at Putnam today, the large plantation of Robert B. Noyes of Pomfret suffered heavy losses in the recent hurricane that swept over Porto Rico. Mr. Noyes is a summer resident, having a large manor in Pomfret, and his interests in the little island of Porto Rico consist of a large coffee plantation, which gives employment to over 50 families, all of whose homes have been destroyed by the terrific storm that swept over the island during the early part of the week.

Mr. Noyes, when notified of conditions existing on his southern property, left Pomfret for New York, where he amassed supplies for the repair of the damaged buildings and also gathered a score of foodstuffs for the relief of his suffering employes and their families.

Due to the cutting off of communication between the mainland and the island, only scanty information relative to the amount of havoc wrought was obtained by the Pomfret grower, but enough was contained in the first few messages to arouse his sympathy and cause him to leave immediately with a relief expedition.

Mr. and Mrs. Noyes have passed two summers at Pomfret, this season being the first at their new mansion on the "Tyrone Road," a beautifully remodeled home of Revolutionary architecture.

The new state park at Priest's Island, about two miles south of the city, was informally dedicated today, by the members of the Putnam Rotary club and the Chamber of Commerce at a stag outing. The favorable weather conditions received this morning enticed nearly a hundred of the men to join the party and pass the afternoon at the beautiful island park, amid the fall scenes of nature's splendor.

A number of sporting events were arranged by L. Edwin Hill and Harvey Grinsell and were participated in by several members of both organizations.

Pomfret school at Pomfret reopened this morning for the fall semester, with an unusually large enrollment of pupils, most of whom are from New York. The boys have been arriving for the past few days with their parents by automobile, but this morning a large number of the prep youngsters boarded the station platform at Putnam on the morning train from the metropolitan city. The local Western Union office at Putnam was swamped with telegrams from interested parents whose boys were arriving by train.

The first session of school opened this morning.

WORCESTER MAN ARRESTED FOR ASSAULTING RELATIVE

PUTNAM, Sept. 20—Forcing one's assistance upon another in attempting to settle a family dispute is not always the safest means to apply, as in the case of Samuel Knunin of Worcester, who is under arrest in Putnam, charged with assault upon his brother-in-law, Morris Fisher, a Putnam junk dealer.

Fisher had a warrant sworn out after his in-law relative had come to Putnam, Tuesday evening, to settle an alleged dispute between Fisher and his wife. While in the process of ironing out the family wrinkles, Fisher threatened Knunin, ordering him to leave the premises. Knunin hid in back of a door, the local junk dealer alleges, and as he was about to pass his wife's brother came out from behind the door and struck him with his fist in the eye, causing it to become blackened. When no relief was obtained, the police were summoned, but left the house. Knunin went to the police station Tuesday evening with the intention of bringing about his brother-in-law's arrest, but Fisher seemed to have the most convincing evidence as he succeeded in having a warrant made for the Worcester man's apprehension.

The writ was served this afternoon by Officer Joseph Page of the Putnam police, Knunin being released this evening upon bail furnished by a Putnam friend.

The hearing was arranged for Friday morning, but, owing to holidays existing in Jewry, Knunin was granted a week's continuance by Judge Gelesler of the city court.

With the delays of mail, business men and bank officials have complained of the service being rendered by the railroad by entering another protest similar to the numerous others received. An interview was gained with a railroad official at Putnam today and the conditions existing, causing the delay in delivery of the morning mails were explained. An excess amount of mails being received at New London from New York delays the mail train some time at New London, because of the sorting and distributing before the sacks are placed aboard the train. Relief is soon to be brought about, when a main line train carries a proportion of this mail and leaves the remainder for the regular mail-carrying train, passing over the Norwich branch line and bringing the morning papers to Putnam.

It is assumed that about a week's time will elapse before the service can be restored to normal, relative to the prompt arrival of the train in Putnam and at other points along the branch.

Mr. and Mrs. Benoi Durand of Church street motored to Providence Thursday, attending one of the county fairs on the way.

The final half holiday of the clerks in the retail houses of the city will come on next Thursday afternoon, Sept. 27. During the summer months the stores in the city have closed up shop for each Thursday afternoon, allowing their employes a half day away from the daily routine. The success of the weekly half holiday scheme this year it is expected will provide for its observance next year.

An official of the Massachusetts State reformatory was in Putnam today to return the three escaped inmates to the institution in Waltham, Mass., where they had left on Monday. They were three boys all under 17 years of age and were taken into custody after they had willingly surrendered to Officer Joseph Page of the Putnam police Wednesday morning. It is believed that they asked the local police to return them to the boys' prison because of their weakened condition, they going for four days without any means of sustenance. The trio had no shelter from the heavy rain on Tuesday evening and, when picked up by Officer Page, were drenched to the skin.

Several hundred members of the Quinebaug Pomona grange, as well as members of the other subordinate granges, will gather in Thompson Saturday afternoon to listen to an address from United States Senator Hiram Bingham. The meeting will be held at the Randolph Chandler estate in Thompson. Senator Bingham with the grange officials will have luncheon at Thompson at noon. The public has been cordially invited to attend the gathering. It is not a political event and the subject will not be discussed in the senator's speech.

There are 1,400 different kinds of mosquitoes.

ERRATIC PRICE MOVEMENTS MARKED SESSION OF STOCK MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Erratic price movements in today's stock market reflected the widespread speculative uneasiness over the current high money rates. Prices generally held well in the face of successive advances in the rate on call money from 7 1-2 to 8, 8 1-2 and 9 per cent. which high rate has been exceeded only by the temporary 10 per cent. rate on July 3. Final stock quotations disclosed marked irregularity, a long list of net gains ranging from 1 to 8 points being offset by almost as many losses of equal extent.

Banks called upwards of $30,000,000 in loans during the day, with little new money making its appearance for loans on brokers' collateral. Governor Roy Young of the federal reserve board declared in a speech at Gary, Ind., that the board was not unduly concerned over the present situation of credit although his reference to an "inverted pyramid principle of credit" having been built up by the American banking system caused little cheer in speculative circles. Governor Young estimated that $200,000,000 additional federal reserve credit would be needed by business and agriculture before the end of the year.

The weekly report of brokers' loans by the New York Federal Reserve bank showed an increase of $85,285,000, bringing the total to $4,470,476,000. There was no change in the New York federal reserve rediscount rate of 5 per cent. The New York stock exchange reported that member loans of $5,051,327,405 on Sept. 1 were 8.30 per cent. of the market value of stocks listed, as against 8.00 per cent. on 1927. Time money and commercial Aug. 1 and 8.06 per cent. on Sept. 1, paper rates held firm.

Although sterling cables touched $4.85, a new low level for the year, no announcement was made regarding the import of gold. Wall street has been expecting further gold shipments from London to New York to relieve the credit strain.

Motor shares were again in the vanguard of today's advance. General Motors moved up 4 1-2 points to a new high record at 212 1-4 closing at the top, on persistent rumors of a 50 per cent. stock dividend at the next meeting of directors. Packard Motors, which announced the successful tests of an oil burning airplane motor, climbed nearly 6 points to a new peak at 91 3-8, but lost a point on realizing. Briggs Manufacturing, in which British interests recently are reported to have acquired a large interest, attained a new top at 56 5-8 and then eased to 55 1-8.

Some of the non-ferrous metal stocks made further progress on rumors of higher copper prices and new ore discoveries. American Zinc & Lead was a feature, soaring 9 points to a new top at 48 1-2, as against a low of 3 3-8 earlier in the year. Howe Sound jumped 5 points to a new high at 69. American Smelting, Anaconda, Greene Cananea and Calumet & Hecla showed little change.

New 1928 peak prices in Fleischmann, Atlantic Refining, Brooklyn Union Gas, United Biscuit, Spicer, and Murray Corporation were offset by new lows for the year in Grasselli Chemical, Crex Carpet, International Printing Ink and Pittsburgh Steel preferred.

Rails yielded with the industrials, some of the southern carriers losing ground on reports of increased storm damage estimates. Several high grade dividend payers such as Union Pacific, Southern Railway, and Lackawanna also lost a point or more.

Commodity markets were featureless.

THREE GRANGES MAKE BROOKLYN FAIR EXHIBITS

(Special to The Bulletin)

BROOKLYN, Sept. 20—This beautiful day allowed the annual exhibition of the Windham County Agricultural society—the Brooklyn fair—to get into its stride, after a postponement forced yesterday by the weather. It cannot be made a part of the record that today's attendance was the greatest ever, but it may be set down that several thousand people were on hand during the course of the day and enjoyed the really good show. Secretary Frink said today that the fair will be continued through Friday, to make up for the lost "Big" day.

Today's program was really that of yesterday, including the track events of the afternoon. Likewise, races originally scheduled for today will be run off on Friday.

Crowds began to gather on the grounds long before the noon hour today, with the attendance reaching its peak between two and three o'clock. Early comers had the advantage of being able to inspect the exhibits under more comfortable circumstances than did those who arrived later and were caught in the jam that pressed through the exhibition buildings for several hours.

General fear was expressed through the summer that crops would be poor or possibly ruined by the almost constant wet weather. That this was an unfounded fear in Windham county is established by the fine exhibits of vegetables, grain, fruit and flowers being shown at the fair. If one's memory serves, these displays were never better at Brooklyn. Over and above being nice to look at and suggestive of various appealing things, they are indicative of the fact that agriculture is looking up in Windham county and that farmers are producing quality products.

This is well illustrated in the grange displays, which are more comprehensive, perhaps, than any others there. Brooklyn, Plainfield and Canterbury granges make these displays, and the members of these organizations have reason to be really proud of them.

The exhibit of Brooklyn Grange is built around a central section occupied by a large map of the United States done in some material resembling plaster. The map is ingeniously used to indicate what various states of the union produce and in what quantities, wheat, rye, cotton, corn, potatoes, etc., etc. Established air lines and proposed lines are also marked on the map, over which hover a number of tiny planes. In this grange display is a wealth of vegetables, fruit and flowers, dairy products and interesting examples of the handiwork of the members. The display attracted a great deal of attention throughout the day.

Plainfield grange, living up to its long established tradition, also has an outstanding display that includes flowers, fruits and vegetables, pastry and preserves, examples of needlework and paintings, among many other things. A central group in this display shows a farmer seated between two other figures. A streamer bears the legend that "The Farmer Feeds the World." There is another inscription, evidently relating to the dominant political parties, that reads "They Both Love Him. But Which One Will Get His Vote?"

Canterbury Grange, No. 70, has a cute reproduction of a grange hall that was admired by ever so many people today. This hall is arranged as a reproduction of a lawn at which figures are seated at tables, as though feasting, and with minature automobiles parked about. A card reads "Clam Bake of Canterbury Grange, July 4, 1928." Canterbury Grange competes with its sister granges with honor in its display of fruits, vegetables, flowers, dairy and other products of the farm and home.

Holding general interest was a display of vegetables shown under the auspices of the Killingly high department of vocational education in agriculture. This department is under the direction of Walter G. Bruce, who happens this year to also be master of Killingly Grange. This exhibit offers substantial evidence that the boys taking agricultural courses at Killingly high school not only are getting sound theory, but also applying it in a practical manner to produce surprisingly good results. Various kinds of vegetables were shown in this display, and they rank with the best the county produces.

There are nice displays of vegetables, grains and fruits by individuals, and also a generous showing of flowering plants.

Occupying space in the main exhibition building is the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., Danielson division, showing washing machines, Frigidaire equipment and other devices from their lines.

Another Danielson exhibitor in the building is the Darbie Furniture company, showing a suite. This concern also has another display in another building on the grounds where it shows Atwater Kent and Sparton radio sets and a Glenwood range.

D. Blumenthal, Danielson, shows Fada and Majestic radio sets in one of the exhibition buildings. Outside on the grounds he and a corps of workers were busy today explaining about Meyers Water Systems suitable for homes and other structures, Jewel heaters, Nokol oil burners and the Lynn stove oil burner.

The Despathy furniture store of Moosup has a pretty showing of parlor furniture and other things for the home in one of the exhibition buildings.

Dealers from various sections of the county occupy a large space on the grounds north of the main exhibition hall with showings of new models in cars.

Special mention should be made of the display by the Brooklyn Vegetable Growers' association. Very superior selections are on view and the variety is above the ordinary. This association specializes in growing high grade vegetables and practices modern marketing methods. It is a field of endeavor said to be producing worth while returns.

Something of a line on what dairymen of the county are doing was to be obtained today by strolling through that section of the grounds where the cattle sheds are to be found. Only tuberculin tested cattle were on display, and some of the herds were also federally accredited. Fine Ayshires were shown by Everill James of the Green Hollow road in the town of Plainfield and by Lester B. Williams of Brooklyn. George Butts of South Woodstock entered some fine Holsteins and also had on exhibition a pare with foal.

Anthony Wollon of Killingly-Plainfield showed a herd of 20 Jerseys, all registered and all federally accredited. This showing included a group of cows and a bull, a group of year old heifers and some calvers.

In his list of Jersey entries W. H. Herr of Canterbury showed as fine a Jersey bull as ever has been exhibited in this corner of the state. This animal is a beauty and, of course, is in the registry list. He is Upway's Owl's Floyd, a remarkable formed and handsomely colored animal that is the pride of the Herr farm and a very valuable possession. He rates one of the finest Jersey bulls in the country today and is attracting a great deal of attention at the fair. His breeding is shown on a chart by the stall.

If the crowded capacity of the building is a basis for an estimate, the poultry show was one of the most interesting parts of the fair. The poultry business has expanded to such an extent in Windham county the past few years as to make it an enterprise commanding great attention from the general public.

Judges were busy today in all the buildings and throughout the grounds classifying entries and making awards, some of which will be published in this paper tomorrow.

Of course the midway was a busy place all day. Hawkers were busy selling their wares or inveigling those who like such things in playing wheels of fortune in an innocent way. This year the midway attractions are much the same as in years gone by. State officers from the Danielson barracks were on duty at the grounds today to see that no rule of the fair association was violated as to gambling.

Of general interest to the crowds was what is termed America's greatest travel house, a little cabin mounted on a Ford chassis. It is known as "Checkers" and is the home of two disabled World war veterans—William Burke and Frank McGregor—whose homes are in Passaic, N. J. The cabin is literally covered with automobile registration plates and city markers that the veterans have picked up on their tours through every state and every city in the United States and the various provinces of Canada. Burke and McGregor sell souvenir cards to help themselves along.

The races held the attention of the majority at the fair this afternoon. Three events were the free for all class, trot or pace; 2:30, trot or pace, and 2:20, trot or pace.

J. Carl Witter of Danielson was the starter and had little difficulty in getting away the small fields. The judges were Archie Lavacere, Southbridge; Samuel Roberts, Webster; W. A. Gordon, Norwich; Otis Fox, Putnam, and Dr. James Hutchins, Abington.

Music this afternoon was by the Goodyear band, and there were vaudeville teams to entertain the crowds between the heats of the races.

GALES FERRY

MRS. WALTER M. BUCKINGHAM IN CHARGE OF EXHIBITS

Members of the local group who attended classes conducted by Mrs. Belle H. J. Robynson, home demonstration agent of the New London County Farm bureau the past season, are being reminded of the exhibits to be held at the County Fair, Sept. 27, 29, at Norwich. The food preservation project of the bureau and the house dress department are open for competition and three prizes are offered. Any persons wishing to have an exhibit in canned foods or house dresses are to arrange with Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, chairman of the educational department of the Village Improvement association.

James Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Chalifoux, of Meriden, who have occupied Mr. Martins cottage, Leisure Hour, during their vacation, left for their home Monday. During the first week of their vacation they motored from here to Portland, Me., visiting at summer resorts en route.

The monthly meeting for the teachers of the town of Ledyard with School Supervisor James F. Connolly, of Norwich, were resumed Tuesday afternoon at Ledyard Center school. Supervisor Connolly paid his first visit for the new school year to the schools in this section Friday.

C. A. Snyder, who was called to his former home in Reading, Penn., by the illness of his father, returned home Monday evening after a few days' stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lowt and family, returned recently to their home at Hollis, L. I., having passed the season at their cottage on the Bluff.

Mrs. Sherwood G. Avery, of Norwich Town, was a guest of Mrs. Harmon L. Perkins, Monday, while on her way to visit relatives in Mystic.

Mrs. Edward S. Worcester and daughter, Harriet, who have been spending a week with Mrs. Worcester's sister, Mrs. Everett Noyes, returned Wednesday to their home in New Brunswick, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. William K. Knight, who occupied a cottage at Crescent Beach, Niantic, during their vacation, were guests over the week end of Rev. and Mrs. George H. Wright, while en route to Sterling.

William Sullivan of Woodside, L. I., has been making a vacation visit at the summer cottage of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heidinger, on the Ferry Cove.

Rev. Jerome Greer accompanied his son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Willard E. Uphams, on a motor trip from Willimantic Camp ground, where they have been spending a part of their vacation to the village Tuesday. Dr. and Mrs. Uphams returned recently from attending a conference on Religious Education at Lisle, N. Y.

Vincent Jones returned to New Haven Tuesday, following a visit to his mother, Mrs. E. W. Jones at their summer cottage, over the week end.

Joseph Herman, who has been visiting his parents in Kingsville, Ohio, for three weeks, returned Tuesday to the home of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Herman.

Mrs. Southworth, of Groton, was a visitor Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Minor Moxley.

Electric Thermometers.

The measurement of temperature by electric means is called electric pyrometry. Such perfection has been attained that, it is claimed, in this respect such measurement is applicable from the near the absolute zone—some 400 degrees F. below the ordinary zero—to a temperature of melting platinum, more than 3,000 degrees F. above zero.

Among the methods of measuring temperature by electrical means may be mentioned that which depends on the increase of electrical resistance of a pure metal with increase of temperature. Another method depends on the production of an electro-motive force in a circuit of two metals when one junction is kept at a constant temperature and the other is heated to the temperature which it is desired to measure. Many electric pyrometers give a continuous record of the temperature on a revolving drum.

A Lady's Keystone

Lady Wimborne wears an opal in her bracelet which is worth probably thousands of times its intrinsic value. It is worth precisely the combined value of all the peeress' other possessions.

For when the opal is pressed a tiny key pops out of the setting—and this is the master key to everything in Wimborne House. With it she can open every door, cupboard, trunk and Jewel case in her estate. It is the open sesame to all the family treasures.

Naturally, the bracelet never leaves the lady's wrist. Think what a find that little jewel would be for some aspiring criminal!

Synthetic Chemistry

Combining chemical compounds in such a way as to produce new substances is termed synthetic chemistry and synthetic chemists have done many wonderful things, successfully putting chemical elements together so as to produce substances which for all practical purposes are exactly the same as those produced in Nature's laboratories.

It appears that the first synthetic dyestuffs were mauveine and magneta, both discovered in 1856. The former was discovered by W. H. Perkin, then a boy of 18, who was trying to produce synthetical quinine. In the process he sought to oxidize aniline and obtained the dye called "aniline purple."

This discovery and the extensive use of the purple dye led to numerous investigations, which proved the basis of the present great coal-tar industry, the distillations of this product forming the aniline dyes and other synthetical chemical compounds.

While wonderful results have been obtained by synthetic chemistry there are indications of still more wonderful results in the future, as this practical application of science is of tremendous value to all mankind because it provides more economical methods of obtaining expensive natural substances as well as producing rare substances from from some of the more abundant ones.

Dog-Tired He'd Be

A new invention is an electric treadmill for exercising dogs in city apartments. A cage keeps the dog on the moving floor and he is forced to run until the power is shut off.

A fine idea, it may be remarked, unless puppy's master leaves him in the cage and forgets to turn the power off when going away for the week end.

New York Street Names

Very curious and interesting are the old street names of New York city. Particularly in the financial district are to be found historic associations in this relation. Most of the streets had Dutch names, since then more or less changed. For instance, Broad street was called the "Gracht," because it was an inlet from the bay.

Nassau street, between Wall and Pearl streets, was once called "Pie Woman's Lane" Stonstreet was called "Brouwer street," because the West Indies Co.'s brewery was at No. 10. South William street was "Slyck Steegh," meaning "dirty lane." Liberty street was first called by the Dutch "Tienhoven street"; later the British called it "Crown street". Fine street was first called "Queen street" and later "King street." Exchange alley was "Oyster Patsy alley" and "Tin Pot alley." Cortlandt street up to 1728 was "Windmill lane." Whitehall street derived its name from Peter Stuyvesant's mansion, "Whitehall." William street, before it honored the English king, was called "Burgers path." Coenties slip was named for Coenties Ten Eyck.

The day after the village of Linwood, Ontario, traded off the old hand engine, which had been on duty for 60 years, and celebrated the arrival of its first motor fire-fighting equipment, the apparatus was completely ruined when the garage it was in was destroyed by fire.

Puretest REMEDIES

There are over 200 items in the great Puretest line, and every product is as pure and as potent as science can possibly make it. Puretest products are made as conscientiously as a mother would make them for her child. When the question is health, there must be no question of safety. Puretest products are safe and economical, and that means all of over 200. PURETEST MINERAL OIL, Russian Type; positively thorough and complete in its intestinal lubricating properties. Has no taste, no color, no odor, pint bottle . . 79c

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physican says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called REXALL ORDERLIES has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose. Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright.

MRS. REUBEN P. ROSE.

IN MEMORIAM

Just one year ago today.
Our loved one passed away.
He leaves a vacant chair and lonely place,
Since we last looked on his dear
face.
Many a heartache and silent tear
We've shed through the long and lonely year.
May we place our faith in God on
high,
And pray there He'll guide us, bye
and bye.

LEGAL NOTICES

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 20th day of September, A. D. 1928.

Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Etta Rose Bushnell, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

Harold A. Rose, of Norwich, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that an instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased be admitted to probate.

Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 25th day of September, A. D. 1928, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least three days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Harvey were relative to his occupation. Raymond said that he had none, but that he was employed as a painter occasionally and did other odd jobs. He said that he left Dean Academy at the end of his junior year. He had not been in Springfield for about one year and a half prior to April 11 when he was taken there by the police. When questioned as to his means of support he said that he got assistance from his parents and had "some money in the bank." Some of these questions brought about a legal tilt between Attorneys Harvey and Moynihan which lasted for several minutes. Raymond seemed to be having a hard time to keep from smiling.

Asked if he was disturbed by the unexpected calling of two detectives at his home on the night of April 6, Raymond answered that detectives had come to the house several times to see if he was at home and that he was not disturbed by their visit. Referring to a statement by Raymond that at the line-up in Worcester Officer Gallagher came into the room, Attorney Harvey cornered the witness with the question, "How did you know that the man was Gallagher?" The answer was vague and was to the effect that he had learned later that it was Gallagher.

Attorney Moynihan resumed questioning and brought out that the "third party" previously mentioned in connection with the placing of a Willys-Knight sedan in Mrs. Comptois' garage was one of the men placed in the line-up at Worcester. Testimony was also given that this "third" party resembled Raymond as to height and color of hair, Raymond's height has been given as about five feet four inches and his hair is jet-black.

Roland G. Lalone then took the stand. He said that he was 22 years of age last June. He said that when he could find employment he drove trucks and cars. Under questioning by Attorney Thayer, he named Henry Clouthier as the man who drove the Willys-Knight sedan on the night of April 4, when the sedan was taken to the Comptois garage. He told of this hiring of the garage and said that he rented it in the name of Eddie Gibbons, an acquaintance. Later he said that the rent money was handed to Raymond by Clouthier, who was present when the garage was rented. Raymond handed it to Lalone who gave it to Mrs. Comptois. The receipt was made out in the name of Eddie Gibbons. In tracing what he had done and where he had been on April 4 he corroborated the testimony of his sister Jean Lalone who testified Wednesday, and that of Raymond as to the trip to Webster that evening. He said that he was home practically all day the following day.

With regard to his activities on April 6 he again corroborated Raymond's testimony. Two police detectives came to his house about midnight of the 6th and asked what time he had gotten home that evening. He testified that he had returned home about 10 o'clock that night. He was asked when it was that he was not employed in driving trucks or cars in April and replied that Mr. Goodwin (taken to mean the motor vehicle commissioner of Massachusetts) had taken his license away.

Lalone related incidents of the police line-up in Worcester on April 11. He said that Officer Gallagher came into the room and walked right over to Raymond saying, "Here's one punk." The officer then walked over to Lalone who was fifth in line and said, "Here's the other bo-hunk." Upon arrival in the Springfield jail that afternoon he said he was taken to the "grilling" room. He was returned there several times at half-hour intervals and was punched on his feet and frequently hit. He said he thought this was done because he did not answer questions as the officers wanted him to. He said that in the line-up in Springfield all but he and Raymond were attired in blue shirts. He said that in the line-up in Springfield all but he and Raymond were attired in blue shirts. He said that when Edward C. Mason, Webster filling station employe who had testified he saw the youths in Webster on the night of April 6 when they hired Frank Spiewakoski's taxi, he did not identify either himself or Raymond on two occasions. Returning to the room a third time he picked them out.

He was asked if, in respect to the testimony of Mrs. Bessie B. Archer, he was in Springfield on April 12. He answered in the negative to that question and to the query as to whether he had purchased caps from Mrs. Archer. He said that he was taken to the jail at Brooklyn on Friday, May 11.

Cross-examined by Attorney Harvey. Lalone said that at one time he had worked in a boiler factory in Jersey City for eight months. He also admitted that he had served one year in jail in Pittsfield, Mass. He was asked if he had told officers that he was not in Webster for two years prior to April 6, and made a denial of this. Lalone was questioned as to the gang of which he was an alleged member. In reply to a query he said that he had never seen any of the gang carrying revolvers and that he personally had never owned one. He admitted having ridden in a Willys-Knight car at some time or other, but not with Raymond driving.

Mrs. Rose Delia Lalone, mother of Roland G. Lalone testified that she was employed in a ladies' coat store in Worcester. About 6:30 o'clock on the evening of April 6 she said that while walking home from work along Grafton street she had met her son Roland walking in the opposite direction. About 10 o'clock of the night of April 6 she heard Roland come into the house and remained awake until he had retired. When the two officers came to the house she answered the door. They asked for Roland and she called him down. She was not cross-examined.

Miss Florence P. Raymond, sister of Albert J. Raymond proved an influential witness in her brother's behalf. She said that she was entering upon her senior year at Boston university this fall. During Easter week, preceding April 6, she was at home on a vacation. She told of seeing her brother come home to lunch with Miss Mary Bickford as his guest about 2 o'clock of April 4 afternoon. She saw him again at supper time. The following day she saw him several times. On April 6 she said that he remained about the house most of the forenoon. She knew that he called the house about three o'clock to tell his mother that he was going to a show. She explained that Albert was very willing to help his mother and that he frequently delivered garments that she had made or repaired and that he kept in touch with his mother that day to see if there was anything she could do. After supper that evening he left about 7 o'clock. She placed the time because Albert's friend, Miss Vickstrom, called on the telephone about five minutes later to see if Albert was there. She also knew that Albert had called the house again about 9:30. She saw him when he returned home that evening at 1 o'clock. When the two detectives called at the house she came out of her bedroom and saw them. She corroborated the conversation between the detectives and her brother as he had testified to it. She said that on her first visit to the Springfield jail she was not allowed to see her brother. When she did see him on the afternoon of April 12, when he was taken into court for arraignment, she said that she could hardly recognize him because he was so terribly disfigured. Miss Raymond then proceeded to draw a somewhat gruesome picture of Albert's appearance on that occasion. She also said that on one occasion at the jail in Brooklyn, Mr. Jackson had refused to let her see Albert and that Jackson was "mad" about something.

Special State's Attorney Harvey asked Miss Raymond to give a detailed account of the condition of Albert when she saw him in Springfield on the day of the arraignment. She said that his eyes were discolored and bloodshot. One eye was black and blue and nearly closed. His face was swollen and a piece of skin had been scraped off. His mouth was entirely deformed. He had three or four scabs caused, the other bo-hunk." Upon arrival in the by fingernails on each side of his neck. She was also asked to tell of the amount of support Raymond received from his parents.

Mrs. Odella Raymond, mother of Albert Raymond, said that she had been a dressmaker for many years. She conducted her shop in her home, which she owned. She had sent Albert to the Commercial high school in Worcester and then to Dean academy. She said that she had one daughter and three sons. Mrs. Raymond corroborated previous testimony as to Albert's presence in Worcester and the time of his arrival and departure from the house during the days of April 4, 5 and 6. She did not see him after he was taken into custody by the Worcester police on April 11, until after court in Springfield the following afternoon. Asked how Albert looked at that time, Mrs. Raymond broke down and sobbing quite violently cried out, "He looked terrible!" She said that Albert had told her, "Mother, I can't move, he hurt me so much." After a moment's repose Mrs. Raymond recovered her composure. She said that Albert had always parted his hair in the middle and that she had never seen a disfigurement on his left cheek. She said that her husband was a machinist and that he was located in Keene, N. H. following a brief cross-examination by Attorney Harvey the defense announced that it rested its case.

Rebuttal testimony was opened by the state at 4:30 o'clock. Frank Spiewakoski took the stand and asked by State's Attorney Bradford if he had made any remark in the room where the line-up was held in Worcester at the time Raymond and Lalone were identified by Officer Gallagher did he apparently failed to identify them. His reply was, "I did not say anything in that room."

County Detective William E. Jackson recalled, testified that Raymond had told him that he had not been in Webster, prior to April 6, for "over a month," and that he had not been in Springfield for a year and a half. Witness said that two weeks ago today

CRIMINAL LIBEL CHARGE— MOLINARA HELD FOR TRIAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 20—Fortunato Molinara, 129 Thames street, Norwich, was in the police court this morning charged with criminal libel. He pleaded not guilty, but probable cause was found and Molinara was held for trial at the next criminal term of the superior court. He was unable to provide a surety on his bond of $5,000 and was remanded to jail. Molinara's wife is also awaiting trial in jail on the same offense, for she was arrested 10 days ago. Mrs. Molinaro came to this city and circulated literature purporting to show that two judges and several attorneys had been guilty of dishonesty. The circulars were handed to pedestrians and were placed in business houses. When the police learned of the distribution of the libelous literature, Mrs. Molinara was found on State street and was arrested. It was contended by the police that Molinara was with his wife at the time and participated in the distribution. The only man known to have circulated the the literature was a Negro and he has not been arrested for the police have no knowledge as to his identity. On the witness stand today, Molinara declared that he had not handed out any of the circulars and had attempted to induce his wife to refrain from such action, but without success. However, when Attorney Arthur T. Keefe testified that he had seen Molinara in company with his wife the day of the circulation of the and bills, probable cause was found and the accuse was held for trial. Molinara was arrested at a shack owned by Manuel Fazio in Colchester two days ago by County Detective William Lewis and Deputy Sheriff Hoxie, the latter of Lebanon.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Edward Preston

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Preston, 70, wife of Edward Preston, died last night at her residence, 48 Howard street, after a lingering illness. Besides her husband, Mrs. Preston is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Benjamin Hyde and Mrs. Pearl Winslow of this city; Mrs. William J. Donovan, Lynn, Mass., and Mrs. Nelson Rousseau of Groton. Mrs. Preston was born in New London and always resided here.

An automobile owned and driven by Howard E. Rogers, Montville, struck and killed a dog owned by a resident of Howard street as the car was driven through that street this morning. The animal ran from the walk in front of the auto.

Frank L. Lovell of Westerly, today communicated with the New London police requesting that the three men who were in an automobile, a description of which car was furnished, be arrested. Traffic Officer John Courtney reported that the automobile had entered Bank street from State about an hour before the message was received. The state police at Centerbrook were asked to intercept the automobile should it pass through Saybrook.

FADEY RUTSKO PRODUCES JACK TO PAY FINE OF $200

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 20—Fadey Rutsko, proprietor of the saloon 101 North Bank street, was in the police court this morning charged with violation of the liquor law and was fined $200 and costs. He paid. A charge of interfering with an officer against Mrs. Josephine Truken, Harrison street, was nolled for the woman was discharged. Rutsko was arrested yesterday by Patrolman Dennis Murphy. The officer was passing the saloon and observed three or four men at the bar. Murphy entered the building unobserved by Mrs. Truken, who was in charge of the place and succeeded in seizing two milk bottles containing gin of the home-made type before the women realized the officer was there. When Mrs. Truken observed Murphy with the liquor, she summoned Rutsko and the two grappled with the officer to regain possessio of the booze. They were not successful for the officer beat the pair off and then arrested them. Rutsko has been arrested once before on a charge of violation of the liquor law and by Murphy. At that time Rutsko was found not guilty.

NO PUBLIC BEQUESTS IN WILL OF WM. BELCHER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 20—The will of William Belcher, attorney, bank president and director, was admitted to probate at a hearing in the probate court this afternoon. The instrument was drawn March 12, 1925, and was witnessed by Ira S. Avery, Frederick J. Smith and Miss Marian E. Lynch. Mr. Belcher bequeathed all his property, both real and personal, to his wife, Anna Belcher, and to his sons, Nathan, Duncan and Norman Belcher, and to Mr. Belcher's daughter's daughter, Anita Adams, his grandchildren, William W. Belcher, Jr., Dorothy S. Belcher and Anita Adams. Another son, Gregory Belcher, residing in the Panama zone, was not one of the heirs for the testator provided a trust fund, the income of which will be expended by the executors for the partial support of this son. The executors are Mrs. Ann Belcher, Nathan Belcher and Mrs. Anita Adams. No bonds are required of them. The amount of Mr. Belcher's estate has not been inventoried, but it is understood that he was very wealthy. The testator bequeaths to his wife, Ann Belcher, for her use during her lifetime, all the household furniture, effects, books, pictures and articles in the Belcher homestead, 28 Fremont street, together with the life use of the house and adjoining land, with the privilege of leasing the premises, but not for a period of more than two years after the death of Mrs. Belcher.

To the testator's son, Attorney Nathan Belcher, is bequeathed Mr. Belcher's law library, office furniture and office safe.

All the rest and residue is bequeathed to the executors, in trust, to hold, manage, invest, reinvest the income thereof and to pay over such income, less the expenses incurred in the management of the fund, to testator's wife, in equal monthly installments, as far as practicable, or in case of sickness or other necessity, the executors are authorized and empowered to apply any part of the principal or income as they deem necessary for the benefit and comfort of Mrs. Belcher. If in the opinion of a majority of the executors, the needs of Mrs. Belcher should be such as to require the payment of an amount in excess of the income of the trust fund, provision is made that the executors may dispose of the entire principal at their discretion. Upon the death of Mrs. Belcher the entire residue is bequeathed as follows:

To the testator's son, Nathan Belcher, 25 shares of common stock of the Clinton Lumber & Coal Co. and the disposition is made of stock in the same company to the testator's son, Duncan Belcher.

To the grandson, William W. Belcher, Jr., $1,000, gold watch and two swords, one having belonged to Captain Buckley and the other having originally been owned by Gen. George C. Wilson.

To the granddaughter, Dorothy S. Belcher, $1,000, a small table that belonged to testator's Grandmother Belcher, and a set of Shakespeare's plays.

To the granddaughter, Anita B. Adams, $1,000, with portraits of testator's grandparents, Increase and Rachel Wilson. Miss Adams is also bequeathed testator's Chi Psi badge.

To testator's other grandchildren is bequeathed $500, each, the same to be held in trust by the executors and the income derived therefrom to be expended, preferably for the partial education of the children.

One-fifth of the property remaining is bequeathed to the granddaughter, Anita B. Adams, together with a table that belonged to Governor Saltonstall, statuettes, silverware and jewelry given to testator by his father and mother.

One-fifth is given the son, Nathan Belcher, together with portraits of testator's Grandfather and Grandmother Belcher and an old clock.

One-fifth is bequeathed the son, Duncan Belcher, also a silver loving cup given the testator by the directors of the New London City National bank and a set of books entitled "The Great Events of History."

One-fifth of the residue is bequeathed the executors, in trust, the income to be expended at the discretion of said executors for the support of testator's son, Gregory Belcher. Upon the death of the son, it is directed that such amount of the trust fund as shall remain shall be given, share and share alike, to the grandson and granddaughter, William W. Belcher, Jr., and Dorothy S. Belcher.

HOLLOWAY FORFEITS BOND— FAILS TO APPEAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 20—Leon Holloway, until a few days ago residing at 127 Elm street, trifled with the law today, but tomorrow when he is presented in the police court he may be a much wiser young man. For two days there has been a case pending against Holloway, who was charged with violation of the liquor law in making home brew at his home. When the case was called in court this morning, Holloway, who was at liberty on bail of $1,000, failed to appear and the bond was declared forfeited. Two hours after the adjournment of court, Detective Sergt. Nelson Smith ascertained that the day Holloway was arrested he moved to a cottage on Alewife avenue, Ocean Beach. The officer went to the house and was met at the door by Mrs. Holloway, who stated that her husband was not at home. Believing that the woman was telling an untruth, the officer entered the house and found Holloway lying on a couch. He was arrested and locked up without bail. Holloway was arrested last Tuesday when the police received a tip that a truck was being loaded with beer at the Elm street house. When the officers arrived at the house, the truck had left, but it was overtaken in Jefferson avenue and its contents of 32 cases of beer seized. Two young men in charge of the truck were also arrested, charged with transporting, but with the owner of the truck, Abraham Shapiro, Montauk avenue, admitting ownership of both, the young men were discharged. Shapiro was fined $200 and costs the same day in the police court, but the case of Holloway's was continued to today. It is claimed by the police that Holloway manufactured the beer and was paid for his services by Shapiro the latter disposing the product to his customers.

JUDGE CALKINS NOW DECLARES HE DOES NOT "CHOOSE" TO RUN

NEW LONDON, Sept. 20—Judge of Probate Arthur B. Calkins, who has been at his camp at Deer Isle, Me., returned to New London today and brought the announcement that he had again considered his decision for the office he now holds, for he stated that he did not intend to accept a renomination at the probate convention, which will take place at the Hotel Mohican Saturday. Judge Calkins' decision came with surprise to the supporters of the democratic party for only a week ago the judge announced from his camp that he would consent to a renomination after having previously stated that he would not be a candidate for the office. With the announcement by Judge Calkins today it is revealed that Attorney Nathan Belcher will undoubtedly be the candidate of the democratic party for the office and Judge S. Victor Prince will be the nominee of the republicans. The reason for Judge Calkins refusing to accept a renomination, it is understood, is because he has reached an age where he does not care to engage in a political battle, which would be the case in the event that he is opposed by the republicans making a nomination, something that has not been the case in many years, but which is almost sure to result this year.

The ice cream and confectionery store of Patterson, 76 State street, is closed and the stock and fixtures have been purchased for $2,500 by William Patterson, a relative of the owner residing in Hartford. The firm recently filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States district court at New Haven.

Thomas Quinn

The funeral of Thomas Quinn of 8 Lewis street was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Raymond J. O'Callaghan. As a waiting hymn, Edward F. Murray gave "Abide With Me." The bearers were Michael O'Neill, Charles Cavanaugh, John Connell, Thomas Hayes, Michael Corcoran and Jeremiah Twomey. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Forty Years With Railroad

Matthew Mulcahey, 57, died last night at his home, after an illness of about four months. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Frank T. Kennedy and Miss Nellie Mulcahey, besides two granddaughters, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy. Mr. Mulcahey was employed for 20 years by the Central Vermont railroad, but latterly was employed by the New London Ship & Engine Co. He was a member of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

Steame- Chester W. Chapin, Providence line of the New England Steamship Co., en route from New York to Providence, was forced to put into port this morning after having battled with the high winds and strong tide in the sound throughout the trip. The Chapin arrived off the mouth of the harbor many hours behind schedule, and put into port shortly before 5 o'clock. After a wait of two hours and the wind had subsided, the Chapin proceeded to Providence with her passenger complement of 46.

The police of Wallingford have requested the New London police to be on the lookout for a couple of runaway youths, who disappeared from their homes late yesterday. One of the boys is Arthur Spolite, 16. The other is Walter Wilkes, 15.

An automobile driven by Thomas Humphries, 171 Norwood avenue, collided with the traffic beacon, corner of Huntington and Washington streets, this afternoon, the crash causing the beacon to be moved out of position and destroying the light. The auto was damaged slightly.

Officers of the state police department were on the Thames river highway bridge this afternoon and held up all automobiles and after compelling the drivers to display their licenses, made a search of the autos, evidently for the purpose of determining whether the cars carried booze. So far as could be determined the search was not rewarded with the finding of liquor.

Miss Irma R. Cadmus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Cadmus of Hawthorne, N. J., and Arthur Fromel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fromel of Paterson, N. J., were married Saturday at the Hawthorne Reformed church by Rev. M. J. Verduin, acting pastor. The maid of honor was Miss Vera Cadmus, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids were Misses Helen S. Rockefeller, Newark, N. Jr., a former resident of New London, and Anna DeBoer of Hawthorne, N. J. Dr. William C. Meredith, Englewood Cliffs, N. J., was best man. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, C. Ernest Cadmus, of this city.

Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Wagner have moved to New Haven. Rev. Mr. Wagner has been pastor of Huntington Street Baptist church several months, but has given up the pastorate to pursue special courses at Yale.

Miss Mary Murphy was given a surprise shower last evening at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Frank Farina, 3 Pierce street. Miss Murphy and Raymond Orazi of this city will be married Sept. 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund E. Darrow, Green street, have returned home after having spent several days at Mrs. Darrow's former home, Hazleton, Pa. The trip was made by automobile.

Miss Jane McBride, Lincoln avenue, typist in the city clerk's office, is being entertained by Miss Maude Eagan of Plainfield, N. J.

Archibald S. MacFarlane has sold a house and lot on Ocean avenue to Annie Mandell.

What Shape Face?

If your profile is concave, says Popular Science Monthly, you are likely to be a slow, but determined, thinker. If it is convex, sloping either way from the tip of the nose your thinking is apt to be quick, but indecisive. But if a line drawn from the forehead to the chin indicates a plane profile, you are both quick and steady. You combine the best qualities of the other two.

Raymond said that he had never seen members of the Comptois family.

The state appeared to score heavily in its next witness, Philip Bergani, of Springfield. Bergani was asked if he had ever seen Raymond and Lalone and they were pointed out to him. Bergani at once said that he had seen them on March 31, this year, at his place of business at 145 Union street, Springfield, Mass., between 10 and 10.15 o'clock in the evening. He said that he conducted a grocery and meat store and was alone when the two men entered. He affirmed that he was positive they were the boys and added that he would never forget them. When Attorney Harvey attempted to have the witness state why, or under what circumstances they had come into his store, he was met with a barrage of objections by the defense. These objections were sustained by the court on the ground that they were immaterial to the case at hand.

Frank P. Carroll of the Worcester detective bureau testified that he had known Raymond and Lalone for three or four years. He said that under questioning after they were taken into custody, Raymond had said that he was not in Webster for one year and not in Springfield for six to eight months prior to April 6. Lalone had said that he was not in Webster for two years and not in Springfield for one year prior to that date. Detective Carroll said that he knew Henry Clouthier. He described him as being between 21 and 23 years of age, about five feet six inches tall, light complexion, light brown hair and weighing from 145 to 150 pounds. He said that Clouthier did not look like Raymond. Under cross-examining he said that Clouthier was a fugitive from justice. He said that during the investigation both Raymond and Lalone had said that they had never seen Mr. and Mrs. Comptois.

Captain William T. Finneran of the Worcester detective bureau also said that he knew Henry Clouthier. He was asked to describe the man, but the state objected on the grounds that he had previously done so. Whether he had or not was not determined at the time and Judge Yeomans said that he would temporarily sustain the objection until next week to allow him time to consult the court records in this respect. Captain Finneran said that Raymond had told him that he had not been in Webster for one year and in Springfield for six to eight months prior to April 6. Lalone had placed his absence from these places as two years and one yea rrespectively. Witness was under cross-examination by Attorney Foss when court adjourned until next Tuesday morning. The omission of a session Friday is due to the fact that Judge Yeomans is to preside at a civil session in Hartford on that day.

Rebuttal testimony will be continued Tuesday and it is expected that arguments by the attorneys will start either on that afternoon or Wednesday forenoon. An agreement has been reached whereby the state and defense will not consume over four hours each for arguments. The state will open and conclude the arguments while the defense arguments will be made by three or four of the attorneys.

City Built of Waste

The Joplin district produces yearly more than 400,000 tons of zinc and lead ores. These ores occur intimately associated with lime and flint and are separated from them by a washing process. In order that the separation may be economical it is necessary to crush the ore from the mine to about one-fourth-inch size. As a result of these operations many hundreds of tailings piles are scattered over Jasper county and millions of tons of "chats," as they are locally called, are produced every year.

There has been a gradual awakening in the value of these chats among the people of the district. At first they were used for making roads. Then the railroads took them up and the roads radiating from Joplin have many miles of track ballasted with this material. With the advent of cement construction chats were used, as they were the most easily available material. The sidewalks of the cities of the zinc district are constructed almost entirely of chat concrete.

Foundations of buildings were the next field entered by chats and nearly every building erected in the past few years has a foundation of chat concrete. But it was not until a recent period that chat concrete was seriously considered in building construction. The question was investigated thoroughly by architects and contractors and there have been constructed a number of six-story modern store buildings.

Many thousands of chat fence posts are made every year from chats and because of their cheapness and durability are rapidly taking the place of wooden posts.

RAIN FAILS TO KEEP PEOPLE FROM SEEING NORWICH FINE FASHION SHOW

An automobile fashion procession and a window display contest marked the annual fall opening of the retail stores of Norwich Thursday evening. The weather man did not smile on the merchants' opening night. On the contrary heavy rain clouds blew in over the city from the southeast during the late afternoon and there were several heavy showers between 6:30 and 8:30 o'clock. So heavily did the rain fall about 7:45 o'clock that it appeared as if the streets would be deserted when the automobile procession got underway. However, the crowds lining the sidewalks all along Main street, braved the elements and the procession proved as much a success as was anticipated.

As each shower descended on the waiting throngs there was a scurry for shelter in doorways, stores and under awnings but the showers proved of brief duration and in a few minutes time the crowds were back in their places waiting for the much heralded procession.

Fashion Show in Automobiles

An extremely heavy shower marred the start of the procession about 8:15 o'clock from in front of the Jordan Auto company's office at the easterly end of Preston bridge but by the time the line of a score of new sedans carrying the models and displays got under way the rain had let up.

Headed by Swahn's band the line of machines moved through Main street, to Washington square, down Water street, through Shetucket street, up Broadway, down Willow street and Franklin street to Franklin square where it disbanded.

Following the band was the Hanover-Curland display, in a Chandler, loaned by the Dolco Garage. This display featured the orthophonic Victrola playing the Wedding March.

The Porteous and Mitchell Co. had in line the bridal cars. These were a Cadillac and a LaSalle. In the cars rode the bride, Miss Margaret Camp, the bridesmaids, Miss Jane Sullivan and Miss Fay Hill and the flower girl, Miss Elaine Douglas. The bride was attired in a gown of chantilly lace over white satin with cascade of tulle and orange blossoms and wore a tulle veil and crown of chantilly lace and pearls. Miss Sullivan wore a gown of croquette crepe back satin with tulle trimmings and a bandeau of silver leaves. Miss Hill wore Nile green with tulle and silver trimmings and a bandeau of gold leaves.

In the Reid and Hughes cars, a LaSalle, loaned by the A. C. Swan Co., and a Packard loaned by the E. B. Patterson Co., were four young women, Miss Gallup wore grey broadcloth coat trimmed with a large shawl collar and cuffs of grey wolf with a gray velvet toque. Miss Delaney wore a black broadcloth coat, with shawl collar and cuffs of wolf and a black felt toque. Miss Girard modelled in a brown broadcloth coat with brown Caracul trimming and her hat was of brown velvet. The other young lady, Miss Adlestone, appeared in a beige coat of broadcloth with a Rose Marie wolf collar and cuffs and wore a brown felt hat.

The Lee and Osgood machine, a Dodge loaned by the Jordan Auto company, featured a hospital supply display. Riding in this car were two nurses, the Misses Belanger and Scott of the W. W. Backus hospital.

In the procession the Worth Specialty Shop featured two models, Miss Mary Bundy and Miss Inez Orn. Miss Bundy wore a black coat of Norma, trimmed with mountain sable and Miss Orn wore a black coat of Norma trimmed with Alaskan sable. Their car, a Hupmobile, was provided by Joe Moore's garage.

The Ladies Specialty Shop featured a red combination silk and velvet dress with red broadcloth coat, trimmed with Chinese badger fur, worn by Miss Beatrice Caron. Her hat was by the Dawson Shop. The Ladies Specialty car was a Buick, provided by Julian Williams.

Hart-Schaffner and Marx clothes were featured by Savard Bros., in their car, a Willys-Knight provided by Fontaine Bros. Their model wore a business suit with top coat, Stetson hat and Myers gloves.

Hosiery and the latest styles in shoes were featured by Smith's shoe store. This car, a Buick, was provided by Julian Williams. Riding in the car were the Misses Marion E. Baker and Dorothy Rathbun.

Miss Corina Lessard and Stella Morris were the models riding in the Max Rabinovitch ladies store machine, a Chandler, provided by the Dolco garage. They were attractively attired as bridesmaids.

The newest in china ware was displayed by Oguinick in a Jordan provided by William F. Bailey and riding in the Eaton-Chase machine, a Studebaker loaned by T. N. M. Lathrop Co., were four hunters, featuring hunters' supplies.

In the Dawson Shop car, featuring millinery, were the Misses Isobel Rodier, Anne Rodier and Mildred Barrows. Their gowns were by the Ladies Specialty Shop and they wore large flame colored silver, brown and blue berets.

Other exhibits were by the gas and electric department in a Packard, E. B. Patterson Co., Schwartz Bros., a Buick and the Goldberg Tire Co., in a De Soto Six.

The window display contest proved a very attractive feature of the fall opening programme, held under the auspices of the Norwich Retail Merchants bureau. Only members of the retail bureau were eligible to contest for the prize cups, but it was noticeable that many other stores, non-members of the bureau, joined in the spirit of the opening by decorating their windows. Several of the non-member windows were most attractive.

Promptly at 6:30 o'clock the three judges, Edward Frink of Steiger's, Hartford, and Harold Foote and Mrs. Charlotte Fuller Eastman, started on a three and a half hour tour of the streets, visiting all windows entered in the twelve classes in the contest. The windows were judged on lighting effect, arrangement, neatness, and eye appeal. The judging trip was a thorough one as it was within a few minutes of 10 o'clock when the judges assembled at the Wauregan hotel to go over the final figures and to make the awards.

Window Display Prizes

It was nearly 10:45 o'clock when the judges announced their decisions as follows:

Class A—Hardware and auto accessories; prize to the Eaton Chase Co.; honorable mention to the Goldberg Tire and Rubber Co.

Class D—Women's wear; prize to Ladies Specialty Shop; honorable mention to Max Rabinovitch's Ladies Shop.

Class H—Jewelry and novelties; prize to John and George H. Bliss; honorable mention to the Clever Craftsman and to the Buckingham Shop.

Throughout the evening until 9 o'clock the stores entered in the contest were open for the inspection of the crowds drawn to the business section by the fall opening programme. In all the stores managers and clerks were on hand but no sales were made as it was strictly a visitors' night. In every store the displays of fall and winter merchandise were most attractive. At the Porteous & Mitchell store autumn leaves arranged upon trellises made a pretty decorative effect.

The automobile procession was in charge of G. Fred Flemming of the Porteous and Mitchell store and Jacob Bloch of Max Rabinovitch's stores.

The police rendered very efficient service in keeping traffic moving during the evening. There was unusually heavy traffic both before and after the procession, about the heaviest seen here in some months. The streets were kept clear of traffic while the procession was underway, and the jam that immediately followed the disbanding of the procession was quickly straightened out by Sergt. Matthew Delaney, and Officers Clifford Crary, Howard Coburn and Peter Driscoll.

DESCRIBES HOME OF SIR WALTER RALEIGH

Mrs. A. N. Foster of Crescent street, who is spending the summer in England has written to The Bulletin from Exeter the following description of the home of Sir Walter Raleigh:

After the hot days in London it was a joy unspeakable to find myself in a long narrow street, gardens on one side bordering the water, and houses, tall and shuttered, on the other. Turning, twisting and reminescent of old Marblehead, the road led at last to a tall gate between two high pillars. I pulled the big brass knob and a bell clanged. I pushed the huge gate open and found myself in a garden. The afternoon sun blazed on the long path, with its double edging of grass and the beech, oak and walnut trees cast a delectable shade on the lawn and the far-reaching plot of flowers, fox-glove and Canterbury bells, campanulas and delphiniums, all blues and purples and whites with here and there the pink of climbing roses and the gorgeous red of the phlox. A fountain splashed its cool waters in a basin of lily-pads, the blossoms of yellow, flaxen sweetness perfuming the air.

The old house—can I make you see it as I first saw it, in the sunshine of the afternoon?

Stately and tall, its many windows flashing gold with the afternoon sunshine, its towers reaching high, its old gray walls covered with ivy, its white colonial door-way open and seeming to welcome the tired guest.

Out from the darkness of the hall came "Granny", her outstretched hands and sweet smile making me feel her friendly welcome. "Granny" will be 84 years old in March, yet her energy would make one, many years younger, feel quite ashamed and she rules her house with a firm hand.

On the left of the hall was the "drawing room", long and narrow and filled with rare, old furniture and a crystal chandalier, which on that afternoon, caught the sun's rays as I entered, and was turned to blue and orange and violet.

Here I met "Miss Delly," the elder daughter, who, deaf since childhood, holds communication with others by means of the hand alphabet. She served tea in fragile cups from a squat silver tea-pot. "Miss Katie" came from the room beyond tall, slender and gracious in her gown of soft blue.

Will you climb the stairs with me and walk into my room? The huge "four-poster" might be put down in the Statler reception room in Boston and even there not look small. Along the western wall is a ward-robe, its walnut doors beautifully grained and its dark wood worn satin smooth by many years of polishing. A Queen Anne mirror, narrow and graceful is at the left of the bay window which five windows give an entrancing view of blue waters. An Adam fire-place, its raised figures looking like Wedgewood, is on the right and a Chinese Chippendale table in the corner. On the old dressing table are silver candlesticks for in this ancient house there are no electric lights. Chintz, gay with birds and flowers, hang across the windows and an old crocheted cover is over the bed.

One might lose one's way through the many halls and rooms and four grandfather clocks, brass balls gleaming tick away the hours as they have for two hundred years and more.

It was near the end of strawberry time when I went to Devon but I was served the "last ones" covered thick with Devonshire cream and they were delicious, almost as delicious as the raspberry, gooseberry or plum tart that "Granny" made with her own hands—pastry inches thick and "cut wide".

I was invited to "tea," a few days after my arrival, at the home of an "etcher". She and her husband (a writer of children's verse) live in one of the tall, narrow Dutch houses which one sees, now and again near here (recalling the fact that the Dutch were the early settlers and have left one of their subterranean passages to the water which the smugglers used in those by-gone days. "Tea" is the pleasantest meal of the day in England and to the stranger they make it a delightful hour. There were eight of us around the gate-legged table and we drank tea from Nanking cups, hot and fragrant tea (my tongue has been in a state of perpetual "burn" ever since my arrival in England!) and there were scones and thin bread and butter and plum cake. After "tea" I climbed the narrow stairs to the studio whose large windows look over the water and where are gate-leg tables and Chippendale chairs which makes one a bit envious. On easle and table were etchings and water colours, glorious bits fron. Devon, picturesque corners of France and Spain and dim interiors of old churches in Florence and Venice. As the light began to fade and the sunset glow filled the room one (and especially the guest from across the sea) felt that it had been a privilege to be with one as gifted as the slender, white haired artist whose work is known the length and breadth of England and even is beginning to be known in America.

Ordinary travellers from America do not have this happy privilege of seeing and knowing English domestic life as it is, with all its fine hospitality and its historic background, therefore they lose much of the charm of a visit to the "home-land". Still even to the American that goes rapidly from place to place, stopping at hotels and seeing only the surface life, there is much of great interest to hold his attention at Exeter.

Exeter, the "city set on a hill" is the capital of Devon and one of the historic spots of England with its Guildhall built in the twelfth century and the Benedictine priory of St. Nicholas founded in the year 1080.

One of the city's most treasured possessions is the ancient castle of Rougemont, its crumbling towers covered with ivy overlooking the beautiful gardens. The quaint little church of St. Pancras is said to be one of the finest specimens of Norman architecture in the west of England.

The center of interest to the visitor however is the cathedral, built of gray stone, its twin towers rising in Norman beauty. Nearly a thousand years old it was a century in building.

As one enters through its central doorway with its many carved figures above, some broken others disfigured by time, a sense of age comes that is intensified by the ancient tablets and memorials upon the walls. Sitting in one of the chairs and viewing the beautiful stained glass windows, the fan-shaped vaulting and the marvellously carved old oak choir stalls, with the light off altar in the chancel bearing upon its surface a simple golden cross, there comes a certain sense of something sacred and uplifting that is akin to worship. Combined with this sense of sacredness, is the appeal to love of country made by the tattered regimental battle flags hung high in the rafters of the aisles and by the marble records of the Devon men fallen in action. These tell of strife and victory for the British homeland. As my eye caught these various mementoes of the past, my mind went back to the time Sir Walter Raleigh, so intimately associated with Exeter and its history at the time when America was first coming into notice. Raleigh stands as a symbol of these soldiers, adventurers, explorers, fighters, administrators that have flung far the boundaries of Britain and made it a world commonwealth. Especially did I think of the fine domesticity of English home life which these intrepid colonists and adventurers have made known wherever they have gone, that home life which I had been enjoying at Granny's. Near the arched door-way of the cathedral through which I entered there is a life-like representation of a World war soldier—there he is on one knee with bayonetted gun guarding the liberties so dear to every Anglo-Saxon. I shall remember for long the beauty of Granny's garden; I shall remember equally long the dignity and gradeur of Exeter cathedral but I hope when I am remembering these I shall not forget the bravery, the high sense of duty, typified by these memorials of noble, earnest church men and brave citizens who in and through their loyalty to the highest ideals have helped make the world, but especially England so safe, so strong and delightful a land, a land which I shall always think of with the most delightful memories.

SETTLEMENT IN SUIT OVER GOLF BALL INJURY

Settlement out of court was effected at New London in the $5,000 damage action brought against the Old Lyme Country club, Inc., by Louise D. Bruhns, who lives on property adjoining the golf links of the club and who claims that a golf ball struck her in the head and resulted in a partial loss of her sight.

She claims that through faulty layout of the golf course, golf balls have often been driven upon her land. She asked for a court order asking a relocation of the course, so that her property will be safe from flying golf balls and $5,000 damages.

Increases in candy sales, which have been steady throughout the year thus far, continued to be reported. Practically all grades are sharing in it.

REALTORS WILL ATTEND CONVENTION IN BRIDGEPORT

A number of members of the Norwich real estate board are planning to attend the annual convention of realtors to be held at Bridgeport on Sept. 25 and 26. Many prominent real estate men are scheduled to speak at the convention and the local men planning to attend are looking forward to obtaining much from the session.

Gov. John H. Trumbull will be a guest and one of the speakers at the banquet to be held at the Stratfield on the evening of the 25th. Realtors from all over the state will gather for the two days' session.

William Webb of the Bridgeport Land and Title company will talk on conveyancing and guaranteed titles. Mr. Webb recently delivered an address at Seattle at the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Title Officers.

Tax Assessor William F. Connolly of Bridgeport will address the convention on the subject of taxation. There is a great deal of interest in Mr. Connolly's talk evidenced about the state, where his reputation is well known. The delegates will be given an opportunity to inspect his new system now in use in the Bridgeport city hall.

Flavell Shurtleff of New York, a noted city planner and landscape artist, will tell of the progress which is being made by the Westchester Parkway commission, now practically completed to the boundary line between New York and Connecticut. This is a boulevard for pleasure cars exclusively and will eventually extend through the entire state. This new highway will be beautified with trees, shrubbery and flowers, and will add greatly to the scenic attractions of the sections through which it will extend.

William H. Herron, field secretary of the national association, will address the convention on conditions throughout the country.

William D. Winchell of Buffalo, a realtor with a countrymide reputation, will repeat his address on Salesmanship which he delivered in Louisville, Ky., last June before the National Association of Real Estate Boards at its annual convention.

Al House of Hartford will speak on farms and the Rev. William H. Day will speak on a Square Deal. William H. Herron will speak on the License Law.

Bank, trust and title company officials have been invited to attend these talks as there will be much to interest them.

CANDY STORE THIEF ESCAPED FROM PURSUERS

After being caught in the act of stealing $7 from the cash box at the Olympic Candy Kitchen on West Main street about 7:40 o'clock Thursday morning, a man about 26 years old, escaped from pursuers. He was chased several hundred feet on West Main street but made good his escape into Water street. The police are looking for him.

About $150 has been taken from the store in small amounts the last two weeks and the proprietor was on the watch for the thief. He set a trap for him Thursday morning, suspecting the missing man as the thief. Stationing a friend in the rear of the store where he could not be seen the proprietor stayed in the store.

Shortly before 7:45 o'clock the suspect put in an appearance and ordered a soda, asking to have it served in a hurry. The proprietor served the soda and then started for the cellar. When the proprietor was out of sight the thief went to the cash box and was helping himself to the money when he was caught in the act. Dashing for the door the man ran towards Washington square with the proprietor after him. However, the proprietor lost track of him on Water street.

DENIED DIVORCE ON PETITION BY HUSBAND

Judgment for the defendant was entered by Judge John Richards Booth in the superior court at New London, Thursday, following trial in the contested divorce action brought by Samuel A. Siller, of New London against his wife, Bessie Siller, of Bridgeport. The wife had set up no cross-complaint.

The Sillers separated in 1918 and the husband claimed that his wife was guilty of desertion in that she told him she did not car to live with him and locked the door of their home one day and would not let him enter.

Witnesses in the case were the plaintiff, his brother, Philip Siller, of New London for the plaintiff; and Harry Dolid, father of the defendant, and B. Siller, son of the plaintiff and defendant.

At the end of the plaintiff's side of the case, the Bridgeport lawyer, made a motion to have the complaint dismissed for lack of evidence to show desertion, but Judge Booth denied the motion.

SUES FOR SERVICES IN ACCOUNTANT WORK

Suit in the common pleas court has been brought by B. Dudley Lathrop against Mrs. Annie M. Page, both of this city, to collect a claim for $670 for services in accountant work. The suit is returnable in October.

According to the plaintiff's claim he was engaged on or about Feb. 21, 1928 to do certain investigating and accountant work for the defendant in respect to her finances. This work, Mr. Lathrop claims he has never been paid for, although he carried it out between Feb. 21 and May 9, besides making several trips to Boston and Hartford, all of which was worth $670.

NORWICH TOWN

MISS NAGLE'S FUNERAL HELD THURSDAY MORNING

The funeral of Miss Nellie T. Nagle was held Thursday morning at 8:30 from her home 188 West Town street. In the Sacred Heart church at nine o'clock the pastor, Rev. Edward J. Quinn, celebrated the high mass of requiem which was attended by relatives, friends and neighbors. As the body was borne into the church, the organist, Mrs. William A. Murphy, played Chopin's Funeral March. Miss Mary Buckley sang De Profundis at the offertory, and for a waiting hymn, she sang Jesus, Love of My Soul. For the recessional, the choir sang Lead Kindly Light. Included in the very large attendance were friends from New Haven, New London and other places, also a delegation from the Catholic Ladies of Columbus of which Miss Nagle was a member. There were unusually beautiful floral remembrances. Burial was in the family plot in St. Joseph's cemetery, where Rev. Father Quinn, read the committal service. The service at the grave was also largely attended. The bearers were: James Kivlin, Roy Nagles, David Shahan, John O'Connor, Eugene Sullivan and Charles Cook.

Cummings and Ring were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

MEDICAL AGENT ACCOUNTS FOR 1,385 DEAD IN FLORIDA

Announcement Made by A. L. Schafer on Basis of Reports Made by Dr. E. D. Clawson, in Charge of Medical Relief in the Hurricane Area—Records of National Guard Show That 537 Bodies Have Been Buried—Officials Who Have Been Within the Stricken Zone Declare the Actual Death Toll May Never Be Known.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 21—(AP)—The story of the hurricane tragedy grew in proportions today as the count of the dead went on and rising waters continued to hamper communications with the stricken shores of Lake Okeechobee where sanitary conditions are adding hazards not only to the destitute population but to the relief workers themselves.

The American Red Cross at Washington asked $5,000,000 for hurricane relief in Porto Rico, Florida, and the Virgin Islands, while the people of Florida poured contributions into the state relief fund.

Governor John W. Martin was in the Okeechobee area with an official party to make a survey of conditions. Before leaving here the chief executive, after receiving reports from the agencies engagd in the relief work, declared the seriousness of the situation was "appalling."

Senator Park Trammell, himself making a survey of the area, asserted he would telegraph President Coolidge to have a federal survey made with the view to obtaining government aid such as was given following the disaster at Miami in 1926.

There still was no final estimate of the total number who lost their lives when the dikes of Lake Okeechobee broke. Howard W. Selby, chairman of the Palm Beach County Red Cross committee, who has estimated the dead at between 700 and 800 persons, was said to be checking the figures of Dr. E. D. Clawson, in charge of medical relief, who notified A. L. Shafer, representative of the National Red Cross, that he could account for 1,385 bodies on the face of latest reports.

Records of the national guard units today showed that 537 bodies had been buried, but that many more still were within the district, unrecovered or piled in heaps awaiting transportation to dry land, officials said. Several officials who have been inside the stricken zone declared the actual death toll may never be known.

Pictures of horror were drawn by returning workers who have been plying the inundated fields and the lake in boats, covering bodies or administering to the living. Decomposing bodies of animals and fish have added to the seriousness of the conditions under which they are compelled to work, these workers said, and the torrid sun is steadily increasing the foulness.

Inside the devastated lake shore country, where officials said evacuation may soon be necessary, physicians and nurses labored with refugees, both sick and well, and with those injured who have not yet been brought outside to hospitals and concentration points. Vaccination has been ordered here and is being extended as rapidly as possible into the back country to guard against possible disease.

Further identification of bodies was declared impossible after today, as decomposition made it impossible to distinguish white persons from Negroes, except by the hair, returning workers said. Blasting out debris in canals and waterways has brought out additional human bodies.

GIRL COMMITTED SUICIDE BY GAS IN BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—(AP)—The body of a young woman about 22 years old who had said she was Joan Fornum, formerly a reporter for the Boston Transcript, was found tonight in a Brooklyn apartment where she had committed suicide by gas.

The woman superintendent of the building who called police and an ambulance after she smelled gas coming from the apartment, said the girl had rented the place yesterday. The girl arrived alone, inspected the apartment, asked particularly about the gas and paid a $50 deposit on the month's rent of $75, the superintendent said.

The new tenant gave her name as Joan Fornum, the superintendent said, and explained that she had come from Boston yesterday to accept a position on a New York newspaper. Last night, the girl said, she was to have married an artist but his mother prevented the wedding, the girl told the superintendent.

After paying the deposit, the superintendent said, the girl went shopping in Brooklyn and last night exhibited a new silk negligee in which she was clad when her body was found tonight.

Beside the body was a cluster of flowers which she told the superintendent last night was for her "bridal bouquet." She inquired once more about the gas last night, the superintendent said, then announced she would retire early. When the body was discovered, gas was pouring from the jets of the kitchenette range.

Police found beside the body a torn slip of stationery bearing the crest of the Lambs club, New York, on which was written the name "John La Gatta 80 West 40th St., New York." The address is that of a studio building at which police said La Gatta was not known.

GIRL FOUND SLEEPING BESIDE A STONE WALL

BENNINGTON, Vt., Sept. 21—(AP)—Evelyn McDermott, 16 year old Sunderland girl, who was found sleeping beside a stone wall today after posses with bloodhounds had sought her for three days, was at a hospital here tonight suffering from aphasia as a result of her hardships. Meanwhile, police were holding Corbett Delaney, 31, a boarder at the girl's home, pending a change in the girl's condition so that she might be questioned.

The girl left home Tuesday and was not seen again until last night when she asked for a drink of water at a farm house in Arlington. The farmer attempted to detain her, but she fled into the woods. Today she was found by searchers, her mind a blank.

Police said they would question her at the earliest opportunity and that the release of Delaney would depend upon the girl's statements.

UNUSUAL SENTENCE BY JUDGE ALLYN L. BROWN

HARTFORD, Sept. 21—(AP)—Andrew Dobruk, 19, was found guilty of burglary, but in superior court this morning, Judge Allyn L. Brown permitted him to go home to help harvest the family's tobacco crop. He must live in a barn while he is getting in the tobacco as the Dobruk house burned down recently. When the tobacco has been harvested, the youth must appear in court for sentence.

Percy T. Parker, Jr., and Frank Doolittle, both of Wethersfield, were sentenced respectively to six months in jail and to the Cheshire reformatory. They participated with Dobruk in the Wethersfield burglary.

MAN'S DEATH PROBABLY WAS CAUSED BY STILL

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Sept 21—(AP)—Joseph Almeida was found dead and his companion, Alfredo Santos, in a critical condition in the cellar of a house in Chase street today. A still was discovered in the cellar and the medical examiner reported that the men had been overcome by lack of oxygen. Almeida had rented the cellar eight days ago under the name of John Perry. Santos was removed to a hospital.

TENSE DISCUSSION OF DISARMAMENT AT GENEVA

GENEVA, Sept. 21—(AP)—With the British still withholding their consent to the French suggestion to publish the text of their naval accord here immediately, the disarmament committee of the assembly of the League of Nations held a rather tense session today while striving to reach agreement.

Count Von Bernstorff, German delegate, and Dr. J. Loudon of Holland, president of the committee, both continued to argue doggedly today for their proposals. The former German minister to Washington was alone in insisting that a date for an international conference for reduction of armaments be inserted in the committee resolution as drafted. However, it was finally recommitted for modification to a drafting committee. Von Bernstorff had argued that the league should step in when the big powers were unable to agree.

Dr. Loudon warned his auditors that if the assembly ordered him to convoke a preparatory meeting of the commission on a definite date he would wash his hands of all personal responsibility and leave it solely up to the assembly. He persisted in his idea that private conversations between the great powers was the best way to harmonize their differences, even if three or four, instead of the five concerned, accepted the invitation.

A British spokesman today said that Great Britain and France by their accord were merely trying to extend the underlying idea of the Washington naval treaty.

SAYS NEW ENGLAND MUST RELY ON THE REP. PARTY

BOSTON, Sept. 21—(AP)—Declaring that the industries of New England cannot prosper without the aid of the republican party, Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the republican national committee, today told New England leaders of the party that the tariff is the chief issue of the campaign. He spoke at the concluding session of a two day conference of New England republican leaders at which various phases of the party's campaign in this section will be discussed.

"The republican platform this year is the republican record in the solution of great national problems," Dr. Work said, "and the promise that record gives of future service. We stand upon substantial evidences of republican achievement, which we are asked to abandon in pursuit of the mirage which thirst sometimes raises upon the desert."

JOHN COOLIDGE FREE OF SECRET SERVICE GUARD

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 21—For the first time in two and a half years, John Coolidge took a trip unaccompanied by Russell Woods, his secret service guard, who has been ordered back to Washington. The young son of the president on his first day of "freedom," left the city on a business trip to Maybrook, N. Y., for the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, where he has been working for the past two weeks as a clerk.

Prof. Benjamin W. Bacon of Yale Divinity school, in whose home John is living announced tonight that the secret service man had returned to Washington and would not return. His recall was believed prompted by the president who is on his way back to the capitol after a brief visit in Massachusetts and Vermont.

HENRY FORD ADDING TO COLLECTION OF ANTIQUES

MANCHESTER, Conn., Sept. 21—(AP)—One of the first indirect current motors made in the country and a generator were purchased today by Henry Ford for his collection of antiques from the Norton Electrical Insulating company, here. Several other electrical appliances kept in the company storehouse for many years, were included in the purchase.

Both the generator and motor, which sold for $140, are in working order although manufactured over 30 years ago. The sale was made to James W. Bishop, Henry Ford's personal representative on a visit.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

SHANGHAI, Sept. 21—(AP)—Twenty laborers were killed in the collapse of a Chinese weaving factory. The building had been weakened by the typhoon which struck China last week.

MOSCOW, Sept. 21—(AP)—The story published in London of an attempt against the life of Leon Trotzky as his place of exile in Turkestan is regarded in Moscow as improbable.

PARIS, Sept. 21—(AP)—The cabinet today authorized an expenditure of $4,000,000 for hurricane relief in the French West Indies, including Guadeloupe where the death toll was 660. Parliamentary approval will be asked later.

TO UNVEIL WORLD WAR MEMORIAL IN NEW BRITAIN

NEW BRITAIN, Sept. 21—(AP)—A $160,000 World war memorial will be unveiled and dicated at Walnut Hill park here tomorrow after which a parade will be held with between 7,000 and 10,000 in the line of march. Brig.-Gen. Jackson, of Boston, ordered here by the war department will represent the government and will be in the reviewing stand with Gov. Trumbull.

The military divisions will be led by Col. D. Gordon Hunter, commander of the Connecticut ational Guard. Plans are made to entertain 1,500 outside troops and between 50,000 and 100,000 people are expected to witness the unveiling.

Included in the line of march will be the first squadron cavalry, Connecticut National Guards; escort division with Commander Theodore Johnson, past department commander of the Spanish war veterans, which includes both the first and second companies of the Governor's Foot Guard; Putnam Phalanx and drum corps; Highland Scottish Pipe band of Hartford and Veterans of the Civil, Spanish and World wars.

The bands of the state American Legion, 118th medical regiment Connecticut National Guard, 102d Infantry, Connecticut National Guard and troops of the regular National Guard will also form in line.

A feature of the parade will be a German troop float depicting Flanders field. Among the speakers at the exercises will be Gov. Trumbull and the dedication speech will be given by Charles F. Smith, chairman of the board of directors of Landers, Frary and Clark.

WILL YOUNG MOSLEY RELINQUISH TITLE?

ETWALL, Eng., Sept. 21—(AP)—The death of Sir Oswald Mosley at Hilton Lodge today has left young Oswald Mosley, blue-blooded socialist and a scoffer of titles heir to the baronetcy and his father's estate.

It remains to be seen whether he can relinquish the title, as he has expressed a desire of doing, because of the legal technicalities involved. Both Oswald and his wife, Lady Cynthia have declared it would be quite easy—simply not to be addressed by their titles.

Lady Cynthia, who was one of the heirs of the millions left by her grandfather, Levi Leiter of Chicago and second daughter of the late Marquis Curzon of Kedleston, now joins the group of women entitled to be addressed by two title forms, either as Lady Cynthia Mosley or just Lady Mosley. Her full title remains Lady Cynthia Mosley for this form, as daughter of the Marquis of Curzon, ranks her higher in the order of precedence than as wife of a baronet.

Young Mosley is by law a baronet and there is nothing that he can do about it in the opinion of the College of Arms. He may, however, call himself plain "Mr." or "Comrade," or any other name he likes. Instances have occurred where heirs refused to use their titles but in legal matters they still exist in England.

Young Mosley is a labor member of parliament for Smethwick and married Lady Cynthia in 1920.

DR. STRATON AGAIN CHALLENGES GOV. SMITH

"As you first challenged me and then ran to cover, I now 'double-dog dare' you to meet me and face your real record on the great moral and spiritual issues which are the vital issues in the present campaign," the message said.

The clergyman was seated on the platform here last night when Governor Smith made his speech denouncing the injection of the religious issue into the campaign but made no effort to interrupt the democratic presidential nominee.

Dr. Straton speaks in the same hall tonight and tomorrow night.

WOMAN FATALLY STABBED AT SOUTH BELLINGHAM, MASS.

SOUTH BELLINGHAM, Mass., Sept. 21—(AP)—Mrs. Loretta Fromand, 33, wife of a gasoline station proprietor, was fatally stabbed in her home here tonight. Squads of state police were searching the surrounding country for Octave Robillard, 38, who had been employed at the station until last Saturday.

Robillard, according to the police, returned to the Fromand home tonight, while John Fromand, the husband, was at work in a field in back of the house. He engaged in an altercation and, drawing a knife, slashed Mrs. Fromand in the throat. Mrs. Fromand ran from the house and into the arms of a neighbor who rushed her to the Woonsocket, R. I., hospital. She died on the way. Robillard fled into the woods.

NOVELIST JIM TULLY AGAIN SUED FOR DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21—(AP)—Jim Tully, novelist and one time hobo, again has been made a defendant in a suit for divorce. Tully's wife, Mrs. Margaret M. Tully, who sued for a divorce last June but withdrew her action after a reconciliation, today filed a second suit charging extreme cruelty.

CONTRACTOR ROBBED OF A PAYROLL OF $3,000

MEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 21—(AP)—William M. Miller, a building contractor of this city, was robbed of a payroll of $3,000 by two armed men who held up his automobile near the Somerville-Medford line tonight.

The robbers escaped in another automobile in the direction of Boston.

Nothing Tangible About Albany Pool

Barnes Failed to Name Any Person Connected With the Baseball Lottery.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 21—[illegible] inclination to discount the [illegible] testimony offered before [illegible] county grand jury by [illegible] A. Barnes, Boston attor[illegible]shown today by District A[illegible]harles J. Herrick, in charge [illegible] two legal drives now under w[illegible]ere to bare operations and "higher-ups" of the Albany baseball pool.

Barnes appeared before that body under a subpoena yesterday to offer information concerning the pool which he said he possessed. He came after a demand of his that Governor Smith crush the pool out of existence brought from the governor a challenge that he visit Albany and "point out the headquarters of the pool."

Said Mr. Herrick: "Barnes' statement named no particular person connected with the pool and for that reason we cannot go to the bank (which Barnes' cannot as a depository for pool operatives) and find the deposits made by any one person for the pool."

Concerning the possibility of subpoenaing Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, who had promised Mr. Barnes his moral support, the district attorney said:

"Mr. Roosevelt is a very busy man, you know, and I think it would be highly improper to call him on mere hearsay." Herrick, however, announced there was a possibility that George W. Greene, chairman of the Albany county republican organization, would be subpoenaed. This, he said, would be done "if we need him."

Today the grand jury heard testimony of Wm. L. Gillespie, an official of the National Commercial bank and Lyman H. Bevans, a lawyer. The body then adjourned until Tuesday.

Meanwhile, in federal court, presided over by Judge Frank Cooper, a decision was handed down that the government had established a prima facie case of fraud against two Albany men named by federal officers, in baseball pool operations.

The decision followed a hearing in the cases of James Otto and Walter J. Kane. Judge Cooper decided the government had identified the men as the two who were named in the indictments returned recently in New York.

Samuel M. Blakeman, of Menands, admittedly a "pool checker," told the court that 1,250 "dummy plays" for two years were inserted weekly with the regular play of customers of the pool. This evidence was part of the chain by which United States Attorney Thomas T. Cooke has sought to establish that fraudulent practices were resorted to by the pool operators.

MORE FROM BARNES ABOUT BASEBALL POOL

BOSTON, Sept. 21—(AP)—Clarence A. Barnes, defeated candidate for the republican nomination for attorney general of Massachusetts, engaged in a controversy with Gov. Smith, democratic presidential nominee, over the operations of the Albany baseball pool, today addressed a letter to District Attorney Charles A. Herrick, of Albany [illegible] which he offered further information "for the benefit of the grand jury."

Barnes declared in his letter that at three o'clock yesterday afternoon, shortly after he had testified before a grand jury investigating the pool, he and three other men saw William Pringle, of Albany, who he described as treasurer of the pool, standing at the side entrance of the Hotel Ten Eyck, in Albany, which he has contended is the executive headquarters of the pool. He suggested that District Attorney Herrick call Pringle before the grand jury.

DISREGARD OF AUTO HORN RESULTED IN BOY'S DEATH

MIDDLETOWN, Sept. 21—(AP)—An unheeded warning of an approaching automobile cost Allen Bailey, 10, his life on the Durham highway today. Mrs. Gladys Cleasby, Wethersfield, the driver, told police that the boy paid no attention when she blew her horn while he was riding in a cart.

She said that she swung the machine to the right but the boy steered his cart in her direction, his head striking the running board. He died in the Middlesex hospital early tonight of a fractured skull. Mrs. Cleasby is held under $1,500 bonds on a technical charge of manslaughter.

OBITUARY
Robert Knox

LONDON, Sept. 21—(AP)—Robert Knox, internationally known radiologist, died today from heart failure as the culmination of a long period of ill health resulting from his experiments with x-rays.

Robert Knox was an honorary member of several foreign scientific organizations; including the American Roentgen Ray society and the New York Roentgen society. He was the editor of the British Journal of Radiology, and had written several volumes and miscellaneous articles on this subject.

Liquor Needed In Hurricane Area

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21—(AP)—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt answered an appeal of Red Cross officials in Florida for liquor today by telegraphing United States marshalls at Jacksonville and Miami to turn over to the Red Cross all liquor that had been seized and was subject to disposal by United States authorities.

A telegram from Red Cross officials told Mrs. Willebrandt that hundreds of ill and injured were in need of stimulants.

The liquor to be turned over to the Red Cross will be that which has been seized and has been ordered disposed of by the courts. Her telegram to the marshals told them to see that the delivery of the liquor was made at once and that it include all stores suitable for use by the Red Cross.

RED CROSS CALLS FOR $5,000,000 FOR RELIEF WORK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21—(AP)—The American Red Cross today called on the people of this country to give $5,000,000 for relief work in hurricane stricken Florida, Porto Rico and Virgin Island—the largest amount asked since the great Mississippi flood.

Telegraphing to local chapters of the organization throughout the country, Chairman John Barton Payne declared that "I am confident that when the people of your community realize the grave need, the response will be immediate and generous."

The sum of $5,000,000, among the largest single peace-time appeals ever made, was agreed upon when intensive surveys showed hurricane relief needs to excee dthe preliminary estimates.

In Porto Rico, the Red Cross expects to find its greatest rehabilitation task, for on this island latest reports showed 400,000 persons were "absolutely destitute and dependent on the Red Cross for food, clothing, shelter and medical aid for a considerable period and for later rehabilitation."

In Florida 15,000 families will require Red Cross assistance to readjust themselves after hurricane damage to their homes, it was estimated. More than 5,000 are dependent on the organizatio for food and the work of burying the dead and enforcing sanitary measures to prevent outbreaks of disease have taxed the facilities of the workers.

Francisco Maria Fernandez, secretary of public health for Cuba, called Surgeon General Cumming an offer of the services of his department. Offer of assistance was also received from the Italian Red Cross.

ACTOR AL JOLSON HAS MARRIED MISS RUBY KEELER

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—(AP)—Al Jolson, black-faced comedian, one of the wealthiest actors in this country, and Miss Ruby Keeler, musical comedy and night club entertainer, were married today at Port Chester, N. Y.

They planned to sail early tomorrow morning on the White Star liner Olympic, on which Mr. Jolson had reserved the Prince of Wales suite.

It was understood the marriage ceremony was performed by Surrogate G. A. Slater, of Westchester county.

Earlier in the week, Mr. Jolson had inquired of White Star officials if he could be married at sea by the commander of the Majestic. It was explained that unde rexisting company regulations this was impossible.

ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE BY MRS. CAROLINE DEXTER

SOUTHINGTON, Sept. 21—(AP)—Mrs. Caroline Dexter, well known racing automobile driver and student aviatrix, was taken to the Meriden hospital today in a serious condition after an attempt to commit suicide by drinking poison.

Several years ago she gained prominence in the west on the race track after her brother was killed. At that time she left her home here and took his place at the wheel to finish out a schedule of meets in which he was to appear, and won several of the races.

WOUNDED BY PREMATURE DISCHARGE OF SHOTGUN

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 21—(AP)—Frank Relation, 22, of Hudson, was critically wounded when his shotgun discharged prematurely while he was duck hunting on the Merrimack river between here and Lowell today. He was taken to the Nashua Memorial hospital where it was said he was not expected to live.

DISASTROUS CYCLONE AND FLOOD IN BRAZIL

PORTO ALEGRE, Brazil, Sept. 21—(AP)—The death list from the cyclone and the flood which followed it stood at eight today, while the damage to property was estimated at $1,000,000.

The flood on the Guayaba river, which rose ten feet and drove 30,000 persons from their homes for two days, was subsiding today. Hundreds of refugees still were living in churches or sharing other homes on the high ground.

How Can We Improve It?

It might well be pride in the product that bears their good name. Often it is. But not always.

It's just good, hard-headed business, mostly. The improvement of a product that is already considered satisfactory makes that product play a more definite part in the life of the user. It wins and holds an added loyalty, and of course, added business.

Isn't that the sort of merchandise you want? It's all presented in a straightforward, honest way here in the advertisements, day after day. Read The Bulletin's advertisements for economy's sake!

Advertised merchandise is trustworthy merchandise.

G. O. P. DISCLAIMS USE OF RELIGIOUS PROPAGANDA

Statement Issued by Chairman Work of the Republican National Committee—Asserts That Gov. Smith Should Withdraw His "Reckless Innuendo"—States That the Republican Committee Comprises Baptists, Catholics, Jews, Presbyterians and Persons of Many Other Sects.

BOSTON, Sept. 21—(AP)—Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the republican national committee, in a statement issued tonight in reply to Governor Smith's Oklahoma City address, branded as "untrue" the "reckless innuendo that the republican national committee engages in religious propaganda."

Dr. Work described the statement that religious propaganda is issued by the committee as being "impossible" and suggested that Governor Smith "might have the courtesy to acknowledge that Mr. Hoover preceded him in that denunciation by a full six weeks."

The statement read:

"If Governor Smith values the truth, he should withdraw the reckless innuendo that the republican national committee engages in religious propaganda.

"The story he relates is untrue and he has been grievously misled. Moreover, religious propaganda from the committee is impossible. The committee and its officers were selected without thought of religious connections and comprise Baptists, Catholics, Jews, Presbyterians and many other sects and a dozen other faiths.

"The staff in the Washington headquarters has others likewise in consideatial positions, representatives of all of these religions, and no reasonable person will believe that these peoples are carrying on propaganda against their own faith, either one way or the other.

"Governor Smith can go as far as he likes in denunciation of intolerance and I will go with him. But he might have the courtesy to acknowledge that Mr. Hoover preceded him in that denunciation by a full six weeks."

NO COMMENT FROM HOOVER ON GOV. SMITH'S SPEECH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21— (AP) — Comment on Governor Smith's action in drawing the religious intolerance issue into the open, was withheld today by Herbert Hoover, whose day was consumed by work on his Elizabethton speech, and visits with callers at his personal headquarters on Massachusetts avenue.

Time also was found by the republican presidential nominee for a call at Red Cross headquarters where he received latest reports on the hurricane in Porto Rico and Florida. Later, he gave newspapermen a statement expressing hope that the people of the country would be generous with contributions to the Red Cross fund.

Hoover's disinclination to discuss the speech of ovrnor Smith at Oklahoma City last night was in line with the policy he fixed at the beginning of the campaign of making his own statements on whatever subjects he discusses without reference to what his opponents have had to say.

But while the nominee was silent, Horace A. Mann, in charge of the southern division campaign for the republican party, issued a statement denying that an inquirer for literature attacking Governor Smith because of his religion had been directed to the office of an anti-Catholic periodical by the head of a bureau of the republican national committee.

Mann declared the whole affair "was an attempted frame-up through a detective which failed because there was nothing here for her to find."

STATEMENT BY IMPERIAL WIZARD OF KU KLUX KLAN

"For days certain propaganda agencies have filled the newspapers of the United States with articles charging that the Ku Klux Klan was being financed by the republican party to make a whispering campaign against Governor Alfred E. Smith.

"The fact that for years we have been maligned by such agencies caused us to ignore these statements. Now, however, since they have been advanced by Governor Smith, the responsible head of the democratic party, we can no longer remain silent.

"The Klan has never in its history received one dollar for any purpose whatsoever, that did not come from one of the following sources: (1) From the klectoken or membership donation. (2) From dues. (3) From klans.

"Neither the republican party nor the democratic party, neither any individual or corporation has ever directly or indirectly furnished a single dollar to the klan for any purpose whatever. The klan seeks no political preferment and has no political affiliations.

"For years we have been fighting to preserve Americanism against subversion by un-American agencies and ideas. Our fight against Governor Smith is because he represents these agencies and believes in these ideas.

"The Klan also was found by the republican presidential nominee for a call at Red Cross headquarters where he received latest reports on the hurricane in Porto Rico and Florida. Later, he gave newspapermen a statement expressing hope that the people of the country would be generous with contributions to the Red Cross fund.

Hoover's disinclination to discuss the speech of ovrnor Smith at Oklahoma City last night was in line with the policy he fixed at the beginning of the campaign of making his own statements on whatever subjects he

OPPOSED TO INCREASE IN RAIL-OCEAN-RAIL RATE

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—(AP)—Eastern manufacturers and shippers only want to be placed on an equal competitive basis with their middle-west competitors, witnesses testified today at the interstate commerce re-hearing on the consolidatted southwestern rate cases.

The proposed increases in the rail-ocean-rail to the four southwestern states would be detrimental to eastern manufacturers and shippers, said the witnesses who predicted a loss in business.

Todays witnesses included: C. S. Simpson, assistant traffic manager of the Remington Arms company, Bridgeport, Conn.; H. Richardson, representing the Washburn Wire company, of Phillipsdale, R. I.; E. G. Siedle traffic manager for the Armstrong Cork company, Pittsburgh, Pa.; J. F. Atwater, chairman of the rate committee of the Manufacturers' association of Connecticut, and W. F. Price, traffic manager of the J. B. Williams company, of Glastonbury, Conn.

PROGRESS OF LOS ANGELES CINCINNATI AIR RACERS

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21—(AP)—The Los Angeles-to-Cincinnati air races were well under way tonight, with the seventeen Class-A and four Class-B entries strung out between here and Fort Worth, Texas.

The first-named class of racers got under way yesterday, stopping at El Paso last night, and heading for Fort Worth this morning. Early tonight only four of the planes had arrived at the nights control point, while two other entries were reported down short of the leg goal.

The Class-B takeoff, delayed by fog this morning until 9 o'clock, included four planes, two other entries having failed to show up for the start. Early tonight no reports had been received from this race. The first control point was El Paso.

Theodore Kenyon, Boston, Challenger—2:12:25.

COOLIDGE IS SPEEDING BACK TO WASHINGTON

Aboard President Coolidge's Special Train En Route to Washington, Sept. 21 — (AP) — President Coolidge was speeding back to Washington tonight after a two day trip to his own state of Vermont during which he had the opportunity to see for himself the results of last fall's floods and to renew his acquaintance with his native village of Plymouth.

A stop at Northampton, Mass., has been arranged on the way south this evening so that Mrs. Coolidge might detrain and spend a few days at the bedside of her mother, dangerously ill in a hospital there. Mr. Coolidge, who saw Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, the invalid, last Thursday on his way to Vermont, had agreed to proceed to the capital alone.

GOVERNOR SMITH IS EN ROUTE TO DENVER

GOVERNOR SMITH'S TRAIN EN-ROUTE TO DENVER, Sept. 21—(AP)—Headed toward Colorado, Wyoming and Montana, Governor Smith resumed the role of a traveling presidential nominee today after an invasion of Oklahoma where a known Gown fight is on for that border state ten electoral votes.

Although a bit fagged by what he calls the "merry go round" of a 24 hour visit to such a political center as Oklahoma City, the democratic nominee was encouraged by his reception there. He appeared satisfied that he had struck a responsive note last night in deploring religious intolerance and appealing for a decision at the polls on the basis of the records of the two major parties and their candidates and their stand on the pressing public problems of the day.

After a rest over night here in Denver, Gov. Smith on Sunday will travel northward through Wyoming with stops of some length scheduled at Cheyenne and Casper, but no speeches, even from the train platform, are on the calendar.

One of the democrats in the senate who are up for re-election, is Kendrick of Wyoming. Another is Wheeler of Montana, who ran for vice president in 1924 on the La Follette ticket, but has since been regarded as again a democrat in good standing.

Wheeler along with other party leaders are expected to meet Gov. Smith at Billings and ride with him to Helena, where late Monday he will visit the state fair and that night will deliver a campaign speech at the Shrine temple.

SENATOR CURTIS IS STUMPING WYOMING

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Sept. 21—(AP)—Senator Curtis, the republican vice-presidential nominee, carried the republican protective tariff campaign into the cattle ranges in an address here tonight, blaming the "flood" of farm importations last year for much of the farmers' troubles.

Renewing his pledge of higher tariff rates on agricultural importations, the senator questioned the democratic attitude on tariff and declared that Governor Smith, the democratic presidential nominee, "apparently has the Underwood bill of 1913 in mind as a tariff measure.

"Then, I need not spend time," he declared in a prepared address, "to convince you that agriculture will receive no tariff protection from the democrats. Listen to some of the products on the free list in the Underwood bill: Bacons, hams, buckwheat, cattle, corn, cream, eggs, hogs, lambs, lard milk, potatoes, rye, sheep, and goats, wheat and wool."

He appeared on the back platform at stops in all states and left the train at Edgemont, S. D., to speak to a crowd in the railroad yards during switching operations. He talked high tariff and Herbert Hoover at these places, also, and was given a good hand by his audiences.

HALF OF SUBSCRIPTIONS PLEDGED FOR NEW INDUSTRY

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 21—It was stated today at the office of the chamber of commerce that a quiet campaign conducted the past week by members to secure subscriptions to stock in a proposed new metal screen industry for the city had netted about half of the necessary amount to date. Information has now been received, however, that other bids for this industry are being made in other cities and that the local committee must make an early decision on the results of the campaign. This had led Chairman Kenneth N. Hillhouse and his committee to redouble their efforts. The concern, which will manufacture a newly patented window screen has already been asked to figure on one country estate job for which the contract would run into four figures and other big contracts are under consideration. The inventor and his immediate backers are therefore desirous of locating in a plant very soon. Willimantic has been given the offer in the nature of a first refusal to have the concern locate here in the former S. C. S. Box company plant and the campaign is on to secure subscriptions to about $12,000 in the new concern's stocks. Preferred and common stock is offered in units of $50. As soon as the first installments are in the machinery will be ordered and sent directly here. Other machinery will be moved from the present manufacturing plant of the concern in Massachusetts where an inferior product has been made and sold in large quantities. The concern will start here with a moderate payroll but its oportunities for growth has been readily admitted by business men who have studied the product and the market for it. All financial suport to this new company is in the nature of an investment in the stock. In the hope of concluding the campaign at an early date Chairman Hillhouse has called a meeting of the workers to be held at the chamber of commerce rooms at 7:30 o'clock next Monday night.

THE ORIENTAL BAZAAR DRAWS GOOD PATRONAGE

The Oriental bazaar held in Rioux hall Friday afternoon and evening drew a large crowd and was an unqualified success. Mrs. Andrew McNicol, president of the Ladies' society, was in charge, ably assisted by the women of the church. The hall was a brilliant spectacle, with elaborate decorations and booths. The ceiling was festooned with Oriental crepe paper radiating from a Chinese umbrella and gay Chinese lanterns added to the effect. The platform had been transformed into a tea room, lighted by Chinese lanterns. A wide black and yellow stairway led up to the room, under a wistaria arch. A purple and yellow lattice was arranged at either side. The background was of black and birds of paradise. Oriental draperies and rugs completed the effect. Small tables accommodated those who were served supper. Their centerpieces were candles and the yellow menus done in black were the work of Misses Cecelia Ellis and Alice Laughlan. Chinese chow mein, salad, sandwiches, waffles, coffee, cake and ice cream were served here. Mrs. B. W. Albertine was in charge, assisted by Mrs. F. E. Robinson, Mrs. S. R. Waters, Mrs. John Whalley, Mrs. Fred Whalley, Mrs. William Broadbent, Eden Faust and Mrs. E. A. Yeast. Priscilla Goodenough, Charlotte Albertine, Margery Webster, Lucille Tomlinson, Janet Wilcox, Verna Talbot, Isabel Marshall, Beatrice Cathcart and Agnes Connelly, wearing Oriental costumes, served the customers. Mrs. W. A. Richardson and Mrs. Edith Soule were in charge of the parlor booth. It was decorated with a black and white check border and black fringed draperies, parrots and vari-colored crepe paper festoons. Here fancy art gifts were on sale. There was a flower table done in white with pokey border. Mrs. C. D. Wolf and Mrs. W. E. Marshall sold home-made candy in a butterfly booth which was done in blue and yellow fluted paper, lattice effect. Cake was sold in a garden booth by Mrs. L. G. Buckingham and Mrs. F. D. Ballou. A striped black and white canopy was upheld by hollyhock posts rising from a stonewall and hollyhock border. Mrs. J. T. Stewart and Mrs. Abraham Zegeer presided over the magic booth. It was decorated elaborately, with flowers, blue birds, fluted yellow and black and wistaria crepe paper. Here all kinds of fascinating grabs were obtainable. J. T. Stewart, Mrs. Carl Benjamin and Walter Benjamin sold ice cream in a green and white booth. A hot dog and soda booth did a rushing business. It was done in flaming ochre shades of crepe paper and was lavishly ornamented with dogs of all descriptions. Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Andrew McNicol and L. G. Buckingham were in charge. Christine Marshall in costume was Simple Simon and sold delectable prize pies, as she walked down the Midway. The hope chest, donated by Plaut-Cadden, and its contents, the smoking stand given by Schwartz Bros., the doll donated and dressed by Mrs. Andrew McNicol were greatly admired. A ton of coal donated by A. D. Tripp & Co., and a $5 gold piece were added attractions. A Majestic radio loaned by Earl Hiscox was enjoyed by the assembly as it furnished the best of music. A gypsy booth attracted many seekers after knowledge; there Mrs. Thomas B. Keen of Norwich, in gay gypsy costume, told fortunes. The girls who had charge of the gifts were Sadie Thompson, Bessie Thompson, Ellen Faust, Ruth Ballou, Mrs. Walter Benjamin, Mrs. Earl Hiscox. The attractive posters were the work of Walter Benjamin. The ton of coal was given Mrs. Alvah B. Read, East Main street; hope chest, Miss Almira Parry, Ashland; smoking stand, Samuel Cathcart, East Main street; French dolls, Miss Julian Sayles, Hill street; $5 gold piece, Mrs. Margaret Finn, North Main street.

Week after week and month after month the Bigger and Better Chevrolet has swept on to greater and greater heights of popularity—until today it stands acknowledged everywhere as first choice of the nation for 1928!

Never has any Chevrolet enjoyed such overwhelming public acceptance—for never has any low-priced car provided such an outstanding combination of distinctive beauty, thrilling performance and amazing economy!

Its beautiful bodies by Fisher—long, low and racy, and finished in colors that reveal to-day's mode for smartness and individuality—are far in advance of accepted standards in the field of low-priced cars. Inside and out they prove anew that Fisher craftsmanship is a thing apart.

But Chevrolet performance is no less impressive than Chevrolet beauty and style. Never before was a low-priced car so easy to handle—for the steering mechanism is fitted with ball bearings throughout . . . the clutch and gear-shift lever respond to the slightest touch . . . and big non-locking 4-wheel brakes give a measure of braking control that is more than equal to every occasion.

Come in and see the car that has won the approval of more than three-quarters of a million buyers since January 1st. Learn for yourself why it is scoring the greatest success of this great automotive year!

DANIELSON

SMALL CROWD AT SECOND DAY OF FAIR

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 21—What proved to be a comparatively small attendance looked over the exhibits and enjoyed the other features of the Brooklyn fair today—running a day over the original schedule to make up for the forced postponement on Wednesday, which was to have been the first big day.

However, the attitude of the fair association likely was expressed by Secretary Marshall P. Frink when he said today that whether or not the fair association made any money this year it would not be curtailed in any manner nor the time of exhibition shortened. "There will be other years, you know," he said, "and we are thinking of the future as well as of today."

Until after the noon hour today, there were few people on the grounds. The great percentage of those who attended this closing day of the fair did not come until early afternoon, in time for the races, which were the big events of the day.

In the grange exhibits first prize was awarded to Canterbury grange, second to Brooklyn grange and third to Plainfield grange.

Free for all:

Peter Taggart, b h, Al Jackson
Oxford, Mass. 1 1 1
Northern Pearl, r g, George Buxton, Pascoag, R. I. 4 3 2
Milton M, b g, Irvin Sherman, Wickford, R. I. 2 4 3
Peter Florentine, b g, Sanderson Grunnell, Worcester, Mass. .. 3 2 4
Time 2.18 1-4, 2.21 1-4; 2.18 1-4.

Special race:

Strong Watts, b g, Arthur Treat Willimantic 1 1 1
Peter Agan, Jr., g, Henry Watress, Willimantic 2 2 2
Atrain, g m, C. H. Michaels, Hartford 4 3 3
Time 2.27, 2.28 1-2, 2.27-3-4.

2.35 class:

Crex, b g, J. McCarthy, Brookfield, Mass. 1 1 1
Daniel Lee, bk h, George Buxton Pascoag, R. I. 2 2 2
Peter Belmont, b h, Ernest Dion, Fiskdale, Mass. 3 3 4
Annie Sunshine, b m, Arthur Willimantic 4 4 3
Time 2.20 3-4, 2-19 3-4, 2.17 3-4.

This afternoon at the home in Goodyear funeral services for Mrs. Julienne Oldale were conducted by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Danielson Baptist church. Burial was in the cemetery at Greeneville, R. I., Rev. Mr. Armstrong having charge of the committal service. The bearers were Joseph Potvin, George Hamilton, William Hayfield, Robert Day, Edward Franklin and William Blanchard. Martin T. Burns was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

About 40 were in attendance at a regular meeting of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., held in the ladies' parlor of the Westfield Congregational church Thursday afternoon. There was a business session at which revised bylaws were considered, and a letter was read from the state regent, Miss Catherine Nettleton.

Mrs. W. K. Pike of the graves and cemeteries' committee of the chapter reported that inscriptions on markers at the graves of Revolutionary soldiers in seven of the rural cemeteries of Danielson had been copied. These inscriptions will be incorporated into a permanent record which will include a chart that may in years to come be a guide to all those who would find without difficulty the location of the graves of the early patriots.

An interesting report having today with her recent attendance at a meeting of state officers of the D. A. R. in Hartford was given by Mrs. J. H. Milligan. She mentioned particularly the completion of the fund for the erection of the new Constitution hall in Washington, D. C. It is planned to having the laying of the cornerstone of this building in January and to have the structure sufficiently advanced by next April to permit of using at least a part of it for the annual Continental congress.

Miss Adah Danielson entertainingly told the members about her recent visit to Yellowstone park, mentioning the geysers and the hot springs, with particular reference to Old Faithful, and of the rocks which are tinted in many hues producing a handsome effect as the result of the presence of algae. Miss Danielson mentioned the entertainment provided for visitors at the lodges in the park and made reference to seeing both brown and grizzly bears roaming about this national reservation.

It so happened that Miss Danielson was at Palo Alto at the time Herbert Hoover was officially notified of his nomination for the presidency, and heard his speech of acceptance.

A death at Central Village yesterday was that of Mrs. Hannah Bradford, 84, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Baker. Mrs. Bradford was a native of Canterbury and had lived there a great many years before coming to spend her remaining years with her daughter, Mrs. Baker.

Much may depend on developments of the next few weeks, but the present outlook is for few political rallies or parades in Danielson during the presidential campaign. The promise earlier in the season was for something like an old-time campaign, with speeches, parades and red fire, but this promise to have been largely dissipated. Likely a rally or two will be about the limit of public demonstration here. What is regarded as the more practical method of spending such funds as will be available in getting out the vote on election day is likely to be the aim of party leaders here.

There was more action today on the Danielson-Brooklyn highway job, which has been lagging for nearly a fortnight. Several trucks were engaged in hauling stone used in surfacing, a steam shovel and a stone crusher were at work and a roller was doing its bit in Brooklyn. Along the route men were engaged in grading shoulders and the promise appeared to be for another spurt of construction work.

One more week of daylight saving time! The change back to standard time comes with the end of the month. Danielson and much of the surrounding territory has observed the fast time schedule since last April. The change on Sunday, Sept. 29, will mean a revision of working schedules for manufacturing plants here, as well as for business houses, banks and schools.

It was made known this afternoon that complaints have been registered with the school authorities concerning the use of the new concrete walks and drives about the high school building as a public playground. Numbers of children congregate there with their roller skates, scooters and bicycles, and their noise and encroachment on adjoining properties and on the lawns about the high school building has become almost a nuisance.

The school officials desire, therefore, to request that the parents of children living in the vicinity cooperate in abating this trouble by seeing that their children cease the use of the walks and drives above mentioned as a playground after school hours, and on Saturdays. For the school officials it is to be said that this cooperation will be most heartily appreciated.

Situations similar to that about the high school have arisen in other parts of the borough where there are smooth sidewalks, and the use of roller skates and scooters on these walks may, it was said this afternoon, be made the subject of a petition to the warden and court of burgesses, having supervision of the walks, for a ruling making such use of the walks a misdemeanor. A particular complaint is that old and infirm people often escape being thrown to the walks by children scooting or skating in close proximity to such aged persons.

The Danielson Baseball association consisting of some odd sixty members leave Saturday for the Eastern States exposition in Springfield. The organization has had a successful season and are having their annual outing this year in this manner. They have chartered the large coaches of The New England Transportation company for the trip there and back. The officials in charge at the exposition have reserved a section of chairs directly in back of the press box, and in line with the finish wire on the race track for the Danielson organization. Among the four teams in the twilight league of the Danielson outfit, namely the P. & A., the Kilowatts, The Buddies and the Owls there has been the keenest and most exciting good sport rivalry, and the teams were well balanced, being so much so that at the present time there is still a game scheduled to determine the pennant winners for this season. This game will be a nine inning Sunday game between Kilowatts and Owls. The organization has played several other games with outside teams, it being also a member of Eastern Conn. Industrial league, and in this league it has come out a tie with the Putnam, Conn., outfit. This is the third or fourth season that the organization goes out for an all day outing and one of the secrets of its success both in sportsmanship and in a financial way is that all connected with same does not receive one cent of salary from the president down to the bat boy. They are hoping for a bigger and better season in 1929.

Laird E. Winchell has been appointed a patrolman for night duty to succeed Officer John Gebert, resigned. Mr. Winchell is a brother-in-law of Mr. Gebert.

Jeremiah Doyle of Wauregan said that there is a possibility of a big league baseball team appearing in Moosup on an early Sunday date in October.

There were first awards for the exhibit made by the K. H. S. agriculture department at the Windham county fair in Brooklyn, closing today.

In observance of their birthday anniversary, Treasurer Sidney W. Bard of the Brooklyn Savings bank and his twin brother, Ernest Bard of Detroit, entertained a number of relatives and friends in Brooklyn this evening.

Relatives of Deacon and Mrs. Albert C. Greene will have gathered here on Monday for the observance of Deacon Grene's 99th birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Jennie Martin of Mechanic street will have members of the Ladies' Prayer circle at her home for a meeting next Tuesday afternoon.

It is anticipated that about 60 players and officials of the Danielson Twilight Baseball league will be in the party that will assemble at the railroad station here Saturday morning to take specially chartered motor coaches for the trip to the Eastern States exposition at Springfield.

Miss Aurise A. Beaulac of New Bedford is spending the week end visiting with friends in Danielson.

PUTNAM

AVIATORS REPORT FAVORABLY ON WHEATON LANDING FIELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 21—Aviation is being seriously considered in Putnam by several interested in this modern form of travel. Surrounding cities and towns in eastern Connecticut have set aside funds and have already begun to bring the planes to their respective localities by providing suitable landing fields. Putnam has not turned any thoughts to such a venture, but the recent instances where planes would have landed in this city had there been a field, has stirred up the property owners of several large fields in the vicinity of Putnam in attempting to interest the government into acquiring the property.

Two government inspecting officers of the U. S army air service were forced to land on the Wheaton farm about a fortnight ago. Both were lieutenants in the corps and were experienced fliers. They commented upon the excellency of the land in that section, which is about a mile south of Putnam, and marked the field on one of their maps, informing Mr. Wheaton that the lay of the field was one of the best emergency landing fields they had ever been forced to land on.

Whether or not the report of these two officers to higher officials will have any effect upon the opening of an aviation port in Putnam will remain unknown for the present. Mayor Charles A. Richard was one of the first to speak of the aviation prospects in the city, and announced himself in favor of a movement to promote its interests in Putnam. The mayor is to investigate the plan of having a direction beacon placed in Putnam, so as to give bearings to the night air mail fliers who frequently adopt the Putnam-Hartford to Boston route.

Plans and specifications for the repair of the Providence street bridge have been placed in the hands of a competent engineer to draw up and submit to the board of selectmen of the town of Putnam. It was voted to repair the bridge, at a special town meeting held last week, and $5,000 appropriated, and plans will be made to that extent. As soon as the board of selectmen accept the plans submitted, contractors will be given an opportunity to submit bids to the board, Selectman William P. Warren said today.

Mrs. Lottie Sturtevant of Marshall street died this morning at the Day-Kimball hospital after an illness of many years. Mrs. Sturtevant was 69 years of age. She is of Dutch ancestry, and is a native of Chelsea, Mass., but has lived in Putnam for many years. She is survived by her husband, Theodore P. Sturtevant, of this city.

The Providence County fair held yesterday at Pascoag, R. I., was attended by several from Putnam, many of them horse lovers, who went to the fair merely for their interest in the races. The events were opened by the governor of Rhode Island, with an attendance of about 3,000 which has outrivaled any of the local fairs in this vicinity.

In the races which were the center of attraction, "Ray Brook," a Putnam entry, carried off the blue ribbon in the first trot about the track, it being a special race with four other horses entered. The best time made was 2:20, the other entries being Sam Kelly, second; Peggy Peters, third; Travelers, fourth. The second race was a 2:23 trot which was won by Sleak Leader, who circled the track in 2:17 1-2. The other entries were Maleska, second; Sage King, third, and Atlantic, fourth.

The new state park, which was formerly Priest's Island, is proving to be a magnet for bringing the outdoor lovers to Putnam from western Connecticut and from Rhode Island and Massachusetts cities. Careful observers have reported that scores of tourists come and pass the weekends at the large, beautiful park that is now made accessible by a suspension bridge built during the winter and spring by engineers of the state park commission. The workmen of the state have been engaged in thinning out the heavily grown underbrush which sprouted up during the years that the island was unused. A large parking space about the state premises has provided a place for the car owners to leave their vehicles while they are visiting the island.

No attractions are provided except those placed there by nature which are the most beautiful of any in the state. The long suspension bridge over the river is very picturesque because of its peculiar architecture. The island is adapted for a picnic grounds.

It will be more easily reached if the rumors circulated today mature. Talk was advanced dealing with the intentions of the state to construct a new road over the old lake road. As the story goes, the state intends to take over the old trolley right of way which runs through the golf course of the Putnam Country club, and continues through connecting the towns of Dayville and Goodyear with Putnam, which also might result in the inauguration of a motor coach line to supplant the long discontinued trolleys. There is no definite word as yet relative to the state constructing such a highway, yet highway department officials have on several occasions viewed the line mentioned in the rumor, but failed to disclose their reasons for making a survey.

A tragedy was narrowly averted Thursday evening at the May street railroad crossing when Albert Jarvis of Providence street, with a party in his large automobile, was about to cross over the grade crossing after the gateman had gone off duty. Jarvis was returning home and was aware that the Providence street bridge had been closed to traffic and came down School street to May street. He told an officer of the Putnam police that when he approached the tracks he saw nothing in sight and continued over. When in the center of the rails, a large box car which was being switched came at a fast rate of speed and within a few feet of striking his car and probably crushing the occupants. Instead of attempting to stop, he continued and escaped the rushing freight car only by a foot.

Since the closing of the Providence street bridge, numerous drivers have resorted to the May street crossing to reach the north end of the city.

WHY RASKOB EXPLAINS

According to statements which have been made in the past several weeks Chairman Raskob and Candidate Smith seems to be talking at cross purposes. When Mr. Smith says one thing and Mr. Raskob tries to interpret it there is a marked difference. That was so in regard to farm relief and the equalization fee and it also appears to be the same in regard to the tariff.

Mr. Raskob says that Mr. Smith didn't mean to hold up the Underwood-Simmons low tariff act of 1913 as a model tariff law and that he wouldn't countenance such a thing as a business upheaval. Mr. Smith is inclined to refer frequently to what he said in his acceptance speech and there it will be remembered he glorified the 1913 tariff law as the kind of tariff that wouldn't upset our economic system or produce popular distress and yet that put the important farm products on the free list and according to the president of the American Federation of Labor in Massachusetts threw between four and five million out of employment during the year it was in operation before the war.

But Mr. Smith hasn't been as favorable to a tariff as he appears to be concerning the 1913 law. When in reference to such legislation he calls the tariff "an outrage on the American people and a betrayal of their interests", when he brands the tariff as "a cold blooded holdup," when he denounced the tariff as "a surrender to group government" it is easy to understand why he might consider that he was yielding much when he extolled the low-tariff law of 1913, although when such a tariff is favored it is a tariff which removes much of the protection which the people of this country need to prevent business upheaval, unemployment and popular distress.

It is quite clear why Mr. Raskob doesn't like to have the public put too much stress upon what Mr. Smith says. He hasn't been what might be called a sufficiently good friend of tariff legislation to speak for it. Hitherto he has always been ready to attack it and denounce it and his advocacy of a tariff like the 1913 low tariff isn't going to be pleasing to those who need and know the benefits of a protective tariff. And Mr. Raskob's statement in trying to take the edge off the Smith attitude only serves to emphasize what the situation really is.

GRAND ARMY ENCAMPMENTS

There are those who may think that there ought not to have been a national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic this year, because the members have reached such an age that they are not able to meet the physical requirements. There are those who hold the same opinion in regard to future conventions, but when it comes to the veterans themselves they are not willing to yield.

The Boys in Blue gathered in Denver and they marched, such of them as were able. They heard the proposition of making that the last convention of the organization that once took pride in a big membership and they turned a cold shoulder upon it. By their decision there will be a convention next year and in spite of their advanced years and the large annual depletion of their ranks it is believed that there will be those who will march. Others will ride, but the time hasn't as yet come when the annual encampments can be abandoned. The veterans never liked to surrender and they cling to that same view when it comes to giving up their national organization, although because of decreased numbers and age it has been necessary for many of the posts to be mustered out.

Grand Army conventions today bear slight resemblance to those of a quarter century ago. The spirit is willing but the flesh is weak. Time has worked its ravages in the ranks of the nation's defenders and yet there are those who are rugged for men of their years and who are both mentally and physically alert. The time will come when it will have to be decided that there will be no more encampments but it hasn't arrived and it is to be noted that the convention fixed no date for such a change. Let the encampments go on as long as there are members able to attend.

HELP THE SUFFERERS

In spite of all that it has been possible to do in ascertaining the fact concerning the havoc wrought by the West Indian hurricane it is as yet impossible to tell how many lives were lost. That doesn't mean that it is a question of a few who may be missing but between those who are known to have been killed and the final accredited toll there may be hundreds.

The governor of Porto Rico is inclined to doubt that there are 1,000 dead on that island, but from the latest report from Florida that state's loss will be much in excess of that figure. Little idea can be gained of what the conditions are that have been created by that storm. Only those who have been in the area or who have gone through similar experiences can picture the devastation.

It is becoming increasingly evident that it was no ordinary storm. The story grows worse instead of better. Those that experienced it will have no desire to go through another while those who escaped it have reasons for being profoundly grateful.

The resultant situation, with the human dead to be identified and buried, the dead animals to be disposed of, the disease to be fought, the cries of distress to answer, the appeals for shelter to be heeded, to say nothing of clearing up the debris, presents a many sided problem and it is only to be expected that help should be required from outside in order to cope with it.

Florida alone presents a distressing picture, but in addition thereto it is impossible to overlook Porto Rico and the other islands over which the hurricane swept with deplorable results. The appeals for help to meet this situation deserve and will get a nation-wide response. Wherever disaster is experienced there is presented the opportunity for contributing to the relief of suffering humanity. It isn't necessary that everything to the minutest detail be known as to the havoc. Sufficient is it that the people in those localities are suffering. That should convey its own appeal to those who have escaped such conditions and are in a position to help.

AMERICAN SHIPPING

By a study of what the other fellows are doing is it possible for a person to get a better idea of methods. Thus when Vice President Kelly of the Merchant Fleet corporation went abroad to study shipping conditions in other countries it was to be expected that he would return with favorable or unfavorable comparisons concerning American shipping.

It is interesting and pleasing to note that he finds foreign shipping in American flag vessels generally is improving but the keen competition which is being offered by foreign countries is keeping the freight rates low. But even though we are getting a fair share of the European traffic he points out that we are not keeping abreast of the leading maritime nations of Europe in new tonnage. Particularly active is Germany, but Great Britain and Italy are both building new vessels for transoceanic service.

This calls attention only to what has long been evident. There is need for greater interest in the American merchant marine, a greater interest on the part of private capital, for it is believed that in the private operation of the merchant marine there is the greatest efficiency. Clearly the best management is required to meet European competition. This is particularly true when it is realized that there are sizeable handicaps which American shipping has to face in the way of legislation which does not confront foreign shipping.

Give American shipping the benefit of less restrictive laws and let the government dispose of the merchant fleet to American owners and a more efficient operation of our merchant marine is believed to be possible. The need of keeping abreast of competitors is properly emphasized, but government ownership and operation do not contribute to such an end. Let the government get out of the business and give American ship owners a chance to do business and the situation it is believed will stand out much more to the credit of the American merchant marine.

LET THE FACTS GOVERN

Recently it was believed that a method of settlement had been reached whereby the threatened railroad strike in the west would be prevented. This involves about 70,000 men and is of particular concern for what would interrupt transportation in the west would have its effect upon the whole country.

Reliance had been placed in the federal board of mediation to bring about an amicable settlement of the differences between the employes and the roads. The board has been devoting every possible effort to such an end but it has not succeeded. There remains one more step, however, under the provisions of the transportation act and that would mean intervention by the president.

Under this next step in the procedure to prevent a strike the president would name a board to make an investigation of the dispute. Such a board would have 30 days in which to make a study of the facts and for 30 days thereafter "no change may be made by the parties to the controversy in the conditions out of which the dispute arose."

If this will serve to prevent a strike or a lockout, as it is believed, it will be a benefit to all concerned. It should mean that the employes will get a fair consideration of their grievances and that the employers will be able to present their position and have an adjustment brought about in accordance with the facts that prevail. Such without loss to the employes and without the interruption of railroad business or the shutting off of transportation to the public is believed to be a sound method of meeting such a situation.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

The other evening I heard a woman talking over the radio. It was the voice of a female approaching 40 who had at least been jilted by two lovers and a third that was somewhat shadowy. In spite of this serious handicap, the suffering soul did say something, as the following indicates: "What we need today is not so much new ideas as enough intelligence to use the ideas we have." Now that is not half bad, whether uttered by a married woman or a poor spinster who has been jilted twice. The above quotation is absolutely true. We work our tongues, our friends, our self importance and our long suffering lovers for all they are worth, but real ideas we let painfully alone. We work nearly everything overtime but real ideas. How many of the young people we send to college are ever sent back to us because they overstrain themselves with ideas? How many people in this age suffer because they have ideas?

As we might naturally expect by this time the political cauldron has commenced to boil. Now this is very encouraging because it shows there is some heat, and where there is heat there must be both power and motion. It has been many years since so many factors have entered into a presidential campaign. Some years ago, when the tariff was the bone of contention, the issue was largely economic, but this year the main issue seems to be a moral one, hence it is a question as much for the moralist as for the politician to deal with. Bishop Cannon thinks that the pulpit has no right to be silent when the bulwarks of righteousness are assailed as they are in the presidential campaign of this year. Of course, there are many non-churchgoers who tremble for the Kingdom of God, and say to the ministers that the "shoemaker ought to stick to his last." Just how many this sort of twaddle is going to intimidate remains to be seen.

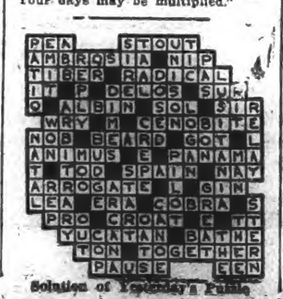
To be historically accurate, it must be confessed that in the past the pulpit in not a few instances blundered, not in its courage and desire to do right, but so to speak, in going off half-cocked; in making wild and extravagant statements; in a word, in letting zeal and passion run away with cool judgment and full knowledge of facts. But it was not so in all cases, and most noticeably in the telling work of Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, pastor of the Madison avenue church, New York. This great preacher never hurled his thunderbolts against the political corruption of the great city until he was fortified with indisputable facts. But when he did fire his 16-inch guns he shook the entire city. Never was he compelled to retrace a single statement he ever made. At first he was made fun of when he appeared at the city hall, but later when they saw him there their faces grew white with fear. If we have today such men in our pulpits, then let them speak in God's name!

A question that now concerns the pubic is: How far is a "straw vote," as usually conducted, a reliable indication of how a presidential election is going? Is it any more satisfactory than the expressed wish of any professional politician who has made something of a study of the whole situation? The latter is generally regarded by the public at large as utterly useless and unreliable. Are not most of these predictions so colored by prejudice and desire as to render them in most cases as utterly useless? In a "straw vote" is there anything to prevent persons not of age to vote at elections from gathering up large numbers of these blanks, fill them out and then return them? It must, however, be admitted that the project suggested by the Literary Digest of sending out 18,000,000 of these ballots may be a good index how the November election is going, if the matter is treated seriously by the people.

It has been said that one of the joys of youth comes from the dreams of advancement, while old age is more impressed with the fact of reality. The source of the joy that youth feels comes largely from a sense of freedom from responsibility. This is exactly as it ought to be. Youth ought to be free from such anxieties as these: "Where is my food coming from? Shall I have clothing to protect me from the winter cold? Am I in the first stages of some organic disease?" From such questions the growing child has a right to be free, and probably in the great majority of cases, is free. It is perfectly natural for him to build up a little bright world of success and distinctions. At least there is before him something worthy of striving for. Old age has made its attainments, perhaps not wholly satisfactory, but his world has been built, and it is natural for him to dwell in that world of reality.

In connection with the above could anything be more kind than the inability to "see what a single day may bring forth." Suppose the youth could see in advance that some of these rosy dreams that had so impressed his imagination were never to be realized, how quickly the dream would be changed into a nightmare! Tumbling air castles always react unfavorably on the vivid imagination. It would act like vitriol on his boyish enthusiasms. In view of the many hard things that come to most adults, youth has a clear right to be free from all of them, otherwise he would enter responsible life with an embittered spirit. With old age there is a larger philosophy because life has been experienced on a larger plane; the bitter has mingled with the sweet, and perhaps in a majority of cases the experience has been turned to advantage. Youth says "O let me see more of the life that is to be," but old age says "Thank God, I did not see it all from the beginning."

It is certainly a part of wisdom and religion to, at least, make each day as perfect as is humanly possible. No person, at any time of his life has the entire control of the future in his hands. A thousand new things may arise for which he has no pre-vision, and consequently are entirely beyond his control. And yet in a general way he can modify that future vastly more than we think at present. Suppose in youth the laws of health are rigidly followed, does not that greatly lessen the liability to future disease? Suppose that youth lives rightly along all lines, isn't that a mighty preparation for the life of tomorrow? The men and women today in the advanced eighties are not those who burnt up all their fuel before they were 40. Our lives are not wholly in our own hands, but we are a mightier factor in the problem than we think. "Your days may be multiplied."



Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

SENATOR M'LEAN EMPHASIZES IMPORTANCE OF TARIFF TO CONNECTICUT.

That the high protective rates of the Fordney-McCumber tariff have almost doubled the purchasing power of the American dollar since their institution by the republican party, is the statement made by retiring United States Senator George P. McLean in an interview on the tariff as a campaign issue.

Senator McLean points out that in 1920 following seven years of democratic tariff administration, the purchasing power of the dollar was only 70 per cent of its 1914 value, while in 1927 following seven years of republican administration the purchasing power of the dollar was 137 per cent of its 1914 value.

The senator further points out that the democratic party in 1912 made promises of continued prosperity through the tariff just as they are this year, and that these promises were followed with the disastrous Underwood tariff which was contradictory to every pre-election promise. Quotations from speeches of Governor Smith, showing his opposition to the protective tariff principle, are included in the interview which follows in full:

"The thing that strikes me as of first consequence in this campaign is the utter lack of certainty as to what a democratic congress and president would do if elected.

"If it be true, as some assert, that for the first time in our history, we find the two great political organizations almost persuaded to march to the polls on one and the same political highway, keeping step to the same keynote, I want to call attention to the fact that this highway was laid out and constructed and has been kept in repair by the republican party. Confession may be good for the soul and imitation may be the sincerest flattery, but if our old friends the enemy have at last seen the error of their ways; if, after wandering for more than a century in the brambles and by-ways of all manner of political misadventure, they now seek safety on the old protection and prosperity turnpike, that Washington laid out, that Lincoln preserved and that Roosevelt and Coolidge have resurfaced with the very best of modern materials, we welcome them with open arms. But I didn't see any good reason why the republican party should be asked to take the gutter. I don't see any good reason why the donkey and tiger should expect to lead the procession the first day out.

"If it be true that our democratic friends have come into our garden at the eleventh hour, hungry and penitent and looking for a job, we may be willing that they should have a full day's pay for one hour's work, but I can see no reason why they should expect a deed of the garden the first day in.

"For nearly a century, after election and in congress (and please carefully note the time and place), the democratic party has insisted that republican protective tariff laws were founded in fraud and deception and enacted in violation of the constitution of the United States and that as long as they were permitted to stand national prosperity would be impossible.

"Only last winter 41 democratic senators out of 43 voted for a resolution which demanded an immediate revision of the tariff downward. From that time backward to 1840, the Jeffersonian democracy has never failed to oppose the principle of protection in the framing of tariff bills by congress.

"Not so before election. It has been the universal practice of democratic leaders before election carefully to promise tariff rates to suit the taste of the town where they happen to be looking for votes.

Democratic Promises.

"What the American people will want to know, or ought to want to know, before they cast their ballots in November, is the percentage of sincerity to be found in this latest ante-election conversation to the principle of protection. Does it differ from the kind they sold to us in 1912?

"In 1912 the democratic platform declared it 'to be a fundamental principle of the democratic party that the federal government, under the constitution, has no right or power to impose or collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue.'

"The great industrial centers didn't like this and as usual, democratic leaders before election, assured the working men of the country that no legitimate industry would be injured by a democratic revision of the tariff. Have the people of Connecticut forgotten that Senator Underwood, then chairman of the ways and means committee of the house, was the man chosen to put New England right? Have they forgotten that in his speech delivered in Waterbury, Conn., October 17, 1912, he said:

'When you equalize the costs at home and abroad, if you can do it—it is impossible to do it exactly, but you may approximate it—but, when you do that you have got a competitive tariff. There isn't a particle of possibility of the democratic party that it won't equalize the difference in labor cost at home and abroad.'

"This statement, travelling on all fours as it did with the republican idea of protection and repeated as it was by the democratic leaders in the state, resulted in the election of five democratic congressmen from Connecticut. You will remember that Mr. Hill, one of the ablest representatives Connecticut ever had in congress and an acknowledged expert on the tariff question, was defeated and a democrat sent in his place.

What They Did With the Promise.

"Now, let us see what a democratic congress did with this promise. Mr. Underwood, then chairman of the ways and means committee of the house, reported on the Underwood-Simmons bill on the 8th of July, 1913, and in the report of that committee, signed by Mr. Underwood and his democratic colleagues, we find this sentence:

'The statement is therefore made that no part of the committee's work has been founded upon the belief of the cost of production theory and the theory is absolutely rejected as a guide to tariff making.'

"Senator Simmons, then chairman of the senate committee on finance and who will be chairman of that committee in the event of a democratic victory in November, in his report on the Underwood tariff act, reiterated and reaffirmed the position taken by the house committee which repudiated the principle of protection.

"When we come to the 1928 democratic platform, we find that it promises nothing in the way of protection that it doesn't rdecant. It clearly promises a revision of the tariff downward in sub-division (b) and in sub-division (c) we find as much free trade as those in charge of the bill desire.

"The platform and Governor Smith promise a return to a tariff commission of the kind appointed by President Wilson and we must assume that the governor knows what he is talking about some of the time, and if he knows what he is talking about this time I call attention to the fact that the tariff commission appointed by Mr. Wilson was composed of four free traders, one reciprocity enthusiast and one republican protectionist.

"Dr. Taussig, the chairman, was well known as the leader of the free trade club in this country.

"Mr. Roper was the clerk of the ways and means committee of which the Hon. Oscar W. Underwood was chairman.

"Mr. Lewis became prominent in congress as an advocate of government ownership of telephone and telegraph and an active supporter of the Underwood tariff bill.

"Mr. Kent was an independent in politics and best known as an opponent of republican protective tariff measures. At one time he was president of the Woodrow Wilson Independent league.

"Mr. Culbertson and Mr. Costigan were identified with the progressive or bull moose party when they received their appointments.

"You will note that the appointment of these six members conformed to the provision of the law in that there were not more than three democrats appointed to the commission. The commission, however, contained but one representative of the prevailing republican view of tariff policies.

Calls Tariff a Holdup.

"I call attention to the tariff complexion of Mr. Wilson's commission in order that we may know what would happen to protection if Governor Smith should be elected and he should carry out his promise in this regard contained in his speech of acceptance. And this is not all. Bear in mind that the president has the power, under the 1922 act, to raise or lower all existing rates to the extent of 50 per cent and then read what Governor Smith said about protective tariffs in 1924:

'It, the tariff, is a cold blodded holdup of the American people in the interest of a few that were, or are, only too well represented in Washington on the theory that it would produce in revenue four hundred million dollars. It exacts from the plain people who are least able to bear it an annual direct tax of four billion dollars. The difference between those figures, approximate of course, represents the profits of the special interests that had their affairs cared for in in the schedules. That the tariff is primarily responsible for existing national prosperity is a more declaration; it lacks proof.'

"This quotation of Governor Smith's view on the tariff question was published in the New York Herald early in June last in a letter signed by B. F. Gleason, editor of the Tariff Review.

"Only four years ago we find the democratic candidate for the presidency denouncing protection as a fold blooded holdup of the American people.

"As it is conceded by all that a revision of the tariff is a dangerous and major operation for the body politic to undergo, it would seem to be wise to call in a surgeon in chief whose record doesn't assure us that he wants the patient to die.

Free-Trade Influence in New York.

"It is also important to bear in mind that New York is the great importing center of the country. Tammany has always been largely under the influence of free traders. Two years after the war closed, fortunes were being made over night by the New York importers. One man told me that he had made a half million dollars in one year and his warehouse consisted of a room 21x8 inches. Ships loaded with cheap foreign goods hastened across the Atlantic in almost unbroken procession, hoping to dispose of their cargoes before the republicans could increase the low rates in the Simmons-Underwood bill. Millions were involved. The halls of congress were infested with representatives of the importing fraternity placing every possible obstacle in the way of protection legislation.

"The New York importers and the large department houses and chain store organizations actively opposed the cause of protection in 1922. They seemed to be obsessed with the idea that if they could pocket the American producer and drive him out of business, they could get their supplies abroad at their own price and exact from the American purchaser enormous profits.

"The low tariff advocate tells us that we cannot sell unless we buy. True, but we must sell before we buy. The laboring man must sell the sweat upon his brow before he can buy his daily bread. We must sell before we can buy and we cannot sell more than we can produce and we must produce before we sell.

"Democratic leaders in Connecticut are hoping that our cities will roll up large democratic majorities in November next. They are boasting that the democratic majorities in the cities will more than meet the republican majorities in the country towns. I don't see how anyone, unafflicted with political vertigo can anticipate such an event. This certainly would not happen if the voters in the cities could hear as I have heard the senators from the south and west denounced the tariff as beneficial to the industrial cities and manufacturing centers only. Indeed, this was the sole argument used by the friends of the McMaster resolution adopted last winter and which demanded an immediate revision of the tariff downward.

"When the Fordney-McCumber bill was pending in the senate, democratic and progressive senators never failed to admit that the rates I asked for would be of great benefit to the cities and manufacturing towns in Connecticut.

"I am not going to discuss the merits of protection. The 1922 tariff rates are too low in many instances. They are in fact considerably lower than the rates in the Payne-Aldridge, Dingley and McKinley tariff bills.

"As a modern and conclusive illustration of what would happen to American industries, if we should cut our tariffs below the protection point, I call attention to our merchant marine, which was swept from the seas by free foreign competition and had to be taken over and supported by the government at enormous cost.

"Again, how can an intelligent man vote to restrict immigration and in favor of permitting an unlimited flood of foreign goods to come into this country to compete with goods made by American laborers?

Prophesies Fail.

"Every prophesy that the enemies of protection advanced against the Fordney-McCumber act has failed of fulfillment. Our imports have increased enormously. The average purchasing power of the American wage in 1920 was only 70 per cent of what it was in 1914, but in 1927 the purchasing power of the American wage was 137 per cent of what it was in 1914. If you want to know all about the unprecedented general prosperity in this country read the news items in the democratic papers.

"The classic theory of free trade is industrial internationalism. Given a world inhabited by one race, enjoying one standard of living, obeying one sovereignty and one system of laws, and custom houses would be unknown. But, in a world with sixty or more separate and distinct national sovereignties, each striving for commercial advantage over its neighbors, and realizing as we must that the wars of the future will be trade wars and that they will be fought to a finish, our custom houses are just as important in the defense of our industrial life in times of peace as our army and navy are important in the defense of our independence and political integrity in times of war.

"The democratic party has no right to expect to be trusted with this all paramount and vital issue until a democratic congress has voted for a real protective measure and even then it would be well to remember that one democratic swallow might fall far short of making a protection summer.

"To my mind it isn't a question of the names or the birthplaces of the candidates and I am not interested in the architecture of their church steeples as long as they all point in the same direction. We safely may assume that the candidates named by both parties are honest and able. It is what they will do if elected that interests me. The making of rules of conduct to be obeyed by the people of this great nation is serious business, and I hold it to be nothing short of a crime for any man or set of men to tinker and meddle with sound economic principles and institutions in a manner that experience has demonstrated will bring immediate and widespread financial and industrial disaster."

Sunday Morning Talk

THE BOOK.

The Bible is the one book we can go to for help at all times, a book that never grows old, and grows more precious the more it is used.

The great men as well as others have found its teachings invaluable. Sir Matthew Hale says, "There is no book like the Bible for excellent learning, wisdom and use."

Daniel Webster says, "The Bible is a book of faith, and a book of doctrine, and a book of morals, and a book of special revelation from God; but it is also a book which teaches a man his own individual responsibility, his own dignity and equality with his fellow man.'

Goethe says: "It is a belief in the Bible, the fruit of deep meditation, which has served me as the guide of my moral and literary life. I have found it a capital, safely invested and richly productive of interest."

Coleridge says: "For more than a thousand years the Bible, collectively taken has gone hand in hand with civilization, science, law, in short, with the moral and intellectual cultivation of the species, always supporting and often leading the way. Its very presence, as a believed book, has rendered the nations emphatically a chosen race: and this too, in exact proportion as it is more or less generally known and studied."

We are told to search the scriptures for in them ye think ye have eternal life: and they are they which testify of Me. John 5:3-9. Those who are searching for gold how interested they are, how much more should we in the things which shall endure forever, which far exceeds all this world can offer, make it our one great aim and object, to seek the pearl of great price, and to interest others that they too, may seek and find to the joy of their souls.

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 — Just what Senator Borah's part in the Hoover election campaign is to be does not appear as yet.

The burly Idaho senator, whose prohibition questionnaire before the nominating convention afforded the republican nominee a chance to express himself, with due delay, so much to his own satisfaction that he repeated his answer to Borah in his nomination acceptance speech, would like to get a crack at republican spellbinding in the south. He received a lot of letters from the couth in connection with the questionnaire business and thinks he could be effective in Dixie. But there is no present sign that grand strategy of the Hoover field marshals will cast him for that role.

On the contrary, there is some talk of starting Borah out to follow Governor Smith's western invasion route. He's a hard hitting talker and comes of the same stock as the folks in the farm states to whom he would be talking in an effort to offest whatever inroads on republican vote strength the New York governor had made. Borah himself is said not to fancy the job, and if that is the case he is so much a free agent in the republican camp that it's certain he can't be drafted against his will.

Dixie Stalwarts' View

Borah's notion of sounding off for Hoover in southern territory brings to light the stoutly maintained view of such southern democratic stalwarts as Swanson of Virginia that the Hoover forces are due for a surprise when Dixie's votes are counted in November.

They maintain that there has always been reserve regular democratic voting strength in the south, which will be turned out for the first time in decades due to the agitation of anti-Smith factions. They even insist that most southern anti-Smith democrats will not go beyond a sort of political sabotage, staying home from the polls and urging friends who think as they do to follow the same protest course. The celebrated case of Senator Simmons of North Carolina, who failed to round out his anti-Smith pronouncements with a pro-Hoover declaration, is cited in this connection.

The Smith democrats hold that whatever reduction of normal democratic pluralities in the south might flow out of this stay-at-home protest will be far more than offset by the election day turnout of Smith voters who in other years would have been satisfied to let the primaries and national convention settle things.

Brookhart Has Question

While this skirmishing was in progress, Brookhart of Iowa, Hooverized republican irregular, passed through Washington bound homeward. He was planning a flank attack on Smith prohibition modification declarations.

The Iowan will ask, he indicated, why, if Governor Smith really desires to bring about modification of prohibition enforcement, he is supporting for election or re-election some 20 democratic senatorial candidates all but three or four of whom are pledged to keep the Volstead act virtually intact and without whose votes in the senate, if elected, no modification could actually be accomplished.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Light Rates Should Favor Citizens.

Mr. Editor: The gas and electric department in one of its recent talks tells us it wants to "prosper." Also that some of the users are being sold lower than cost and some others are being charged enough to make up for that loss.

But, the annual report shows a condition far removed from poverty. In fact, they claim $205,011 left over, above all expense, for the one year's operation. If the report may be construed as it reads. Will they please tell us how much more prosperous they would like to be? Where is there a corporation in the city of Norwich with a profit like that in the last year?

Mr. West is a small user of electricity like many others. The writer uses three times as much and both our bills are greater than before the change. It is unreasonable to suppose, then, that the only ones to benefit by this new system will be the manufacturers? And how many of those are there compared to the number of homes in the city? The citizens should be the favored ones if there is any reduction, not the manufacturers, although both are entitled to it in the fact of this latest report. The manufacturer can pass on an increase to his many customers, but the resident consumer must simply tolerate it until the combination of taxes and this forces him to move out of town.

Glance at the department's balance sheet. A surplus of one million dollars practically; a plant investment of nearly two million dollars; sinking fund and depreciation fund reserves of nearly a half million, and they want more prosperity at the expense of the citizens.

The writer does not wholly agree with Mr. West in his letter published this morning. It isn't necessary to sell the plant to private ownership. We can have lower rates by proper management for the benefit of the citizens if only they will get together and call for it by an appeal to the city officials.

Very truly yours,
A VOTER.

Norwich, Sept. 21, 1928.

The Gas and Electrical Plant

Mr. Editor: In the gas and electrical department report they show the value of the plant to be $1,966,638.95. Eight per cent. profit allowed by law would be $157,331.11. The report also shows with all deductions required by law there was a net profit of $210,972.66. It also shows the taxpayers got the benefit of $50,000. If the taxpayers had sold the plant for the $3,000,000 offered it would have paid all of our city debt, $2,419,184 and been in the city tax list for at least two thirds of its value and the taxpayers owners of the plant would have had a surplus of more than one half a million dollars to put in the bank at 4 1-2 per cent, earning more than $22,500.00 a year for the benefit of the owners. But of course the people on the inside would have lost their fat jobs and that would have been bad. But the sum and substance of the whole thing is that if the little householder wants any light he has got to pay the freight.

The gas and electrical department is a close corporation. Nobody has any jurisdiction over it. The commissioners are absolutely in control. So, Mr. C. E. West, you and the rest of us owners of the gas and electrical municipal plant will get what they see fit to hand out to us. Little dogs we are the under dog, always have been and always will be unless we get together and sell the whole outfit.

FORECLOSURE FOR $2,725 ON OCEAN BEACH PROPERTY

Judgment by stipulation in the amount of $2,725 was entered by Judge John Richards Booth at the short calendar session of the superior court in New London Friday in the foreclosure case involving property at Ocean beach, brought by Henry J. Welsob, of Hartford, against Albert M. Simons and Abe Shimmelman of Hartford and Ocean beach.

In addition to the mortgage which was foreclosed it was brought out in court that there are three other mortgages on the property, one for $5,250, one for $1,200 and one for $1,300. Jan. 21 was set as the day of redemption for the defendant Simons, and the following day for the defendant, Shimmelman. The latter is a defendant by reason of a mortgage he holds on the property. The property consists of a cottage on the boardwalk and land upon which it is situated.

Allowance to defend in the sum of $50, $25 to be paid right away and the balance on the day of trial was granted in the contested divorce action brought by Aldo J. Santin against Mary A. Santin, both of Mystic.

Continuance of one month and order of notice was granted as to the non-appearing defendant, George A. Gould of Brighton, Mass., in the case of Weeks against Sullivan and Gould.

Anson T. McCook, treasurer, state of Connecticut against the Groton & Stonington Street Railway Co., et al; judgment in accordance with decision of the supreme court of errors.

Other motions on the list went off.

THREE DIVORCES GRANTED; TWO DESERTIONS RESERVED

Three uncontested divorces were granted and the papers were taken in two others, by Judge John Richards Booth at the short calendar session of the superior court Friday morning.

On the grounds of desertion alleged since March 1, 1920, Mary W. Archer of New London was given a divorce from Joseph Archer, now of unknown address. The couple were married Sept. 10, 1918, and the petitioner was granted a change of name to Mary Woodsee.

On the grounds of intolerable cruelty, Florence E. Barber of this city was granted a divorce from Charles H. Barber. They were married Aug. 30, 1920. Attorney Thomas W. Shields represented the plaintiff, who was also given custody of a minor child.

Leonard J. Prue of Poquonoc Bridge, was granted a divorce on the grounds of desertion from Mabel C. Prue. The couple was married Dec. 13, 1913 and desertion was alleged since Sept. 2, 1914.

Judge Booth took the papers in the case of Margaret Y. Post of New London against Frederick L. Post of Thomaston, Me. The couple was married June 11, 1904 and desertion was alleged since Jan. 2, 1923. The court also reserved decision in the case of Muriel E. Myers of this city against Theodore E. Myers of Montville. They were married Feb. 29, 1924. Habitual intemperance for more than a year past and intolerable cruelty since March 1, 1926, were alleged. The petitioner also seeks a change of name to Muriel E. Yeager.

CHILDREN'S CLASS PLANS AT NORWICH ART SCHOOL

The children's class at Norwich Art school is to open for the season this (Saturday) morning. SPEAKERS AT REPUBLICAN RALLY LAUD HOOVER AS CANDIDATE

The republicans fired the opening gun of the presidential campaign locally Friday night in the town hall at which two speakers extolled the fitness and qualifications of Herbert Hoover to meet and solve the problems coming into the national life. Mrs. Ruth White Colton, a former member of the women's national committee from New Jersey, spoke of the national problems in which women are particularly interested, and Hon. Frederick C. Walcott of Norfolk, who is running for election as United States senator from this state, said nothing about his own candidacy but gave the audience of 300 present a thrilling word picture of the human side of Hoover which was vigorously applauded.

The opening of the rally in the town hall was preceded by a march from the republican headquarters in Broadway, led by Swahns band, which also rendered several concert numbers in the hall before the speakers took their places upon the platform escorted by Chairman George M. Charbonneau of the town committee, Mayor Lee Roy Robbins and Mrs. Frank L. Royce, also of the town committee.

Chairman Charbonneau called the rally to order and announced that under the auspices of the Hoover club he had invited Mayor Robbins to act as chairman.

Mayor Robbins first called for a verse of the Star Spangled Banner which Hugh Kinder led in an inspiring manner. The mayor announced that beginning October 4 and every Thursday afternoon thereafter is to be ladies' afternoon at the republican headquarters, with music and speakers.

Mrs. Colton Speaks.

In introducing Mrs. Colter as the first speaker, Mayor Robbins said that while there is an effort to make it appear that there are many issues in this campaign, there seemed to him to be really one issue, and that is good government. At the time he became a voter, he said, the democrats believed in free trade. Now they have changed their minds completely. There is an effort on their part to introduce in this campaign issues which dont exist, and it is perfectly evident that this is all camouflage to cover up the fact that the democrats have no issue.

In opening her brief adress, Mrs. Colton said she proposed to speak of some human problems in which the women of the nation were particularly interested and she declared that she knew of no person with such personal characteristics, such a background, training and the experience to meet and solve these problems as Herbert Hoover. We women, she said, are to stand and work for him till the last ballot is cast on November 6. We know that these have been prosperous years, a prosperity that has been real and of which the protective tariff is a cornerstone. Under it we have built up a standard of living that challenges the admiration of the world, but we know history shows that when the government has changed into democratic hands the country has faced depression and disaster.

Another problem is that of agrarian discontent. No man is better able to solve these questions than the republican candidate for president, Herbert Hoover, with his genius for organization and his belief in the development of or internal waterways. His leadership should bring a more sympathetic attitude towards this problem than has existed in the past ten years.

We should appreciate also, said Mrs. Colton, what has been done in the past eight years under republican national leadership in bringing about a better understanding with our Latin-American neighbors and the crowning achievement of the Kellogg treaty affecting our relations with European nations. Referring to prohibition, Mrs. Colton said she couldn't see how any intelligent man or woman could throw away loyalty to party because they believed the 18th amendment is involved in this campaign. Both candidates have promised to support the constitution and either will have to take oath if elected. Let anyone study what is involved in changing the constitution and he will see that a protest vote is a wasted vote. Prohibition is not an issue that properly belongs in this campaign, but the campaign is a challenge to the women of America to continue the prosperity of the last eight years that has been little short of an economic miracle.

Candidate for Senator Speaks

Mr. Wolcott, who is the republican party's candidate for United States senator, was introduced by Mayor Robbins, who referred to the fact that he had served two terms in the state senate with Mr. Wolcott, who, he declared, would grace the United States senate.

The senatorial candidate returned the compliment by telling his audience that no man could have made a better record in the state senate than did Mayor Robbins, and he went on to speak in an intimate personal way of Mr. Hoover, with whom he had been closely associated ever since he met him in London in the early years of the World war. Mr. Wolcott said there were three characteristics of Mr. Hoover which he wished to bring out—his modesty, his resourcefulness in great emergencies and his great human sympathy.

Mr. Wolcott described how Mr. Hoover was confronted with the problem of assuring a food supply for the civilian population of the allies and how he built up the idea among the housekeepers of the United States to pledge their families to save wheat and fats which the allied nations needed. Hoover said the women can fight and they proved that they could and now they are to follow him with their votes. The speaker also told in an especially interesting way of the situation just after the battle of Belleau wood, in which the "Yankee devils" turned back the German troops, and where Hoover observed the field of waving wheat that needed to be harvested. It was Hoover who suggested to the Frenchmen to put the German prisoners to work. This solved one of the vital problems of France for the 320,000 German prisoners harvested the grain in about three weeks, all the result of the determination and suggestion of one man, and that man was Herbert Hoover.

Mr. Wolcott referred also to what he knew of the display of human sympathy on the part of Hoover in the Mississipi flood district, when poor families would complain of having left behind a dog or a parrot or a pig or a sheep. Somehow Hoover would contrive to recover the animal. Then the people of Louisiana complained they were losing all their muskrats, valuable fur-bearing animals. "All right", said Hoover, "build rafts which the muskrats can climb onto." This was done and the rafts were loaded down with the muskrats. But they are nocturnal animals and the constant exposure to sunlight made them blind. Again Hoover saved the situation. "Put hay on the rafts," he said. This was done, the muskrats crawled in under the hay and the muskrat crop crop was saved. Hoover proved equal to every emergency, said Mr Wolcott.

In closing Mr. Wolcott made reference to Mr. Hoover's extreme modesty, when he told of King Albert of Belgium decorating Mr. Hoover with the unique title "Friend of the Belgian People", and also of a return visit Mr Hoover made to Poland where a parade had been arranged of 20,000 children who owed their lives to the measures directed by Mr. Hoover. The children went by shouting and cheering but the sight was too much for Mr Hoover, who, with the tears streaming down his face, begged that the parade be stopped because the children had no strength for such a demonstration.

In conclusion Mr. Wolcott stirred his audience to enthusiastic applause as he told of the congratulations that came to Mr. Hoover upon his nomination and Mr. Wolcott declared that it would be nothing short of a miracle if any other man than Herbert Hoover should occupy the white house for the next four years.

At the conclusion of the rally many came forward to shake hands with the two speakers.

Tenth Birthday Party

In honor of her birthday Mary Louise Manchester entertained a number of playmates and friends Wednesday at her home, No. 399 Laurel Hill avenue. In the peanut hunt Phyllis Metcalf won the prize and the prize for pinning the tail on the donkey was won by Miss Manchester and Donald Benjamin. Refreshments were served and the favors were celluloid dolls in colonial dress.

Those present were Mary Louise Manchester, Jean Spicer, Virginia Hastedt, Aileen Sheehan, Dorothy Colt, Phyllis Metcalf, Lois Metcalf, Jean Killian Joyce Benjamin, Lewis Manchester and Donald Benjamin.

Mrs. Manchester was assisted in serving by Mrs. H. P. Benjamin and Mrs. Leslie Manchester.

Rev. Edward C. Dunbar has resigned the pastorate of the First Baptist church, effective November 1st. Rev. Mr. Dunbar tendered his resignation at the regular weekly prayer meeting at the church Thursday evening.

Rev. Mr. Dunbar who has been pastor of the church for the last six years, has accepted a call to the Baptist church at Flemington, N. J. He came here from Middletown In July, 1922, where he had a parish while attending Newton seminary. Rev. Mr. Dunbar has taken a prominent part in the community activities and in Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, of which he is a past commander. The news of his resignation was received with deep regret by his many friends in other parishes as well as his own.

Shut Out Coast Guard Band

Opposition of the local musicians union has shut out the U. S. Coast Guard Academy band from appearing at the Taftville field day this (Saturday) afternoon. The field day management had advertised the appearance of the coast guard band, but ran up against the local union's stranglehold on the musical situation and found it could not get permission to have the coast guard musicians play at the field day.

EAGLEVILLE

The wedding of Miss Eva J. Perkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Harlow of Storrs, and Clifford L. Korner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Korner of West Willington, took place at the Congregational parsonage at Mansfield Center Saturday, Sept. 15th, at 4 o'clock. Rev. Mrs. Florence Jones officiated, assisted by Rev. T. H. Jones. The double ring ceremony was used. The bride was attended by Mrs. Charles Lyons as matron of honor. Mr. Lyons, an uncle of the groom, was best man. The bride's dress was of white crepe de chine. She wore a blue hat and carried white roses. The matron of honor wore blue crepe de chine with hatto match. There were fourteen in the wedding party. A supper was served at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents to about forty relatives and friends. Guests were present from Torrington, Plainville, East Hartford, West Willington, Mansfield, Conn., and Elmhurst, L. I. The bride received many gifts of china, silver and electrical appliances. They will reside with the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whipple and three daughters of Muncie, Ind., visited Mr. Whipple's cousins, Richard W. and Randall Hamer, last week Friday and Saturday. They made the trip by automobile and have been touring the New England states. They left here Saturday for Philadelphia. Mr. Whipple lived here when a boy.

Mr. and Mrs George Reynolds motored to Providence Sunday to visit their son, Howard and other relatives in that vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. George Adams have returned home after spending last week with relatives in Westfield and Easthompton, Mass. They attended the Eastern States exposition in Springfield, Mass., Sunday.

Mrs. Randall Hamer left Monday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Patrick Eruen, in Beacon, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Warren are residing in Hartford.

Mrs. William Converse has a Dorothy Perkins rose bush with several bunches of blossoms on it.

Master Ernest Doro has a broken arm sustained while playing.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carroll and Mr. and Mrs. Welfer Porter and children of Springdale, Mass. visited Mrs. H. F. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Prue Sunday.

MISS A. H. WILSON DIED FOLLOWING OPERATION

BLOSSBURG, Pa., Sept. 21—(AP)—Miss Agnes Hart Wilson, daughter of William B. Wilson, secretary of labor in the Wilson administration, died at the Blossburg hospital today. She submitted to a serious operation several days ago.

Miss Wilson was the democratic nominee for congress in the 16th Pennsylvania district at the coming election.

Are You Run Down, Weak, Nervous?
To have plenty of firm flesh and the ability to do a big day's work and feel "like a two-year old" at night, you must eat three good meals a day, relish your food and properly digest it. If you can't eat, can't sleep, can't work, just take a teaspoonful of Tanlac before meals.

Mr. Stephen Vitale, of 127 Springdale Ave., Meriden, Conn., says: "I was a weak, thin, puny boy and grew up to manhood in that condition. But Tanlac fixed me up. It increased my appetite and made my stomach all over so I could digest everything. I gained 25 lbs."

Tanlac is wonderful for indigestion and constipation—gas, pains, nausea, dizziness and headaches. It brings back lost appetite, helps you digest your food, and gain strength and weight. It contains no mineral drugs; it is made of roots, barks and herbs, nature's own medicines for the sick. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist. Your money back if it doesn't help.

AMERICAN LEGION FIELD DAY PROGRAM AT TAFTVILLE TODAY IS ATTRACTIVE

When the American legion post of Taftville puts on their annual field day program at the Providence street grounds this afternoon, local people can rest assured of several hours of solid enjoyment. The program is so diversified that it will appeal to young and old alike, to those who like track events and to those who enjoy novelty and humorous events. There will be dash events for the professionals and for the amateurs, a tug of war, a doll parade, and last but not least a rolling pin throwing contest.

As a feature attraction the turning section of the Maennerchor club will appear in their new uniforms for the first time and will put on such an exhibition as has never been seen in Taftville before. The turning section drill has always been an outstanding event at the Taftville field days and it is expected that today's exhibition will surpass those of previous years.

For real humor it is expected that the rolling-pin contest will supply many laughs, not only at the contests but at the husbands of the contests. Last night it was said that several of the men had refused to allow their sparring partners to enter the contest but as everyone knows, that will make little difference. One man in the village said that when he came out hatless and said his wife was not going to participate she started practicing for the event immediately. Now this same man is willing to wager four to one against the field that his wife will cop the prize.

For the track events some of the best known of the local athletes will compete and for these events a number of suitable prizes have been donated. Fast time is expected to be made as several of the boys entered have been members of college and high school track teams.

The officials for the day are: Walter Grant, starter; Erastus Yerrington, timer; Adolph Leupold, secretary of events; Arthur Roy, announcer; Richard B. Snow, Albert E. Pingree, William Bailey, Archie Molleur and Albert Aberg, judges; Mrs. George Blood, Mrs. Napoleon Parent and Miss Agnes Malone, judges for the doll carriage parade; Miss Elsie Heap, Miss Florrie M. Meyer, Mrs. Theodore Belval and Mrs. Andrew Frohmader, in charge of the tickets.

HARVARD SQUAD HAS BUT EASY WORKOUT

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 21—(AP)—The Harvard football squad had an easy time today after its first scrimmage yesterday. The only feature of the day's drill was the promotion of Sam Batchelder, a halfback, from team C to team A. Batchelder was with the freshman team last year and, before that, starred at Milton academy. He replaced Guarnaccia, veteran halfback who was given a rest.

Three more players were added to the injured list. John Prior, an end who won his letter last year, suffered a leg injury and two linemen, Warner and Cunningham, collided head-on, and were ordered to rest for the next few days.

The squad will scrimmage tomorrow morning and that will be the only practice for the day. Beginning next week, practice will be held in the afternoon only.

ZACHERY PUTS YANKS IN VAN WITH HIS HURLING

CHICAGO Sept. 21—(AP)—Just when the Yankees seemed to be slipping toward a final plunge down under, old Tom Zachery came hobbling to the rescue with a brand of left handed pitching which the White Sox couldn't hit. The former Washington veteran so scattered eight Chicago safeties here today that the home forces got only two runs, and the Yankees won 5 to 2.

Not satisfied with his defensive efforts and desiring apparently a margin greater than the thin edge the Yanks had given him, old Tom battered the last two New York runs into the records in the eighth with a home run into the upper deck of the right field seats. Durocher previously had singled.

With the defeat of the Athletics by Detroit today, the Yankees by their victory, just doubled their lead, whereas yesterday they were forced to stand idly by and see it cut in half.

The margin of the champions tonight is two full engagements, with only nine more to be played.

Tony Lazzeri resumed his post at second and gave a good enough account of himself, but became painful Babe Ruth again went without hits, and he, too, retired early because of an injury. The Babe led off in the fifth with a walk and dashed to third on Gehrig's single. Ruth twisted a knee in the slide, and resigned in favor of Durst a few innings later. That single was Gehrig's only safety. Score:

RUFFING WINS OWN GAME WITH HOMER

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21—(AP)—Charley Ruffing, Boston Red Sox pitcher, won his own game from the St. Louis Browns today, 5 to 3, by hitting a homer in the seventh with two men on. The Browns got three runs in the first on four hits and an error. After that Ruffing steadied down and held them scoreless. Score:

Maloney Wins Over Demave

BOSTON, Sept. 21—(AP)—Jim Maloney, of this city, won a ten round decision over Jack DeMave, of New York here tonight. It was the second victory that Maloney, one time contender for the world's heavyweight championship, gained over DeMave. The Boston man led all the way but failed to tip over the New Yorker.

SEVERAL FAST BOUTS FEATURED DUWELL'S LAST OUTDOOR SHOW

The farewell outdoor boxing show of the Duwell A. A. gave to the fans one of the best shows of the season. Ten of the twelve bouts were chock full of action and gave the fans one real knockout and three technical K. O's. In what was supposed to be the feature bout of the card ended in the second when the referee, Frankie Busch gave the fight to Phil Gingerella of Westerly. Ben Herr of Danielson was taking a hammering from the Westerly boy and was in a bad condition when the bout was stopped.

Joe Mileski, 127 pounds, of Norwich, making his debut in the game, won on a technical K. O. over Louis Lague same weight of Danielson. Both boys were over anxious and missed many hard blows but Mileski was the stronger of the two and had the Danielson boy down twice in the first for no count and twice again in the second, which was enough for the Danielson lad.

Bobby Elliott of Springfield the boxer with a nice left jab and the ability to get it in and get away, won the decision over Ernest Gauvin of Taftville in the second bout. Gauvin, the fighter, kept rushing, in but ran into a left that dropped him in the second for six as the bell tolled. Gauvin found Elliott a hard man to fight and had difficulty getting through his crouch and his guard and was rather tired at the bell. Gauvin weighed 128 and Elliott 122.

Geo. Tauff the popular New London hard hitter had his hands full with John Tateronis of Worcester and was a lucky boy to win. With every punch Tauff ran into John's straight left which sent the former back on his heels. Tauff was the aggressor all the way through, rushing in and trying to get over his hard right. But the Worcester lad tied him up pretty well in the clinches and held his own. The decision went to Tauff, which pleased about half of the fans. Both boys weighed 126 lbs.

Another mighty hard fought battle showed Frankie Cotter of Worcester gaining the award over Albert Gauthier of Springfield, but it took him four rounds to win. Gauthier tired in the final and gave the Worcester entry the edge. Both lads slugged throughout, first one taking the upper hand, and then the other. Gauthier weighed in at 125 and Cotter three pounds less.

Frenchman met Frenchman in the next encounter and both proved tough ones. Al Broulard of Danielson stacked up against Ronald Boucher of Springfield and won the judges decision, but he, too, knew that he had been in a fight. Broulard had Boucher pretty tired in the second and had him hanging on the ropes but the latter battled his way out. The final round found the Springfield lad tired but game. Both were hard hitters and had the crowd cheering lustily. Boucher weighed 136 and Broulard 139.

The next bout was short and sweet. Jack Boulay of Danielson went into a mixup with Joe Wiecik of Pawcatuck and the latter brought over his short right to Boulay's jaw and it was all over. Bulay weighed in at 126 and Wiecik 128.

Lionel Paradis won his battle with Oliver Paul on a foul in the first round and Paradis was tickled to death that he did. Paul was all together too strong for the Danielson boxer and the latter knew it. Paradis went down to get away from Paul, and the latter drove one in while Paradis was on his hands and knees. What no doubt would have been a victory for him was turned into a loss. Both tipped the scales at 129.

Ray Kelley of Springfield put up a game battle against Mike Troy the Worcester tough boy, but the latter was too powerful, and knew more about the game than Kelley and won the fight from the start, although he took several on the jaw. Kelley weighed 136 and Troy one pound more.

Tony Libesjewski or something like that) layed down to Freddie Basade in the first round. The Springfield lad just didn't seem to like Freddie's heavy artillery and called it, quits after taking a few. They are welterweights.

The next bout was the clown one of the evening, but that wasn't Jack Dowd's fault. Frank Marino of New London just crawled into his shell and stayed there, only two or three times attempting to hit the Worcester boy. The latter did all the fighting but did not forget all along that Marino did have a hard right punch if the latter used it. The sailor lad didn't like the boos of the crowd and threatened to take some of the bystanders into camp after the fight. Sure was a queer battle and the Worcester boy won hands down. Marino weighed 167 and Dowd 163.

The final bout, although it did not turn out to be the feature one, gave the fans an idea how well their friend Phil Gingerella can fight when he has to. Ben Herr the Danielson Adonis was pretty well cut up from Phil's wallops, and although he gamely swung his arms, hi shlows lacked steam and did not bother Phil. It got rather one-sided and Frankie Busch humanely called a halt. Ben weighed 161 and Phil 160.

The crowd seemed somewhat smaller than usual but just as rabid, and the excellent show winds up the successful outdoor season for the club. The judges were Doctor Sussler and Jackie Wilson and the timekeeper, Jack Carr.

SENATORS WIN TWICE BY THE SAME SCORE

CLEVELAND, Sept. 21—(AP)—The Washington Senators took a double header from Cleveland today, winning both games 2 to 1. In the first contest the Indians outhit the invaders. Underhill, a recruit, allowing eight hits while the Tribesmen gathered nine off Braxton.

In the second, Sam Jones held the Cleveland line-up, which consisted almost entirely of rookies, to four hits. Moore, a Southern league recruit allowed the Nationals five safeties. Joe Judge was the batting star, collecting five hits in the two games. Score:

PIRATES TAKE CLOSE GAME FROM PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21—(AP)—Pittsburgh made it two in a row over the Phillies here today 6 to 5 in a game marked by three home runs.

Pittsburgh got away to a four run start in the first when Wright hit over the right field wall with two on and one run in. The Phillies came back and evened the score when Leach hit a homer behind Klein's double, after Williams walked as the next batter, Whitney hit into the left field bleachers. This finished Remy Kremer and Joe Dawson, who went to the slab in the second inning, held the Phillies to seven hits and one run.

Freddy Leach got four hits including a home run and a double. Score:

SECOND GAME OF THAMES AND GREENEVILLE SERIES SUN.

The second game of the series between the All-Greeneville and the Thames A. C. will take place Sunday afternoon on Hollyhock Island. As the series now stands the Greeneville team won the first game last Sunday by a score of 4 to 2 and this game went for ten innings. This Sunday the West Side team is out to even the series and the fans can be sure of a hot conflict.

Mgr. Nevins of the Greeneville team says he will start Couture, p; Burns, c; Nevins, 1b; Quinn, 2b; Marchard, ss; Cummings, 3b; McGowan, rf; Kozerski, cf; Fitzgerald, lf;

The Thames A. C. will have Labenski or Kotch, p; Berghinzo, 1b; Blinderman or Busch, c; Kozlowski, 2b; Burns, ss; L. Hamel, 3 b; Mullins, lf; Lemieux, cf; Boyington, rf.

Danielson Challenges Putnam

Danielson would like to hear from Manager Murphy of the B-H Silk Sox ball team regarding a three game series to be played off to determine who's who and why? In the Eastern Conn. Industrial league both Danielson and Putnam have had about an even break, and these three games ought to decide something. No ringers or hired stars in either nine—players strictly the same as used in the previous games already played. What do you say Murphy?

LARGE NUMBER OF OUTBOARD MOTOR BOATS IN RACE ON THAMES TODAY

At least a dozen boats, motor boats, sea sleds and other motor driven craft will line up at Dawley's dock this afternoon for the 35 mile dash down the Thames and return. The race, the second of its kind staged in the vicinity, will be from Norwich to Southwest Light off New London and return up the Thames.

The entry list up to last night showed twelve boats and there is every prospect that this number will be boosted before starting time this afternoon as it is likely that there will be several post entries. Among those already entered are Bozo, the boat operated by Albert Gebraith, Groton, a former Norwich boy and the Spencer Special owned by Arthur Rettberg of Hartford the two winners in the recent Shenecossett race. Other prominent boats are those owned by Lou's Chapman of Groton and Harry Johnson of New Haven. The Chapman boat recently placed third in the Boston to New York race, while the pair of boats owned by Mr. Johnson, Witchcraft I and Witchcraft II, have been going great in the further end of the state.

Other entrants are boats owned and driven by Joseph Parsons, Eastern Point, Milton Green, Norwich, Joseph French, Norwich, William Mitchell, Norwich, Orion C. Ford, Groton, J. H. Wilford, Groton, L. M. Lynch, New London and Mr. Hanover of New London. In addition to these it is likely that there will be several boats from Westerly.

All boats will be required to stop and fill, the operators being forbidden to use reserve tanks of gasoline and no boat will be allowed to start unless the operator is equipped with a life preserver and fire extinguisher. Silver loving cups will be presented the first three to finish in each class, B and C, and others to finish will be awarded a pair of brass polished oarlocks. Prizes have been donated by the Duwell A. A. sponsors of the race, J. and G. H. Bliss company, John H. Ferguson company, The Pequot Brass Foundry, E. D. Steele of New London and Jacks Sport Shop.

Frank M. Green and Archie Spalding will officiate as timers with James Griswold of Hartford in the capacity of referee. Larger crafts donated by William Frisbie. Herbert Ferguson and Joseph French will control the river during the race. The race will start at two o'clock sharp and with good weather the distance will probably be covered in about an hour and a quarter.

REDS AND BRAVES GET EVEN BREAK IN TWIN BILL

BOSTON, Sept. 21—(AP)—The Boston Braves and the Cincinnati Reds split a double header here today, the Braves taking the first game 5 to 3, and the visitors the second, 3 to 2.

Hornsby's home run in the seventh inning of the first game was an important factor in the Braves' victory and, although he repeated that accomplishment in the seventh inning of the second, the result was not as effective.

Cincinnati in today's games established a major league record for double plays in a single season, making its 183rd double play in the first game and adding two to that total in the second. Score:

VANCE PITCHES DODGERS TO WIN OVER CHICAGO

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 21—(AP)—The fading pennant hopes of the Chicago Cubs suffered a rude shock here today when Dazzy Vance held them to two singles and Brooklyn scored a 2 to 1 victory over Art Nehf. The defeat reduced the Cubs to a position four full games behind the idle Cards and two full games behind the equally idle Giants.

An error led to the only Chicago run in the first inning. Bancroft fumbled Cuyler's grounder with two out and the batter reached first. Vance had two strikes on Wilson when he singled to center, scoring Cuyler.

The Cubs did not register another hit until the ninth when English led off with a single. Vance retired the next three men in order. The dazzler had his strike ball working to perfection, whiffing eleven of the Cubs in the course of the day.

The Robins reached Nehf for six hits. Gilbert's single, West's double and Bressler's sacrifice fly tied the score in the first inning. Brooklyn won the game in the sixth when Herman reached first on Maguire's fumble and singles by Bressler and Bissonette filled the bases with one out. After Flowers had popped out, Nehf walked Bancroft, forcing Herman over the plate with the winning run. Score:

Yale Gridster in Accident

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 21—(AP)—Fred Loeser, candidate for the center position on the Yale varsity football eleven, had a narrow escape from serious injury today when he collided with another machine while on his way to morning practice. He was thrown from his automobile when it overturned at a crossing but an examination showed that he was only slightly bruised an dsustained a cut on the right shoulder. He reported for practice in the afternoon.

ATHLETICS SLIP BACK A GAME BY LOSING TO TIGERS

DETROIT, Sept. 21—(AP)—The pennant progress of the Athletics received a serious check here today when the Tigers hammered out a 9 to 5 victory over the Mackmen in the second game of the series. Coupled with the Yankees' success over the White Sox in Chicago, the defeat put the Athletics two games out of first place with only eight more to play.

The Tigers triumphed at the expense of Robert Moses Grove, southpaw ace of Philadelphia. Included in the attacks that brought about Grove's retirement, in the fifth inning, was a home run by Harry Rice with the bases filled.

Subsequently, Jonathan Stone, recruit outfielder, hit a home run off Ossie Orwol' with two bases occupied, so that seven of Detroit's nine runs were due to circuit smashes.

Elam Van Gilder, long known as a nemesis of the Athletics, pitched the full route and held the visitors to seven hits. After Rice's homer gave him a three run lead, Van Gilder was never in danger.

The Athletics' first run was due to faulty fielding. It came in the opening inning. Bishop reached first when Van Gilder muffed Heilmann's throw on his grounder. Stone took Haas' fly but dropped one from Cochrane's bat and two runners were on base where as three should have been out. Simmons then singled to right, scoring Bishop.

That Grove was not himself became apparent for the first time in the fourth when singles by Stone, Gehringer, Heilmann and Fothergill produced two runs and gave the Tigers the lead for the first time. Van Gilder wavered in the fifth and the Mackmen went ahead again, scoring twice on a pass to Bishop, Simmons' triple to right and Foxx's single.

Woodall opened the Detroit half of the fifth with a single to center only to be forced at second by Van Gilder. Stone's scratch single and Grove's fumble of Gehringer's grounder filled the bases and set the stage for Rice's game-wrecking clout.

The Athletics added their last run in the eighth on a pass to Foxx, Miller's single, Hale's sacrifice and an infield out.

Rommel, who replaced Grove, held the Tigers scoreless as long as he was in the box, but retired to allow Eddie Collins to bat for him in the eighth. Orwoll was pitching for the Macks when Detroit took its last turn at bat. Tavener got on base by forcing Fothergill, who had walked, and Van Gilder beat out a hit to the box. With these runners on base, Stone hit the ball to deep right center and circled the paths behind them, beating the relayed throw from the outfield by a narrow margin. Score:

AMERICAN LEGION FIELD DAY PROGRAM AT TAFTVILLE TODAY IS ATTRACTIVE

When the American legion post of Taftville puts on their annual field day program at the Providence street grounds this afternoon local people can rest assured of several hours of solid enjoyment. The program is so diversified that it will appeal to young and old alike, to those who like track events and to those who enjoy novelty and humorous events. There will be dash events for the professionals and for the amateurs, a tug of war, a doll parade, and last but not least a rolling pin throwing contest.

As a feature attraction the turning section of the Maenerchor club will appear in their new uniforms for the first time and will put on such an exhibition as has never been seen in Taftville before. The turning section drill has always been an outstanding event at the Taftville field days and it is expected that today's exhibition will surpass those of previous years.

For real humor it is expected that the rolling-pin contest will supply many laughs, not only at the contests but at the husbands of the contests. Last night it was said that several of the men had refused to allow their sparring partners to enter the contest but as everyone knows, that will make little difference. One man in the village said that when he came out flat-footed and said his wife was not going to participate she started practicing for the event immediately. Now this same man is willing to wager four to one against the field that his wife will cop the prize.

For the track events some of the best known of the local athletes will compete and for these events a number of suitable prizes have been donated. Fast time is expected to be made as several of the boys entered have been members of college and high school track teams.

The officials for the day are: Walter Grant, starter; Erastus Yerrington, timer; Adolph Leupold, secretary of events; Arthur Roy, announcer; Richard B. Snow, Albert E. Pingree, William Bailey, Archie Molleur and Albert Aberg, judges; Mrs. George Blood, Mrs. Napoleon Parent and Miss Agnes Malone, judges for the doll barringe parade; Miss Elsie Heap, Miss Fleetie M. Meyer, Mrs. Theodore Belval and Mrs. Andrew Frohmader, in charge of the tickets.

HARVARD SQUAD HAS BUT EASY WORKOUT

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 21—(AP)—The Harvard football squad had an easy time today after its first scrimmage yesterday. The only feature of the day's drill was the promotion of Sam Batchelder, a halfback, from team C to team A. Batchelder was with the freshman team last year and, before that, starred at Milton academy. He replaced Guarnaccia, veteran halfback who was given a rest.

Three more players were added to the injured list. John Prior, an end who won his letter last year, suffered a leg injury and two linemen, Warner and Cunningham, collided head-on, and were ordered to rest for the next few days.

The squad will scrimmage tomorrow morning and that will be the only practice for the day. Beginning next week, practice will be held in the afternoon only.

ZACHERY PUTS YANKS IN VAN WITH HIS HURLING

CHICAGO Sept. 21—(AP)—Just when the Yankees seemed to be slipping toward a final plunge down under, old Tom Zachery came hobbling to the rescue with a brand of left handed pitching which the White Sox couldn't hit. The former Washington veteran so scattered eight Chicago safeties here today that the home forces got only two runs, and the Yankees won 5 to 2.

Not satisfied with his defensive efforts and desiring apparently a margin greater than the thin edge the Yanks had given him, old Tom battered the last two New York runs into the records in the eighth with a home run into the upper deck of the right field seats. Durocher previously had singled.

With the defeat of the Athletics by Detroit today, the Yankees by their victory, just doubled their lead, whereas yesterday they were forced to stand idly by and see it cut in half.

The margin of the champions tonight is two full engagements, with only nine more to be played.

Babe Ruth again went without hits, and he, too, retired early because of an injury. The Babe led off in the fifth with a walk and dashed to third on Gehrig's single. Ruth twisted a knee in the slide, and resigned in favor of Durst a few innings later. That single was Gehrig's only safety. Score:

BOSTON, Sept. 21—(AP)—Jim Maloney, of this city, won a ten round decision over Jack DeMave, of New York here tonight. It was the second victory that Maloney, one time contender for the world's heavyweight championship, gained over DeMave. The Boston man led all the way but failed to tip over the New Yorker.

SENATORS WIN TWICE BY THE SAME SCORE

CLEVELAND, Sept. 21—(AP)—The Washington Senators took a double header from Cleveland today, winning both games 2 to 1. In the first contest the Indians outhit the invaders, Underhill, a recruit, allowing eight hits while the Tribesmen gathered nine off Braxton.

In the second, Sam Jones held the Cleveland line-up, which consisted almost entirely of rookies, to four hits. Moore, a Southern league recruit allowed the Nationals five safeties. Joe Judge was the batting star, collecting five hits in the two games. Score:

PIRATES TAKE CLOSE GAME FROM PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21—(AP)—Pittsburgh made it two in a row over the Phillies here today 6 to 5 in a game marked by three home runs.

Pittsburgh got away to a four run start in the first when Wright hit over the right field wall with two on and one out in the Phillies came back and evened the score when Leach hit a homer behind Klein's double, after Williams walked as the next batter, Whitney hit into the left field bleachers. This finished Remy Kremer and Joe Dawson, who went to the slab in the second inning, held the Phillies to seven hits and one run.

Freddy Leach got four hits including a home run and a double. Score:

SECOND GAME OF THAMES AND GREENEVILLE SERIES SUN.

The second game of the series between the All-Greeneville and the Thames A. C. will take place Sunday afternoon on Hollyhock Island. As the series now stands the Greeneville team won the first game last Sunday by a score of 4 to 2 and this game went for ten innings. This Sunday the West Side team is out to even the series and the fans can be sure of a hot conflict.

Mgr. Nevins of the Greeneville team says he will start Couture, p; Burns, c; Nevins, 1b; Quinn, 2b; Marchard, ss; Cummings, 3b; McGowan, rf; Kozerski, cf; Fitzgerald, lf;

The Thames A. C. will have Labenski or Kotch, p; Berghinzo, 1b; Blinderman or Busch, c; Kozlowski, 2b; Burns, ss; L. Hamel, 3 b; Mullins, lf; Lemieux, cf; Boyington, rf.

Danileson Challenges Putnam

Danielson would like to hear from Manager Murphy of the B-H Silk Sox ball team regarding a three game series to be played off to determine who's who and why? In the Eastern Conn. Industrial league both Danielson and Putnam have had about an even break, and these three games ought to decide something. No ringers or hired stars in either nine—players strictly the same as used in the previous games already played. What do you say Murphy?

At least a dozen boats, motor boats, sea sleds and other motor driven craft will line up at Dawley's dock this afternoon for the 35 mile dash down the Thames and return. The race, the second of its kind staged in the vicinity, will be from Norwich to Southwest Light off New London and return up the Thames.

The entry list up to last night showed twelve boats and there is every prospect that this number will be boosted before starting time this afternoon as it is likely that there will be several post entries. Among those already entered are Bozo, the boat operated by Albert Gebrath, Groton, a former Norwich boy and the Spencer Special owned by Arthur Rettberg of Hartford the two winners in the recent Shenecossett race. Other prominent boats are those owned by Louis Chapman of Groton and Harry Johnson of New Haven. The Chapman boat recently placed third in Lie Boston to New York race, while the pair of boats owned by Mr. Johnson, Witchcraft I and Witchcraft II, have been going great in the further end of the state.

Other entrants are boats owned and driven by Joseph Parsons, Eastern Point, Milton Green, Norwich, Joseph French, Norwich, William Mitchell, Norwich, Orion C. Ford, Groton, J. H. Wilford, Groton, L. M. Lynch, New London and Mr. Hanover of New London. In addition to these it is likely that there will be several boats from Westerly.

All boats will be required to stop and fill, the operators being forbidden to use reserve tanks of gasoline and no boat will be allowed to start unless the operator is equipped with a life preserver and fire extinguisher. Silver loving cups will be presented the first three to finish in each class, B and C, and others to finish will be awarded a pair of brass polished oar locks. Prizes have been donated by the Duwell A. A., sponsors of the race, J. and G. H. Bliss company, John H. Ferguson company, The Pequot Brass Foundry, E. D. Steele of New London and Jacks Sport Shop.

Frank M. Green and Archie Spalding will officiate as timers with James Griswold of Hartford in the capacity of referee. Larger crafts donated by William Frisbie, Herbert Ferguson and Joseph French will control the river during the race. The race will start at two o'clock sharp and with good weather the distance will probably be covered in about an hour and a quarter.

REDS AND BRAVES GET EVEN BREAK IN TWIN BILL

BOSTON, Sept. 21—(AP)—The Boston Braves and the Cincinnati Reds split a double header here today, the Braves taking the first game 5 to 3, and the visitors the second, 3 to 2.

Hornsby's home run in the seventh inning of the first game was an important factor in the Braves' victory and, although he repeated that accomplishment in the seventh inning of the second, the result was not as effective.

Cincinnati in today's games established a major league record for double plays in a single season, making its 183rd double play in the first game and adding two to that total in the second. Score:

VANCE PITCHES DODGERS TO WIN OVER CHICAGO

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 21—(AP)—The fading pennant hopes of the Chicago Cubs suffered a rude shock here today when Dazzy Vance held them to two singles and Brooklyn scored a 2 to 1 victory over Art Nehf. The defeat reduced the Cubs to a position four full games behind the idle Cards and two full games behind the equally idle Giants.

An error led to the only Chicago run in the first inning. Bancroft fumbled Cuyler's grounder with two out and the batter reached first. Vance had two strikes on Wilson when he singled to center, scoring Cuyler.

The Cubs did not register another hit until the ninth when English led off with a single. Vance retired the next three men in order. The dazzler had his strike ball working to perfection, whiffing eleven of the Cubs in the course of the day.

The Robins reached Nehf for six hits. Gilbert's single, West's double and Bressler's sacrifice fly tied the score in the first inning. Brooklyn won the game in the sixth when Herman reached first on Maguire's fumble and singles by Bressler and Bissonette filled the bases with one out. After Flowers had popped out, Nehf walked Bancroft, forcing Herman over the plate with the winning run. Score:

Yale Gridster in Accident

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 21—(AP)—Fred Loeser, candidate for the center position on the Yale varsity football eleven, had a narrow escape from serious injury today when he collided with another machine while on his way to morning practice. He was thrown from his automobile when it overturned at a crossing but an examination showed that he was only slightly bruised an dsustained a cut on the right shoulder. He reported for practice in the afternoon.

ATHLETICS SLIP BACK A GAME BY LOSING TO TIGERS

DETROIT, Sept. 21—(AP)—The pennant progress of the Athletics received a serious check here today when the Tigers hammered out a 9 to 5 victory over the Mackmen in the second game of the series. Coupled with the Yankees' success over the White Sox in Chicago, the defeat put the Athletics two games out of first place with only eight more to play.

The Tigers triumphed at the expense of Robert Moses Grove, southpaw ace of Philadelphia. Included in the attacks that brought about Grove's retirement, in the fifth inning, was a home run by Harry Rice with the bases filled.

Subsequently, Jonathan Stone, recruit outfielder, hit a home run off Ossie Orwol' with two bases occupied, so that seven of Detroit's nine runs were due to circuit smashes.

Elam Van Gilder, long known as a nemesis of the Athletics, pitched the full route and held the visitors to seven hits. After Rice's homer gave him a three run lead, Van Gilder was never in danger.

The Athletics' first run was due to faulty fielding. It came in the opening inning. Bishop reached first when Van Gilder muffed Heilmann's throw on his grounder. Stone took Haas' fly but dropped one from Cochrane's bat and two runners were on base whereas three should have been out. Simmons then singled to right, scoring Bishop.

That Grove was not himself became apparent for the first time in the fourth when singles by Stone, Gehringer, Heilmann and Fothergill produced two runs and gave the Tigers the lead for the first time. Van Gilder wavered in the fifth and the Mackmen went ahead again, scoring twice on a pass to Bishop, Simmons' triple to right and Foxx's single.

Woodall opened the Detroit half of the fifth with a single to center only to be forced at second by Van Gilder. Stone's scratch single and Grove's fumble of Gehringer's grounder filled the bases and set the stage for Rice's game-wrecking clout.

The Athletics added their last run in the eighth on a pass to Foxx, Miller's single, Hale's sacrifice and an infield out.

Rommel, who replaced Grove, held the Tigers scoreless as long as he was in the box, but two runs allow Eddie Collins to bat for him in the eighth. Orwoll was pitching for the Macks when Detroit took its last turn at bat. Tavener got on base by forcing Fothergill, who had walked, and Van Gilder beat out a hit to the box. With these runners on base, Stone hit the ball to deep right center and circled the paths behind them, beating the relayed throw from the outfield by a narrow margin. Score:

TWO EASTERN TEAMS GO INTO SEMI-FINALS

CHICAGO, Sept. 21—(AP)—Two youthful tennis teams from the Atlantic seaboard otday stroked their way into the semi-final round o the United States intersectional team championships when they overpowered two just as youthful combinations from the west on the turf courts of the Chicago Town and Tennis club.

The flashy eastern pair of Johnny Van Ryn, former Princeton net ace, and Gregory Mangin, disturber of Cochet in the national singles tournament, eliminated Harris Coggeshall of Des Moines, and Ted Eggeman of St. Louis, the Missouri valley youngsters. The middle states team of Frits Mercur and Sam Gilpin put the New England representatives Frank Lice and Holbrook Hyde out of the running.

Van Ryn and Mangin won their matches in straight sets but not until the former Princeton racket wielder had been forced to two deuce sets to defeat Coggeshall, 8-6, 7-5.

Mangin easily defeated Eggeman, winning 6-1, 6-2. Eggeman clearly showed his lack of knowledge of turf courts.

AL KOZIOL FLATTENS TWO MORE IN PROVIDENCE RING

(Special to The Bulletin)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 21— Al Koziol of Norwich, lightweight amateur champion of Rhode Island continued his march toward the country's high boxing pinacle in the amateurs here tonight when he knocked out two opponents inside of three rounds. Koziol was actually fighting less than six minutes during his two bouts.

In his first bout he bumped off Pete Bosiget of Marlboro, Mass., former New England lightweight amateur champion. Bosiget managed to stay for the first round but after the second bell his stay in the ring was of short duration. Koziol swarmed over him in this stanza and before the round was a minute old Bosiget was stretched on the canvas his seconds working frantically over him and it was fifteen minutes before he knew what it was all about.

The second bout in which he knocked out Johnny Dias of Fall River, a sparring partner of Tiger Silvia, had just started when it ended. Koziol gave Dias the works and it was curtains for the night. Dias could do nothing with Koziol who piled into him with both fists hammering away until Dias dropped to the canvas.

WESTERLY

WOMAN DRIVER INJURED HUSBAND AND BABE UNHURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 21—Mrs. Doris Frank wife of Lewis R. Frank, 1178 81st street, Brooklyn, N. Y., is a patient at Westerly hospital suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, bad bruises and a hemorrhage of the right eye and injuries to her left leg, the result of the Oldsmobile sedan driven by her overturning on its top, about three hundred feet east of the filling station at the top of Vincent Carr hill, High street. She was accompanied by her husband who was uninjured and a child a year and a half old asleep on the rear seat, also uninjured. Dr. Michael H. Scanlon was called to attend the injured woman and directed her removal to the hospital. Motorcycle Patrolman George L. Madison investigated. It was thought that Mrs. Frank, who was proceeding toward New York, may return to the home of her mother, 22 Sparrow street, Providence, should her injuries prove not serious.

Westerly Sanitary corps has purchased a new Packard ambulance to replace the Cadillac ambulance which the corps has operated since 1918.

The ambulance is equipped with the most moder ntype of Baumgartner stretcher, large medicine chest and the wide body gives plenty of room for attendants.

This (Saturday) morning the selectmen and town clerk will be in session as a board of registration to make voters. All those whose names were in the hands of the registrars on Sept. 4 will have a chance at this session to be made voters.

Those persons who are qualified to vote at the coming election should consult the lists posted on the signboard at the yes tend of the Pawcatuck River bridge and make sure their names are there.

BAPTIST HOUSE PARTY HELD AT PLEASANT VIEW

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Sept. 21—The State Baptist association Friday afternoon closed its annual house party at Pleasant View beach, it being followed by the sixth annual house party of the Rhode Island World Wide guild. The meetings were held at the Wigwam with Mrs. Leslie E. Swain of Providence presiding. Mrs. Swain is president of the state body.

The big dinner of the women's party was held Friday night with Miss Louise Coy of Westerly, state secretary of the R. I. World Wide guild, toastmistress. The speakers were Miss Alma J Noble of Buffalo, N. Y., executive secretary of the guild, Miss Luella Adams, director of the West End Community house, Miss Dorothy Bucklin, also of Boston and Mrs. Swain. A play, "The White Cross," was presented after the speaking with Mrs. Charles W. Calder of Providence in charge.

Work for the ensuing year has been the principal topic of the sessions, with special attention being paid to home missions. The World Wide guild opened its sessions Friday afternoon with a registration of nearly 200. A dinner was served at 6.30, followed by a musicale, Miss Louise Coy of Westerly in charge.

HOLY NAME SOCIETY GOING TO PROVIDENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 21—Sunday in Providence there will be held the seventh triennial parade of Holy Name societies. The society of the Immaculate Conception church, Westerly, will go to Providence Sunday in three busses which have been chartered to take the local delegation. They will leave from in front of the church at 12.15 o'clock. At a special meeting of the local society, Rev. J. F. Vincent, S. M., presiding, William Donovan was chosen marshal of the Westerly representation. Assistant marshals will be Leo C. Gaffney, William J. Quinlan and Richard J. Butler. James Jessop and Joseph Delaney were appointed a committee to take care of transportation. John J. Dunn, president of the local society, will act as assistant to the chief marshal of the parade, Dr. J. P. Massicotte.

The South County Rod and Gun club is to hold its annual clambake and outing in Peckham's grove Sunday. The event is open to members of the club, their families and invited guests.

Many Westerly motor boat enthusiasts are planning to attend Sunday the first regatta of Gordon Greene post, No. 27 of Hope Valley to be held at 2 p. m. on Locustville pond.

Edward W. Pitcher, baggagemaster at Westerly station resumed his duties on the first trick Friday morning after being incapacitated for a week by reason of injury to his right index finger caught between a trunk and truck a week ago Thursday. George Corey completed his duties Friday as night baggage man.

Charles A. Pierce, painter, 41 Beach street, suffered painful injuries on Thursday afternoon as the result of the breaking of a rung in a ladder on which he was at work on the home of Miss Lizzie E. Martin on Beach street. The breaking of the rung let him down to another ladder from which which he fell to the ground. He was taken to Westerly hospital and given medical attention by Dr. L. H. Johnson for a badly wrenched back.

Maj. John F. Datson, Mrs. Datson and daughter of Westerly and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Catlin, and daughter of Pawcatuck, will leave Sunday morning for a two weeks' motor vacation trip to Quebec, Montreal and Ottawa.

Miss Gertrude Kingsley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett A. Kingsley, left Friday morning for Providence to enter the junior class of the Woman's college, Brown university.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Butler and son, Richard Jr., and Mrs. R. J. Butler were motor visitors in Boston on Thursday.

George E. Phillips returned Friday morning to his work in Providence.

N ocases were tried at the Friday morning session of the third district court before Judge Oliver H Williams. A new writ entered was that of an action in assumpsit, H. L. Handy vs. G A. Anderson by M. J. Turano. The criminal docket was disposed of as follows:

State, Thomas E. Brown, chief of police of Westerly vs. Arthur B. Barber, answered by Attorney Roche and continued one week; William McGarvey 21, alias, of Stonington was presented on complaint of Chief Brown that September 18th he operated an automobile recklessly on the Watch Hill road and at a rate of speed greater than reasonable and proper. When asked to plead McGarvey declared that he was not guilty of reckless driving as his only alternative was to steer his automobile into a stone wall. The action resulted from the collision of the Reo truck of C. B Bliven of Pleasant View, operated by McGarvey, striking the rear end of a Riverbend cemetery company tipcart, when the driver, William Surber was thrown to the ground and sustained broken ribs and injuries for which he is being treated at the private hospital. James McGarvey, father of the young man, directed the entry of a plea of not guilty and the case was continued to Friday next. Courtland B. Bliven became surety in the sum of $200 bonds for the young man's appearance next week: Department of State Police, Trooper Daniel G. O'Brien vs. Joseph P Dannor. Continued one week. State, Thomas E. Brown, vs. Zygmont Dobridnia, violent assault, continued one week. Civil docket, R. C. Duguid Co., vs. Alvin Murphy. Continued one week; Sarah Dickie vs. John Howard. Continued nisi. Charles H. Gavitt vs Sylvia Rodman. Continued one week; Clarence E. Roche vs. William M. Champlin. Defaulted. John O. Mills vs. Curtis J. Holt. Continued two weeks; John O. Mills vs. Mabel E. Nickelhaupt and John Haas. Continued one week. Samuel Felman vs. Albert Buchard. Defaulted and passed for proof of claim: Charles H. Gavitt vs. Joseph A. Guerrino. Continued one week. Lenihan-O'Connell company vs. Salvatore Poldino. Defaulted and passed for proof of claim.

yet this is the first near-accident reported. It should be impressed upon the mind of every driver that the gateman on duty at this crossing retires at 10 p. m., and after that hour persons must pass at their own risk, making it more necessary to use precautionary methods before attempting to cross.

The Putnam police took into custody last evening Mrs. Mary King of East Putnam, whom it is alleged was acting in a strange manner along the highways. She was examined by a local doctor today at the police station and was to be committed to the state hospital at Norwich for mental treatment. Jabez King, her husband, arrived at the station house this morning and informed the police that he would provide proper care if they would place her in his charge. The officers agreed and she was released.

A newspaper announcement in The Bulletin of Thursday contained information relative to burglars entering a ladies' store in Torrington, Conn., and escaping with $3,000 worth of goods. The stolen stock was listed and was similar to that taken from the Dupre's Ladies' Shop in Putnam in April when clothing thieves entered that store and escaped with several thousand dollars worth of goods.

The Putnam police are to make a check-up of the Torrington break, in an effort to link the burglars with the Putnam break of over six months ago.

PENDLETON HILL

Patients of Dr. Walter Prenolilo in this vicifity are interested to know that he and his family sailed for England Monday night on the steamer George Washington. Dr. Prenolilo will study in London and Edinburgh until after Thanksgiving, then following a trip to Paris he will return to this country and resume his practice.

The death of Mrs. Amos Prentice-Miner of the Westerly road occurred Thursday of last week. Funeral services conducted by Rev. Frank S. Robbins were held at her home Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. This is the third death in the Wilkinson family within a year, and, including Amos Prentice Miner, whose death occurred in October, 1927, the fourth death in Mrs. Miner's immediate family. There now survive in the Wilkinson family, which once numbered eight children, but the youngest and the oldest members, George A. Wilkinson of North Stonington and his sister, Mrs. James Congdon, of Voluntown. Mrs. Prentice Miner was a beautiful character who had lived a beautiful life of devotion to her husband and her children, her neighbors and her friends. She had suffered much with never a word of complaint, a true heroine of her day and generation.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ertman of Oxford, N. Y., were in town to attend the funeral of Mrs. Ertman's mother, Mrs. Miner. Mr. Ertman was obliged to surry home to attend to this large plantings of winter wheat. Mr. and Mrs. Ertman had recently spent ten days with the latter's mother and had been home but a week when they were recalled for the funeral.

Mrs. Birdsey G. Palmer has been very closely confined for many months in the care of her mother, Mrs. Miner.

The society dinner Wednesday was the usual success. A very beautiful quilt pieced by the late Mrs. Fidelia Gallup was tied for Mr. and Mrs. John Rae, who will use it for a studio decoration.

Mrs. Adam Reid and son, Alexander Dodge, of Norwich and Orlando, Fla., were luncheon guests Thursday at the Palmer homestead. Mrs. Reid was in quest of the father of Mary Palmer who married Samuel Fenton in Voluntown in 1754. Here she found that it was both possible and plausible that Mary Palmer's father was Deacon Joseph Palmer, known hereabout as "Joe, upper," who once owned and occupied the place where Osro Koestinen now resides. This same Deacon Joseph Palmer it was who issued the bonds to build the Stonington church. The church was built but Deacon Palmer failed, through having fathered the Stonington church.

Miss Sarah F. Palmer gave a breakfast party Friday morning in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rae and sons, Walter, Jack and Robin. Miss Palmer was assisted in entertaining her guests by Mrs. Annie Cook and Miss Carrie Ryder.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rae and sons motored to Darien, Conn., Tuesday. The boys have entered Dr. Goldfrank's Cherry Lawn school. Mr. and Mrs. Rae will take up their residence in this school later in the month. Mr. Rae will teach art and Mrs. Rae will teach English folk dancing, in which both Mr. and Mrs. Rae are experts.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Johnson and daughter Mildred, accompanied by their guests, Miss Sarah Thompson Palmer and Clifford B Thompson, attended the republican mass meeting at Woodstock Saturday afternoon. Miss Palmer is an honorary member of this club.

Saturday evening Miss Carrie A. Ryder entertained in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rae and sons. She was assisted by Mrs. Frank Brown of Ashaway, R. I. Other guests were Mrs. Courtland Chapman and son, Dr. Hobart Chapman, of Avondale, James Brooks, Mrs. Annie Cook and Miss Sarah Palmer.

Mr. and Mrs. James Brooks have returned from a motor trip to Boston and Lawrence, Mass., where they were guests of friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Thompson and Mrs. Jennie Thompson entertained Miss Lila G. Thompson over the week end.

Mrs. Clifford Thompson and daughter Katherine, with their guest, Miss Lila Thompson, attended Pachaug fair Saturday afternoon.

Harris Boardman entered the University of Pennsylvania this week.

The equinoctial is rapidly defoliating some trees and shrubs and otherwise damaging some of the beautiful gardens.

Mrs. Henry Johnson has a wonderful display of zinnias and cannas which were not planted until the first of July.

Miss Cecile Palmer has in her attractive garden many and very beautiful asters.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Cubby Bear's Disappointment

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Set not your heart on anything
Lest it but disappointment bring.
—Old Mother Nature.

Cubby Bear had his mouth all made up for a fat Wood Mouse. Bobby Coon was going to show him where it was. Of course, that Wood Mouse was none other than Whitefoot. Bobby had almost caught him and Whitefoot had escaped by darting through a knothole into an old log. Bobby had tried to get him out and couldn't. Then Bobby had rolled the log over, so that the knothole was against the ground and Whitefoot was a prisoner. Now Bobby was going to show Cubby Bear that log. You see, Cubby Bear thought that with his stout claws he might be able to tear it open.

Bobby Coon led the way, shuffling along up from the Laughing Brook. Cubby Bear shuffled along behind him. Both of them walked flat-footed, which is something very few of the little people who wear fur can do. But Bears and Raccoons put their whole foot down, touching the heel to the ground.

"Where is this Mouse" grumbled Cubby Bear, as he noticed the direction in which Bobby Coon was going.

"It's up near the sugar-house," replied Bobby Coon.

Cubby Bear said nothing, but he looked a little uneasy. You see, the last time he was up there he had been badly frightened by his father, great big Buster Bear.

Presently they reached the little clearing around the sugar-house. They stopped to make sure that the way was clear. Then Bobby Coon led the way to the little log in which he had left Whitefoot the Wood Mouse. It was a small log. Cubby Bear could pick it up easily. "I don't see any knothole," said he.

"All right, we'll roll it back," said Cubby Bear, and he did just that thing.

When the log was rolled over there was the little knothole. Cubby Bear sniffed at it. There was the fresh scent of Mouse. Yes, sir, there was the fresh scent of Mouse. There certainly had been a Mouse in there. Cubby Bear wasted no time.

"I'll soon get that fellow out of there," he said.

He hooked his stout claws in the edge of that knothole. The wood was old and somewhat decayed around the knothole. Cubby Bear pulled. He pulled and he pulled. A splinter of wood gave way, making a crack. The scent of Mouse was stronger. You should have seen Cubby go to work then. He hooked his claws in that crack and tugged and pulled and ripped out another big splinter. Bobby Coon sat close by watching. To tell the truth, Bobby was hoping that Whitefoot would jump out and try to run away. If he did, Bobby Coon intended to have Whitefoot for himself.

Cubby Bear grunted and tugged and pulled and tugged and pretty soon he had opened that little hollow log so you could see all of it. There was no Mouse there! No, sir, there wasn't a Mouse there! All there was was the smell of Mouse, and that was most tantalizing and not at all satisfying. Cubby Bear was disappointed. He was bitterly disappointed.

"Where is that Mouse?" he demanded.

Bobby Coon looked puzzled. He backed off to a safe distance. "I don't know," said he. "I left him there. He was a prisoner. You saw for yourself that that log was lying with that opening against the ground. That Mouse was in there when I left."

"Then why isn't he here now?" demanded Cubby.

But there was something that Bobby Coon couldn't answer. He wished he could.

Just then Cubby Bear happened to look down at the ground. Right where that old log had been there was a little shallow hole in the ground. Cubby sniffed at it. There was the Mouse scent again. He followed it along the ground with his nose. It led straight away from the little sugar-house.

"Huh!" exclaimed Cubby in disgust. "All he had to do was dig out. He just dug right out while you were down there fishing at the Laughing Brook. If you were not so old and tough, I'd take you in place of that Mouse."

Bobby Coon backed away hurriedly. Then he grinned. "You mean if you were not quite so big," said he, "you don't dare try it!"

"Don't I?" cried Cubby, and made a rush toward Bobby. But Bobby had taken to his heels.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

The Lake of the Dismal Swamp

They made her a grave too cold and damp,
For a heart so warm and true.
And she's gone to the lake of the dismal swamp
When all night long by her fire fly lamp
She paddles her light canoe.
Her fire fly lamp soon shall see
Her paddle I soon shall hear,
Long and loving our life shall be
And I'll hide the maid in a cyprus tree
When the footsteps of death draw near.

Away to the dismal swamp he speeds
His path was rugged and sore,
Thru tangled juniper, beds of weeds,
Through many a fen where the serpent feeds
And man never trod before.
And when on earth he lay down to sleep,
If slumber his eyelids knew
He lay down where the deadly vine doth weep
Its venomous tear and nightly steep
The flesh with blistering dews.
Till he made him a boat of birchen bark
Which carried him off from the shore.
Long he followed the meteor spark,
The wind was high and the night was dark
And the boat returned no more.
And oft from the Indian hunter's camp
This lover and maiden true
Are seen at the hour of midnight damp
To cross the lake by their fire fly lamp
And to paddle their light canoe.

I'll Remember You in My Prayers

When the curtains of night are pinned by the stars,
And the beautiful moon leaps the skies,
And the dew drops of Heaven are kissing the Rose,
It is then that my memory flies
As if on the wing of some beautiful dove,
In haste with the message it bears,
To bring you a kiss of affection and say—
I'll remember you love in my prayers.

Chorus

Go where you will on land or at sea,
I'll share all your sorrows and cares,
And at night when I kneel by my bedside and pray,
I'll remember you love in my prayers.
I have loved you too fondly to ever forget
The love you have spoken for me
And the kiss of affection still warm on my lips,
When you told me how true you would be,
I know not if fortune be fickle or fiend
Or if time on your memory wears,
I know that I love you wherever you roam
And remember you love in my prayers.
When Heavenly angels are guarding the good
As God has ordained them to do,
In answer to prayers I have offered to him,
I know there is one watching you
And may its bright spirit be with you thru life
To guide you up Heaven's bright stair
And meet with the one who has loved you true
And remembered you love in her prayers.

GREETINGS FROM ELIZA JANE

Dear Social Corner: Just to put some of the sisters' minds at rest, I want to tell you that the chamber of commerce hall has been procured for Club No. 1 for the winter, the first meeting to be Oct. 10th with Theoda at the helm. You will probably hear from her later.

Beth C and O. D.: I certainly have not crossed you off my books. Have not been able to use my eyes only when necessary. My eye is not well yet and the specialist said it would not be under a couple of weeks. Have new glasses so can see better and will try and write you before long. Have been very busy canning and spending part of my time in Hartford. Here are some recipes for date dishes which make delicious desserts for the sisters who are fond of dates.

Date puding: 1 cup sugar, 1 cup dates (sliced), 1 cup nuts (choped), 2 egg yolks, 1 cup flour, 2 tablespoons milk, 1 1-2 teaspoon baking powder. Salt and vanilla. Add whites of eggs beaten stiff lastly. Bake in slow oven and serve with whipped cream.

Date Fort: 2 lbs. dates, 1 1-4 lb nuts, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-4 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder. Bake until brown. Cut in cubes put in sherbert glasses, pour over it a little preserved pineapple, some whipped cream and a cherry.

Heavenly Hash: 2 eggs beaten, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, salt, 1 cup dates, 1 cup nuts, cut in small pieces. Bake very slowly and serve with whipped cream.

Maple Walnut Tapioca pudding: 1-3 cup pearl tapioca or 1-4 cup of minute tapioca. If pearl tapioca is used, should be soaked over night in cold water. Put one pint of milk in a double boiler then add tapioca. Dissolve one cup brown sugar in 1-2 cup water then add to the milk. Add one beaten egg and cook until fairly thick. Will be thicker when cold When cold stir in dates and nuts and a little vanilla. Serve with whipped cream. Will serve eight and is delicious. Hope some of the sisters will try these and let me know how they like them.

Lavendar: Was sorry not to be able to help you celebrate. Guess Practical Polly told you why. I certainly wish you many, many more to celebrate.

With best wishes for the Corner.

ELIZA JANE

THE BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS

Dear Editor and Friends: I miss being out among the flowers today for I love to watch the new ones open and see the pretty hues. It is certainly a most wonderful sight to note the different colors. No human hand could paint all those colorings.

My good kind hearted landlord gave me a lot of his dahlias and was so kind as to set them out for me and I certainly do appreciate them so much. They are just in full bloom and such pretty ones. I enjoy them and I guess I look at his field as much as he does. It is so wonderful how so many colors can be blended in one bloom. He has some that are all colors of the rainbow in one bloom. It makes me think of what my little cousin once remarked. He said God must have lots of paint to paint all the pretty posies. It must take him all winter so as to have them in the spring, and in looking at the handsome flowers I often think of what the little fellow used to say.

Sochis: Wish you and your mother could come up to our flower show next Saturday and Sunday. If nothing happens it is to be at the church on the hill.

Betty Jane: Saw you and your friend go by but not soon enough to speak. Why not give us a letter?

Peggy Alder: Keep up your courage. I know you will be better soon.

Rural Aunty and Ma of Greene Gables: Have you lost your pen or is there something wrong with your elbow?

NONESOPRETTY (Club 4)

SOME TESTED RECIPES.

Dear Corner Friends: Wish you would try these recipes and report.

Whipped Cream Pie: 1 egg, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 cup sweet milk, bananas, 1½ cups of flour, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon creamtartar, 1 cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon lemon extract ½ pint cream, chopped walnut meats.

Break a large egg into a measuring cup, add melted butter, fill cup up with milk. Turn into mixing bowl, mix and sift dry ingredients, add lemon extract, then add slowly to the liquid mixture. Beat until creamy and bake in layer cake tins. Whip the cream, sweeten and flavor with vanilla and fill between layers with slices of ripe banana and whipped cream. Heap remainder of cream and bananas on top, and sprinkle with walnut meats. Serve fresh.

Banana Mousse: 4 bananas, ¾ cup sugar, juice ½ lemon, 1¼ cups cream. Cook mashed banana pulp with sugar and lemon in double boiler until scalded throughout. Beat cream until firm. Fold the two mixtures together. Turn into a quart mold and fill it to overflowing. Spread paper over the top of the mixture and over this spread the cover, having the paper extend beyond the cover on all sides. Pack in equal measures of salt and crushed ice. Let stand 3 hours, repacking once meanwhile.

Mix banana and stir well for 2 minutes. This is icing for one layer cake. Undoubtedly this is the best or finest of fondant or icing for home use, as it will keep moist on the cakes for a long time and also keep its glaze. Any tint may be made from this. A little lemon juice may also be added. This amount will ice 16 cup cakes or one birthday cake.

Banana Salad: Remove strip of skin lengthwise from banana, enough to permit removal of fruit. Save skin, roll banana in mayonaise, then in chopped nuts. Return to the skin. Cut in slices, being careful not to cut into the skin. Extra mayonaise and chopped nuts may be plied upon the bananas. Serve on lettuce leaf or delicious cabbage leaf.

Candlestick Salad: Bananas, 1 can sliced pineapple, 1 head lettuce, Brazil nuts, equal parts cooked dressing and whipped cream, citron or orange peel.

Arrange lettuce leaves on plate, then a slice of pineapple. Cut bananas in two crosswise and stand ¼ upright in the hole of the sliced pineapple. Pour over it a little dressing to represent dripping wax. A piece of curved orange peel will do for a handle. Place a Brazil nut on the top of each banana and light before serving.

GUESS WHO?

BREAKING A LONG SILENCE

Dear Members of the Corner: Here I am after a long silence. I have not written for a long, long time and can give no reasonable excuse except I did not put vim enough back of my pen. I think Lawrence must be hanging on the back of my chair, or in the atmosphere somewhere. That is if he is in existence, but am in hopes he has passed on ages ago. Have not attended any picnics the past summer but attended Club No. 2's meeting at the Buckingham, Sept. 11 and had a fine time. Was glad to see Catnip, Joan, Scottie and Golden Glow, and many other sisters, but not as many as usual. We missed Bumble Bee and Dearie. Am going to try Dearie's recipe for a salad.

Was glad to hear from Isadore and to hear how she illustrated telling the truth. Mr. Comfort used to say, "tell the truth and shame the devil," and ever keep the truth on your side. Say yes every time when it is due, don't shake your head, for they used to say that that was the sign of insanity.

I want to thank one and all for the cards I received. Am sorry for Aires with her dislocated arm. Hope it is better before now. She has so much farm work to do, she needs both of her arms but accidents will come without any warnings. Have had them in my family, and heavy ones, too. Well, I will give room to some other sister. Was glad to have a call from Nonesopretty and her two cousins. Hope they will come this way again before cold weather sets in. Best regards to all sick ones and shut-ins.

COMFORT

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: How shall I begin and how express my thoughts for the lovely time I had on my 80th birthday. It was a wonderful day for me in many ways. All my family were with me and to be surrounded by so many friends! I surely was, and am still happy. In looking over the many cards expressing wishes for a happy birthday I am afraid it would take up too much space to thank each separately, so I want to thank each and every one for kindly remembering me.

Was so sorry to receive some letters regretting inability to meet with us on Sept. 12th. The weather man did not forget us. Although the day was cloudy, it did not start to rain until evening but we hear right and left that all enjoyed the day. My daughter asked me the next day if I felt very tired. I answered by saying I was ready for another. Of course I had to say something. Well, I think I have said enough, only that I feel the Social Corner is rightly named and I am glad I am a member.

Long live the Social Corner and best wishes for all. Will say good bye.

LAVENDER (Club No. 1)

SOMETHING FROM ANYTHING

Social Corner Folks: Being rainy, dark and depressing and no mischief at hand, I amused myself by experience. I sifted a cooked summer squash, mixed same as fritters and in hot lard, dropped by spoonfuls. Some call them squash fritters. I do believe one can make something out of anything if they have gumption.

I didn't see Kitty Lou's letter on the first page of the Social Corner last week, I was disappointed for I get so many helps from her pen. But later I found it on another page and the sun shone again for me.

I change my Social Corner calendar every month and use every flower for something, possibly to paste on a candy box for some birthday in that month.

I call the Social Corner my panacea for the blues.

J. E. T.

THE CHILDREN'S HOUR

Dear Social Corner Editor: We have had several letters concerning home which were read with interest, but I think it advisable to speak about the children's hour in the home. For was there ever a child who did not respond to the magic words "once upon a time"? In every language they work a charm, quieting the reckless, awakening the listless, and enchaining the attention of the most heedless. Pronounce that talisman and the children will follow as they did the piper of Hamelin, rapt, eager, joyous—into the fairy story world.

Though the schools are doing a great deal in presenting good stories to children, the fairies, after all, do not seem to thrive in the ordinary school atmosphere.

The cosy fireside with the intimate family group suits them better for working their spells.

Little children love rhyme and rhythm long before they are able to grasp the thought expressed While we may no longer rock our children to sleep, the sing-song of the voice lulls and quiets by the same rhythmic swing. Let no one be beguiled into thinking that there are better, because newer, rhymes than Mother Goose's stories. The child is to be pitied who does not early come to know that goodly and fascinating company surrounding the old dame. Merely little Mary Jefferson were listed in company surrounding the old dame. Merely pretty sentimental verse and ramily-pamby storiettes are no substitute for this study stock of sense and nonsense. The pure fun and jollity from Mother Goose alone justify her large place in the literature for little children. But notice also what a marvelous introduction she gives to the sight and sounds of the big earth, and to the creatures great and small, high and low, that dwell upon it. The procession of animals we meet in Mother Goose is almost as long as that of Noah's ark, most of them are friendly domestic creatures of fame and name; as for example Tommy Tinker's dog, the pony Dapple-Grey, and Jack Spratt's pig. Then see what an introduction the children get to the activities and occupation of their elders; for here come peddlers, priests and beggars, farmers, doctors, naturalists, butchers and smiths, while shepherds and milk-maids appear side by side with kings and queens.

There are many poor collections of Mother Goose. Into some have crept doggerel which Mother Goose herself would repudiate, but, into others, very fine sophisticated lines; so, really to find a good edition, requires some search.

Children should gradually come to know the fine bits of poetry, truly childlike in subjects and spirits, which the great poets have here and there provided. In addition to this, there is much of real merit which has been written specially for children and which may be found in various collections, affording the busy mother an abundance of just what she needs to feed the developing taste for beautiful poetry.

Many grown-ups have serious doubts about fairy tales. Various objections are heard that these tales are full of horrors which fill the minds of children with images causing terror. I saw in some paper some time since a piece that was very much against the fairy tales. The party who wrote it said that fairy tales often depicted the mean and sordid, suggesting evil quite as much as good; that, while well suited to the primitive people among whom they arose, that they do not teach the lessons needed in everyday life. I wondered if the party who wrote that thinks it perfectly all right for our children to visit the movies We all know what the children see there. I realize that many parents think and fear if their children hear so much that is purely fanciful they will be dissatisfied with things of everyday life or fail to distinguish the real from unreal. But they should not fail to take into account the fact there are so many different kinds of fairy tales as of any form of fiction and that there should be the closest scrutiny of quality and fitness. The mother with her little group has a much easier task in making her selection than the teacher with a large class. The mother knowing the individual so well and watching the after-effect or result of the stories, she can easily judge whether any child is over-excited or whether bad dreams result from any of the tales.

Now there is a large class of folk tales well suited to very little children that are entirely free from any questionable features. Besides they are delightful to tell because of the repetition and the frequent use of the rhyme couplets. These tales are sometimes called "accumulative" and are of the order of "The House That Jack Built" and "The Old Woman and Her Pig" Repetition is always delightful to children and they soon pick up the ordered chain of events out of it. To the same class belong Little Chicken Tuppen and Henny Penny.

The Blue Fairy Book is a good one to start with. In it are found some of the very best fairy tales from many nations, and it is evident Mr. Lang has sought the choicest rendering.

I should discard all trash like Bluebeard and get one or two standard collections such as Andrew Lang's Blue Fairy Book, Grimm's Fairy Tales or Hamilton Wright's Mabies Fairy Tales, every child should know.

ANOTHER CLUB 4 PICNIC OCT. 4

To the Editor and All Club Members of the Social Corner: Greetings.

All the members of the Social Corner family with their families and friends are cordially invited to meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jacques of Thompson, Conn., on Thursday, Oct. 4, to help Club No. 4 enjoy another one of its jubilee gatherings.

To those going by auto, turn to right of Vernon Stiles Inn and please watch for yellow bow. While the bus that leaves Putnam at 11:30, D. S. T. will leave you at Vernon Stiles Inn, turn to right only a few rods and you will find the yellow bow.

Do not forget your cup, spoon, plate, knife and fork and, the most essential of all, something good to eat. Remember the date, Oct. 4.

FORWARDS SONGS WANTED

Dear Editor: In looking over my old music I have found the words of the song that one of the sisters requested and am sending them to be printed when possible.

I found the Lake of the Dismal Swamp in an old book that was my mother's. The Golden Wreath. I am always pleased to do anything that helps keep our Corner interesting. I do not write as often as I should but I never neglect to read all of the letters from the sisters.

THE BANSHEE: Letter sent as requested.

FAVORS SHORTER LETTERS AND MORE OF THEM.

Dear Social Corner Members and Editor: It looks like another dark, rainy Sunday, but I can stay in the house and write letters. Will try and make this one short as possible. I think some of the letters are altogether too long. As for myself I'd rather see more of them and shorter ones; that would give every writer a chance to say their say (if they only would).

There's Queen Marie and Martha V. and Chettie, Tate and Printt, why can't they write a little bit and send a letter—it? I've often wondered what became of Lucy's Friend and Adam.

The paper said I'd had the mumps. I know I haven't had 'em. That's why I write this letter. You all know a lie travels fast, but never gets anywhere.

This is what I used to read in school:

Speak the truth:
Falter not in thy reply—
Think of this that God is nigh,
In the glad time of thy youth;

Speak the truth.

"The thorn you press into another's heart has a barb as long that enters yours."

"The bruise you make on another's character, makes a like bruise on your own." Remember this.

A good deal of controversy is like the heated debates of the cheese-mites of this poem:

When Ignorance Is Blistering.

The chese-mites asked how the cheese got there,
And warmly debated the matter.
The orthodox said that it came from the air,
The heretic said from the platter.
They argued it long, and they argued it strong,
And I hear they are arguing it now;
But of all the brave spirits that lived in that cheese,

Quid Nunc: Who is he? I have a bone to pick with him but I think I'll let him be.

GOOD FACE CLOTHS.

Dear Friends of the Social Corner: If I don't write soon 1492 will think I was lost going home from the meeting of Club No. 4. I did enjoy that day so much, the pleasant meeting, seeing dlo friends and the ride to and from.

It had been a long time since I had been to "Chestnut Hill" but did not find things much changed and the friends "only a little older grown."

The letters are all so interesting that I fear mine will find the waste basket.

Did the sister who wrote asking for the names of the disciples in rhyme ever hear the one commencing:

"Mathew, Mark, Luke and John,
Take the Acts and follow on"?

I'm wondering what the rest is.

The sisters who find it hard to always tell the truth please take a lesson in tact from the minister who was expected to admire a very homely baby. He looked at it intently and said, "My! what a baby, what a baby!" The mother was satisfied and the minister's conscience clear.

Here is a way to make cheap and satisfactory face cloths: Buy white mosquito netting, fold three or four thicknesses size you wish, stitch around edges and through middle. I like them better than Turkish ones as they dry quickly and keep white better.

Best wishes from B. V. A.

PUTTING BEST FOOT FORWARD

Dear Social Corner Folks: I must hasten or the question given me by A Reader will be the last one to be answered. Why do many people behave more courteously and kindly to outsiders than to ones they really love best of all?

No doubt it is true there are those who do, but I prefer to think of them as the exception, not the rule. It is said that people who always receive us with great cordiality rarely care for us. Our true friends make us partakers of their humors. When we go out into the business world or to meet our friends socially we naturally put the best foot forward to make a good impression. When at home we vent our feelings, so to speak, and make our best loved ones partakers of our humors. It never was intended for us to be perfect on earth. Anybody can do well on special occasions. Anybody can be good on Sunday.

"So many little faults we find!
We see them, for love is not blind.
We see them, but if you and I
Perchance remember them some bye and bye,
They will not be
Faults then—grave faults to you and me,
But just odd ways, mistakes, or even less—
Remembrances to bless."

THE CHANGING SEASONS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Does September mean to you that winter is coming and that the freshness of springtime and the warmth of summer have passed?

Does it mean to you that soon there will be a chill in the air and a flurry of snow and a darkness of death against the skyline?

Does it mean that dreams will have died and that ambition will have vanished,—does September mean to you only that winter is coming? Or does September mean to you that the harvest is approaching and that after spring and summer have passed there is a time of fulfillment and rest and peace and that the snow and the silence, even though they are both inevitable, carry with them a blessing and that your dreams will sleep for a bit and that your hopes and ambitions will be gathering strength for the new springtime and the new summer that is sure to come? We know the crimson sumac and the purple aster, the goldenrod, the flocking birds, the cold looking clouds speeding across the cold blue sky are all evidence that summer is over and that autumn is here. It is not strange that we like the luxuries of summer best or that we dread the season of blizzards and uncertainties, but we have to learn to take the seasons as they come to us, but never with equal zest and pleasure. Still we must try to feel that the present joy is the only joy to be cultivated, for anticipated joys are vague and uncertain.

BUSY RUG MAKER

Dear Corner Friends: How are all the sisters after the summer vacations? Hope they enjoyed the summer as much as I did. First, I wish to thank the editor for the yellow slip I received last month. I also wish to thank Lady Lou for the card she sent me while on her trip, a very pretty scene.

B. E. Susie: Letter received and glad to hear from you.

Interested Reader: You are getting to be a slacker, aren't you? Your letters are getting to be few and far between.

Fleurdelis: The rugs are still a making. Since I first wrote that article I have made seven and sold ten, three of them went to Maine, two braided and one hooked one. Seven went to New Jersey. I have two new ones on hand now and expect to take a hooked one from the frame in a day of two. No! I neither live in Norwich nor New London, but my post office addres is Norwich on R. F. D. No. 3. Do you make any rugs? Some job, as it is very hard work on the hands. Guess if I keep on I will have sent rugs to a number of the states in the Union. As it is I have sent rugs to eight different states already.

Here are a few helps, so I pass them on. Try putting a couple of teaspoons of baking powder in the pie crust when mixing it. It makes it more flaky and it does not require as much lard, and is more easily digested.

When washing soiled overalls or other heavy garments, I do not rub them on the washboard, but instead I lay them down on the board, then scrub the soiled places with soap and scrub with a heavy brush I keep for such purposes.

To remove match marks from paint, rub the spot with a cut lemon. Then, to prevent a repetition of the offense, apply a little vaseline and rub the spot with a dry piece of cloth. It will be difficult to strike a match thereon again. Put up a little piece of sandpaper in a convenient place.

To fill cracks in floors, use boiled flour paste containing alum and shredded newspapers stired in until thick enough. Boiled glue and sawdust are also very good used in the same ways or just plain putty but I don't like the putty so well because you must paint the cracks first and let the paint dry well then spread the putty and when it has hardened paint again. This takes quite some time. For walks or ceiling cracks use plaster-of-paris mixed with vinegar and water, or borax and water, to prevent too rapid hardening. Best wishes to all.

CRIMSON RAMBLER

THE SIGN OF LIBRA

Dear Editor and Cornerites: Are you not glad you live in New England? Such tempests as they are having in the south! The new moon, hanging so slender and beautiful in space, reminded me that we are passing on from the sign Virgo and are entering sign Libra (The Balance). This begins about Sept. 21st and ends Oct. 21st every year. Sign Libra is the seventh month of the zodiac, is of the air trinity and corresponds to the hips and kidneys in the physical body; governs wealth and fortune; the tribe is Reuben, meaning foresight, perception, seer. The ruling planet is Venus. The astral colors are crimson, black and light blue. The gems are opals and diamonds. The natural professions are physician, lawyer, manager or director of commercial or religious organizations Libra is a masculine sign, the men born in it are usually hopeful, energetic, reckless or just the opposite, noble and religious.

The women of this sign have a peculiar stubborn setness of purpose, which never changes by outside forces.

August and December are the favorable months of the year. And the week beginning April 13th and the week Dec. 6th are most fortunate for business enterprises.

Scottie: Thank you for your good wishes. Arm is getting better.

L. T. H.: The flowers you sent were beautiful, and some are still fresh.

E. M. R. C. P.: Hope the recent storm did no damage in your section. Write the Corner about the storm.

Balsam Fir and Joan: We miss your letters.

Palm Leaf: Hope you are feeling better.

Bricktop: Your limericks are good. The one about facial beauty was liked and often quoted by Woodrow Wilson, although not written by him.

This is one I read recently:
I met an old chap in Miami,
Whose hands were cold, flabby and clami.
We shook hands one day,
And it felt like—well, say,
Did you ever bring out a wet chami?

This is not limerick style, but—

'Most and golfer, poor or rich,
Would never count the cost,
Could he but buy a golf ball which Would bark when it was lost.

CONSOLATION:

If some one has an ugly nose,
We'll try to praise his eyes,
For picking folks to pieces shows
We're neither kind nor wise.
You didn't select your face,
It may be plain to see,
But friendly angels find some grace
In even you and me!

EVERYBODY'S DUTY—

Heaven is the work of the best and kindest men and women. Hell is the work of prigs, pendants and professional truth-tellers. The world is an attempt to make the best of both.

Now, Grandma Gray, let us hear from you ARIES.

REASONABLE DINNNER FOR SIX

Dear Sisters: Here is a dinner for six people that will cost only $1.25.

Tripe French:—1-2 lb. of tripe, 1-2 can tomato soup; 2 small onions, salt and pepper and 1 table spoon of flour. Select the honeycomb tripe for this dish. Cut into inch squares, wash thoroughly, cover with three quarts of cold water let come to a brisk boil. Pour off the water and boil in three quarts of fresh water to which has been added 1-2 teaspoon of bicarbonate of soda. Boil 30 minutes drain off the water, add salt, tomato and chopped onion, cover tightly and simmer on back of stove for two hours. If the gravy is too thin add a little flour thickening.

Potato Spanish:—Peel and slice lengthwise, let soak in cold water 45 minutes. To four medium-sized potatoes add 2 quarts boiling water, cover tightly and boil briskly until tender, when half done add salt. After draining off water, return to kettle to steam dry. Then mash thoroughly. Add four tablespoons of milk and a lump of butter. After beating briskly for several minutes, add 1-2 teaspoon of baking powder, and beat again three minutes. Set in oven five minutes.

Carrots:—Scrape carrots and leave whole, boil in salted water for 30 minutes, drain off the water, add 1 tablespoon of bacon fat or butter, stand them on the back of the stove for about five minutes before serving.

Peach Roll:—Make enough pie crust for an ordinary pie. When it is rolled thin, put in the following mixture: Cut in small pieces 1 quart of peaches add four tablespoons of sugar, powder with cinnamon before rolling up. With a sharp knife make 3 incisions in the roll before putting into the oven. With 3 other peaches, mash them and add 1-2 cup of thick sugar syrup, which has been cooked almost to candy. Mix thoroughly and keep hot until ready to serve.

Cold Slaw:—Chop cabbage, about half the head, as it will make cold slaw for seven people. The rest lay aside for boiling another day in the week. Let the cabbage stand in cold water 60 minutes or more before preparing. After standing cabbage in water shake off superfluous water from the head and with a sharp knife cut into neat as possible strips, place in a mixing bowl, put a lump of butter the size of a walnut into a stew pan, when hot add 1-4 cup vinegar, 1-4 teaspoon mustard and 1 teaspoon of salt, 2 teaspoons of sugar and 1-2 teaspoon of celery seed. When this is mixed and hot, add one well-beaten egg, and stir briskly until it thickens. It will add much to the flavor if before mixing with the cabbage you add 2 tablespoons of olive oil.

Mr. Editor and Social Corner Readers: After the council and banquet as described in a previous letter, the harvest was completed and the Nipmuck was ready to take up the trail again. They wished to reach their rendezvous before the deep snow of the winter was upon them, but not until they had returned the visit to the Connecticut tribe who invited them to a banquet in payment for the grand feast given them by the Nipmucks As the Connecticut tribe was very dignified (if any Indian ever was), the Nipmuck looked upon the invite and the coming banquet to be served as a great honor. Amid the wild and tumultuous exercises led by the pow-wow of pines, the Nipmuck arrives, preceded by the lieutenant or sagmore to give notice of their coming. As the sachem of the visiting tribe arrives, beautifully bedecked in his hunting bonnett and shirt, they all arise to welcome his coming with his tribe. They are soon seated in a large circle while the pow-wow performs wild incantations after which the smell of fish greeted their nostrils; not nice young bear meat and green corn as was served the Connecticut tribe when guests of the Nipmuck.

"What!" says the sachem, "is our feast to be that of lampres, that have more holes in them than a flote, instead of the product of the field and forest?" The Nipmuck partook very lightly of the eel. In which they showed disgust for the treatment accorded them.

After the insult, as they termed it, there was resentment shown, and the gathering came near ending in a quarrel, and the Nipmuck very reluctantly joined in the smoking of the calumet.

Returning to their former resting place, where they had spent the summer, after a few days they take the trail for their winter rendezvous, but not until they garnered the product of the field and such cured and fresh meat as they possessed, to take with them. The squaws and young warriors became the burden bearers, while the older ones of the tribe hunted and fished on their many miles to their winter quarters, where they arrived at the falling of the first snow.

In a very old history written by the Rev. Henry White I find these facts which prove that the Nipmuck was a very bad Indian. This is what the reverend gentleman writes:

"In the summer of 1675 the Nipmuck, a tribe of Indians residing about 20 miles southeast of Brookfield, Mass. (which I find by the scale of miles on a map I have will bring their headquarters in the vicinity of Webster, Mass., or near the lake with an unpronouncable name), made an assault upon the place. This tribe, with others, had murdered several persons, but had declared their willingness to renew their friendship by entering into conditions of peace.

"The time was set and Captain Hutchinson and Captain Wheeler, with a company of horsemen and some of the citizens of Brookfield went to meet the Indians at the time appointed.

"They had not rode above four or five miles when they fell into an ambush of two or three hundred Indians, laid in such a narrow passage, between a steep hill on the one side and a hideous swamp on the other, that it was scarcely possible for any of them to escape Eight of them were shot down on the spot and three were mortally wounded, of whom Captain Hutchinson was one. Captain Wheeler was near losing his life. His horse was shot down under him and himself shot through the body, so that he had no hope of escaping. But his son, who was near him, with great nimbleness and agility (though his own arm was broken by a bullet), dismounted himself and speedily mounted his father upon his own horse, himself getting upon another, whose master had been killed, by which means they both escaped and were afterwards cured. It was with much difficulty that those who were left alive reached Brookfield, which, most likely, they never would have done, as the common road was waylaid with Indians, had it not been for one who was well acquainted with the wood who led them in a bypath.

"By this means they arrived a little before the Indians, who came flocking into the town, with the full purpose to destroy it with fire and sword. But the inhabitants were all collected in the principal house in the village, before the Indians came upon them. They immediately set fire to all the dwelling houses, excepting the one in which the people were collected. This they several times attempted to burn, but were defeated in their purpose by the special Providence of God.

"For when they had continued the assault for two days and nights, keeping up an incessant fire, and thrusting poles with firebrands and rags, dipped in brimstone, tied to the ends of them, to fire the house, they filled a cart with hemp and flax and other combustible matter, and after setting it on fire, thrust it back against the house, with poles spliced together to a great length. But as soon as it had begun to kindle a shower of rain unexpected fell. But for the rain all who were in the house (about 70 persons) would either have been consumed by merciless flames or fallen into the hands of the savages, who, like wolves, stood yelling and gaping for their prey."

Before the savages were able to renew their attempts, a body of men from Groton, Mass., and Lancaster, commanded by Major Willard, came to their relief.

After the commencement of King Philip's war in June, 1675 (Philip was sachem of the Wampanoags), he drew most of the tribes of Massachusetts and Rhode Island into his plan to exterminate the whites. Thousands became his allies We have now followed the trail of the Nipmuck from the ocund to his rendezvous in Massachusetts. Yesterday he was a fiend, thirsting for the blood of the early settlers; today his tribe is extinct—his trail has ended. E. C. PECK.

MORE ABOUT PARIS

Dear Sisters: (On Steamer Olympic second day out). It is very rough, just after a storm. Almost all of our party are sea sick. Only four ladies to eat breakfast this morning. Instead of being sick like the rest, I like the roll Sailor ancestors I expect, accounts for that. If, as they tell you, it gives you a new complexion and roses in your cheeks, sorry I missed it.

I'll just tell you of things that, to me, made Paris "The City Unlike any other in the World." Of course I have not seen all the cities, but most of the New England cities, and it's very unlike them.

The river Seine divides the city just as our little Mystic makes us two towns. The river is narrow and runs 20 or 30 feet below the street but has many bridges with all sorts of boats, steamers and barges, that load and unload. There are stone stairs that go from the street to shore, my first day at Paris I saw a boat with its smoke stack dropping down, I thought something would happen, but it went serenely on and after it passed under the bridge up came its smoke stack to my surprise. On the Latin side, or old side called Student's Quarters when we were along the river there are book stalls, boxes with covers that are locked at night. Old books, pamphlets, pictures, and prints are sold there and fashion plates of long ago and old prints of ships. Sometimes a box held different things, coins and coppers, etc., at 3 to 10 francs. A franc is 4 cents in our money. People seemed always busying or looking over stock and sometimes reading. The Louvre, art school, medical college, and the oldest buildings are on this side. There are hundreds of streets that will only let one team through at a time, and they blow a horn from the time they go in until they come out. Sidewalks are not wide enough for two. There are antique, and art shops. Whatever the shop it's partly outside, and there are whole blocks where they sell fresh vegetables on the walks.

Paris has no dust, They water it consistently. There are two wheel carts drawn by men in harness, or by dogs, under the cart. You see a cart moving and wonder why, as no one is touching it but there is one or two dogs. They trot nearly as fast as a horse. Sometimes a boy or girl is beside the cart running along. Women and children, sometimes men go along with their bread. It's about a yard long and the size of your wrist, always unwrapped. One little fellow was using it for a gun and presented arms as he went along.

I have no longer any fear of germs. Anyway they dont live in Paris. At all restaurants there are outside tables. We ate at many. They did not know about ice cream soda, but gave you very good coffee chocolate, orangeade or beer and cakes.

Returning to their former resting place, where they had spent the summer, after a few days they take the trail for their winter rendezvous, but not until they garnered the product of the field and such cured and fresh meat as they possessed, to take with them. IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The 24th annual fair of the New London County Agricultural society was held at the local fairgrounds fifty years ago this week. All three days of the fair were clear and cloudless, and good sized crowds gathered at the grounds. Interesting extracts taken from the file of The Norwich Bulletin of September, 1878, are as follows:

Monday, Sept. 16, 1878—Among the attractions of the fair Tuesday will be a ball match in the afternoon between the Pequots who have been recently reorganized and an effective Norwich nine.

W. D. Hempstead who has had charge of the Singer Manufacturing Company's business in this city, goes to Meriden to look after their investments there. Mr. W. H. Vernon of Middletown succeeds to the management here.

A chorus choir of 48 voices under the direction of Mr. George, at the Broadway church, yesterday morning, sung the anthem, The Mighty Jehovah by Belini, which was sung at the dedication of the church 21 years this fall. Mr. Wm. H. Copp, a member of the present choir, sang also at the dedication.

The Norwich company returned from the Niantic encampment on Saturday afternoon with the Windham county men, marched through the streets to the tune of "There is No Place Like Home." The ambulance corps will return as soon as the wounded are in condition to be removed.

Tuesday, Sept. 17, 1878—Dr. O. F. Cobb, delivered an eloquent temperance address of an hour's length to the people of Taftville, on Sunday, and was greeted with universal demonstrations of applause. Later in the day he addressed the people of Occum on the temperance question. The doctor is to return to West Troy tonight after a pleasant stay in the home of his boyhood.

The Rev. Mr. Palmer opened the temperance meeting in Breed hall last evening. He was followed by B. W. Tompkins, Esq., the Rev. Mr. Pendleton of Deep River and Mr. Clarence Frost. The pledges were circulated and were freely signed. The meeting was a large one.

Several bad failures are reported in the charcoal business, this season. Two or three of the largest houses in Voluntown are said to be able to pay only 30 cents on the dollar. This is bad. Hard coal knocked the backbone out of the business and hard money bids fair to complete the ruin.

Wednesday, Sept. 18, 1878—Under a cloudless autumn sky the 24th annual exhibition of the New London County Agricultural society was opened at the fairgrounds yesterday. Before noon there was a respectable showing of fruit, vegetables and fancy and staple goods in the main building. In the dry goods department, Hislop, Porteous & Mitchell deserve marked credit for the promptness and elegance with which they have arranged their large and varied stock.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Cowan celebrated the 16th anniversary of their wedding on last Monday evening. A large number of relatives met at their residence on High street and a very pleasant time was enjoyed by all, in reviewing the past, singing and recitation of a poem composed for the occasion by Mrs. A. T. Otis. The evening was far spent when to the surprise of all in marched nearly 100 of the members of the First Baptist Sunday School of which Mr. Cowan is superintendent. Mr. Cowan was presented, on behalf of the school, a beautiful cake basket.

At a meeting of the Town street school district, held at the Central school house, last Monday evening, G. G. Pitcher, Lewis A. Hyde and Edward Harland were chosen members of the board of education for three years. Lewis A. Hyde was re-appointed clerk and treasurer and George McClellan collector for the year ensuing. A tax was laid of one and one half mills, based on the last perfected town list.

Thursday, Sept. 19, 1878—Another day of winsome autumn weather smiled upon the agricultural exhibition yesterday and upon the heads of the 4,000 people who swarmed over the grounds from early morning until sunset.

At the re-organization of the West Chelsea Board of Education, last Tuesday evening, for the ensuing year, the following appointments were made: Daniel W. Perkins, chairman; Charles H. Talcott, secretary; P. J. O'Connor, school visitor; John P. Murphy, Charles H. Talcott, Daniel W. Perkins, examining committee; Edwin J. Starr, George C. Bills, Alonzo R. Aborn, finance committee.

The New London Railroad Co., run today, at very cheap fares, the lowest ever offered, covering the fare both ways and a ticket into the fair at an extremely low price.

Friday, Sept. 20, 1878—The last day of the County Agricultural exhibition was ushered in, yesterday morning, by a brilliant sunrise and unclouded weather. Though visitors from the country were not so numerous as on the preceding day, the increased attendance from the cities made good their place and probably not less than 4,000 people were gathered on the grounds yesterday afternoon.

The decision of the officers of the New London County Agricultural society, to stop the sale of all liquors, brewed or distilled, on the fairgrounds, is one which commends itself to the good sense of every virtuous citizen in the county. But there is temperance to be observed in all things. How can the advocates of what is called the radical wing of temperance, as officers of an agricultural society, take into their hands the ill-gotten gains obtained for letting "French Pool," "Envelope Swindles" and other notorious gambling concerns carry on their nefarious work upon their ground.

Miss Kate Putnam appears at Breed Hall next Tuesday evening as Little Nell and the Marchioness (In Charles Dickens' Curiosity Shop). She will be supported by a first class company.

Saturday, Sept. 21, 1878—Lights gleamed in the windows and Chinese lanterns danced in the verandahs of the cosy cottages of the United Workers at Norwich Town last evening as the members and their friends gathered in social enjoyment. Only 50 tickets of admission had been issued, which were rapidly disposed of and the rooms were all comfortably filled. A delicious repast was served.

There was a large temperance meeting in Breed hall last evening, and "Dave" told his listeners that he intended to pursue his own plan of work, notwithstanding The Bulletin, Dr. Bacon or anyone else. The Rev. Mr. Davies spoke briefly as did Clarence Frost and a clergyman from Greeneville.

The postofice department has ordered that after October 1st, the registry fee for each package of third-class matter, shall be ten cents additional to the postage now required by law. this order applies to written matter, such as proofs, manuscripts, etc., as well as to general merchandise.

OATMEAL AND COFFEE WAS PET DUCK'S BREAKFAST

Mrs. Nellie Carr lives on Shore avenue, where her house is right near the water. When the storm was at its height recently and the rough water was filling her yard and cellar she lost 20 Indian runner ducks that were drowned. Mrs. Carr felt bad over the loss, for the ducks were her pets and one duck named Spike would follow her everywhere. In the morning it would get under a window and quack until Mrs. Carr got up to get her husband's breakfast. She never had to get a Big Ben alarm, as long as Spike was around. The duck always traveled alone, like having lost its friends. Mrs. Carr had to give the trained duck its coffee and oatmeal in the morning. The duck could do everything but talk.

At a meeting held in the boiler room of the Sea Sled Co. Thursday after their day was done, Chairman Flash McDonald was the speaker. It was for forming a basketball team and to elect a captain and manager, also treasurer. Bush MacGown was the choice for captain and Express F. Brewer, manager. Gus McDonald is treasurer. Having some new players to try out for the team, the plant force expects to have the fastest team around this section.

Two ex-college men who are fast will be seen at the forward positions; Dash A. MacComber of a Michigan college and Long Shot Mike Downs, of Norwich, Vt., college. Gus McDonald will be used as sub. Flash McDonald, a Crescent guard of the village, will be on the job again. MacGown is short but can travel and not lose his wind and a small man with a big jump will be at center, Express Brewer with more speed than a fast express train, will be at forward. New suits have been ordered, the color blue, with a small sea sled on the jerseys. Practice is held once a week. Cake and coffee were served after the meeting.

Gorge McGugan after having his toast and coffee was out taking a morning walk at Groton Long Point. He wanted to see how much damage was done by the tail end of the hurricane. Several row boats were high on the beach and damaged. A few windows were broken. The waves were dashing over the board walk and the surf was rolling high. Several cottages had water under them. It was the worst storm he has seen at the point since he moved there, 12 years ago and he lives there the year round.

The new heater is installed at the school house. Manager J. H. Webster had a fire built to try out the heater and in 40 minutes all the rooms were warmed. Boss Webster said the school was not piped off right before. He has been careful to get enough pitch to the pipes and that throws the heat in the rooms. He is willing to bet a steam boat to a doughnut that on a cold day all the windows will be opened on account of so much heat.

Frank Trahan has returned to Stamford after a short visit at his home.

The house of Gus Johnson is being repaired and shingled.

A large propeller shaft has arrived at the freight station and will be used at the shipyard. A truck from the yard with several men came down to the station Thursday and took it away.

MOTOR SHARES FEATURED THE HIGHER PRICE MOVEMENT IN THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—(AP)—Heavy buying of the motor shares, several of which moved into new high ground, featured the irregularly higher price movement in today's stock market. Buying in the general list was rather selective in character, with the food, oil, copper, public utility and tobacco shares presenting several points of strength. Final quotations also disclosed a long list of net declines, with weakness cropping out in some of the airplane and rubber shares.

Up until the last few minutes of trading, the ticker kept fairly well abreast of the market. The day's sales of 4,768,100 shares have only been exceeded a few times this year. Transactions in General Motors common, which climbed more than 6 points to a new 1928 high at 218 3-4, comprised nearly one-tenth of the day's entire volume of business.

Lowering of the call money rate from 8 to 7 1-2 per cent with predictions in banking quarters of relatively easy call money rates next week, helped considerably in reviving bullish enthusiasm. Wall street did not appear to be unduly disturbed by the increase of $85,000,000 in Federal Reserve brokers loans which was attributed, in part, to heavy new bond financing. With sterling exchange at a point where further gold imports might be profitable, Wall street still held out hope of further shipments of the yellow metal from London to New York.

There was little new in the day's trade developments to influence the price movement, although reports that the leading railroads would soon be in the market for large quantities of rails rought some buying support into the steel shares. Talk of higher copper prices and large oil refining company earnings stimulated the demand for those shares.

Today's rise in General Motors was based on a report that President Alfred P. Sloan Jr., might have something interesting to say on the eve of his departure for Europe. Chrysler was taken in hand late in the session and pushed up 5 points to a new top at 111 1-2. Graham-Paige, Brockway Hupp and Packard also reached new high ground and Hudson closed nearly 4 points higher. Several of the accessory issues also attracted a large following, Kelsey-Hayes Wheel and Electric Auto Lite selling at their best prices of the year.

Buying of the oils centered largely in the low and medium priced issues. Sinclair sold up to 31 7-8, a new top, on a large turnover. Revival of activity and strength in Superior Oil was based on the report that the recent acquisition of the Moody corporation, owning 65,000 acres of oil lands in Texas, New Mexico and Colorado, was part of a plan to make Superior the nucleus of another large-mid-continent company.

Greene Cananea Copper, soaring 10 3-4 points to 132 3-4, was one of the outstanding individual strong spots. Others were Coty, Dupont, S. H. Kress, National Dairy Products, National Tea, all up 5 to 8 points. Brooklyn Union Gas, Burroughs Adding Machine, Eisenlohr, Lambert, Fleischmann and the Purity Baking stocks were among the score or so issues to establish new peak prices for the year.

Wright Aeronautical broke 9 points and rallied 2 and Curtiss fell 5 3-4 and rallied fractionally. Commercial Solvents, W. T. Grant, Motor Products, Radio and the U. S. Rubber shares also were conspicuously heavy. Freeport Texas sustained an overnight loss of nearly 10 points at 60 and then rebounded to 62 1-8.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

A sudden rise of 3 3-4 to 4 1-2 cents a bushel in wheat prices, based on less favorable crop reports from the southern hemisphere, and a rally of $2.50 to $3 a bale in cotton on fears of frost damage divided interest in the commodities markets. Coffee and sugar futures also were firmer.

SOCIAL CORNER

all the linen, it was no wonder that old and young never had an idle moment. It was a sin to be idle.

In the fall after harvesting the flax a farmer gave what was called a "flax party" in the evening. No one younger than 15 could attend. Each young girl carried her own flax wheel to this party. Each young man was given a hank of flax, he asked one of the girls to spin it for him, and later he gave her a flax present. It was generally a pretty string of beads or bottle of cologne. The flax present I have is an image of pottery. It was bought in New York city, was taken on a sailing vessel to Newburg to be given to the young girl who spun the flax. It has traveled by sail, by steam, by horses and by autos, every way except by airplane.

After the spinning was finished refreshments were served, followed by games and dancing.

In former years when a farmer erected a house or barn or mill he announced a "raising bee." Every one who cared to work attended the raising and did so much work the building was well started. Then they had a feast, roast ox, roast mutton, vegetables, pies and cider. In the same way parties called "apple-cuts" peeled many barrels of apples and sliced them for drying and made a sociable time for all who attended. Corn husking parties made another way for a farmer to get his crop of corn husked and gave a good time especially when a red ear of corn was husked by a pretty girl.

After the work was finisher the floor was swept and all enjoyed a dance.

Even if they worked hard they had a happy life in former years. Best wishes to all.

WEATHER IN NEW YORK'S ART COLONY.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: During the month of August I was visiting a friend in the Greenwich Village art colony in New York city. Heat affects people in different ways and during one of the hot spells which we had this summer, a desperate artist living on the same floor where I was staying and a stranger (which is not unusual, for in Greenwich Village people living next door to one another are complete strangers) pinned a newspaper clipping on his door which read, "Died of the Heat."

The next morning some sympathetic roomer added a rose on the sign, which, no doubt, pleased our artist friend, for it remained there for several days—withered and pathetic as the little rose seemed.

Some time later some one who left the grief even more intensely pinned a piece of black crepe upon the door of the unknown artist, making the little "play" for realistic.

When leaving my room the next morning I found the crepe was removed, there remaining only the rose which seemed to appeal more to the soul of the artist instead of the morbid appearance of black crepe.

PICNIC AND VISITS.

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: I think it is about time for me to write a few lines. I have been up to Jewett City for a few days with my daughter where I had a nice time and also spent a few days with a cousin in Moosup. I had a pleasant visit with them.

I went to the picnic at Aunty No. 1's and had a fine time.

I have been reading Kochie's letter about home. It is nice to have a home, but mine is broken up. I don't think Kochia remembers me but I knew him when he was a boy.

Talks on Electric Service

"MORE ABOUT THE PROPOSED ELECTRIC RATE"

Many customers in Norwich are being served at less than cost. To partially offset this, the Department is making more than a fair return on some other customers.

In other words, some of the customers are paying the cost of giving service to the others. This is not fair and unless we try to correct it, we cannot hope to prosper and our customers cannot look forward to lower rates.

The customers who will be asked under the new rate to more nearly pay their own way may resent their increased bills, but we trust they will remember two things:—

1. The increase is not going into the cash box of the Department but is being paid back to the community through decreased bills to other customers.
2. Even those customers whose bills are increased can benefit through the use of additional electricity at 3 cents a kilowatt hour.

The new rate is the best rate even for the small customer, in that it is the only form of rate which offers him the same low price per kilowatt hour for additional use as is offered to every other customer.

OLD RATE
10c per Kilowatt hour.
NEW RATE
3c per Kilowatt hour, plus the initial charge.

CARD OF THANKS

The many kindnesses shown us in our sad bereavement have deeply touched our hearts. We wish to sincerely thank the many friends that have helped and given comfort in so many ways.
Jewett City, Conn., Sept. 21, 1928.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation for the many acts of kindness shown us during our recent bereavement, the illness and death of our beloved sister, Miss Nellie A. Nagle. We also wish to thank those who so kindly sent flowers to the funeral.
HER SISTERS and BROTHERS.

IN MEMORIAM

Just one year ago today,
Our loved one passed away.
He leaves a vacant chair and empty place,
Since we last looked on his dear
face.
Many a heartache and silent tear
We've shed, through the long and lonely year.
May we place our faith in God on
high,
And pray there, He'll guide us, bye
and bye.

MRS. VINNIE M. WILLIAMS and CHILDREN.

Auction Notice

By Witter Bros., Auctioneers, Office 42 Main St., Danielson, Conn. 40 head of cattle will be sold at auction on Monday, Sept. 24, at 1 o'clock p. m., D. S. T., rain or shine, at James Downing's farm located on Dow Road in the town of Plainfield, Conn., about one-half mile east of the state highway out of Plainfield to Norwich. Watch for the red flag and turn east at Brown's residence. The Burlington Hospital Farm of Burlington, Vt., having sold their farm, have sold their herd of 30 first calf heifers, Black and White, to James Downing, all having passed two clean tests without a reactor. They are all with calf, some very forward, in fact, now springing bag and will freshen for winter use. The entire lot are of good size, freshening at 2 to 3 years of age. These heifers were shipped into Connecticut with a clean bill of health showing their proper tests and were at once released by the state of Connecticut for immediate sale. Also in the sale will be ten large native fat and 2nd calf heifers. There will be several colored heifers in the lot and a great three-year-old Jersey, also 2 bulls. If you need one, this is as fine a lot of heifers as you care to look at and will positively be sold for the high dollar. Terms cash.

NOTICE

Whereas, lawfully constituted authority of the Town of Lebanon did on the second day of April, A. D. 1928, deliver into my hands a rate bill with tax warrant attached, for the collection of a twenty-five (25) mill tax on the grand list of the said Town of Lebanon, as last perfected, said rate bill being duly signed by all of the Selectmen of said Town and said tax warrant being signed by Clifford C. King, Esquire, a Justice of the Peace in and for the County of New London, and

Whereas, Sam Schmaevsky of said Lebanon has, after due notice and demand, neglected and refused to pay his portion of said tax, amounting to $48.32, and

Whereas, taxes amounting to $46.40 assessed against the real estate of the said Sam Schmaevsky, in the said Town of Lebanon, on the rate bill of April 1, 1927, remain unpaid after due notice and demand,

Now, therefore, I, George H. Briggs, Collector of Taxes of the Town of Lebanon, do hereby give notice that I will sell at public auction on Saturday, Nov. 10, 1928, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, on the premises, all of the said real estate of the said Sam Schmaevsky, or enough of the same to satisfy the claim of the said Town of Lebanon for taxes, with lawful interest and legal fees. Said real estate is a tract of ninety (90) acres of land, more or less, with the buildings thereon standing, known as the Norman Stuart farm, located in the Tobacco Street District of the said Town of Lebanon, and bounded as follows: By the highway leading from Tobacco street to Liberty Hill, by lands of William W. Palmer, by lands now or formerly of Nancy Tucker, George Lathrop, Luther Hyde and Clark Walden, or however otherwise bounded. See Lebanon Land Records, Volume, 53, at Page 167.

Dated at Lebanon, Conn., Sept. 4, 1928.

GEORGE H. BRIGGS,
Collector of Taxes, Town of Lebanon.

VICTROLA STOLEN FROM U. S. S. QUAIL FOUND IN NEW LONDON PAWNSHOP

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 21—Lieut. J. F. Smith, a member of the crew of U. S. S. Quail, United States coast guard, reported to the police this afternoon that a victrola had been stolen from him. Acting Sergeant William Gram accompanied Lieut. Smith to pawn shops and at Lambert's, Bank street, the stolen machine was found, it having been pawned in the name of Albert M. Cooper.

Angelo Biscontin, 658 Bank street, was struck by an automobile driven by G. Rowe Whitcomb, 467 Brooklyn Boulevard, Bright Water, N. Y., but escaped with slight injuries. Biscotti was walking on Bank street when he started to cross the street and walked directly in front of the automobile.

Miss F. K. Myl, residing at the Highland apartments, 40 Granite street, reported to the police this afternoon that a traveling case containing apparel and jewelry had been lost from the running board of the car in this city this afternoon.

A fire occurred at the shoe shining establishment owned by Theodore Constantine, State and Bank streets this afternoon, but the damage occasioned was slight. An employe of the store was cleaning hats and overturned a container of the inflammable liquid used. The liquid found its way to a gas stove, was ignited and several pieces of cloth close by caught fire. An employe ran to Box 23 and pulled the alarm. Chief Thomas Shipman and several pieces of apparatus responded, but before the firemen arrived an employe of the Union Cab company, that occupies a portion of the same building, had entered the store with a fire extinguisher, the contents being emptied on the blazing cloth, subduing the fire.

The auxiliary of the Montauk Avenue Baptist church held its first meeting of the season last night at the home of Mrs. Charles Long of Colman street. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. C. E. Hancock. Reports by the different officers were heard and then the members planned fall activities. A food sale will be held and a rummage sale. Following the meeting the hostess served a delicious chicken dinner. Guests at the dinner also included Rev. Mr. Ferguson and Charles Long.

At a meeting of New London chapter, Connecticut College Alumnae association last night at the college tea house, Miss Barbara Bell was unanimously re-elected president. Other officers elected were: Vice-president, Hope Freeland Allen; secretary, Frances Green; secretary-treasurer, Mildred Keefe; entertainment and publicity chairman, Katherine L. Troland. The local chapter is to make an attempt this year to raise a sum to be used in helping upper classmen. Several scholarships are now available for helping freshmen, but there is no fund that will aid members of the upper classes. Preceding the business meeting a delicious supper was served. Those in attendance were: Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Elsie Marquardt Meek, Reba Coe, Jessie Williams, Edna Smith, Mary Crofoot, Barbara Bell, Frances Green, Mildred Keefe, Grace Carlson, Constance Irving, Alice Ramsay, Gertrude Abrahamson, Lavinia Hull, Marion Bedell, Frances Joseph, Grace Hollister, Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Miner, Mildred Rogoff, Mrs. Peck and Katherine L. Troland.

Another addition to the big Armistice day parade planned for this city was arranged for yesterday, when regulars from the island forts, through their commanding officers, accepted an invitation to participate in the affair.

More than 250 members of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon were present at a ceremonial held last night in Lawrence ballroom. Delegations from other forests were present. Over 60 candidates were initiated, following which refreshments were served. Oct. 16 the local forest will begin its fall activities with a family social.

YOUNG INVENTORS TO DISPLAY AIRPLANE MODELS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 21—Tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock a model airplane meet will be held in Calkins park under the auspices of the municipal playground workers. Every boy in the city who has constructed a plane will be eligible to enter the contests. There will be a prize given for the plane that stays in the air longest.

At a meeting of the New London Y. M. C. A. club last night, Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth gave an interesting lecture on his travels in Egypt. Twenty-one members were present.

MILITARY HONORS PAID LOUIS LUBCHANSKY, VETERAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 21—Louis Lubchansky of 17 Grand street died yesterday morning at his home. He was a World war veteran and was well known in this city. He is survived by his wife and two children. Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon from the family home and he was buried with military honors in the Jewish cemetery, Waterford.

A three-family house on Brainard stree., owned by Olive J. Wolff of Groton, has been attached for the sum of $1,000 in favor of Phoebe Wolff McLeod of this city.

Those dismissed at Home Memorial were Mrs. Elizabeth Willis, 22 Learned street; Mrs. Hugh L. Walker and daughter, Mystic, and Mrs. Harry Lewis, 52 Crystal avenue.

Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander has ordered the sale of property belonging to Arthur Messer of this city, as a result of his failure to pay taxes due New London Oct. 1, 1927, in the amount of $93.60. Unless settlement is made the sale will take place Saturday, Nov. 24.

EEL STOPS UP FLOW PIPE, ENGINES CAN'T GET DRINK

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 21—Employes of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad were caused much inconvenience last night and early today when engine hostlers were unable to supply locomotives with water at the union station. A huge tank is located off Railroad avenue, which furnishes the supply and when a gang of workmen examined the flow pipe they found a large eel in it. When the eel was removed it measured 33 inches in length and two inches across the body, directly behind the head. The eel was about four inches in circumference.

FUNERAL
Christover C. Clark

The funeral of Christover C. Clark, former employe of the Mallory line steamers, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Clark Rogers, 49 Truman street. Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, officiated. The bearers were Christopher Culver, Gerard Connors, James McNamara and Samuel M. Prentis.

Margaret Lezarde, eight days old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lezarde, 24 Linden street, died this morning at Lawrence-Memorial hospital.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of Irving C. Larkin, 49 Harrison street; Louis Kpunes, 64 Connecticut avenue, and Herbert P. Rice, Submarine base. Commissioner Stoeckel also denied the right to operate to Paul W. Happor, Submarine base.

John White, 216 Jefferson avenue, made complaint to the police last night because his automobile had been damaged by a hit-and-run driver. White had parked his car in front of his residence and a short time afterwards, another auto crashed against the motionless car, causing much damage. The driver of the colliding car did not stop to ascertain the extent of the damage he had caused.

CREW OF BURNED LAUNCH FREED IN FEDERAL COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 21—John Washburn, William Thibedeau and Edward Hunt were before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran this morning, charged with rum running, but they were discharged because of evidence not being sufficiently strong as to reasonably assure a conviction if the three were bound over to the United States district court. Washburn, Thibedeau and Hunt were taken into custody on the afternoon of Aug. 22 when the craft they were operating, the Helen Ferlito, was destroyed by fire in Fishers Island sound. A United States coast guard patrol boat was patrolling Long Island and Fishers Island sounds in search of rum runners. The launch was sighted about a mile distant and the movements of the boat gave suspicion that she was laden with liquor. The patrol boat was headed for the launch and as the coast guard boat neared the Helen Ferlito, the launch suddenly burst into flames. The three men leaped into the sound and were picked up by the crew of another boat. The coast guard crew succeeded in boarding the launch before she was burned to the water's edge and removed three pints of liquor that were found in the cabin. The launch finally sank and whatever the cargo, if any, it went to the bottom with it. The crew was brought into port for it was the contention of the coast guard officers that the crew had set fire to the launch for the purpose of destroying the liquor. The crew claimed that the liquor found on the launch was for their own consumption and that the boat was not engaged in liquor trafficking. They declared that backfire caused the destruction of the launch.

EIGHT MONTHS IN JAIL UNLESS HOLLOWAY PAYS FINE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 21—Leon Holloway, until a few days ago residing at 127 Elm street, was in the police court this morning, charged with violation of the liquor law. He was fined $200 and costs and as he could not pay he was committed to jail which means that unless the fine is paid, Holloway will be a prisoner eight months. Holloway was arrested last Tuesday when the police received information that a truck was being loaded with beer at the Elm street house. When officers arrived at the house the truck had left, but it was overtaken on Jefferson avenue and its load of 32 cases of home brew was seized. When the case was called yesterday, Holloway did not appear, but he was arrested when found at his new residence, Alewife avenue, Ocean Beach. He was locked up without bail to insure his presence in court this morning. With the imposition of the fine Judge S. Victor Prince ordered the destruction of the beer, which was emptied into the sewer at the adjournment of court.

About 350 members of the Methodist church held a party last evening, when different groups and classes portrayed different sections of the world by scenic effects and songs. The affair was called an Around the World party and was arranged by Mrs. R. R. Abell and Mrs. W. D. Harris.

Members of St. Joseph's Women's Social club held the first meeting of the season last night in St. Joseph's hall. The affair was a whist party and ten tables were in play. Prizes were won by Mrs. Edward Shea, Mrs. Ernest St. Jean, Mrs. Harry J. Kennedy and Mrs. Louis Conti. The hostess was Mrs. Edward O'Brien.

Miss Madeline Gorman of Ocean avenue has been elected treasurer of her class at Ryder college, N. J., where she is taking a course in accountancy.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Prominent Woman To Speak.

The open meeting of the Norwich League of Women Voters to be held in the town hall Monday night will have two thrilling women speakers. Miss Alice Mooney of Waterbury will speak for the democratic point of view on the coming election and Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman will talk on "Hoover." This meeting is a joint meeting with the Woman's City club and the Business and Professional Women's club. Miss Alff Stephens, president of the league, will preside and the meeting can be hailed with great expectation by the men and women of Norwich.

Palace.

Cossack riders, brought from Europe, staging such thrills as leaping on galloping horses with sabers clutched in their teeth, forming human pyramids while galloping at breakneck speed, and other sensational details; thrilling battles between Cossacks and Turks, waged during wild gallops, and other strange thrills of horsemanship mark "The Cossacks," John Gilbert's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle, starting a four day run at the Palace Theatre. It is, perhaps, the most interesting picture ever made in America.

A whole Russian town was built for the play, and in it several hundred Russians actually lived, reviving all their old Russian customs, and the Cossacks, brought from Europe, found it a new home. The Russians approached the task of making the picture almost with reverence; almost in the spirit of the peasants of Oberammergau with their passion play, feeling that they were putting on the screen the glories of their land. Only the principals spoke English—direction was all translated to the Russian extras by interpreters.

A great Turkish fort and nearly a mile of rocky crags are among other huge construction feats in the making of the picture one of the largest and most elaborate in the history of the studio. George Hill, director of "Tell it to the Marines," directed the play from a story by Frances Marion. John Gilbert and Miss Adoree, the central figures of "The Big Parade," have much the same relationship in the new story, which, under all its surge and thunder of battle, centers on the love affair of the boy and girl.

Broadway Theatre.

With the closing of the initial Vitaphone program at the Broadway theatre, Manager M. J. Levinson today announced that the attendance for the four days during which this initial Vitaphone program was seen and heard, was greater than during any other period. Vitaphone has caught the public imagination and the people have been crowding the auditorium of the theatre each day.

Vitaphone will continue to hold the admiration and favor of the people of Norwich with its roster of world-renowned favorites in the theatre, the opera stage, the concert stage, the world of jazz and the motion picture industry. Vitaphone is ready to give the people programs which are unsurpassable for variety and perfection. And then there is the list of Warner Bros. pictures all carrying Vitaphone musical accompaniment and dialogue.

Pictures like Janet Jaynor in "The Street Angel" — John Barrymore in "The Tempest Sunrise"—"Tenderloin"—"The Lion and the Mouse"—"Glorious Betsy" and "Lights of New York," all of which have established themselves as productions of merit through Vitaphone and Movietone. For the first time people will listen to the velvet tones of Jolson, the dulcet voice of Dolores Costello and the trained and charming voice of Lionel Barrymore.

Vitaphone has a growing array of stars. The interest in motion pictures is certain to grow greater and the cause of it all will be Vitaphone — the device that has revolutionized the greatest form of amusement the world has ever known—the motion picture.

Broadway Theatre.

Women's clubs, and other organizations interested in the absorbing problem of companionate marriage, have shown surprising interest in the forthcoming production of "Is Companionate Marriage Legal?" submitted by Dunigan and Stevens, sponsors of The Garrick Players, your own stock company, which will appear at Broadway Theatre for three nights beginning September 24. The Garrick Players are offering this clean comedy of everyday life in response to thousands of requests received by the management to produce this play. "Is Companionate Marriage Legal?" deals with a vital problem of today in a clean manner that will offend no member of your family. It is now in its seventh month at the Cort Theatre in Chicago and The Garrick Players are offering it previous to its New York opening in October only through the friendship of the management with the author. While "Is Companionate Marriage Legal?" is a comedy it is filled with tense, dramatic situations and as sweet a love story as has ever been written. It is a play about real folks, in moderate circumstances and it handles the great issue of companionate marriages truthfully but with genuine delicacy. The argument between Judge Ben Lindsey, formerly of the Juvenile court of Denver, Colorado and Bernarr McFadden, well known publisher, has focussed public attention on this great issue. The play takes no sides in the debate. It is not, in any sense, a sex play. But it may give mothers, fathers, sisters, brothers some food for thought. All of your favorite players are well cast in "Is Companionate Marriage Legal" and have great opportunities for clever characterizations. Bob Stevens says that, to his way of thinking, it is one of the finest plays of its kind and that you'll make no mistake if you bring your whole family to see this clean solution of today's great problem.

Breed Theatre.

Ramon Novarro plays a role entirely new to him in "Forbidden Hours," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's spectacular story of court intrigue and loves, which opens a three days' run at the Breed Theatre. It is a vivid insight into modern conditions in Europe, in which a charming love story is worked out. Renee Adoree is the heroine, and Roy D'Arcy, Edward Connelly, Alberta Vaughn Shirley O'Hara, Dorothy Cumming and others of note are in the cast. Harry Beaumont directed the new play from an original story by A. P. Younger.

New London County Fair

Edward Butler, millionaire sportsman of Goshen, N. Y., is personally on the ground among the early arrivals of racing stables at the county fair grounds. Mr. Butler was out on the track working Hollywood Leonard, the $25,000 horse, yesterday afternoon. Many other horses have already arrived and the new stables are seeing their first occupants. F. D. Whitcomb of Springfield, Mass., has a fine string, among which are Spirit Volo, Oration and John Rowland.

President Armstrong has been on the ground for the past two weeks personally supervising the cleaning and arrangements. The result of his work is clearly evident on every hand. The merchants' booths have been relocated so that they virtually form an extension of the large exhibition hall. The grounds have been closely mown and thoroughly cleared and now look unusually attractive. The spirit of "Keep the fair" has been magnificently exemplified by the horsemen who have been training at the track for the past two months. Under the leadership of Mr. Jerome House they have accomplished wonderful changes around the track. An attractive new fence, considerably lower than the old one, has been put up around the inside of the track. The front fence in the vicinity of the stable and grove has been moved back and rebuilt.

The Canadian Exhibit which will be in the dance pavillion arrives today. Mr. Delorme with his assistants will require most of the time between now and next Thursday to put up the many items which make up the beautiful demonstration of Canadian agriculture, industry and scenery. This exhibit is a clear demonstration of the recognition of the value of our fair, only a few fairs being selected in New England at which this is shown.

Next Saturday, Sept. 29th, will be "Kids' Day" at the County fair. All children under 12 years old, accompanied by parents or teachers will be admitted onto the grounds free.

Many attractions dear to the hearts of all kiddies will be featured on that day. The idea of free "Kids' day" went over big last year and the youngsters are all set for the big time again this year.

WILL HOLD MASS MEETING ON RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

The Norwich Council of Religious Education, recognizing the great importance of religious education, has arranged for a mass meeting in which all the churches will unite; this meeting will be held in the United Congregational church on Sunday evening, September 30, at 7:30 o'clock. The popular quartet of the United church will furnish music for the occasion.

The speaker on this occasion is one who is nationally known as an authority of note on religious education, Dr. Luther A. Weigle, dean of Yale Divinity school. Dr. Weigle is a much sought man and the Norwich council considers itself very fortunate in securing such a man.

To this important meeting, not only the people of Norwich but also the people of all surrounding territory are most cordially invited. It is expected that this will be one of the largest gatherings in the interest of religious education ever held in Norwich.

"Burton's Agency Sells Another"

Mrs. Ausia Lathrop of Montville, has sold the two-story brick building, located at 42-44 Shetucket street to Mr. Owen Abraham of this city, who will occupy a large part of the building for his business, and rent the balance for offices.

The sale was negotiated through the real estate agency of Mrs. Rosa E. Burton.

ECHOS FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

Elaborate plans for the entertainment of the distinguished guests to the American Legion auxiliary convention in San Antonio October 8 to 12 are in process of completion. Lady Edward Spencer Churchill of England, Lady Drummond of Canada, and Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau of Washington, D. C., president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, have accepted the invitation of the auxiliary to attend as distinguished guests. Another titled English woman who will be entertained is Lady Allenby. She will accompany her husband, Field Marshal Lord Allenby, who will be among the distinguished guests at the American Legion convention.

Visitors to the convention will be entertained by the San Antonio chapters of various patriotic organizations in a joint reception, by the Overseas Service league in a special luncheon, by the federated clubs, in addition to being received at a tea, to be attended by a thousand guests, at the San Antonio Country club, and a "garden tea" in the courtyard of the Alamo, the hostesses being the Daughters of the Republic of Texas. The last two named will be the largest and most elaborate of the locally managed entertainments.

Dinners, breakfasts and luncheons which usually form part of every auxiliary convention, under national direction, include the Aloha breakfast, the past presidents' parley luncheon, the Eight and Forty dinner, the department secretaries' dinner, the rehabilitation and child welfare breakfast, the states' dinner, and the Fidac luncheon. Of these the states' dinner will be the most elaborate with its guest list of 1,000. Interest centers in the winners of the trophies for the most beautiful and appropriately decorated state table. There will be 52 of these especially decorated tables.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

The meeting of Norwich grange next week is the date for its annual fair, an important event on the year's calendar which is always of especial interest. In charge of the fancy work are Mrs. Fanning and Mrs. Jahn, in charge of flowers Althea V. Brown and Cecelia Lester, in charge of fruits and vegetables Albert Lillibridge and Charles Sanders, tickets Jennie Davis and music John M. Swahn.

The auxiliary of the Norwich grange will hold an all-day session next Wednesday at Grange hall.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

The regular meting of Clara Barton Tent, No. 7, was held in Buckingham Memorial, Tuesday evening, with the president, Mrs. Lillian B. Newbury, presiding. As this was the first meeting since the attendance contest was launched, there was a large number present. The "Waves Aboves," captained by Miss Florence Tilly, were reported ahead. The meeting closed in the usual manner with the salute to the flag and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

AMERICAN LEGION

San Antonio is ready for the coming of 100,000 veterans of the World war and their wives, mothers, sisters and daughters for the tenth national convention of the American legion October 8 to 12.

Veterans attending the convention, in addition to the pleasant weather and the reunion with their war comrades on the spot where thousands of them trained, will find the greatest entertainment program ever planned for a legion gathering, according to Philip B. Stapp, general convention director.

A world's championship rodeo, a decision prize fight with leading championship contenders, spectacular battle exercises by the Second division, a Folies Bergeres show with dancing beauties of six nations, dancing every night on Alamo Plaza, an air circus with a thousand planes participating, the great parade of 60,000 men and women, dinners and social functions beyond number are on the program at San Antonio. Bull fights and Spanish fiestas on the Mexican border are an added attraction.

REBEKAHS

The regular meeting of Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21, was held Wednesday night with Noble Grand Carolyn Howard in the chair. Committees' reports were read and accepted. Ora Spencer was appointed chairman of the entertainment committee for the remainder of the year. Mrs. John O. Peckham was appointed chairman of the fair to be held soon. At the next meeting the anniversary is to be observed and the entertainment committee is planning to have something for this affair. In the afternoon of the next meeting the members are to tie bed quilts for the fair, each bringing a basket lunch and staying for meeting.

LADIES AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

At the regular meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary, A. O. H., No. 54, held Wednesday evening, Mrs. F. Williams, chairman of the recent whist and pinochle reported a pleasing sum was realized. The winners of the whist prizes were Mrs. Bundy, first; Mrs. A. Connelly, second and Mrs. Fournier, third. Gentlemen winning were Ed. Sullivan, first; Mr. Webber, second and Mr. McKelver, third. The pinochle prizes were won by Mrs. J. Haffner, 7670, Mrs. Cantlin, 7610, and Mrs. Herman, 7230. Mr. Cooney, 8040, Dave Kane 7900 and J. Fallon, 7700.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 10th.

JUNIOR AMERICAN MECHANICS

Buckingham council, No. 14, met at Eagle's hall, Cliff street, Wednesday evening. Councilor W. O. Gates presided. A pinochle league among the members was started with two tables to start. There is to be a prize to the highest man at the end of the tournament. One new application was acted upon and voted in and there are prospects of several more so it looks as if a class initiation will be the order of the evening before long. Come on! Brother, get in your applications so we can have the banquet in some other place besides Norwich next June.

Escaped from County Home

The local police have been notified that a 13 year old boy escaped from the New London county home Friday. The police are on the watch for the boy.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Norwich Music Association.

The Norwich Music association is announcing the series of recitals planned for the 1928-1929 season. This will be the association's fourteenth year, and the seven programs arranged for the winter are of a high order, interesting and varied.

The artists to be heard will be Berty Jenny, mezzo-soprano; Margaret Hamilton, pianist; Robert Elwyn, tenor; Mrs. Josephine Stewart, soprano and Henry Brynan, violinist; Sadah Shuchart, violinist; and Julian Kahn, cellist. In addition, there will be the usual March program presented by local talent.

Membership tickets for the seven recitals can be secured from Mr. William H. Collins, 63 McKinley avenue, for $3.00 each.

GREENEVILLE

Jacob F. Metzger

Jacob F. Metzger, 83, of 88 Fifth street, passed away Friday evening at 6 o'clock following a period of ill health which has extended over several months. He was the son of the late Caspar and Isabella Metzger and was born in this city, Aug. 3, 1845, having lived in Greeneville practically all his life. On Nov. 24, 1869, he was united in marriage with Caroline A. Zimmerman of this city. Mr. Metzger was a member of the Shetucket lodge, I. O. O. F., and Palmyra encampment. He followed the occupation of a carriage maker and also conducted a carpenter shop for a period of years on North Main street, part of which is at present occupied by the Scott & Clark corporation. Mr. Metzger was a faithful and helpful member of the Greeneville Congregational church. Surviving him are two sisters, Mrs. Charles A. Keubler of this city and Mrs. Phillip Karoll of New York city; also three children, Miss Bertha A. Metzger and Mrs. William J. Tilley, both of this city, and William F. Metzger of New York city. He also leaves three grandchildren, Frederick W. Metzger of Palmyra, N. J., Ruth A. Metzger of New York city and Russell A. Metzger of this city, and one great-grandchild, Eleanor C. Metzger, of Palmyra, N. J. In the passing of Mr. Metzger, Greeneville loses one of its oldest residents. His many friends in this vicinity extend their sympathy to the family in their bereavement.

Miss Catherine Brennan, a student at the Willimantic State Normal Training school, is spending her week-end recess at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Brennan, on Prospect street.

John McGuire has returned to Brooklyn, N. Y., after spending a few days with relatives on Prospect street.

LEBANON WOMEN HEARD TWO MISSIONARY SPEAKERS

In spite of the very disagreeable, stormy day, many women gathered Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Harry M. Gray for the regular meeting of the Women's Missionary auxiliary of the Lebanon Congregational church. A good delegation from the Franklin society came to hear Miss Elizabeth Day and Miss Caroline Smiley.

Miss Day talked on the new organization or merger of the three branches of the Womans board and the Home Missionary union into the Council of Congregational Women of Connecticut to be formed at Hartford Center church, October 2. She spoke of the plans and work of the last two years to perfect these plans to make this a more efficient, go-forward movement.

Miss Smiley then told of some of her experiences both happy and sad, in her work of eight years as a missionary in India. She also sang one of their songs in the Indian dialect. The talks were both enjoyable and instructive.

Mrs. Fred M. Taylor presided at the piano for the singing of the hymns and also for her own fine solo "In Heavenly Love Abiding."

RED CROSS APPEALS FOR NORWICH TO EXCEED $1,400 HURRICANE AID QUOTA

The work of the American Red Cross through its trained representatives on the various relief units now on the ground in the areas which have suffered so terribly from the results of the hurricane which devastated the whole of the Island of Porto Rico and a very large area in Florida as recounted in every issue of the daily press indicates in a convincing manner the value of organization at such a critical time and most certainly justifies the existence of the organization which has always made god when such occasions as the present one have arisen.

The magnitude of the problem which was presented to the Red Cross as the direct result of the devastation in the wake of this tropical storm throughout the whole of Porto Rico and a large part of Florida as well, was not appreciated when the first reports were published in the papers however terrible the picture presented. Detailed reports from those in charge of the trained workers of the Red Cross organization who were dispatched immediately to the stricken localities upon receipt of the first news of the devastation wrought by the storm, have indicated that all the estimates made earlies were far below those compiled from reports received after a more complete survey of the conditions which confronted them had been possible.

A telegram received by the chairman of the Norwich chapter of the American Red Cross on Friday requested that a quota of $1,400 be regarded as the contribution of Norwich, but a subsequent message, received shortly after, emphasized the necessity of that figure being exceeded if possible, basing th latter request upon the fact that the demands upon the funds already contributed have greatly exceeded expectations, the needs being mostly in foodstuffs and building materials and medical supplies, as always.

In order that Norwich may do its full share in this great work of the American Red Cross and in order that their request for help for those who are destitute in Porto Rico and Florida by reason of this terrible disaster, may make as wide an appeal as possible and definite results may appear at an early date, it is expected that the cooperation of all of the local churches will be solicited as soon as the matter may be arranged. As the result of the co-operation of Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, collections will be taken up at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church at the services on the coming Sunday, Sept. 23d.

JUDGE NELSON J. AYLING

UNANIMOUSLY RENOMINATED FOR PROBATE JUDGE

The delegates to the Norwich republican probate district convention renominated for the 13th consecutive term, Judge Nelson J. Ayling of this city, for the office of probate judge. The nomination was unanimous.

The convention was held at 1 o'clock at the internal revenue office in the court house. The district includes the towns of Norwich, Preston, Griswold, Sprague, Lisbon, Voluntown and Franklin. There were no delegates present from the towns of Griswold, Lisbon or Franklin.

The convention was called to order by George M. Charbonneau, district chairman, and Attorney Edmund W. Perkins was the choice for moderator. Henry B Bates was the choice for clerk. Louis J. Fontaine, Dr. Charles Solomon and E. LaRue Bliven were named a committee on credentials.

Moderator Perkins relinquished the chair to the clerk, while he renominated Judge Ayling for the office of probate judge. He stated that he was pleased to offer the name of Judge Ayling for renomination, and declared that Judge Ayling is a man of much experience and has served the public better than any other official with whom he has come in contact. The nomination was seconded by Mr. Fontaine and was unanimously approved.

Mr. Fontaine and Dr. Solomon were named a committee to notify Judge Ayling of his renomination and they escorted the judge to the room. Hearty applause greeted the judge's arrival, after which he stated that he appreciated the honor extended him.

The final business was the naming of a probate committee. On motion of Fred C. Zundell the following were selected: E. W. Perkins, E. LaRue Bliven and Louis J. Fontaine. Following adjournment the delegates were guests of Judge Ayling at a luncheon at the Wauregan hotel. Judge Ayling has held the office of probate judge in this city since November, 1904, being elected term after term on both the republican and democratic tickets. He is slated to be endorsed at the democratic probate convention.

Present at the convention were Attorney Edmund W. Perkins, Dr. Charles Solomon and E. LaRue Bliven, Norwich; Louis Fontaine, Sprague; Fred C. Zundell, Mrs. Fred Zundell, proxy for Albert Benjamin, Alanson Fuller and Henry B. Bates of Preston and F. C. Bray of Voluntown.

Reckless Driving Charge Nolled

A reckless driving charge against Raymond A. Tremblay, 2, of Groton, was nolled, when the case came up in the city court Friday morning. Tremblay was arrested Thursday night following an accident on West Thames street. His machine skided on the wet pavement and crashed into a Ford coupe owned by Matthew E. Ryan of No. 44 Dunham street, which was parked by the roadside. Both machines were somewhat damaged.

WILLARD TO RETIRE AFTER 41 YEARS SERVICE

At his own request, Samuel P. Willard, of Colchester, will retire on December 1 from state employ after forty-one years of service. He is director of the division of accounts and purchases of the state board of education.

Mr. Willard, well-known throughout the state, joined the state board of education on December 1, 1887. He was the board's first employee and its first clerk. For several years he was the only person in the office of that board, conducting its business as clerk and secretary and fulfilling numerous other duties. Today there are some forty employes carrying on the duties of the numerous divisions.

Mr. Willard is a trustee of the famous Bacon academy in Colchester and has been prominent in educational enterprises in this state for many years. He is one of very few state employes to serve over two-score years. His retirement was reluctantly accepted by the state board of finance and control at its meeting at the capitol Thursday morning, and the full pension of three-quarters salary allowed under the statutes was voted to him by the board.

The board also voted to retire on pension, effective October 1, William G. Pratt, of Hartford, who appeared before the board. He is 77 years old and for twenty years has been an examiner in the state insurance department.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Joseph F. Ring

There was a very large attendance of relatives and friends at the funeral of Mrs. Joseph F. Ring held Friday morning at 8.30 o'clock at her home, No. 130 Washington street. The floral tributes were many and very beautiful. At 9 o'clock there was a solemn high requiem mass at St. Patrick's church at which Rev. Myles P. Galvin was celebrant, Rev. John J. Reilly the deacon, Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May sub deacon and Rev. Alfred Driscoll of Bridgeport master of ceremonies. Rev. Frederick R. DesSurreault of Taftville was seated in the sanctuary. Henry J. LaFontaine presided at the organ and at the offertory sang Pie Jesu. As the waiting hymn Roderick F. Sullivan sang Jesus, Lover of My Soul and at the recessional, Mrs. Bernard Coyle and trio rendered Nearer, My God to Thee. During the mass Mr. LaFontaine played Abide With Me with the chimes accompaniment.

The burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, Rt. Rev. Msgr. May conducting the committal service. The bearers were John R. Tarrant, John A. Cunningham, Charles Riordan, Walter P. Moran and Thaddeus Leahy of Norwich and Harold Ring of Springfield.

In the large attendance was a delegation from the Catholic Women of Columbus. Hourigan Bros., had charge of the funeral arrangements.

SALESMAN LOST TEMPER, ARRESTED AT WESTERLY

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 22—David H. Gould, of New York, traveling salesman, was taken into custody tonight at 8 o'clock by Officer Adin R. Sheldon of Pawcatuck and lodged in the Liberty street lockup, for abusing an officer. Gould had parked his car on Pawcatuck river bridge on which section of West Broad street appeared "no parking" signs, while he went to a neighboring restaurant. When he returned he found the car ticketed and in the argument with the officer, became so abusive as to attract considerable attention. His arrest followed. Before Judge William A. Wilcox, Fred S. Opie, prominent Westerly merchant became surety in the sum of $200 for Gould's appearance in Stonington town court Saturday, Oct. 13 at 2 p. m.

PUTNAM BOY SLIGHTLY INJURED BY AUTOMOBILE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 21—Frank Carlage, 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Carlage, of Front street, was injured in an automobile crash on Front street this evening. Carlage was riding a bicycle and was turning from Front street to Livery street when he became entrapped between two cars. In an attempt to avoid being run down by one car he was crashed into by the second, a large touring car which was operated by Paul Wheaton of Mechanic street. Indications at the time of the accident were that the boy was badly injured and he was rushed to the Day Kimball hospital where Xray pictures were taken. The photographs disclosed no broken bones and he was discharged after receiving medical attention for a severe puncture of the leg. Wheaton was not questioned as it was evident that the boy had crashed into his car in an attempt to reach safety from the first automobile.

PLANS PILGRIMAGE TO GENERAL NATHANIEL LYON STATE PARK

Under arrangement made by the Fifth district, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil war, a pilgrimage is to be made on Sunday, Oct. 7, to the birthplace of General Nathaniel Lyon in the town of Eastford. Invitations to join in the pilgrimage are extended to the Grand Army of the Republic, the Woman's Relief Corps, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war, ladies of the G. A. R., Sons of Veterans auxiliary, members of Connecticut division, Sons of the Union Veterans of the Civil war, with their families and friends.

General Lyon was one of the outstanding men of the Civil war period and was the first general to lose his life in defense of the union. It has been thought fitting to visit his old home in the town of Eastford, there see the scene of his early childhood, and have a patriotic meeting in his honor. The state of Connecticut has made the Lyon place into a state park and while the old home has been demolished the old stone chimney has been preserved and restored and is an object of great interest.

The committee on the pilgrimage, which consists of Arthur L. Peale, DeForest Wells and Charles R. Brown, announces that the plan is to meet at the state park at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Oct. 7, when appropriate exercises will be held, followed by a basket lunch. On the return a stop will be made at the cemetery at Phoenixville to place a wreath on the grave of General Lyon.

The following have been named as a committee to place the wreath:

James Haggerty, senior vice commander, department of Connecticut, G. A. R., Willimantic; Miss Lillian E. Bailey, department president, Woman's Relief Corps, Danielson; Mrs. Jennie S. Newbury, department president, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war, Norwich; Mrs. Estelle Blair, department president, Sons of Veterans auxiliary, New Haven; Mrs. Laura E. Ortlepp, department president, Ladies of the G. A. R., Bridgeport, Conn.; Robert T. Alcorn, Hartford; Captain Charles Coit, Norwich.

Phoenixville is on the main highway from Willimantic to Putnam (Route 101). A country road to the right near Phoenixville which will be suitably marked leads to the park, a distance of two or three miles.

Nathaniel Lyon and the Memorial

On the state highway from Willimantic to Putnam, about half a mile south of Phoenixville, a road branches off to the east, crossing the Natchaug river and bearing southerly. Following this road about two miles, keeping to the right at each fork, one comes to the birthplace of Nathaniel Lyon, now long abandoned as a habitation and marked only by the huge stone chimney, which still stands some hundred yards west of the highway. Heavy stone walls mark the site of the barn and farmyard, which stood a little to the north. A few acres of rugged mowing land still surrounds the ruins, with the usual hedgerows marking the old fence lines. Most of the Lyon tract is well wooded. General Lyon's burial place is on the westerly side of the state highway, just where the road to his birthplace leaves it, and the lot is marked by a twelve foot shaft. Nathaniel Lyon was born on July 14, 1818 in that section of the town of Ashford which in 1847 became the town of Eastford. He graduated at West Point June 30, 1841 and was immediately appointed second lieutenant in the 2nd regiment of infantry. He joined the regiment in November and took part in the closing scenes of the Seminole war in Florida. In the Mexican war he was present at Vera Cruz, Cerro Gordo, Chapultepec and the City of Mexico. From 1850 to 1860 he was in active service on the western frontier and when the Civil war broke out was in command of the arsenal at St. Louis with the rank of captain. In May 1861, he was appointed brigadier general of the First Missouri Volunteers, and by his prompt and vigorous action in the few critical weeks of his last campaign, the state of Missouri was saved to the union Almost without support, he so broke the rising tide of secession in that state, that it never fully recovered, though at the cost of his life. He was killed at the battle of Wilson's Creek, August 10, 1861. His body was brought home for burial and was placed in the cemetery at Phoenixville on September 5, 1861, with the highest honors by state and nation. His sword, belt and chapeau were presented to the State of Connecticut by his relatives and were by special act deposited with the Connecticut Historical society in the Wadsworth atheneum at Hartford, where they are now displayed. In 1920 the General Lyon place was acquired by the state park commission and designated as a state park.

GUILD AT POQUETANUCK HELD BRIDGE WHIST

The Woman's guild of St. James church, Poquetanuck, gave a bridge-whist at the parish house Thursday evening. Seven tables were played. Refreshments were served consisting of sandwiches, cake, pickles and coffee. The prizes were awarded as follows: Ladies, Mrs. Arthur Smith of Poquetanuck and Mrs. Douglas and Mrs. Steinbough of Dayville; gentlemen, William McKelvie and Walter Tarbox. The whist was in charge of the president of the guild, Mrs. Arthur Smith, assisted by Mrs. Alanson Fuller, Mrs. Charles Harkness, Mrs. Fred Miller and Mrs. Rose Whitmarsh.

An all day meeting of the guild is to be held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Barrett soon to begin work for the Christmas sale.

CLAIMS SMITH IS HIDING BEHIND HIS OWN CHURCH

Charge Made by Mabel Walker Willebrandt Before a Conference of M. E. Ministers at Lorain, Ohio—Asserted That the Democratic Presidential Nominee is Afraid to Come Out and Face the Record That He Has Made as a Champion of the Liquor Traffic—Maintained That Smith's Stand on Prohibition Has Drawn the Churches Into This Campaign.

LORAIN, Ohio, Sept. 23—(AP)—Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, in an address before a conference of Methodist Episcopal ministers here tonight, charged that Governor Smith, the democratic presidential nominee, "is hiding behind his own church because he is afraid to come out and face the record that he has made as a champion of the liquor traffic."

The woman assistant attorney general made this statement in denying a declaration in the candidate's Oklahoma City speech, in which she claimed he had said she was opposing him because of his religion.

"Prohibition is a moral issue which the churches have long espoused," Mrs. Willebrandt continued. "It was he who injected this moral issue into the campaign. It was therefore his act that drew the churches into this campaign."

In opening her address, she reviewed the years of opposition by churches to the liquor traffic. She contended that it was a moral issue and not political and that "Tammany's candidate for the presidency, in defiance of the large dry sentiment of his own party, has dragged it into politics."

"Making prohibition therefore," she declared, "a party issue was an adroit political trick to split the dry forces along sectional geographical and party lines.

"But you didn't split. You accepted his challenge. You are standing together to fight the candidate who declared war on you."

Mrs. Willebrandt said 31 national organizations, including Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterians, Unitarians, Congregationalists, Quakers and "two influential groups of Catholics," have joined to advance prohibition. She cited a resolution adopted at a meeting of these organizations in which Governor Smith's record was condemned and told of a similar resolution adopted by the Methodists.

Anti-prohibitionists, she said, have charged "your church" with going into politics "But you have replied, the 18th amendment is our spiritual and moral achievement," she continued. "We are only defending it from a Tammany politician's unwarranted attack. If that be politics, then make the most of it.

"Did the 'Happy Warrior,' engaged in calling his anti-prohibition braves about him, for a war dance over the 18th amendment, actually think you pastors who always have defended prohibition from your pulpits, could be lightly waved back with the admonition to keep away from worldly things?" Mrs. Willebrandt asked.

"Your church isn't going into politics. . . . But the political trick to divide you or deter you from protecting the 18th amendment did not work. Governor Smith at Oklahoma City last week said quite truly that voters should carefully consider the 'ability of the candidate to make his party's platform effective.' The democratic party put a dry plank in its platform. The democratic candidate tored bung-holes in it with his telegram of acceptance. He invited your opposition. You are giving it to him more concretedly and intelligently than he likes."

Mrs. Willebrandt declared that if Senator Walsh of Montana "or any other law-abiding constitution-respecting Catholic democrat, were the democratic candidate" that neither the Methodist ministers nor any other minister interested in "the moral issue of prohibition" would have taken a partisan stand.

"Governor Smith has become the greatest force for disregard of the prohibition laws in America today. As such he draws my opposition. Religion has nothing to do with my attack upon him or the attack of the dry forces. We condemn his own record, acts and utterances. These make him wince. So he seeks to shield himself and his record behind a religious issue—an issue which he, himself, raises in this campaign.

"Your campaign against Governor Smith is not because he is a Catholic. That is a 'Wolf-Wolf' cry raised to cover up the fact that he is unwilling to meet you on the grounds of your actual opposition to him, to wit, his long legislative record as champion of the saloon, his Tammany training, his refusal of state co-operation in enforcing the 18th amendment and the illogic of his using the lawlessness thereby resulting in his state as an argument against prohibition; these things, topped off by the Houston telegram. . . .

"Denominationalism has been lost in common defense of the 18th amendment. You Methodists in opposition to Smith are standing beside the association of Catholics favoring prohibition, the Catholic Clergy Prohibition league and leaders in the Catholic Total Abstinence society."

Mrs. Willebrandt declared that prohibition had not failed of enforcement and added that the effect of the leadership of a wet president "would demoralize enforcement and multiply lawlessness."

DENIES HYPOCRISY CHARGE AGAINST HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—(AP)—For the first time in the campaign, official cognizance of charges leveled at Herbert Hoover was taken today at the personal headquarters of the republican presidential candidate.

Hoover himself maintained silence but his secretary, George Akerson, flatly denied an allegation by Senator Bruce, democrat, Maryland, made in a speech last night, that the nominee showed hypocrisy on the prohibition question because he had been known to drink intoxicating liquors.

"As a matter of fact," Akerson said, "Mr. Hoover has not taken a single drink of intoxicating liquor since he became a constitutional executive officer of the United States and has never had a drop of liquor served at his home."

Bruce quoted as his authority, Clarence Darrow, noted criminal lawyer of Chicago, who in a statement at his home added his denial to that of Akerson. Darrow declared that he had never made the statement attributed to him by Bruce that he had taken several drinks with Hoover and consequently had been surprised that the nominee had come out for prohibition.

Akerson said Hoover had never met Darrow in his life and that "consequently he could hardly have taken a drink with him."

SENATOR CURTIS HAS TROUBLE WITH THROAT

EN ROUTE WITH SENATOR CURTIS IN IDAHO, Sept. 23—(AP)—Bothered by an attack of acute laryngitis, Senator Curtis, the republican vice-presidential nominee, today put a ban against any more outdoor speaking engagements on his western tour.

The senator notified the republican national committee of the impossibility of speaking outdoors in the future on the advice of Dr. R. C. Monahan of Butte, who examined his throat today upon his visit in that city.

The veteran campaigner has been making from two to 14 speeches a day since leaving Chicago last Tuesday, and with few exceptions all have been in the open in all manner of weather, and in competition many times with strong winds, passing trains and other noises.

CHANG CAN LOCATE BUT EIGHT OF 28 WIVES AND CONCUBINES

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Sept. 23—(AP)—Gen. Chang Tsung-Chang, the picturesque Chinese leader who rose from a coolie laborer in Harbin to dictator of Shantung province, cannot locate but eight of his 28 wives and concubines and this is worrying him more than the reverses he suffered in battle last week.

A little more than ten days ago Chang bid a fond farewell to the female members of his household, buckled on his sword and started out for the battlefront northeast of Tientsin to engage Gen. Pai Chung-Shi who held a mandate from the Nationalist high command to "clean up" that portion of the Chihli-Shantung army commanded by Chang.

In the fierce fighting that followed Chang met defeat, his troops surrendered and his wives scattered in every direction. He has succeeded in locating five concubines in Mukden, one Russian wife at Harbin and two more in Korea, but the whereabouts of the other 20 is what the defeated dictator is frantically trying to find out.

TOOK HIS OWN LIFE AFTER KILLING INTENDED VICTIM

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 23—(AP)—Mystery shrouds the motive which prompted Julius F. Kolesgar, 22, of 144 Whittier street, to shoot and kill his intended bride, Miss Helen Szalay, 19, this afternoon at about 1 o'clock, and then commit suicide by shooting himself through the head. The young couple had attended mass at St. Stephen's church and the shooting occurred shortly after noon in the girl's home at 99 Ridge avenue.

Miss Szalay was shot in the back as she attempted to run out of the kitchen onto the back porch. She ran down two flights of stairs and died just as an ambulance arrived. Kolesgar then lockked himself in the girl's home and shot himself in the forehead. His death was instantaneous. The real motive for the shooting is not definitely known.

NOISE DROVE WOMAN TO JUMP FROM SEVENTH FLOOR

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—(AP)—The noise of street cars drove a woman to jump from a window of her seventh floor apartment to her death early today.

With a picture of her husband clutched in one hand, the body of Mrs Martha Cooper, 44, wife of an antique dealer, was found in the courtyard of the East Side apartment into which they recently moved.

Her husband, William F. Cooper, said that in a sealed note left behind his wife complained of ill health and said the noise of the surface cars "was more than she could stand."

The husband was asleep in the apartment when his wife jumped from the window. The body, fully clothed, was found by a milk deliveryman.

GREECE AND ITALY SIGN ARBITRATION TREATY

ROME, Sept. 23—(AP)—Premier Venezelos of Greece and Premier Mussolini signed the treaty of friendship, arbitration and conciliation between Italy and Greece at Chigi palace today.

The two statesmen discussed at length all outstanding questions of policy affecting the Mediterranean situation.

Prior to calling on Mussolini, M. Venezuelos placed a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier and visited the Pantheon where are buried all the former kings and queens of United Italy.

LILA LEE SEPARATES FROM JAMES KIRKWOOD

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 23—(AP)—The Times says that Lila Lee, motion picture and stage actress, and her husband, James Kirkwood, also of the Kleigs and footlights, have come to the parting of their ways.

"Mr. Kirkwood and I separated when we went to Europe," Miss Lee was quoted by the paper as saying. "We have no decided to make the separation permanent."

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, accompanied by her son, John, and Miss Florence Trumbull, who had motored to Northampton, from Connecticut earlier in the day, attended services at the Edwards Congregational church yesterday forenoon.

From northern Oregon to the southern tip of California the Pacific coast marshalled forces to combat forest and brush fires which have caused one death, injured a dozen men and two women, and turned thousands of acres into smoking waste.

United States Senator John J. Blaine, of Wisconsin, republican, in a statement issued at his home, Boscobel, Wis., and made public by democratic national headquarters in New York, announced that he will not support nor vote for Herbert Hoover.

New records of a bootlegging concern listing payments alleged to have been made to policemen for "protection" has been discovered by District Attorney Monaghan, who is conducting the grand jury investigation in Philadelphia, of gang murders, rum runners and racketters.

The war memorial to the World war dead of New Britain was dedicated Saturday. It stands atop Walnut Hill park and is a monument with Limestone shaft twelve feet in diameter rising ninety-feet with an American eagle, wings outspread, surmounting it. The memorial cost $165,000.

Socialist Party Has Faith In Hoover

Believes It Has the Balance of Power—Brands Smith as Sham.

NEW YOR[illegible] 23—(AP)—The socialist n[illegible]ves that it will elect the [illegible]dent of the United States, [illegible]will not be Norman Thom[illegible]et candidate for the pre[illegible]words, the party considers that it holds the balance of power, that it can take enough votes away from one of the major party candidates to assure victory to the other.

Whether this left-handed support will be given to Hoover or Smith, socialist officials have declined to state in so many words for publication, but it has been indicated that Hoover is their favorite on the ground that what they see as Smith's play for the liberal vote is a [illegible] pass on socialist domain and should be combatted.

"Smith is playing to capital more than the democratic party ever did before," G. August Gerber, socialist national campaign manager, told the Associated Press. "He and Hoover are matching millionaires. But Smith is also playing to the liberal vote, thus trying to carry water on both shoulders. We are going to show up this sham liberality of his. The conservative Hoover vote is put, however. It cannot be taken. Hoover is straight conservative."

Thus the socialist party, organized foe of all "minions of capitalism," and it puts both major parties in that class, finds itself in the position of indirectly aiding what it considers the party most closely associated with capitalism assinst one that it sees as making liberal gestures.

This position has been noticed by the workers' (communist) party, which believes in fighting capitalism by revolution rather than the socialist method of reform, and has seized upon it to use as evidence in its campaign literature that the socialists are, after all, as "capitalistic" as the major parties.

Gerber said that this year for the first time the socialists find themselves a national party. He expressed the belief that the party ticket would be on the ballot in 45 states. A private ballot will be circulated in North Carolina and the only states in which it does not expect to run a ticket are Nevada and Louisiana.

The socialist campaign war chest is built to hold $200,000, twice as much as the communists hope to have, and they believe that this money, spent on campaign literature and expenses of speakers, will bring them from 1,500,000 to 6,000,000 votes. The socialists consider themselves the "natural heirs" of the 5,000,000 votes cast four years ago for La Follette, whom the socialists endorsed. Democratic National Chairman John J. Raskob has also announced that he believes 80 per cent of this La Follette vote will go to Smith.

The socialist platform has planks on farm relief, labor legislation, child labor, unemployment, and advocates repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act in the interest of law and order.

The local ticket is composed from one-third to one-half of women and there are many women among the hundreds of campaign speakers already conducting street meetings to supplement the national speaking tours of the standard bearers, Norman Thomas and James Maurer.

84 YEAR OLD VET FELL IN LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT

"It's just another case of love at first sight," Rochester said after the ceremony.

CALEXICO, CAL., ROCKED BY SERIES OF EARTHQUAKES

CALEXICO, Calif., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Rocked by a series of earthquakes today, residents of Calexico, in many parts of the city rushed from their homes. Three distinct shocks were reported, the first at eight o'clock, the second at 9.43 a. m., and the third at 9.46. TURNER'S FALLS, Mass., Sept. 23—(AP)—Forrest Fitts, 23, employed by the Turners Falls Power and Electric company, was electrocuted this morning, while working at the Cabot station in Montague City. He was painting the station when he came in contact with a live wire.

Kidnaper And Slayer Menaced By Crowds

HONOLULU, Sept. 23.—(AP)—A threatening crowd which congregated around the Honolulu jail where Yutaka Fukunaga, 19 year old Japanese and slayer of 10-year old Gill Jamieson, son of Honolulu banker, is held was dispersed today by cold water directed by firemen.

The young Japanese, who carried out his crime in much the same fashion as did Edward E. Hickman, youthful slayer of Marion Parker, daughter of a Los Angeles banker, remained unperturbed at the jeers of the crowd outside the jail. He speaks excellent English and was graduated at the head of his class in high school here.

Fukunaga was apprehended through a purchase he made with one of the bills he received as ransom for the Jamieson boy. The boy's father had turned over $4,000 to the kidnaper upon demand.

The Japanese went to the school attended by the victim, obtained his release from classes through a ruse and spirited him away to his death.

After a struggle in which the banker's son almost overpowered the Japanese, the kidnaper struck the youth with a blunt instrument, knocked him unconscious and then strangled him. The child's body, covered with a cross made of sticks tied with strings was found Thursday on the banks of a canal near the fashionable Royal Hawaiian hotel. The killer also confessed that he killed the boy because "kidnaping never works unless you do."

The Japanese returned to his room after the killing and wrote the ransom note to the boy's father, Frederick Jamieson, vice president of the Hawaiian Trust company. The father met the kidnaper and paid him $4,000 for the return of the boy. In his anxiety for the child's welfare the parent did not permit police detectives to accompany him when he met the killer.

An enraged community headed by a vigilante committee today was listening to the statements pieced together by authorities from the confession of the Japanese. Like Hickman he knew his victim, having met him while the child was a patient at the Queen's hospital several weeks ago, where Fukunaga operated an elevator. He also knew of the Hawaiian Trust company as he said a representative of that institution had complained to the elder Fukunaga several months ago that his rent was in arrear.

Detective Chief John McIntosh heard of the passing of one of the bills and upon investigation learned the name of the man who had passed it. He then went to the home of Fukunaga's father and in the accused boy's room found a map of Punahou with the spot in Waikiki where Gill was slain, marked. There also were references in documents found in the room to the "three kings," the symbol so often named by the slayer in his demands for ransom and in letters received after the disappearance of the Jamieson boy.

From the father's home a sister of Fukunago accompanied detectives until the accused was picked up. When he confessed he said, "you know I am not insane." He said he used the nomenclature "three kings," to throw police off his track. He said he sent flowers to the funeral of Gill. There were purchased with one of the five dollar bills.

Fukunaga told police he had read the details of the crime for which Leopold and Loeb were sentenced to life imprisonment in Chicago and the story of Hickman's kidnaping and murder of Marion Parker in Los Angeles. He also was familiar with other kidnaping stories. It was not his original plan to kill Gill, the confession said.

FOUR MEMBERS OF FAMILY KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Sept. 23—(AP)—Four members of a family were killed today when their automobile was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train at a crossing a mile north of Henryville, Ind. A six year old boy who crawled from a window of the machine and a baby who was tossed from the car were the only survivors.

The dead were: Edgar Garfield Jones, 47; his wife Cora, 44, and their daughter Velma, 11, and Gladys 5, all of Crothersville, Ind.

FALL FROM A WAGON WAS FATAL TO FARMER

FISKDALE, Mass., Sept. 23—(AP)—Frank Hickey, 69, an East Brookfield farmer, was fatally injured this afternoon, when he fell from a wagon he was driving. He was found unconscious in the road and died before a doctor could be called. It is believed he became wedged between the shaft and one of the wheels as his body was bruised and his clothing torn.

SEVERAL HUNDRED PERSONS BELIEVED DEAD IN A THEATER FIRE IN MADRID

MADRID, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Reuter's Ltd., reported that several hundred persons are believed to have perished in a fire which broke out tonight during a performance in the Novedades theater. More than 200 injured are under treatment at hospitals and emergency stations.

The theater was packed to the doors with a typical Sunday audience for a performance of "Le Mejor Del Puerto" when, during a brief intermission at 8.50 p. m., there was a great burst of flames on the stage.

The theater holds 3,000 and the capacity audience rushed for the exits. The occupants of the stalls and boxes were able to leave before the flames spread into the auditorium but those in the galleries were less fortunate and the exits were soon choked with struggling masses.

Hundreds of persons were trampled by those who pushed from behind while others were suffocated and doubtless burned to death.

The interior of the theater soon was roaring with flames which spread to adjacent buildings. The alarm quickly spread throughout the city and Premier Primo De Rivera and municipal authorities hastily followed the police and firemen who were busy at the scene.

Every available motor car was commandeered to help remove the injured, a regiment of infantry assisting. All of the first aid stations in Madrid were filled with injured more than 20 of whom died. The number of bodies in the smoking ruins could not be determined but it was feared that hundreds had been unable to escape from the cheap seats in the upper tiers of the house. There had been many children in these balconies.

Such dense crowds were attracted by the billows of smoke and flames that the police had great difficulty in controlling those in the neighborhood of the theater.

HARLEM NEGRO IS BEING HELD FOR $50,000 RANSOM

Casper Holstein, Wealthy Sportsman, is in Hands of Kidnapers, Who Have Threatened to Kill Him if the Money is Not Forthcoming—Holstein Was Kidnaped After Midnight Friday by Seven Men and a Woman—Was Known to Have Had $7,000 in Cash and a $3,500 Diamond Ring at the Time He Was Abducted.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—(AP)—Caspar Holstein, wealthy Harlem Negro sportsman, real estate operator and philanthropist, is being held for $50,000 ransom by kidnapers who have threatened to kill him if the money is not forthcoming and if the police, who have arrested five suspects, do not withdraw from the case entirely.

Holstein himself revealed his plight today when he telephoned Denis Armstead, of the Monarch lodge of Colored Elks. He was kidnaped by seven men and a woman shortly after midnight Friday in the hallway at 205 West 145th street, he said.

Police also learned that Holstein was known to have had $7,000 in cash and a $3,500 diamond ring at the time he was kidnaped.

Saturday night police arrested Michael Bernstein, 30, the Bronx, charged with the actual kidnaping, and three white men and a Negro charged with acting in concert with him. They are still seeking the woman, believed to be white, and two other men, believed to be Negroes.

The other four arrested described themselves as Peter Donohue, 27, a salesman; Anthony D'Argonlino, 20; Moe (Monty) Schubert, 30, and Rudolph Brown, 32, Negro.

Holstein is said to be worth $500,000 and is an intimate friend of John Jackson, Chicago Negro millionaire.

Jackson arrived in New York today and took charge of the efforts being made by Holstein's friends to effect his release.

Holstein is a native of the Virgin Islands and has been active in organizing relief for hurricane sufferers there. He recently sent a shipload of lumber there to aid the sufferers.

OAKE WON LOS ANGELES TO CINCINNATI AIR RACE

CINCINNATI Ohio, Sept. 23—(AP)—Robert A. Oake of Pittsburgh, flying an American Moth, was declared the official winner of the class A air race from Los Angeles to Cincinnati today when he brought his plane to earth here at 2.10 p. m. after flying 25 hours, 16 minutes and 42 seconds at an average speed of 83.15 miles an hour. First prize was $2,000.

Charles W. Holman of St. Paul, piloting a Laird plane, won first prize in the class B group, he landed at 1.30 p. m., after 19 hours and 24 minutes in the air, making an average of 107.93 miles an hour. His prize also was $2,000.

Arthur Goebel, flying the Lockheed-Vega "Yankee Doodle" won the nonstop race. Goebel landed at 10.25 p. m. yesterday after 15 hours and 17 minutes in the air for an average of 123.47 miles an hour. In addition to the $3,000 first prize, Goebel won a leg on the $5,000 gold trophy and a small gold model of the large trophy. Officials plan to make the race an annual event and possession of the large gold trophy will come only after three successive victories.

Goebel was the only entrant to complete the hop.

Other class A entrants follow:

Theodore W. Kenyon, Boston Challenger, third, $400; time 26 hours 26 minutes and 27 seconds; average speed 79.49 miles an hour.

BURGLAR SUSPECT KILLED; PATROLMAN WOUNDED

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 23.—(AP)—In an exchange of shots in an alley here early today Thomas Kelley, of Manchester, suspected of being a burglar, was killed and Patrolman John Roche was seriously wounded.

Roche saw Kelley on Temple street carrying a satchel and acting suspiciously. When the officer questioned him Kelley ran into an alley. Roche drew his pistol, and followed. Roche told Chief of Police Irving F. Goodwin that he fired the first shot but his condition was such that the chief was unable to get an explanation as to what had prompted him to shoot.

Kelley dropped, but as Roche turned to blow his whistle Kelley fired five shots from a .44 caliber army revolver. As Roche fell he fired again at Kelley, hitting him in the jaw. Kelley was able to crawl to the porch of a house a short distance away, where officers found him soon afterward.

Both men were taken to a hospital where Kelley died four hours later. Roche is in a critical condition.

The police found in Kelley's satchel a complete set of burglar's tools and a pair of rubber gloves. They said Kelley had a police court record in Manchester and had been an inmate of the reform school.

TILSON, FREEMAN AND GLYNN RENOMINATED

NEW HAVEN, Conn, Sept. 23—(AP)—Colonel John Q. Tilson, majority leader in the national house of representatives, yesterday was renominated for congress from the third Connecticut district.

About the same time Congressman James P. Glynn, republican, was renominate dfrom the fifth congressional district at a convention held in Waterbury and Congressman Richard P. Freeman, republican, was renominated by the second Connecticut district convention held at Willimantic. Congressman E. Hart Fenn already has been renominated by the republicans of the first Connecticut district and Congressman Schuyler Merritt of the fourth district, will be renominated.

GOV. SMITH TO DELIVER SPEECH AT HELENA, MONT.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Governor Alfred E. Smith left Denver shortly before noon today for Helena, Mont., where he will deliver a campaign speech tomorrow night.

He stopped this afternoon at Cheyenne and tonight at Casper. On the train's arrival tomorrow morning at Billings, Mont., a number of democratic leaders of that state, including Senator Burton K. Wheeler, who is up for re-election, are expected to get aboard for the ride to the state capital. Later in the day Gov. Smith plans to attend the Montana state fair at Helena.

NEW TEXTILE WORKERS' UNION TO BE FORMED

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—(AP)—Delegates to the national textile mills committee meeting here to organize a new textile workers' union, today adopted a resolution outlining their objectives as "no wage cuts, equal pay for equal work, no overtime, no piece-rate system, a 40-hour, five-day week, and no speed-up system."

This was one of a series of resolutions endorsed by 169 authorized delegates from seven states. The delegates claim to represent 18,300 organized workers in factories employing also 131,600 unorganized workers. Massachusetts sent 86 delegates, most of them from New Bedford, where a textile strike has been in progress for several months.

The convention now in session follows that of the United Textile Workers of America an organization from which a bloc of delegates seceded and launched a campaign for the formation of a new union.

G. S. NORTHCOTT IN CELL PROTESTED HIS INNOCENCE

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Sept. 23—(AP)—While Gordon Stuart Northcott self-styled motion picture actor, protested in his cell at Vancouver, B. C., that he was innocent of the charges of killing kidnaped boys on a "murder farm" near here, authorities continued today to add to a web of circumstantial evidence through which they hope to send the fugitive to the gallows.

A snake collector, L. C. Howe, added the latest bit of evidence against Northcott, who flew to Canada after abandoning the farm which he says was used as a chicken ranch.

Search of a grave reported by the snake collector in a remote desert canyon on the edge of the Coachella valley resulted in the finding of the remains of a fire, a partly burned traveling bag, charred pages of a Bible and partly burned pieces of clothing.

ALLEGED POISONER WILL FACE GRAND JURY TODAY

HARTFORD, Sept. 23—(AP)—Samuel Weiss, of New Britain, charged with murder for his connection with the deaths by poison of three men, one of them his brother, will face the grand jury here tomorrow.

Weiss is alleged by New Britain police to have confessed putting poison in beer made by his brother, John, causing the latter's death and that of two friends, John Stein and John Weiss and Stein died on August 26 and Stehr on August 30.

Police say that Weiss plotted his brother's death because of jealousy over John Weiss' wife, Catherine, over whom the brothers had quarreled and who once had run off with Samuel Weiss, later returning to her husband. Stein and Stehr were not marked by Weiss to die, police say, but were unfortunate enough to drink some of the poisoned liquor.

MOTORIST CHARGED WITH EVADING RESPONSIBILITY

GREENWICH, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Emil Ford, of Sound Beach, driver of an automobile which struck and killed Miss Shirley C. Trine, high school senior Wednesday evening, was arrested here last night on charges of evading responsibility and reckless driving. He was released on $5,000 bond for his appearance in court tomorrow.

Police assert that Ford was driving his machine adong Sound Beach avenue when he struck Miss Trine while she was walking along the road with Miss Ruth Van Wynen. The victim died in the hospital shortly after of a fractured skull.

DETAILS OF AN ALLEGED ANGLO-FRENCH AGREEMENT

MOSCOW, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Krasnaia Svezda, the central military newspaper, today publishes in detail an alleged Anglo-French agreement providing for possible wartime co-operation in many regions.

Among the agreements, according to the paper, is a naval agreement for co-operation in the Pacific ocean, one for a division of the Mediterranean into English and French spheres of influence, and the creation of neutral naval zones under the special protection of the league of nations, and one for co-operation of air forces as against non-European countries or in event that one of the contracting parties makes war against Russia.

The paper further alleges that it was agreed to co-ordinate intelligence work in eastern countries including Russia, and to co-ordinate their respective policies in the Balkans and other countries adjacent to Russia.

Opening his address with expressions of gratitude for the repeated confidence placed upon him by the congressional district delegates during past years, Congressman Freeman said in part: "My friends, you and I are conscious of the fact that an unusually active presidential campaign is upon us. The democratic party seems to have undergone rejuvenation, and to have determined on a strenuous political battle. Let us welcome the attack and at the same time prepare to repel it successfully. Our service record is one we can pride ourselves on, and—just as a fine performance one night insures a good attendance the next night—so we can count on the support of the electorate in November, because what we have done is the best guarantee of what we will continue to do. The degree of prosperity the whole country enjoys—and compared with conditions everywhere else we are indeed fortunate—is the direct result of our republican policies. The voters of this country will never throw away the comforts of home and the joys of working for anything the democrats may offer in exchange." The speaker concluded with high praise of Herbert Hoover as "not only the best leader any political party ever had, but one of the greatest as well" and with the pledge of loyalty of the second congressional district.

The following committee on resolutions was then appointed: Mrs. Maud Woodward of Bolton, Fred S. Newton of Durham, A. Putnam Woodward of Killingly and Mabel Buckingham of Ledyard. The resolution, endorsing the policies and principles of the national and state republican platforms and commending to the electorate the candidate nominated for the senate, the Hon. Frederick C. Walcott and the candidate for congress of the second congressional district, the Hon. Richard P. Freeman, as well as endorsing all nominations made by both republican national and state conventions was adopted by the convention.

The closing business was the selection of a district committee for the coming two years. This committee was named as follows: Charles A. Gates of Windham, John M. Mallon of New London, Arthur M. Brown of Griswold, Marcus A. Covell of Thompson, Fred O. Vinton of Mansfield, R. W. Ellis of Stafford, Wilson F. Reynolds of Cromwell, Bertha W. Goodrich of Portland, George M. Smith of East Haddam, W. F. Clark of Old Lyme and Isabel W. Chappell of Windham.

The convention adjourned after a 50 minute session and the delegates responded to an invitation of Congressman Freeman to be his guests at a turkey dinner served by members of Francis S. Long, Woman's Relief Corps No. 28, in the G. A. R. rooms of the town building. Covers were laid for over 250 delegates and guests.

NEW VOTERS NUMBEER 574 IN WINDHAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 23—At the close of the final and second session of the board of selectmen and town clerk Saturday night for the purpose of making new voters there were a total of 574 persons who had successfully pased the tests and received the oath of electorship in time to participate in the forthcoming town, state and national elections. The list of "to be made" voters as turned over to the board by the registrars included 925 names, showing that 351 applicants failed to qualify or to present themselves at the sessions, one of which was held one week ago Saturday. At the first session 425 qualified, 220 women and 205 men. Last Saturday there were 149 who qualified, 80 being women and 69 men. The figures now are: 300 new women voters and 274 men.

The funeral of Mrs. Bertha M. Gridley was held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon with services conducted at the First Baptist church by Rev. David Winslow Lovett the pastor, assisted by Rev. Mrs. Florence Jones of Mansfield. Burial was in the Perkins' plot at the Willimantic cemetery. The bearers were, Edward Simonds, Byron Potter, Clarence O. Barrows and George H. Andrews. Arrangements were in charge of Avery and VanZandt.

Announcement was made Saturday that Ronald M. Cooke, manager of the Willimantic district for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, with headquarters in this city, had received a merited promotion as manager of the Hartford district, one of the largest districts in New England with head offices in Hartford. Mr. Cooke, who has been manager here for the past 19 months will assume his new duties Monday. He is to be succeeded by R. E. Shepard, formerly of the Bridgeport district. The local district comprizes Danielson, Putnam, Colchester and neighboring towns. Over 75 agents of this district tendered Mr Cook a farewell dinner at the Nathan Hale hotel Saturday evening. Manager Cooke acquired a wide circle of friends during his residence with his family in this city. He was a member of the Willimantic Rotary club.

Chief of Police Thomas F. Grady stated today that the fifty-second arrest to date for the month of September had been made overnight. This arrest was that of a drunk found sleep on a stone wall and up to this afternoon was the only case on the docket for police court Monday. Last week end the department made 27 arrests during a period annually referred to by the authorities as the fall opening of police activities.

Funeral services for Clarence A. Hawkins were held at the late home, 115 Bolivia street, Saturday forenoon at 11 o'clock with Rev. David Winslow Lovett officiating. INVESTIGATING EXPLOSION OCCURRING DURING SHED FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 23—An investigation is being conducted by Acting Fire Chief Michael J. English into the cause of an explosion of considerable severity that occurred during the destruction by fire of a shed on the property of John Polack in the rear of 7 South Main street near the Horseshoe bridge about one o'clock this afternoon. Polack said that he believed the fire in the shed was caused by embers from a blaze in a dump on the shores of the Natchaug river nearby. A man engaged in working in the vicinity claimed to have heard several minor reports before the explosion. The blast is said to have demolished a section of the burning shed. A window in the Polack home some 150 feet away was blown out and several panes of glass in other windows were broken. The explosion was heard for over half a mile and the rumor spread quickly that there was dynamite in the building. A report that there was a quantity of gasoline in the shed is believed however to have been the cause of the explosion. The Mack pumper of Engine company No. 1 in charge of Hoseman Amos Barber responded to a still alarm of the blaze at 1:05 o'clock but the building was burned to the ground before the arrival of the firemen. The loss is considered slight.

NORWICH TRUCK INJURES VINCENT JACOBS SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 23—Vincent, the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jacobs, of North Main street, was knocked down and seriously injured Saturday afternoon by a truck driven by Nathan Seigel of North Thames street, Norwich. The impression prevailed that no blame could be placed upon the driver. Dr. J. H. McLaughlin in his machine, with Policeman Henry Veglard, hurried the child to Backus hospital, Norwich. Blood was running from the child's ears, with evidence of a fractured skull. At the hospital Sunday at 11 a. m., the child had not regained consciousness. Sunday evening he was still unconscious. Dr. Donahue was called and Don Houghton took an x-ray Sunday.

The driver stayed at the location of the accident until State Trooper Strand, of Danielson barracks, arrived and checked up on the case.

Clifford Dolson went out with Capt. E. Francke of the boat Cannonball, to haul his lobster pots in the Race, near Fishers Island Friday morning. It was his first time to see how the lobster pots were hauled into the boat, while the tide was waiting to change so to make the slack. It takes 6 hours. To pass the time away with a fishing line and hook he tried his luck a' the mackerel. He was having good luck when he got a bite and had on the hook a new kind of a fish, that happened to be running around and saw a crab on the hook. The young city fellow had caught a horse-fish. It was 8 inches long and had a head like a horse and a tail, everything but the hoofs. It was 2 1-2 inches wide. Capt. Francke said: "Better try again! You might get the wagon!" and both had a great laugh over the queer fish. Dolson was some pleased over the catch for his first time out in the Race. Besides, Capt. Francke found the lobsters thicker than mules in the army, getting 100 pounds of late lobsters. Clifford Delson thanked the skipper of the good ship Cannonball for his trip and said that he would like to learn the lobster business just to get a smell of the salt breeze every day.

Tidings from Florida. A telegram was sent to Mrs. John Ellis from her sister, Mrs. Gill at West Palm beach, Fla., telling her that she and her family are safe after the big hurricane that swept that section. Mrs. Gill is a former Noank woman who left the village several years ago to make her home in Florida. "We lost our $65,000 home and everything only the clothes that we had on," her message said. It was the worst hurricane that they had seen and they have been in several. People are killed whose bodies they will never find, beautiful houses are washed away or blown down. It took two days before she could let her relatives in Noank know that she was all right. Mrs. Ellis was greatly relieved to get the news which came Friday. No report from any other Noank people who might have been caught in the hurricane have come to relatives here.

Village Well-Finder

Noank has a well finder, that is a fellow, Ben Ward, who with a stick can locate a place where there is water for a well. He has found several wells with only the stick to go by. He will go around the property with the owner and hit the ground with the stick, then say you will find water there and true as hair on a bald man's head water is there. The magic stick has never failed him yet. Someone who saw him do his stunt asked him was it a trick or a gift "Yes." Well-Finder Ward said, "when I was out in a small town in the west, about ten years, where the Indians were riding horses I came across Chief Half Pint and he told the village well man how to find a well with a stick." Ben has kept the trick to himself. If any one in the village wants to find a well for good drinking water let him call on Well-Finder Ward.

Keith Ebbetts has resigned as mate on the boat Lotta Bull In.

Five young painters from the Chicago Iron Works came to the village Friday morning to paint the watertower at the silk mill which is 100 feet in the air. They will also repair it giving it a general overhauling. The water was drawn off by Chief Engineer R. Swee. These painters are called human flies; it will take about two weeks for them to do the job.

For a dance held in Corona hall, Smith court, by a small crowd of 40 fans, Russo's six music boys from New London played for the evening. Owing to a big hop at Ocean beach where an orchestra from Philadelphia played Floor Manager Roy Abate thinks that took away part of the crowd. A spot light dance was a feature. The dancers who came the nearest to that spot won a prize when the music stopped. Miss Jennie Moore and William Franklin were the lucky ones. The former received a box of candy and her partner a handsome tie. At intermission Charles Ellis gave an exhibition of the Black Bottom dance.

MOOSUP

Rev. Philip Massicott, the new pastor of All Hallows' church, Moosup, once taught in St. Thomas' seminary, Hartford at the same time his predecessor here, Rev. Joseph E. McCarthy, was a teacher in that institution. The subjects of the former were French and English, while the latter taught Frenesh and Greek.

Fr. Massicott is a native of Meriden where he received his elementary education. He attended in turn the Sulpician seminary of the University of Montreal and Laval university from which he was graduated in 1900. There followed a six year course at St. Bernard's Theological seminary in Rochester, N. Y., and the one year of teaching at St. Thomas'. Pastoral work followed with fifteen months at St. Mary's church, Willimantic, nine years at Sacred Heart in Taftville, and eleven years at St. Anthony's in Bridgeport, whence he comes to Moosup. Fr. Massicott is of pleasing personality and was cordially welcomed by the local parishioners.

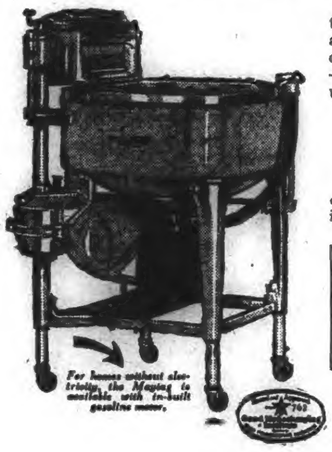
Commander Byrd Chooses MAYTAGS for South Pole Expedition

ONE of the many distinguished honors that have come to the Maytag Aluminum Washer is the selection of Maytags for the Byrd South Pole Expedition.

Not only the success of this great pioneering adventure, but the lives of the men, depend on the proper selection of supplies, material and equipment. Therefore, the most rigid requirements are observed in deciding what equipment shall be used. The many outstanding advantages that gave the Maytag world leadership, enabled it to meet the exacting standards demanded by Commander Byrd.

A Fitting Tribute to the New Maytag on its First Anniversary



The noteworthy tribute of being selected for the Byrd Expedition comes to the New Maytag as it is celebrating its first anniversary—the end of the most remarkable year in Maytag history—a year in which the number of Maytags in use passed the million mark.

A FREE Trial Washing

Phone for a Maytag before next washday. You will discover, as did Commander Byrd, that the Maytag is supreme. If it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

DEACON A. C. GREENE WILL OBSERVE 99TH BIRTHDAY TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 23—Monday Deacon Albert C. Greene is observing his 99th birthday anniversary at his home on North Main street. Deacon Greene has arrived within one mile stone of the century mark lacking practically no bodily ailments other than his inability to walk and to hear well. His other faculties remain very good. He sleeps well and eats anything he wishes. He is keenly alive to all the doings of this wonderful age, reading with avidity of many things. He is a daily read of The Bulletin, as he has been for long over half a century, and probably is one of the oldest subscribers of this paper.

Deacon Greene was born in Plainfield, September 24, 1829, a son of Jeremiah and Ann Smith Greene. When he was only an infant his parents removed to Canterbury, locating in Westminster parish. The old home, opposite the church by the school house, is still standing. Later his parents moved into the "North Society" section and from there to the old farm where he was brought up.

When he was about 20 years of age he went to Boston and remained in that city four years. He treasures among his reminiscences of his residence in that city the opportunity he enjoyed of hearing a concert by Jenny Lind in the old Antheneum on Howard street.

Returning to Canterbury from Boston Deacon Greene became foreman in Squire Backus' foundry in Westminster and remained there about eight years, leaving to serve in the Union army in the Civil war. He enlisted in the 18th Conn. regiment and was assigned as a member of A company, served for three years and was discharged in May of 1865.

September 6 of that year he was united in marriage with Miss Mary E. Bemis of Oxford, N. Y., that union being destined to endure to this day and to be blessed with a splendid family of children. Deacon and Mrs. Greene have spent the 63 years of their married life in Westminster, Ballouville and Danielson, their sons and daughters growing up in Westminster. Twenty years ago Deacon and Mrs. Greene came to Danielson to make their home, selling their old farm in Canterbury.

Deacon Greene is very proud of his great age and looks forward to the joy of rounding out a full century of life. His memory of both past and current affairs is unusually keen. Though he gets about his home in a wheel chair an automobile trip was arranged for him to visit the old home of General Greene at Anthony, R. I., the past summer. He was greatly interested in the ancient kitchen utensils, such as he used to see his mother use.

A wonderful man in his own, he has witnessed the marvelous changes of a century's development of the greatest nation the world has seen and has lived contemporaneously with scores of great Americans who have earned an undying place in history. Yet Deacon Greene finds it hard to decide in what particular way the most wonderful changes have been.

THREE AUTO THIEVES CAPTURED IN DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 23—At the week end a trio of youthful automobile thieves were turned over by state officers of the Danielson barracks to Boston police, and incident thereto is the story of how these young men became involves in difficulties in this territory.

The prisoners are Joseph Keyes, 20, of 66 Clarkson street, Dorchester; Robert Ellis, 21, of 12 Linden Place, Somerville, and George Adams, 16, of 356 West Squantum street, Quincy, Mass.

Their attempt to break open a gasoline pump at the filling station of ames Gurinsky at Stetson's four corners in the western part of the town of Brooklyn at about 5 o'clock Friday morning eventually resulted in their arrest and discovery of the fact that the fine 1927 Cadillac sedan in which they had been riding was a sto en car.

Awakened by the thumping about of the young men at the gasoline pump, Gurinsky peeerd out and was quick to size up the situation. He confronted the youths with his gun upor emerging from the building near the pump and the trio promptly fled, abandoning the car and taking to the woods. The Stetson's four corners territory, though a trunk line highway runs through it, is isolated and sparsely settled. Mr. Gurinsky telephoned of his experience to the Danielson barracks and State Officer Elton Nolan was sent out on the call. With Gurinsky still carrying his gun, the officer set out on a search through the woods and fields and eventually, at about 10 a. m., the youths were cornered in a wooded section about two miles from Brooklyn center and forced to surrender. They were found to be unarmed.

It developed later that they stole the car, the property of Antonio Piotti, a contractor, from his garage at 708 Dudley street, Dorchester, Thursday at midnight and were running low on gas when they raided the Gurinsky station for a new supply. They admitted they had attempted to steal a new "75" Chrysler sedan from the Piotti garage, but aandoned the attempt when they found the machine was locked and took the Cadillac instead.

A checkup at the week end established that Keyes, though but 20 years of age, has a long criminal record and has been sought by the Boston police for some time. Keyes has served four of his 20 years in jail, his record showing three previous thefts of automobiles and five charges of breaking and entering, as well as various other offences. Ellis also has a criminal record and also was wanted by the Boston police to answer to charges. His past has included arrests for breaking and entering and for larceny. The police of Boston say that the very youthful Adams has no criminal record.

Leonard C. Kempton of 87 Franklin street, Danielson, and Wilbrod Gaudreau of Walnut street, Putnam, will appear in the Killingly town court Monday morning at 10 o'clock to answer to minor violations of the motor vehicle laws. The pair were ordered into court by State Officer Elton Nolan after the machines they were driving were in collision near Tucker's garage at Elmville at about 7:45 Saturday evening. Occupants of the cars escaped without injury, but the machines were damaged in the amount of about $75 each. Kempton was ordered to report to the court because the state officer found he was without an operator's license. Gaudreau's court appearance will be to face a charge that he failed to grant the right of way.

Fred Chapman, a resident of New London, went to the Day Kimball at Putnam Saturday morning to receive treatment for injuries he received when he fell from a pole that he was painting on Hutchins street, near the residence of Mrs. Herbert C. Keech. Stanley Keech assisted the injured man to the office of Dr. George M. Burroughs on Broad street. The physician found that Chapman had a broken right wrist. Chapman complained of an injury to his back, but an examination at that time revealed nothing of a serious nature. Chapman, who has followed the line of work he was doing when hurt for many years without ever before sustaining an injury, is understood to have been doing contract work for the telephone company.

Arthur Williams of Danielson, former football star at the Connecticut Agricultural college and only recently resigned as a student at the institution, left here today to play his first game of the season, scheduled for this afternoon, as a member of the Providence Steam Rollers. A considerable number of local followers of the game journeyed to Providence to witness the contest.

Newly elected officers of Rose of Lima council, K. of C., are: Grand knight, Edward Berthiaume; deputy grand knight, Elmer Major; treasurer, Oscar Bernier; recording secretary, Theodore Mailhot; financial secretary, Amadee Goulet; chancellor, Thomas Weaver; warden, Ernest Molo; inside guard, Wilfred Dragon; outside guard, A. Broullliard; trustees, Joseph LaBelle, Rosario Duval, Wilfred Dragon; advocate, Henry LaFortune.

At all of the masses at St. James' church today Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S. made announcement that the bishop of the diocese will be here next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock to confirm a class of the parish. Members of the class will finish their preparation during the current week.

Mrs. Tyler Andrews, a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, is reported as making favorable progress toward recovery after undergoing a surgical operation.

Given an ideal day, the congenial group that make up the membership of the teams of the Danielson Twilight league and the official body thereof had a delightful trip to the Eastern States exposition at Springfield on Saturday.

At the Westfield Congregational church next Sunday Rally day will be observed both in the church and the church school. In the church it will be observed as Go-to-Church day, with a special effort for a large attendance. Immediately following the morning service there will be a Promotion day service in the church school.

From various low-lying sections hereabouts "white" frosts were reported this morning, when the temperature was down to 39 degrees in some places.

At Dayville a bridge on the Dayville-Goodyear route is being replaced.

PUTNAM

F. A. WOLCOTT ADDRESSES MEETING OF GRANGERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 24—Nearly 300 members of the Quinebaug Pomona grange gathered at the Randolph Chandler estate in Thompson Saturday afternoon and listened to an address by Frank A. Wolcott, candidate for United States senator from Connecticut. Mr. Walcott's appearance was not scheduled but he consented to come to Thompson at the last moment to fulfill one of Senator Bingham's engagements, as Mr. Bingham was ill and could not be present.

Mr. Wolcott spoke mostly of the campaign and along the lines of "Constructive Statesmanship," lauding Hoover and the entire republican ticket. His audience was composed mostly of agriculturists and he devoted his talk to their interests. Mr. Wolcott, who is a very intimate friend of Mr Hoover, outlined several of his (Hoover's) characteristics, as he did at the republican rally of the Hoover and Curtis club in Woodstock, a week previous. Mr. Wolcott was well received and was given a rousing group of cheers at the close of his address. Due to another engagement Mr. Wolcott was unable to remain for the close of the programme and he departed shortly after the finish of his talk.

Judge Randolph H. Chandler spoke a few words of greetings to the grangers about the fortune of the committee in being able to secure the services of Mr. Wolcott, to speak in the absence of Senator Bingham.

The Colonial male quartette of Hartford featured the musical part of the programme. The singers are all professional men of Hartford and their numbers brought much applause from the grangers. They were accompanied at the piano by Attorney John King of Willimantic.

Miss Katherine Byrne, vice chairman of the republican state central committee and lecturer of the Quinebaug Pomona grange, introduced Judge Fred Case of Hawaii. Judge Case is a native of Kansas and for a number of years has been an official in the island possessions of the United States in the Pacific ocean. He is devoting much of his time to agriculture in the Hawaiian islands and spoke on the methods used there. Judge Case's talk described the vast amount of produce grown in these little "spots in the sea", as he termed them, and their value to the United States since American methods have been introduced.

Judge Case brought the political situation into his speech, when he spoke of his friendship with Republican Vice Presidential Nominee Charles Curtis. He spoke of Curtis as a young man in Topeka, Kan., when Curtis was striving for an education. "Curtis, entered my father's office one day and approached my father," the judge said. "Mr. Case, I want to study law." the nominee stated to the speaker's father. After an interview of several minutes the lawyer agreed to start the young man in his vocation. Judge Case outlined the young student during his days in the Kansas law office and followed him through his college days, lauding him upon his success in the senate and closing with Curtis as the greatest man the republicans ever offered for the position of vice president. The judge continued with his respects to Senator Bingham, saying that he was the greatest aid that agriculturists have in the law making body in Washington. "When we want to push over a bill that will aid the farmers, we call upon the services of Mr. Bingham and he has never failed us." Mr. Case told the grangers. "He is one of your ablest men and deserves much credit for his exceptional ability in the senate," the judge said.

Judge Case's brief address, like Mr. Wolcott's was highly received and brought scores of cheers from the audience.

A band concert and orchestra music was provided by Mr. Chandler, as well as refreshments. The programme closed by a dance in the grange hall on the Chandler estate.

DEVEAU INJURED WHEN HIT BY DRIVING ARM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 24—Moses Deveau, 28, of 19 Bolles street, Putnam, remains at the Day Kimball hospital in a serious condition as the result of being struck on the head Friday evening by the driving arm of the engine while in the engine room of the Bloom Silk company of Providence street. Deveau, is an assistant engineer of the plant and it is said he was shutting off the power of one of the large drive wheels and was hit when the drive arm of the wheel revolved and struck him. He was found lying unconscious on the floor of the engine room, with a severe gash in his head, by another employe.

He was rushed to the Day Kimball hospital, where it was stated that the man was seriously injured and recovery was doubtful since he was suffering from a fractured skull. He continued Saturday and Sunday on the danger list. A late report received from the hospital this afternoon said that Deveau had improved somewhat but was not out of danger.

Deveau is a native of Salmon River, Digby county, Nova Scotia. He came to Putnam a few months ago to work, obtaining employment in the Bloom Manufacturing company. Additional anxiety will soon be added to Mr. Deveau's condition when he learns of the dangerous condition of his father, whom it was said by the hospital officials yesterday was near death.

Maxwell Burry and Albert E. Sparks both of Nova Scotia, were discharged from the Day Kimball hospital Friday evening and both left immediately for their Canadian homes. Burry and Sparks are the survivors of the tragedy that occurred in Mechanicsville about a fortnight ago, when the car in which they were riding crashed over the 65 foot railroad embankment and killed Albert Arrestr and Harry Pickford. Purry and Sparks were seriously injured and spent a month recuperating from various fractures received as the result of the accident.

Both regained their health, but will carry with them for the remainder of their lives the marks of the holiday occurrence in the little village of Mechanicsville, through scars on their faces.

The City hotel, opposite the railroad station on South Main street was placed on the auction block Saturday afternoon and was offered to the highest bidder. Several interested spectators gathered at the lobby of the old Putnam boarding place yet none announced any prices. Carl A. Witter of Danielson had charge of the sale of the inn. After several minutes of silence, the auctioneer called the sale closed, as their were no bidders in evidence.

Rev. Father U. C. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's church, today refreshed in the minds of the elder members of his parish the memories of the Rev. Richard Moore of Bridgeport who died in that city during the past week. Rev. Fr. Moore. It will be recalled spent the early days of his priesthood as a curate at St. Joseph's church in North Grosvenordale. The mentioning of the deceased priest's name at all the masses at St. Mary's today, will bring sympathy from the Putnam parishioners who knew him Father Bellerose stated that he at one time served here for Father Moore, when he was a boy in North Grosvenordale.

Fall activities will be planned by the women's auxiliary of the Anselm Mayotte post, No. 15 of the American Legion at a meeting of the ladies to be held on next Wednesday evening, at the home of Mrs. William Saretski on Grand View. The post was organized during the summer, but the interest has been aroused during the warm months. Plans for the fall meeting and winter work will be discussed. The full attendance is urged to be present.

Miss Madeline Masbecher and Bertram Bernhardt, both of Boston were married Saturday afternoon at the office of Justice Irving H. Miron of Putnam. Justice Miron officiated at the civil ceremony.

A general alarm from box 17 at the corner of Grove and King streets, called out the city fire apparatus, Saturday evening shortly after eight o'clock. The entire city it seemed followed the fire engines in a mad rush to the box situated at the southernmost end of the residential section of the city. When the firemen arrived at the location of the alarm box they found no blaze and still the sounder was still ringing madly. The all out call was rung in immediately and a systematic manhunt was started for the party that had rung in the false alarm.

Officers Donald E. Geddes and Elton T. Nolan of the Danielson state police barracks, were patrolling the highways in the vicinity of Putnam and were at the scene of the alarm box within a few minutes. A young boy reported to the officers that he had seen a car near the box a few minutes before the firebells had started to ring and drove off as soon as the alarm sounded. The youth said that the car bore a Massachusetts registration. The officers made an investigation of the matter, but were unable to locate the car as no definite description was obtained.

There is a standing reward of twenty-five dollars, offered by the city of Putnam to the person giving information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of any one ringing a false fire alarm.

The last trips of the Bar Harbor, special Pullman trains that have been making regular trips over the Norwich line of the New Haven railroad during the summer months were made this morning. The large trains, that have attracted much attention since early summer, made their last trip through Putnam to Worcester Friday evening and closed their southern trips through this city to New York this morning.

The jinx of the 1927 football season is again following the Putnam high school eleven since Roswell Wheaton, one of the promising stars of the 1928 team fell a victim of a fractured wrist during the Friday afternoon scrimmage workout. Wheaton's injury is the first of the early season handicaps placed on the local team. He was taken to the Day Kimball hospital, where the joint was replaced and he was discharged. His injury will keep him from appearing in any of the season's games.

Among the list of week end patients at the Day Kimball hospital are Frances Neely, 6 year old daughter of George Neely of East Woodstock. She received a fracture of the left arm while playing in her home Friday. She is being treated at the hospital.

Martha Martello, 11 year old daughter of Alphonse Martello of North Grosvenordale was operated upon, yesterday afternoon for appendicitis.

Fred Chapman of Norwich, Conn., a lineman, while working on a telephone pole in the vicinity of Danielson, lost his balance when his spikes slipped and fell 17 feet to the ground and received a severe fracture of the arm. He remains a patient at the hospital.

Miss Dorothy Wright of Abington, Saturday, fell while running on the state road and suffered superficial injuries which required the taking of several stitches.

A light frost, that nipped much of the late fall garden produce was reported today to have prevailed Saturday evening in many of the surrounding valley districts. There is little doubt, but what some of the frost was received in the city, as many of the gardens, held plants that had indications of having been frostbitten. The temperature today was considerably lower than any day during the past week and bore with it all the outlooks for the cold weather. Vintage and trees were the best indications, since the autumn brow and yellow are looming up on the horizons making one of nature's most beautiful spectacles, and are fast supplanting the green of the summer season.

Officer H. Theodore Strand of Danielson state police barracks, who was injured in a motorcycle accident several weeks ago in Putnam, has returned to duty. Officer Strand received a fracture of one of the bones in his foot.

Gilbert Perry of Worcester, Mass., formerly of Putnam, spend the week end, the guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Perry of Providence street.

WESTERLY

THINK BOYS WITH A GUN SHOT HORSE WORTH $100

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 23—Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown was called to the Woody Hill section of the town Saturday morning to investigate the shooting of a horse, thought to be the work of boys with a gun. The horse, a black one and reported as worth $100, was injured by a bullet and wandered around in the fields and lots in the most wooded section of the town, to drop dead. The carcass was found by Chief Brown, it having been pulled about by dogs and other wild animals.

Local Jewish residents will observe Yom Kippur, or the Day of Atonement, from sundown Sunday until sundown today (Monday). There will be special services at the Sharah Zedik synagogue on Union street. Yom Kippur the most solemn day in the Jewish calendar, is observed with fasting and religious ceremonies by Jews throughout the world.

Chapter 1143 of the Rhode Island Public Laws of 1928 grants to "legal residents of other states" the privilege of having their motor vehicles operated in this state without registering in Rhode Island for the length of time a Rhode Island registered motor vehicle would be permitted to operate in such residence state without registering there. The act also extends to licensed operators of other states the privilege of operating any motor vehicle in Rhode Island for the length of time a Rhode Island license would be accorded that privilege in the state issuing the license involved. These provisions do not apply in the case of motor vehicles used for the transportation of persons for hire.

FREEMAN'S RENOMINATION

In convention at Willimantic, the republican delegates of the second congregational district did what was expected of them when they unanimously renominated Congressman Richard P. Freeman of New London.

Congressman Freeman has served this district for seven terms. That has given him an experience in knowing and serving the needs of this district that is of the greatest value in connection with future representation. It has brought him to the point of ranking member on the rivers and harbors committee in the house of representatives and it has permitted him the opportunity to gain prestige in the national law making body that is of the greatest value to the district and the state. Furthermore he is a member of that party which will unquestionably be in control of the next congress and it is well known in national as well as state affairs that it is through the majority party that results are to be obtained.

Congressman Freeman hasn't been trying to get and keep in the eye of the nation through grand stand work on the floor of the house, but he has been a close student of the district's requirements, he has displayed a keen interest in whatever concerned the district or the state, played an influential part in bringing about action on the deepening of the Thames river channel to Norwich, given courteous and efficient attention to appeals and inquiries which have been made by his constituents and soundly administered his duties as congressman from the second district.

It will not be overlooked by the people of this district that he has always upheld republican principles and given the backing to President Coolidge and his policies which was to be expected. In view of the length of service and the manner in which he has rendered it, the second district should not only renominate but see to it that he is reelected by an even larger majority. He stands for the best interests of the second district, Connecticut and the country.

SUMMER ACCIDENTS

As we consider the many accidents in the highways and note the casualties and property damages, we are impressed by the need of something that will bring about a check and turn the tide in the other direction. It is fewer accidents instead of more that we want, and this in spite of the steady increase in the number of motor vehicles.

In some states the feeling prevails that drastic laws are accomplishing this end through thorough enforcement. In other states there is the belief that it hinges in part by the restrictions placed upon pedestrians in the highway as well as the autos. Is it possible that the situation would be greatly improved if there should be a greater uniformity in the regulation of motor vehicles and the use of highways in general?

The motor vehicle department of Connecticut in its latest statement concerning auto accidents shows that "visitors from town to town or from state to state were involved in 50 per cent. of all automobile accidents in Connecticut during June, July and August of the past two years," and "about 40 per cent. of all cars involved were from towns in the state other than those in which the accidents occurred, and 10 per cent. were owned out of the state."

That means that in half of the accidents in this state drivers were concerned who were away from home, either in another town or another state. Is it possible that these drivers were so involved because they were unfamiliar with the conditions? Is it possible that they were using no more caution than they would have if they had been at home where an understanding of existing conditions gave them an advantage?

Connecticut is a state through which there is much traffic. It is a thoroughfare for tourists and transportation truck lines. Fortunately there were a few hundred less accidents in the summer months this year than there were last year but the number of cases where drivers were involved in accidents in other than their own towns indicates the lack of care, the lack of uniformity in regulations or the nervousness which seizes many when driving in strange surroundings and especially in congested and confusing traffic.

HEEDLESS ACTION

Where destruction takes place there is invariably a lesson of much importance for the guidance of many more than are directly involved.

The story that comes from California telling of the forest fires that are raging from northern Oregon to the southern tip of California is typical of what occurs in wooded areas in the spring and the fall. Invariably such fires are caused by carelessness. More than 50 per cent. of them might be prevented. Just how many give heed to the situation and actually bear in mind their personal responsibility there is no way of knowing. It is quite apparent that there are those who are not as yet properly impressed by their duty to others to be careful with firebrands. Such care ought to be easily recognized when there is so much combustible material about, when going through dry underbrush, when in the vicinity of gasoline tanks and wherever rubbish of any kind exists.

The fires along the Pacific coast are not out but there has already been one death, the driver of an oil truck, the gasoline in which was ignited by the flames from a brush fire and a dozen men and two women have suffered severe injuries. This doesn't take into account the loss that has been experienced by the destruction of the timber in the thousands of acres which have been burned over.

It is always easy to reflect upon such destruction and declare that it ought not to have occurred but it is difficult to get those who are responsible for the fires to so guard their actions that they will not occur. In most of the cases it is just as easy to avoid doing those things which ought not to have been done. The dropping of a lighted match, the throwing away of a burning cigarette or other smoking material, the lighting of a cigar about a filling station are for the most part heedless. Not many of such acts are done with the deliberate intention of starting a fire, and it is difficult to understand why those who are so often trespassing upon the property of others when causing woodland fires are not sufficiently appreciative of the privilege to properly protect the property they are using.

JUDGE AYLING'S ELECTION

When the democrats in probate convention placed in nomination Judge Nelson J. Ayling to succeed himself and thereby followed the example of the republicans the day before, it was equivalent to election.

As has been the case for several years Judge Ayling is made the candidate of both parties. This is commendable action and gives recognition to the fact that the office is one of such importance that it ought not to be kicked about every two years in political contests.

A record of 24 years in the office of judge of probate for the Norwich district stands to the credit of Judge Ayling. During that time he has come in contact with a great many of the families of this district and his administration of the office has been such as to establish widespread confidence in his judgment and ability. The district has long since felt that he was the man for the place. The manner in which he has conducted the office displayed the value of his long experience and his close touch with the requirements impressed the great number having business in his court. It was therefore the logical step for the republicans to present his name for office each time an election rolled around and it is fitting recognition of his work that the democrats are supporting his candidacy. It is fully deserved.

Action by both parties is certain to be looked upon with approval throughout the district. It means the continuance of a well liked and efficient judge and it is gratifying to note that the democrats of this district have met the situation in the same way that has been done by both parties in so many of the probate districts throughout the state. It is in the interest of the best service.

TWO BIRDS WITH ONE STONE

When the recommendation is made by the forest department that there should be a forest rehabilitation as a means of aiding the control and prevention of floods, it is not a new suggestion by any means. It has been urged on frequent occasions, but it come now as the result of a study which has been made of the entire drainage system in the Mississippi river valley.

While the preservation of existing forests in that area is urged, it would appear that there was need of increasing them when it is shown that there has been a reduction in the woodlands from 40 to 20 per cent. as the result of necessary human use and unnecessary abuse and neglect.

It is well known that for the conservation of water supplies and the protection of watersheds that land bordering reservoirs is planted with pines and other trees. If that will serve to retain sufficient water to be of value in supplying springs and brooks which feed the reservoirs it should have a similar effect in retarding the flow of rain water to the rivers.

No claim is made that such a method would serve as the only means of preventing floods. It is perfectly apparent that it would not, but if there is help which can be gained through such means, while there would be flood control measures of markedly different character elsewhere, it ought not to be disregarded. Aside from the flood prevention there would be some weight attached to the timber value from such efforts. The need of increased forestation is clearly demonstrated by the available supply of timber and if such work can be so directed that it will serve a double purpose it will be all the better.

EDITORIAL NOTES

At the observance of Chile's independence day it is to be hoped that there were felicitations from Peru.

There may have been years when September insisted on being an uncompromising summer month, but not so in 1928.

The idea of Lindbergh doing didos in the air isn't getting any better reception than when others do it. It isn't regarded as a good example.

The man on the corner says: Those who do not want their flowers destroyed and those with hay fever take different view of prospective frosts.

It would be only natural for Florida to point out that it never suffers any of the big wind storms during the tourist season. But that doesn't relieve the natives.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Flavor cream before whipping it.

To serve with waffles a syrup of boiled cider and sugar is good.

Clean delicate painted surfaces with a mild soap and cool water then wipe down with a light oil polish.

Marmalades are made of the pulp and juice of fruits with sugar.

Invalids can take cocoa where chocolate would prove too rich.

Pie crust will be flaky if a spoonful of vinegar is added to the cold water when mixing.

Mix minced chicken with unsweetened waffle batter, and serve with maple sugar and you have an unusually fine luncheon dish.

Asparagus should not be cut after the middle of June. Let the plants go to seed for next year's cutting.

When boiling a cracked egg rub the shell over with lemon juice. The egg albumen is quickly coagulated by the acid.

To soften hard butter without making it oil, as happens when it is placed near the fire, rinse out a small basin in very hot water and invert it over the butter.

Do not use hot water on varnished floor boards. Use a cloth wrung out in lukewarm water. Each section should be rubbed with a dry cloth as it is washed.

Wrap your furs in newspapers before putting them away until winter. There will then be no danger from moth getting into them.

Lacquered brass must, of course, be kept free from polishes; usually a leather or duster will suffice to keep it in order. If it does get dirty, wash with a little soapy lather, dry and polish with dry whiting.

TO DESTROY ODORS OF COOKING

In order to prevent odors from escaping from the oven, sprinkle cedarwood dust over the top of the oven. Always make sure that the kitchen window is open at the top so that the steam has an outlet, and if possible have the outside door open just a little. A good plan which has never failed in confining unpleasant odors strictly to the kitchen is to hang a wet curtain or sheet over the kitchen door. Any old piece of calico will do for this purpose. Dip the cloth in water, wring it out tightly, and suspend it across the door in the way best calculated to preclude the escape of fumes. A small piece of toasted crust thrown into the cooking water will absorb the smell of boiling green vegetables.

DULL BRASS

The brightness can be brought back to dull brass by soaking it for about a half-hour in a pint of boiling water to which a little rock ammonia has been added. After removal, polish with a chamois.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

All baths are beauty baths. They keep the skin healthy, cleanse the pores, invigorate circulation and firm the flesh.

About half a cup of vinegar in the rinse water when next you wash your hair will make it lovely and soft and give it an attractive sheen.

A simple precautionary measure for uncertain and cold weather consists of splashing cold water over your throat and chest. Rub dry with a rough turkish towel. Or the shower, which is of course, a great modern luxury.

Some women think petroleum jelly makes the lashes and eyebrows longer and thicker. This is an illusion, it does nothing of the sort. Petroleum jelly is a mineral oil, the skin takes nothing from it. It does make the lashes and the brows seem thicker and certainly much glossier, which is a good thing, and, generally speaking, any sort of pure oil is excellent because it keeps the skin from getting too dry.

EASILY SOILED

So much white furniture is used in the kiddies' rooms these days and it is very hard to keep little finger marks from showing. However, they are readily removed by applying a solution of baking soda dissolved in warm water with a soft cloth, polishing afterward with a dry cloth. A teaspoonful to a pint of water is a satisfactory amount.

COAT HANGERS

Always keep one or two attractive coat hangers on the clothes tree for the visitor. Her coat will then stay in press all the time she is with you and at the same time you will not have outside dust brought in on your clean bedspreads.

INK ON CARPETS

When ink is spilled on a carpet or rug lay on pieces of blotting paper, changing them as often as filled with ink. Now wash the spot with a piece of sponge dipped into milk, squeezing it dry between each application and soaking it full of more milk. When the ink has all been taken out, wash the place in weak suds and rinse with a spongeful of clear water. Let it dry without exposure to dust, and it will be difficult to tell where the accident happened.

THE FUR RUG

When the white fur rug is very soiled after its winter service a bath is in order before storing it over the summer months. It may be washed without fear in lukewarm water and soapsuds, rinsing in clear water of the same temperature. After drying in a good breezy place, rub a little linseed oil on the back of the skin.

THERMOS JUG TOP

Don't be alarmed if you break the metal top of your thermos jug. If you cannot buy a duplicate, a tightly fitting cork will answer the same purpose.

HAMBURG STEAK

Hamburg steak will be more appetizing and contain lots more juice if broiled in one large cake than when fried in smaller cakes.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Restrained yet very chic are umbrellas that have a border of ombre silk.

Among the accessories are noticed velvet belts studded with brilliants.

The popularity of deep, bright blue which is important in fashion generally is also manifested in smart new stationery.

A sumptuous black crepe frock that is topped by an ermine trimmed black coat has a four-inch buckle.

A new moire wrap has crepe wings topped with 18-inch shirred ruffles and a shirred Elizabethan collar.

Really charming are frocks made of chiffon or silk that are covered with a batiked design. The design is so indefinite and the colors are so soft that the effect is delightful.

So light that they are almost baby blue, evening gowns of chiffon are delightfully airy and frail looking. A note of distinction is added when the necklace and accessories are of coral or jade green.

A black satin frock for autumn afternoons has a rich cafeau slit yoke that points back and front and a matching flounce of lace that runs up to the knees in front but stays discreetly shallow the rest of the way around the skirt.

Evening accessories are apt to be gleaming this fall. Tiny caps of sequins, crystals and pearls, little purses of cut stones and crystals, and fans of feather, polka dotted with crystal all testify to the gleaming era it is.

EVENING SLIPPERS.

The new evening slipper is the one made to wear with the new brown evening gowns. One of the most stunning is fashioned of brocaded satin ribbon, a modernistic brocade with gold fashioning angles, curves and wide ankle band that has a gleaming whatnots on it. Gold kid makes an ornament.

SMOCKED DRESSES.

Nothing has ever taken the place for the young girl of 12 and over of the smocked dress. Some of the newest of these have a few flowers embroidered upon the crepe de chine surface, while others depend solely upon the smocking for their charms.

GIFT FOR THE BRIDE.

A gift for the bride, or indeed for any hostess, consists of a large plate of exquisite Dresden china, which has a chased silver rim. A very large silver pie knife is included in the set which is encased in a handsome leather box.

PAINTED METAL BEDS.

LAUNDRY HINTS

If you baste or pin pleats at top and bottom before ironing, they can be done beautifully at home. Be sure you press dry.

The best way to wash a dirty clothesline is to wind it around a long board and scrub the line with a brush. This prevents it becoming tangled and makes it easy to wind when dry.

Rubbing silk while washing it will spoil the texture of the fabric.

If you rinse your silk hosiery and lingerie out each night during the summer months, you will prolong its life, as perspiration rots silk.

DRESSING UP THE CLOSET

Ensembles for the closet are among the latest and most convenient of arrangement sand when they are made of a striking pattern of ticking one is sure of the best results. Bags for separate frocks and for several to hang together, coat hangers and shoe bags all come in the same effective material.

MILK AND FRESH VEGETABLES

The days of "plenty of milk and eggs" are gone forever. Plenty of milk and green vegetables is the modern slogan for children's diets. Green vegetables are fully as important builders as any of the so-called "strength foods."

TAPE MEASURE

Sew a piece of strong tape about three inches long to one end of your tape masure. Wrap this end around a spool and fasten with a tack. When you are not using your tape measure it can be wound neatly around the spool and kept in a convnient place.

DARKENS THE SHOES

If the brown shoes are too light for your taste, they may be made darker by rubbing with milk to which a few drops of ammonia have been added. As soon as dry polish with a clean, dry cloth.

FURNITURE FOG

Flower vass often make white spots or "fog" on furniture. Remove this by wiping with a cloth wrung out in ammonia, dry thoroughly and polish with furniture polish.

THE WAFFLE IRON

The waffle iron should never be washed. Instead, after baking waffles, place the iron in a paper sack and tie it tightly around the iron. Thus it will be kept clean enad ready for use.

PASTE IT DOWN

Don't tear off the leather where your shoe has been scuffed. With a little glue flatten the piece into place. When dry have a "shine" anr the scuffed place will never show.

FELT PADS

If you have had your floors all done over this summer, it will be a good plan to gt felt pads for your chairs, tabls and so on. Thy come ready to glue on and save the floors many scratches.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

New York has 100 policewomen; Detroit 45, Chicago 30, Washington, D. C., 23.

Statistics show that women live longer than men, on the average, but men enjoy better health.

Only about 5 per cen of all the motor licenses issued in Berlin, Germany, are held by women.

Approximately 578,000 Pennsylvania women are now helping carry on the business transacted in that state.

In China the social station and wealth of a woman may be discerned by the type of headdress she wears.

Though she is only 12 years of age, Dorothy McDonough is private secretary to Justice Campbell in O'Neill, Neb.

Besides being general manager of a large bookbindery, Miss G. V. Woodman is manager of a large livery stable in London.

LUBRICATING EGG BEATER.

Use glycerine instead of oil to lubricate the egg beater and meat grinder. Thus you avoid imparting an oily taste to food.

LEATHER BINDINGS.

Books bound in leather should be taken from the bookcase occasionally and dusted with an oiled cloth to restore some of the oil that has dried out of the leather

RECIPES.

Rice Dumplings: Cook half a cup of rice in one uart of water and one pint of milk and add two tablespoons of fat, cook on a slow fire until the rice has absorbed all the moisture and is quite tender, but very stiff. Let cool partially. Stir while cooling. Add one egg, one teaspoon of salt, and a little nutmeg. When quite cold and stiff, form into small dumplings the size of a walnut. Boil in water, milk or broth, according to the purpose for which the dumplings are to be used. If not quite firm, add some grated bread crumbs.

Peach Trifle: Lady fingers or sponge cake may be used as a foundation for this, and if a few macaroons are available, so much the better and richer will be the finished dish. Make a custard of one pint of milk, the wolks of two eggs, three tablespoons of sugar and one tablespoon of cornstarch. Cook over hot water until thick, then cool and flavor with a few drops each of vanilla and almond extracts, and add three or four crushed macaroons. Arrange the lady fingers or sliced cake in a serving dish and moisten with the custard, cover with thinly sliced and well seasoned peaches, pour the remainder of the custard over these, and top with a meringue made of the white of the eggs, or with sweetened whipped cream. Set away in a very cold place to thoroughly ripen for several hours before serving.

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—Belated action by congress to release from state department custody a mass of foreign decorations awarded to American army and navy personnel in peace times served to give the sixty-eighth birthday of that most decorated of American soldiers, John J. Pershing, a colorful touch.

He was paraded before Secretary Davis to have four additional highly prized tokens of esteem added to the truckful of such decorations he already possesses and never under any circumstances wears.

By way of preparation for the birthday cermony, he stripped from the buttonhole of his trim blue suit the single sign of his multiple decorations he ever wears out of uniform. It is a tiny button reproduction of the ribbon of his Distinguished Service medal, the reward of his own government for his services as commander-in-chief of the army in France. Hundreds, even thousands of other Americans in both civil and military life wear that same ribbon, whereas there is hardly another American, living or dead, who could boast such ancient foreign tokens of high service as the British Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath, the French Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor, the Italian Grand Cross of the Order of St. Maurice e Lazzaro and similar highest honors from a dozen other countries.

Careless With Them

All his decorations, American and foreign, supplemented by the six campaign badges he is entitled to wear, would justify some 30 bits of colorful ribbon on the breast of Pershing's uniform tunic. Of them all, except when courtesy requires otherwise if paying official visits abroad, the little Distinguished Service medal button is the only token ever seen. Even that disappeared at the time of the funeral of the Unknown Soldier in 1921, when Pershing walked behind the casket from the capitol to Arlington cemetery. Then he wore only the Victory medal, to which every man who served in the armed forces of the country in the World war at home or abroad is entitled.

It's no use to ask Pershing about these decorations. He would only suggest that the conversation turn to "something worth while." He leaves care of the bejeweled and intrinsically valuable stars and crosses and medals to his office staff. They are scattered about in his trunks or the office safe or elsewhere, and nobody has yet taken the trouble to get them together. While he was in Africa, heading the fruitless effort to solve the territorial row between Chile and Peru, the general developed the habit of wearing a carefully selected list of his decorations. It was a little gesture to increase his prestige among his Latin-American associates.

Sword Withheld

Even the opening of state department vaults to scatter foreign decorations to their military or naval owners, however, failed to turn over to Pershing all the trophies of his place in world esteem.

There still is in the department's hands a splendidly ornamented ceremonial sword presented to him a year or two ago by the president of Venezuela. It is known as "The Sword of General Paez." The new law permitted the distriction of stars, medals, crosses or any other type of decoration, but state department legal lights couldn't read a sword into that classification, whatever its name or significance, and the weapon remains in government storage indefinitely.

YOUR HEALTH

To Be a Cripple or Not to be a Cripple

By Samuel Kleinberg, M. D., New York Member, Gorgas Memorial

To be or not to be a cripple is more easily answered today than ever before in the history of the world. Our knowledge and equipment have improved so much that there is hardly any deformity of the body which we cannot at least markedly improve, if not completely cure.

Years ago a man with a tuberculous knee hobbled about indefinitely with the aid of a brace and cane, or crutches. Often he had many foul smelling discharging "sores" which embarrassed him and offended those near him. In the end he probably died of brain fever (tuberculous meningitis). Today surgery enables us to eradicate the disease, and in a year, or sooner, we can send the man back to a useful occupation.

Birth paralysis (Erb's Palsy) of an arm in a child formerly condemned the child to permanent disability and unsightly deformity, the arm hanging limp at the side and twisted inward. Today, by prompt attention during infancy some children can be cured completely, and the majority may be improved about 75 per cent. Even in older children we can, by operation, obtain remarkable improvement in the appearance and usefulness of the arm.

The older members of the community will recall that in their youth it was not uncommon to see children and even adults, with extreme degrees of club feet. Often times they walked on their outer "ankle bones." The foot was little more than a knob at the end of the leg, and remained forever conspicuously disfigured. All this can be prevented. If treatment is begun when the child is about two weeks old there will be little or nothing left of the deformity when the child reaches the age of six months. Even the extreme deformities in neglected children can be changed by either manual moulding or operation, so that the feet are of satisfactory shape. There is no excuse today for any child to go through life with an ugly club-foot deformity.

The some is true of congenital dislocation of the hip. Many children are born with one or both hips out of their sockets. This is easily recognized by a painless limp which appears when the child begins to walk. By manipulation we can cure about 75 per cent. of the children, and improve the rest. In a small percentage, when manual pressure is not successful, we replace the hip by an operation.

Similarly, bow legs, flat feet, round shoulders, wry-neck and many other conditions can be readily corrected. In deformities from infantile paralysis, and in curvature of the spine, some may be cured and most patients be greatly benefitted. But our ability to help and the degree to which we may render assistance depends on how early we are given an opportunity to institute treatment. Do not delay. When you notice a deformity don't seek advice from your neighbor, but go immediately to your family doctor, or to the nearest hospital. If you cannot go to either, write to them for advice.

CHILD TRAINING

IS CORPORAL PUNISHMENT SOMETIMES NECESSARY

Irma Morris,

"All aboard!" called little Ethel, as she rapidly turned the imaginary steering wheel of her touring car.

"Time to come home," broke in Mother's voice.

"We're late," said her mother, hastily approaching the fast-moving "car." Seizing her little girl's hand, she pulled her from the bench, saying, "We're awfully late. I didn't realize what time it was. We have to hurry."

Ethel whimpered for a few minutes, but soon all her attention was absorbed in trying to make her little legs keep pace with Mather's long stride. "Please don't go so fast," she gasped two or three times, each time receiving the same impatient reply, "Didn't I tell you it's late!"

After what seemed to Ethel ages and ages, their street loomed into view and then their apartment house. "Thank goodness!" cried Ethel's tired little legs.

The mother scolded, argued, pleaded and, as a last resort, tried to make a game of the ordeal, showing how dolly walked up the stairs, and trying to induce Ethel to run a race with the toy kitten. All to no avail! Ethel stuck to her guns, tearfully insisting that she couldn't walk any more.

"All right, then," said her mother, "stay there," and up the steps she resolutely walked.

Ethel, left alone, now thoroughly hysterical, began to cry louder and still louder. Her mother heard her all the way up-stairs. Between worrying as to whether Ethel was catching cold, and as to what the neighbors would think, Mrs. Mann was almost distracted. After about a quarter of an hour, she could stand it no longer and hurried down to the unhappy child.

Picking her up, she stood her on her feet, and placing her right foot on the first step, said, "Now put the other foot up."

Ethel remained immovable, all her energy being used in crying. Her mother gave the refractory leg a resounding blow, repeating her command. This time it was obeyed!

"Do you want more or will you walk up?" screamed the overwrought mother.

Gasping with fright, the little girl ascended the stairs. But she could eat no dinner, and it was hours before she could go to sleep. For that matter, Mrs. Mann also had lost her appetite.

"But you just have to resort to corporal punishment with a child like that," she announced to her husband later in the evening, when she was regaling him with the events of the day.

Do you agree with her, or do you feel confident that little Ethel could be managed without friction or scenes? It is not true that the parent who makes unreasonable demands of the child will meet constantly growing difficulties, and that punishment for lack of compliance, however successful for the time being, will ultimately fail of its purpose and convict the parent of injustice?

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mr. Alexis Caya, 546 Hunt St., Woonsocket, R. I., says: "I was in such bad health I couldn't work for a year. I decided to try Tanlac. Now I've gained 30 lbs., my yellow skin has cleared, constipation overcome and appetite returned."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE?

In the following table are shown the present electric bills of various individual customers, together with their bills on the new rate:

Energy Used Kw. Hr.	Present Bill	Comparison of Rates Bill on Proposed Rate 3 Rooms	5 Rooms	7 Rooms
5	$1.00	$1.35	$1.55	$1.75
10	1.00	1.50	1.70	1.90
15	1.50	1.65	1.85	2.05
20	2.00	1.80	2.00	2.20
25	2.50	1.95	2.15	2.35
30	3.00	2.10	2.30	2.50
40	4.00	2.40	2.60	2.80
50	5.00	2.70	2.90	3.10
60	6.00	3.00	3.20	3.40

For the present, forget our side of the case. Forget your personal viewpoint, too. Consider the question from the broad community viewpoint.

Which rate puts 3 cents electricity within the reach of every customer and yet charges no small user more than he can afford to pay?

Which rate will enable the poor man to use this great labor saving agent as freely as his well-to-do neighbor?

Which rate means more uniform bills from month to month and therefore less complaints?

Which rate comes closer to making each customer pay his share of the costs and thus permits low priced electricity to be offered for additional use by every customer?

From the standpoint of the community, YOU cannot help but choose the new rate as being better than the present one.

OLD RATE
10c per Kilowatt hour.
NEW RATE
3c per Kilowatt hour, plus the initial charge

Little Girl Invalid For 9 Years

Now Back in School Again Fully Recovered.

To McCoy's Laboratories:

My little girl was stricken with Infantile Paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 3 years, when I saw an advertisement in the paper that McCoy's Tablets would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first, and after taking 3 boxes she has gained 7 pounds, thanks to McCoy's Tablets after trying almost everything on the market. She is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day.

If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 one dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—the purchase price will be refunded.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at Lee & Osgood Co., or any drug store in America.

SOME IN PARISH LIVING BAD LIVES, SAYS PRIEST

The last call sounded Sunday at the four masses in St. Patrick's church for the two weeks' mission which is to open the coming Sunday after the 1.30 mass. The three mission preachers will be members of the Passionate order, who labor for souls in commemoration of the passion, or suffering of the Saviour. It was stated that, while missionaries of other orders have given these special revival weeks in this parish every three or four years, this is the first time in nearly 50 years that Passionist preachers have given a mission; the time was in 1879.

While preaching salvation and the necessity of repentence, these eloquent and scholarly priests labor also with another lofty motive—to receive from the churches which they visit offerings through the charity of the people, that they may continue to carry on in every country of the world their colleges and seminaries in which the members of the order are educating and training young men for the holy priesthood.

The first week of the mission will be for the women and girls of the parish, the second week being devoted to the men and boys. In announcing the parish plans at the 7 o'clock mass on Sunday, Rev. John J. Reilly pointed out how necessary such a spiritual revival time is for all—good or bad. There are many in the parish, he said, who are living uncatholic lives. All need to follow the example of the Redeemer, Who, after His days of journeying and teaching said to His apostles, "Come apart with Me and pray;" and Who again, on the eve of His crucifixion asked reproachfully of those apostles chosen to represent and found His church, "Could you not watch one hour for Me?" The same cry comes now from His human heart. This is the opportune time to go apart with the Saviour for a week, to meditate on the fact that we have here no abiding city—but seek one that is to come; that the business of each in this world is to save his immortal soul.

It was announced that beginning next Sunday all parish activities and services will be on standard time. The three priests called attention to the fact that the day's offertory, above the regular contributions would be given to the Norwich branch of the Red cross, for its Porto Rican and Florida fund.

Father Reilly assisted Rev. Myles P. Galvin in giving communion to a large number. At this mass, the Junior choir, directed by Organist Henry J. LaFontaine, sang "Jesus, Keep Me Close to Thee," and other hymns very prettily.

Mrs. Richard W. Arnold

The many local friends of Mrs. Richard W. Arnold of New Haven, formerly of this city, were saddened Sunday night to learn of her death which took place during the evening in New Haven Sunday. Since the birth last Tuesday of her second child, a boy, her condition had been critical but her recovery had been hoped for, and all that medical skill could do had been exerted in her behalf.

Mrs. Arnold, whose maiden name was Madeline Margaret Ver Steeg, was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ver Steeg, and formerly lived in the Falls section of this city. Three years ago in March she was united in marriage with Richard W. Arnold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Arnold of No. 90 Cliff street, and their home had been in New Haven since then. Besides her husband, Mrs. Arnold leaves her daughter, Doris, 15 months old, and her infant son. She is also survived by her sister, Mrs. Frank Shea, of Stamford.

Cheerful in disposition, vivacious in manner, warm-hearted and generous, Mrs. Arnold was devoted to her home and family, to whom the sympathy of a host of friends will be extended in their heavy bereavement.

John Donahue

John Donahue, 75, life long resident of this city, died suddenly about 1:15 o'clock Sunday morning at his home, No. 42 Roath street. Mr. Donahue had been in his usual good health up to a short time before his death. He was out for the evening Saturday and retired about 11 o'clock. Two hours later he was seized with an attack of illness and died shortly afterwards.

Mr. Donahue was born in this city in 1853, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Donahue. In 1881 he was united in marriage with Ellen O'Sullivan at old St. Mary's church. For years Mr. Donahue was employed by the United States Finishing Co.

He was a member of Court City of Norwich, Foresters of America, was a member of St. Mary's parish and of the Holy Name society. Surviving Mr. Donahue are two daughters, Mrs. Anna C. Sullivan and Miss Catherine Donahue of this city, one son, John F. Donahue of Norwich, a granddaughter, Marian Sullivan and one sister, Mrs. Julia McDonald, of this city.

Mr. Donahue was well known, especially in the Greeneville section of the city, and was highly respected by his numerous friends and acquaintances. Word of his sudden death came as a shock to all who knew him and deep sympathy is extended the bereaved family.

Standard Time Next Sunday

The daylight saving period will come to an end on Sunday, Sept. 30, and beginning with that date local homes, offices, factories, stores and other business establishments will go back on a standard time schedule.

The days are already beginning to shorten and the nights to lengthen and every day it becomes more apparent that the summer season is passing and that autumn is at hand.

Returned From Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Albert R. Dawley of Mt. Misery, Voluntown, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bitgood and little daughter of Pachaug have returned from a week's trip through Vermont and New Hampshire.

WEDDING.

Carey-Bell

Saturday evening at 7 o'clock in New London Edward W. Carey and Mrs. Lois . Bell, both of his city, were united in marriage by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Carey of New London, parents of the groom.

POINTS OUT PROHIBITION AS MAIN ISSUE IN THE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

Speaking Sunday night at the Central Baptist church upon the main issue in the present political campaign, Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt, the pastor, turned his attention to three—religion, liberalism and prohibition—and by eliminating the first two as main issues, in his opinion, reached the conclusion that the main issue is to be found in prohibition.

The service, the pastor said, was not a political meeting in the interest of making votes, but he desired the church to serve as the house of the interpreter.

Many issues are mentioned in this campaign, such as farm-relief, religion, liberalism versus conservatism and prohibition. What is the main issue for one section of the country may not seem to be the main issue for another section. That is evident in the candidates' addresses. What is stressed in one locality may be quite different from what is stressed in another.

Here in the east three issues are receiving most of the attention, and of these three I wish to speak briefly. The first is religion. Some see in the campaign this and little else. There is about as much confusion in Protestant minds on this matter as there is in the minds of Roman Catholics. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton took Dr. Jefferson of New York city to task on the religious issue. Yet Dr. Jefferson has spoken in this pulpit of the day when Roman Catholics and Protestants would be reunited. Note the division of opinion in our own denomination. Governor Fuller of Mass., is a Baptist and yet he accuses another Baptist, Dr. Straton, of being an enemy of the country for attacking Governor Smith. Another Baptist is Dr. Ray Petty of Philadelphia, Russell Conwell's successor, who urged his people before the nomination to vote for Governor Smith if they were given the opportunity.

Religion

Some Protestants as well as Roman Catholics are asking why a man's religion should handicap him for the greatest trust in the gift of the American people. If there were less whispering at this point and more clear thinking and honest talk it would be better for both branches of the Christian church and for the United States as a whole. I couldn't be a Baptist without admitting that a Roman Catholic has as much right to his religion as I have to mine. As a matter of fact Protestant orthodoxy is nearer to Roman Catholic beliefs than it is to the liberal religion of some who have already occupied the White house.

The real difficulty lies not in religion as such but in the organization back of that religion and in the fact that that organization heads up not in this country but in a foreign land. The same fear that many had about dictation from the league of nations they have also about the Roman hierarchy. They do not want any dictation either political or religious from anyone, least of all from any one outside our own boundaries. We Protestants should try to appreciate the dilemma of our Roman Catholic neighbors who wish to be loyal to both their church and their country. Some of their number are making it harder for the rest of them. Even so well known a man as Mayor Walker of New York is quoted as saying that he thought it would be a good thing for this country to be under the influence of Rome for a while.

Some Protestants as well as Roman Catholics say this is a mere bogy existing only in the minds of men. I wonder if that is true. The greatest organization on earth today is the Roman Catholic church. Suppose that organization receives instruction from its foreign headquarters to oppose that which Americans hold near to their hearts. We have such an issue in the case of the public schools. Lovers of education in this land have sought for years to have a department of education heading up in the president's cabinet, but they have never have been able to get it reported out of committee because of a packed committee, a committee with an unusual number of Roman Catholics and others who do their bidding. Some of us who believe in the public schools have no desire to dictate to the parochial schools but we feel that the parochial school people should not try to handicap the progress of our public schools. It is not the Roman Catholic religion as such which is feared by intelligent Protestants. It is the Romar Catholic organization and the powerful influence especially on issues where there is such a marked difference of opinion as the public schools.

As soon as some of us are convinced that Rome is ready to keep her hands off things peculiarly American and attend to her primary business of religion we shall be more willing to vote for our Roman Catholic neighbors in both state and nation. Religion is an issue in this campaign but it is not the main issue.

Liberalism vs. Conservatism

Another issue which some say is the main issue of the campaign is that of liberalism versus conservatism. In certain circles there has been a rather strong feeling that the democratic party has been in later years the more liberal, the more human. There has been sweeping over the world a great wave of humanism. It is seen everywhere but especially in Russia.

Many in this country have felt that the republican party was out of step with this great human movement. Many of the republicans themselves have felt this way. That was one chief reason for the progressive defection in 1912. Some of you can recall the crusading spirit of the progressives led by Roosevelt. As they sang "Onward Christian Soldiers" it seemed as if the old crusading spirit had returned to earth again.

Many of these progressives later turned to President Wilson for leadership. Since his death they have felt that the stand-pat attitude has been mostly in control. To these of whom I speak the Washington disarmament conference and the recent Pact of Paris have been the two redemeeing features of the last two administrations. So far as I know there is not much choice between the two leading candidates at this point. They are both men of social vision. Governor Smith has encouraged social legislation in New York state. And Herbert Hoover has been the great organizer of the Good Samaritan spirit in the modern world. I cannot think that the man who did so much for women and children, for humanity during the war will be indifferent to the needs of women and children, humanity if he becomes president of the United States. I said to my people last Sunday that the greatest sentence uttered in the campaign thus far was uttered by Mr. Hoover when he said, "Our purpose is to build a human society, not an economic system." In the light of the social vision of both these men I do not think that here you find the main issue of the campaign. We must seek still further.

Prohibition

Another issue which may claim to be the main issue is prohibition. Governor Smith in the dry west and some republicans in the wet east are saying that this is not the main issue, but they know and we know that in saying this they are evading. In this Governor Smith does not seem to be running true to his usual frankness and consistency in the matter. Certainly when he sent his telegram to the Houston convention declaring his liberal attitude on this particular subject, he seemed to consider it an outstanding issue. When he dealt with it at length and so frankly in his speech of acceptance, he seemed to think it was a chief, if not the chief, issue. When he chose the chairman for his campaign, it was from among the ranks of the opposition to prohibition. If one is to judge from the latest button to appear with a picture of Governor Smith and beside it a picture of a foaming beer bottle, it would seem as if beer were the central issue in the minds of the promoters of Governor Smith.

We are not saying that the governor has not the right to make this the main issue, although Mrs. Willebrandt raises the interesting question whether the president's oath of office will permit him to tamper with the constitution while in office. The wording of the president's oath is different from that of every other official. He swears "to support, protect and defend" the constitution of the United States. Whether or not this forbids the president from working for any change in the constitution I do not know. Personally I am grateful to Governor Smith for facing the prohibition issue so frankly. My only regret is that it is mixed with the religious issue in any way. I wish that the democrats had selected a wet non-Catholic. Then the outcome of the issue would have been far clearer than it can be now. In case of Governor Smith's defeat the opponents of prohibition will say it was due to his religion. As a matter of fact a host of Protestants and Roman Catholics will make this the main issue when they cast their votes regardless of Mr. Smith's religion.

Such an outstanding Protestant as Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale says that religion does not enter into his decision to vote for Mr. Hoover although previously he voted for Woodrow Wilson. He adds that if Senator Walsh, the dry Roman Catholic, had been the democratic candidate, he probably would have voted differently.

You have all seen the clear-cut declaration of the Anti-Saloon league when accused of mixing the religious issue with prohibition in the present campaign. The head of the league declared that this organization had never been guilty of favoring a wet Protestant as against a dry Roman Catholic.

I said a moment ago that those who tell us that prohibition is not an issue are evading or misleading. What they say may be true, but it is not the whole truth. What they mean probably is that if Governor Smith is elected with a dry congress there can be no immediate change in the law. What they fail to tell us is what would be the immediate moral effect not only on America but on the world. Imagine Governor Smith, a pronounced wet, a declared enemy of the present law, a leader pledged to help change that law; imagine the effect of such a man going to the white house next March by a great majority vote of the American people. Broun of New York says that it is a choice between Smith and Sahara and that therefore he is for Smith. I accept his interpretation but not his conclusion. I believe it is a choice between Smith and a dry America—and I am for a dry America. May the outcome of the November election be for a better America.

DEMOCRATS NAME CITRON WHEN GIBBS WITHDRAWS

At the democratic congressional convention for the second district, held in this city Saturday, William Citron of Middletown, was unanimously nominated as candidate for congressman. Mr. Citron will oppose Congressman Richard P. Freeman, the republican candidate for re-election. Mr. Citron was minority leader at the last session of the general assembly at Hartford.

The second district comprises Middlesex, New London, Windham and Tolland counties. The convention was held in the town hall and was attended by nearly 500 delegates. Hermon J. Gibbs of this city who had been mentioned as a possible candidate for the office, withdrew Saturday, leaving the field open to Mr. Citron.

The convention was called to order by Thomas J. Kelly of this city, state central committeeman, and Judge Rollin U. Tyler of Haddam was named chairman of the convention. The clerk was Joseph Keefe of New London. Rev. Mr. Gilbert of Middletown nominated Mr. Citron and the nomination was seconded by W. M. Jewett of Hampton. Prof. Snow of Wesleyan college spoke in favor of Mr. Citron's nomination as did several other of the delegates. Mr. Citron was nominated unanimously.

At the senatorial convention, Albert W. Lillibridge of this city was named democratic candidate for state senator from this district, comprising Preston, Ledyard and Norwich.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION ENDORSES JUDGE AYLING

At the democratic probate convention in this city Saturday Judge Nelson J. Ayling was endorsed for re-election as judge of probate for the Norwich district. Judge Ayling was renominated by the republican convention Friday and the endorsement given him by the democratic party assures him of two years more in office.

The democratic convention was held at the court house and the meeting was called by State Central Committeeman Thomas J. Kelly of this city. Michael J. Curran was named convention chairman and John H. Carney was selected as the clerk. The convention lasted less than five minutes and before adjournment State Central Committeeman Kelly was authorized to call the next probate convention and to fill any vacancies that might occur.

Those present were M. J. Curran, Henry F. Parker, John H. Carney, Thomas J. Kelly, Patrick T. Connell, Cardin and John H. Crofts of Sprague, Irving J. Willis of this city, and Peter Keemer, who, after His days of journeying and teaching said to His Cardin and John H. Crofts of Sprague.

FOUR NORWICH BOYS ENTERING HOLY CROSS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Those from Norwich are John H. Drescher, John F. Delaney, Frederick J. Murphy and Thomas R. Vithano.

MADE SPEECH NOMINATING FREEMAN FOR CONGRESSMAN

On Sept. 17th, 1787, 141 years ago this month, the delegates to the Constitutional convention assembled in a little historic hall at Philadelphia and approved the draft of the Constitution of the United States. On this day the document was engrossed and laid before the members for signature. Thus did the constructive architects of our governmental structure finish their work.

Throughout the preceding four months of the convention vehement controversies arose between the large and the small states over the method of representation in the national congress. This problem was solved by compromise known as the Connecticut plan, due to the part played by the Connecticut delegates, providing for membership in the house based on population with equal representation in the senate. Thus the senate was to represent the states and the house of representatives was to represent the people. From that time to the present the house of representatives of the national congress has been commonly acclaimed "the guardian of the liberties of the people."

CONGRESSMAN FREEMAN

It is therefore fitting, that in this month of September, we, the delegates from the second congressional district, assemble in convention for the purpose of nominating one of our citizens to the house of representatives in the congress of the United States.

Connecticut has taken its place in the sun among the states of our nation in the choice of its leaders, and the second district has been particularly rich in its contribution of leaders in our national life. Leaders who have helped to fashion our political machinery so as to make this country and this community a better, healthier and happier place to live in. We need only to pass in reflection upon men of the type of Philips, Russell, Storrs and Frank and Augustus Brandegee. Leaders who commanded alike the confidence and admiration of the rank and file of the people—leaders who by the example of their courage, vigor and steadfastness have drawn out the highest qualifications of the people.

The second congressional district has been indeed happy in having such a leader to represent it in the national congress for the past 14 years. Who is he and what is his monument? Born in New London in 1869 he attended the local schools, graduated from Harvard college and Yale law school, a lawyer of culture and learning, having not only an acquaintance with the practical side of the law from his long experience at the bar, but as a student he has a deep insight into the theory of our institutions.

During the Spanish-American war he offered his bosom to the sword and served as a regimental major of the Third Connecticut Volunteers Infantry and later as major and judge advocate of the Connecticut National Guard.

In the house of representatives he is now the ranking member of the committee on rivers and harbors, which is one of the most important committees in congress, and particularly important at this time to Connecticut and this especial district. His record shows him to be a firm supporter of the policies of Calvin Coolidge. He has consistently supported all measures which have so much increased the prosperity of our country. In point of service he leads all of the Connecticut congressmen with the exception of John Q. Tilson and since 1789 when the first congress was organized he is only outranked in point of service by Davenport, Hill, Moseley, Sperry and Talmadge. He stands on the high plateau of middle life. He is not a posturer or a phrase monger, not meteoric, flashing with irregular splendor, but earnest, steadfast courageous. With candor and with close application he attends to the nations business, shining with steady and penetrating rays.

It is a happy augury of better days in American public life that the record and qualifications of a man should receive the reward of valor at the hands of his fellows. To honor him is to honor ourselves, our district and our nation. To return him to congress is to lend dignity and tone to that national body and an assurance that our district, our state and our nation will receive full measure of representation in the business that may come before it. It is with genuine pleasure that I give to this convention as the nominee for representative in the national congress from the second district, my fellow townsman, the Hon. Richard P. Freeman of New London.

The nomination of Congressman was unanimous. In accepting it he spoke as follows:

Mr. Freeman's Acceptance.

Mr. Chairman, Delegates to the Congressional Convention:

In accepting the honor of this renomination for representative in congress from the republicans of the Second Congressional district, I would first express my thanks to you, one and all. The Scriptures tell us that "It is a pleasant thing to give thanks," —and from the way I am feeling at this particular moment, I am sure the Scriptures are quite right about it. I prize greatly your continued confidence and steadfast loyalty. In the life of a congressman, the opportunities for public service bring to him both pleasure and satisfaction, but his greatest satisfaction comes from the friendly support and active co-operation he receives from the folks at home. In these, you have always been generous towards me, and I appreciate your attitude and thank you for it.

My friends, you and I am also conscious of the fact that an unusually active presidential campaign is upon us. The democratic party seems to have undergone rejuvenation, and to have determined on a strenuous political battle. Let us welcome the attack and at the same time prepare to repel it successfully. Our service record is one we can pride ourselves on, and—just as a fine performance one night insures a good attendance the next night—so we can count on the support of the electorate in November, because what we have done is the best guarantee of what we will continue to do. The degree of prosperity the whole country enjoys—and compared with conditions everywhere else we are indeed fortunate—is the direct result of our republican policies. The voters of this country will never throw away the comforts of home and the joys of work for anything the democrats may offer in exchange.

As for our leader, in Herbert Hoover we have not only one of the best any political party ever had, but one of the greatest as well. He has the heart and the brain and the will to serve us. The American people are wise enough to realize that no abler, no kinder burden-bearer could possibly compare with him. Big problems have been his daily portion ever since he was a young man. At first they centered around self, but in time they came to have a wonderfully wide reach completely submerging self. With his master mind studying our serious national problems, we are confident that not just "someway" out but rather that the best way out possible will be found and adopted. We are conscious that for such a cause and such a leader, nothing short of absolute and perfect loyalty on our part will do, and this loyalty we of the Second Congressional district freely pledge and guarantee.

FIELD DAY OF TAFTVILLE LEGION PROVES TO BE A GREAT SUCCESS

The annual field day of the Taftville Post of the American Legion and the Maennerchor Turners gave to the folks of Taftville and the surrounding towns, one of the biggest days of the season in the town and one of the most successful of the attractive yearly events. From the blow of the whistle for the first event until the final race between the greased pig and about half of the younger element of the town, the events went off in grand fashion.

The events began after the parade led by the Italian band which terminated at the Providence St. grounds, and the stentorial voice of Arthur Roy announced the first event of the afternoon, the sack race for boys. This event was won by Simon Frechette in nine seconds who hobbled in far ahead of his nearest competitor.

The long looked for doll carriage parade was the next event and the beautifully dressed doll carriages of the little ladies drew forth much applause from the audience. The eighteen pulchritudinous young ladies pushing their daintily attired doll carriages around the field, multicolored and adorned in all their proud glory, gave the judges somewhat of a proposition to pick the winner, so beautiful were the contestants and their little go-carts.

The winner was Miss Marjory Vetter with her carriage representing a beautiful white swan. The artistic beauty of Miss Vetter's entry won the unanimous verdict of the judges. Second prize went to Miss Mary Emerson; third to Miss Doris Weller; fourth to Miss Margaret Emerson; fifth to Miss Mary Kelly. The judges for the event were Mrs. Parant, Mrs. Blood and Miss Malone.

The suppleness of the Turners and the girls drill team was another outstanding feature of the program. Under the leadership of Carl Kalin who has led the team to much admiration and glory, the girls and boys gave an excellent exhibition of drilling both together and singly. The girls with their Indian clubs swinging and the men's team with their drill and calithenics brought forth a round of applause. The horizontal bar work of the men also was a real treat with many difficult tricks. The clock work precision and their perfect harmony is a thing of beauty and a treat to watch. The Turners comprise: Geo. Krauss, Herman Krauss, Henry Seide, Walter Hoefer, Francis Seminean, Chas. Grant, Robt. Pillin, Patrick Donohue, Alfred Puchto, Emil Trembly and Carl Kalin, Jr.

As was expected the real humor came in the rolling pin throwing contest. Six married women started it off and they had a hard time hitting the dummy. Mrs. Belvel made out the best of the married women, she managing to sock the poor dummy for a one score. Mrs. James Emerson and Mrs. Zargwski also hit the dummy on the second try. Then the young girls gave a try. Nothing to it then. Even though they had had no practice throwing rolling pins, Anna Retkofski made three out of four, and Wilhemina Krauss made one. Then the latter and Mrs. Belvel threw for second prize and Miss Krauss won out. It is said that although Mrs. Belvel didn't win a prize Mr. Belvel hasn't been home since. He is taking no chances. Much sympathy was felt for the future husband of Miss Retkofske.

And then to add to her ability to hit them close, Anna Retkofske showed that she could throw them far. No chance for the poor man even at a distance. When a young women can hurl a rolling pin 74 feet 9 inches like she did it is time for some poor man to be careful.

The track events were also very interesting. Joe Jackson cleaned up in the 220 yard dash and the open 100 yard dash. Carlie Krauss won the closed 100 yard dash, and took second prize in the two former events. Joe Jackson made wonderful time in both of his wins. The 200 yard event which was cut to field distance (about 130 yards) was made in 12 seconds. The timers' watches stopped at ten seconds as Joe came pounding home in the 100 yard dash. This is remarkable time considering the fact that about thirty of the 100 yards was through the grass.

The last, but not least event which featured the program and village was the well known greased pig race. Oiled and greased to the king's taste, he scrambled around with about 200 youngsters on his tail. He managed to elude them until he got cornered and Antone Boenig grabbed him and carted home his family's Sunday dinner of about thirty pounds of pork.

The summary of the events and the winners follow:

Greased pole, Paul Ragen.

The officials were Walter Grant, starter; Erastus Yerrington, Richard Snow, timers; Albert Aberg, Harold Decelles, L. V. Manchester, judges; Arthur Roy, announcer; A. Leopold, secretary of events; Mrs. Geo. Blood, Mrs. Napoleon Parent and Miss Agnes Malone, judges for the baby carriage parade; Miss Elsie Heap, Miss Flossie Meyer, Mrs. Theo. Belvel and Mrs. Andrew Frohmander in charge of tickets.

YANKEES BLANK INDIANS TO HOLD 2-GAME LEAD

CLEVELAND, Sept. 23—(AP)—The Yankees protected their lead of two games over the Athletics in the pennant fight by whitewashing the Cleveland Indians by 5 to 0 here today in the first game of a series of three. The Mackmen maintained the status quo by defeating the St. Louis Browns 11 to 7.

Making his seventh appearance in the last fourteen Yankee games, Waite Hoyt held the Indians to four scattered hits to win his twentieth victory of the season. He also helped his own cause along with two singles.

The Yankees came out of their batting slump to the extent of eleven safeties which they bounded back at Joe Shaute, of these two were by Babe Ruth, who broke his own personal slump with his first effective blows in five games. One of Babe's blows was a double.

Ruth pulled up lame in running out a single in the eighth, and gave way to Cedric Durst. It was a further aggravation of his wrenched left knee, injured in sliding into third base at Chicago a few days ago.

Mark Koenig also reported lame from a foul ball which he drove against his ankle in Chicago yesterday, but he played through the game. Tony Lazzeri, the third Yankee cripple, also went through the entire contest, although he favored his injured arm in making throws.

The Yankees had trouble enough in getting started against Shaute, but when they finally did get one run in the fifth it loomed large, another was added in the sixth, two in the eighth and one of the 9th.

ATHLETICS BEAT BROWNS TO HOLD PLACE IN LEAGUE

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 23—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns lost to the Philadelphia Athletics in the opening game of their series here this afternoon by a score of 11 to 7.

Manager Howley sent all of his regulars into the lineup against the Athletics who are in second place, and two games behind the league leading Yankees. The Athletics brought in four runs in the ninth inning when Miller singled to right field. Hauser's single sent Miller to third. Dykes hit a homer into the right field pavillon scoring Miller and Hauser ahead of him. Rommel brought in the fourth run later in the inning.

WHITE SOX ADVANCE BY BEATING SENATORS

CHICAGO, Sept. 23—(AP)— The White Sox moved into a tie for fourth place with Washington today by taking the opening game from the Senators 8 to 3.

Lyons held the Senators to eight hits, while the White Sox nicked Marberry for 11, scoring five runs to clinch the game in the seventh inning. Art Shires, one of Lena Blackburne's latest rookies, continued his heavy stick work, getting a home run and a double in two trips to the plate.

ALL-GREENEVILLE TEAM BEATS THAMES A. C. AGAIN

The All-Greeneville team made it two straight over the Thames A. C. team at Hollyhock Island diamond Sunday afternoon winning 9 to 3. Couture pitched a nice game for the Greeneville team and was given fine support in the field by Cummings and Navick. Gribbons, McGowan and Nevins featured at the bat. For the Thames club Berghinzo and Blinderman starred.

The All-Greeneville team now challenges the Smoke Shop team for a game next Sunday. Arrangements can be made by calling 3154. The score:

Arthur Rettberg of Hartford, piloting his Spencer Special, and Albert H. Gebrath of Groton, driving his 13-foot sea flood Bozo, were winners in for class B and class C respectively in the outboard motorboat race from Norwich to Southwest Ledge light and return Saturday afternoon. These two led a field of about 15 boats the classes being evenly divided. Only eight in the race finished, and two of these were disqualified.

In the B class William B Mitchell of Preston was second across the line with Joe French of Norwich third. Both of these pilots encountered trouble on the return trip and their time was several minutes behind that of the winner of the class who did the 35-mile course in 1 hour and 36 minutes.

Gebrath drove his Bozo across the finish line just one hour, 25 minutes and 30 seconds after he had received the starting signal. Carl Hanover of Groton in the Blue Streak was second over the line, trailing the Bozo by three minutes and 4 seconds while Milton Greene of Norwich at the wheel of his Sea Sled was five minutes behind Hanover. However Gebrath's time was not the fastest of the afternoon for Jack Lynch of Groton drove his craft in ahead of the Bozo by an even minute. It was found that Lynch had entered his boat in a class in which he did not belong and he was promptly disqualified.

When the boats started there was quite a gathering about the harbor to see the start and all along the river spectators gazed at the speeding crafts that scudded across the water at an amazing speed. A little rough water was encountered in New London harbor and in negotiating the turn around the lighthouse several boats shipped a quantity that retarded their progress and practically put them out of the race. Two boats developed engine trouble and were forced to drop out.

Prizes of cups were awarded the winners being donated by John Ferguson, local jeweler, Jack's Sport shop, John and George H. Bliss Co., jewelers, E. D. Steele of New London and the Duwell club. The Pequot Brass Co. presented each contestant a set of polished brass oarlocks.

POP WILLIAMS PLAYING PROFESSIONAL FOOTBALL

"Pop" Williams, well known gridiron star in this section of the state and a leading member of the Connecticut Agricultural college team of the past three seasons, has turned his eye toward the professional side of the game and appeared Sunday afternoon for the first time in the lineup of the well known Providence Steamrollers. Recently it was announced that Williams was not to return to Storrs this year and no reason was given for his absence.

A Providence paper carried a story devoted to the find of the Steamrollers, characterizing Williams as one of the best finds the Providence scouts have made in many seasons.

Williams is a native of Danielson. He was one of the greatest players Killingly high school ever produced, and through his line crashing, he carried his school's colors to the top of scholastic football. He continued this work at Connecticut Agricultural college and it is expected that his 210 pounds of gridiron feight will prove an asset to the Providence professional team, that brought about defeat to "Red" Grange's Chicago Bears two years ago.

General surprise was indicated today when it was learned that the Danielson boy has joined the professional column.

VELVETMEN SMOTHER ELM CITY GIANTS 17 TO 5

The J. B. Martin club took the third and deciding game with the Elm City Giants, Sunday afternoon, clinching the series by smothering the Giants 17 to 5 in a free hitting contest. The Velvetmen gathered 17 hits which they converted into a like number of runs off the combined pitching of Cannonball Smith and Coleman. The Giants also hit well getting 12 hits off Fisher and Pepin but were unable to bunch them for more than five runs. Douglas, catcher for the Giants was the hitting star of the game getting four hits in four times at bat, his homer being the feature hit. Russ Fisher also had a perfect day with the stick getting four safeties. The score:

JOHNNY TILLMAN WILL PITCH FOR TAFTVILLE

Johnny Tillman, premier hurler for the York Pa. club and who has pitched in Norwich for the past few seasons in the post-season series, will be in the Taftville lineup on next Saturday afternoon against the J. B. Martin club in the second game of the series. Tillman, it will be remembered, pitched for the Riverview club last year and stood the Taftville A. A. on their head with his sweeping curves and was the pitcher that won the series for the State Hospital club. Manager Troland is banking on Tillman to turn in a victory for him Saturday and as has been Tillman's custom he can pitch again Sunday at the J. B. Martin diamond.

ROCHESTER WINS FLAG IN INTERNATIONAL LOOP

MONTREAL, Sept. 23—(AP)—Rochester clinched its first International league pennant since 1911 by defeating Montreal in both games o fa doubleheader here today by scores of 5 to 2 and 6 to 0. This assured the Redwings of the flag even if Buffalo should win its single contest from Toronto.

Rochester's last previous pennant was won seventeen years ago when John Ganzel led the team, then called "The Hustlers," to a third straight flag. William H. Southworth, for Giant and Cardinal, drove this years team to the top after a serious mid-season slump due to ten simultaneous injuries to valuable men, including himself.

Indianapolis to A. A. Pennant

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 23—(AP)—Indianapolis won the American association pennant for 1928 by defeating Toledo 1 to 0 in the twelfth inning of the first game of a double header here today

LOTT AND HENNESSEY COP TENNIS TOURNEY

CHICAGO, Sept. 23—(AP)—After a sizzling duel with the Australian team, the western team of George Lott and John Hennessey, today won the national-international tennis title on the turf courts of the Chicago Town and Tennis club.

Hennessey won his singles match against Harry Hopman, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4, but Lott was upset by the sturdy Australians net ace, Jack Crawford, in his singles, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, and the doubles match was the deciding factor. After a terrific fight the Americans won, 1-6, 6-4, 12-10, clinching the championship.

The deciding game in the last set of the doubles was so hard fought that it went to deuce 12 times before the Americans could break through.

Although slightly ill and very fatigued, Hennessey came back back to his old brilliancy today and it was fortunate for Latt, he did as the Chicago youth was in a bad slump. Time and again Hennessey came through with brilliant network in the doubles to forge ahead. Crawford's ranny form swept all over the court in the doubles and he often backed his mate up by some of the best stroking seen in the national international competition.

His singles match with Crawford, Lott completely lost his head and tried to beat Crawford by net play. He took the first set, but thereafter was always in the rear.

Hennessey was too much for the dimunitive Hopman in their singles. His back-chop stroke chimed along with deadly accuracy and he caught Hopman flatfooted by his sharp volleys many times.

TOURTELLOTTE HIGH WILL HAVE FOOTBALL TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 24—The Tourtellotte Memorial high school of North Grosvenordale has placed football among its major sporting activities. The school has joined the Quinebaug Valley league and will send its first football team in the history of the school out to meet the members of the league this season. Their first contest will be with Putnam high school on October 17. The team has a five game schedule and all eyes in the league will be focused on the Putnam game.

The school is nearly 20 years old and has never promoted football until this year. Material is plentiful and there is every indication that the first attempt will be a successful season. Games may be had by writing the director of athletics at the school in North Grosvendale.

HUSKY MATERIAL REPORTS FOR GREENEVILLE TEAM

The Greeneville Tigers under the able management of Henry Boyd will swing into action about the middle of October against the fastest of the Eastern Connecticut semi-pro football teams. Practice is being held three and four times a week, the next session being on Tuesday evening. The Tigers have some promising material this year and it is Boyd's attention of developing speed in back of a heavy plunging line. His roster includes Gay, Langervin, Christy, Mileski, B. Stearns, J. Stearns, Kop, Butts, S. Boyd, McNeil and McVeigh on the line with the McGrath brothers, Jim Fenton, Jim Kelly, Heberts and F. Labenski as backfield material. The team meets Tuesday at Swanton's at eight o'clock.

GIANTS DOWN REDS IN 14-INNING BATTLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—(AP)—Joe Genewich shaded Adolfo Luque in a hectic fourteen inning pitchers' battle and the Giants kept pace with the league leading Cardinals by defeating the Cincinnati Reds 2 to 1. The Giants are still a game behind the St. Louis team as the leaders defeated Brooklyn 7 to 1.

Fred Lindstrom started off the fourteenth with a single to right. Terry followed with a hit off Luque's glove and Critz picked it up threw wildly past Pipp in an attempt to catch the Giant first baseman, while Lindstrom scampered to third. Travis Jackson then ended the game with a line single over short, sending Lindstrom across the plate with the winning run.

The Giants were first to score, making a run in the second on Terry's infield hit, too hot for Critz to handle Jackson's single and Hogans double. The Red after being blanked by Genewich for six innings tied the score in the seventh when Joe Stripp hit a home run into the upper left field stand.

It looked as if the Reds would score in the ninth when Pipp led off with a triple but on Allen's fly to Welsh the Red first baseman was doubled at the plate by Welsh's perfect throw.

Genewich held the Reds to one scratch hit in the first six innings Allen beating out an infield hit. Jackson in the fourth, Adolfo Luque was superb in the pinches after the second inning until he met disaster in the fatal fourteenth.

The Reds completed their 18th double play in the fifth inning. They by adding

SUBSTANTIAL PROGRESS NOTED IN MOST LINES OF BUSINESS LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—(AP)—Most lines of business made substantial progress during the past week, although the southeast suffered a severe setback from the tropical storm.

High money rates continued, but Governor Roy Young of the Federal Reserve board said the system expected that member banks would take care of the autumn requirements at reasonable rates. A considerable increase in the number of business failures was reported, however, and building permits fell off in August, indicating that some new projects are being held up pending better financing conditions.

The high rate of production continued in the iron and steel industry. The composite price for pig iron advanced for the third time in four weeks. The fixing of steel prices for the last quarter however, met with little progress. The rate of steel production during September promised to equal if not surpass that of August, with the automotive industry again placing heavy orders after a temporary lull, the railroads again in the market for steel rails, and the high rate of construction now in progress making heavy demands for structural steel.

The automobile industry which had a record production in August, continued its brisk activity and employment figures at Detroit went to a new high record for the seventh consecutive week. Alfred P. Sloan, Jr. president of General Motors corporation said that at no time had he regarded the future of the concern with greater confidence. The heavy sales of all large automobile manufacturers in recent months, he explained, reflected a state of prosperity for industry in general, especially since practically all sections of the country are contributing to the general result.

The non-ferrous metal industry showed distinct improvement, copper, under heavy demand, both domestic and foreign selling as high as 15 1-4 for export the highest since 1923. Lead and zinc were also strong. The lumber industry also improved, new orders for the latest week reaching a new high record for the year.

The crop outlook remained favorable. While there was some recession in the prices of meat animals from their recent peaks, the prices remained high enough largely to offset the lower cereal prices. The bumper corn crop made steady advance toward maturity, with some damage reported from Nebraska and wind damage from some sections. While the cotton crops suffered severe damage in the southeast the crop as a whole was not seriously injured. In Florida, about 15 per cent. of the grape fruit and six per cent. of the orange crop was ruined by the storm.

While profit margins remained extremely low in most of the textile industry, a more cheerful outlook prevailed as fall buying increased with the cooler weather and the cotton textile institute predicted a better demand for cotton fabrics next year. Boston wool merchants said business was better during the week than for some time, and raw silk was firmer, under fair demand.

The jewelry industry remained quiet and only slight expansion was reported in the rather sluggish furniture industry.

Commodity prices displayed a slight firming tendency. Car loadings as reported for the week ending September 8, improved over the like week of last year.

FINAL NEW LONDON ELECTION TODAY-- COUNCILMEN, SCHOOL BD., SELECTMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 23—Tomorrow will mark the final election in this city for four councilors, three members of the board of school visitors and a member of the board of selectmen. Polls will open at 6 o'clock in the morning (standard time) and will close at 6 p. m. While a heavy vote was cast at the last election, it is not anticipated that all voters will come out tomorrow inasmuch as many are disgruntled over the fact that no final results could be obtained by the last balloting. Candidates and their backers, however have been busy all week, urging citizens to come to the polls and a systematic campaign will be carried on tomorrow to see that as many as possible vote. The results of tomorrows election will be final.

Anne Belcher, Nathan Belcher and Alfred D. Forbes have qualified as executors of the estate of Attorney William Belcher. A time limit of six months has been set by Judge Arthur B. Calkins for the presentation of all bills or claims against the estate.

WEDDING

Jones-McCulloch

Miss Ruth Hammond McCulloch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McCulloch of 155 Vauxhall street, became the bride Saturday afternoon of Samuel C. Jones of Bridgeport, West Va. The ceremony was performed at the Second Congregational church by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Edith Bishop of Lemoyne, Pa. was maid of honor and Hazel Thompson of Cumberland, Md., was bridesmaid. Gregory of Cleveland, O., was best man. Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of Drexel institute, Philadelphia, class of '26. The bride received many beautiful gifts. Tuesday night the bridal party was entertained by the bride's parents.

The W. M. I. Girls Reserves had a straw ride to Quaker Hill the other night and were entertained by Miss Dorothy Phillips. Games were played during the evening after which refreshments were served.

At the September meeting of the Neptune club, auxiliary to the Jibboom club plans were made for fall activities. The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Fred Howard. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Emily Locke and Mrs. Jessie Maxson.

Miss Dorothy White whose marriage with William Willard of Willimantic will take place some time this month, was given a miscellaneous shower Friday night by her cousin Miss Betty Sullivan of 76 Harrison street.

Mrs. John MacArthur of Montauk avenue entertained a group of friends Friday evening. A collation was served.

NATHAN BELCHER NOMINEE FOR JUDGE OF PROBATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 23—At a meeting of the delegates of Waterford and New London Saturday at 12.30 o'clock, Attorney Nathan Belcher was unanimously named democratic candidate for the office of probate judge. Mr. Belcher's name was proposed by Judge Calkins, who refused to run for the office after having served for seventeen consecutive years. The caucus was a very short one and was followed by a lunch.

City Manager Holt has returned after having attended the convention of city managers held in Ashville, N. C. Mr. Holt stated that the convention was a very busy one and many discussions of a constructive nature took place.

The annual aquatic event of students at Williams Memorial institute was held this week end at Ocean beach. Conditions were ideal for the affair, the water being of moderate temperature. The winners of the different events were: Swimming side stroke, Parmelee Chalone and Avery; single arm stroke, McQuillan and Cone; breast stroke, Sheppard; Australian crawl, Parmelee and Fessler; optional stroke, Parmelee, Brennan and E. Miller; diving, Newberry, Sheppard and Miller; standing, Sheppard, Newberry and Borges; swan, Avery, Front; jack knife, Needham, Newberry and E. Avery; optional dive G. Borges, Ryan and Needham. Loving cups were presented Miss Parmelee for winning the most points in swimming and Miss Newberry for excellence in diving. They were presented by Buster Elionsky. The judges were Misses Glory Smith, Bernice Farnham and Mary Louise Connor.

The police corraled six drunks Saturday and today, all will be in the police court Monday. One of the drunks will also be charged with vagrancy.

Robert Rollinson, chief petty officer, United States coast guard and a member of the crew of U. S. S. Shaw, was arrested at the corner of Green and Golden streets by Patrolman William Reardon Saturday charged with a breach of the peace and intoxication. He was turned over to the custody of a shore patrol and was taken back to the state pier for discipline.

After occupying one of the choice corner suites in the Hotel Mohican for nearly four years, Mrs. Mary T. Johnson has returned to Chicago and is now established in her new home in one of the elegant apartment hotels near the lake. Mrs. Johnson and her nurse left New London about a fortnight ago, taking the Twentieth Century express at New York for Chicago. Since coming to New London from the Berkshires, following a serious operation for appendicitis at Pittsfield, her health had steadily improved, so that her long trip west was taken with little or no fatigue. While in this city Mrs. Johnson had made many friends, not alone in the hotel but among those she had met outside and there were many expressions of regret when it became known that she had decided to return to her western home. In her frequent motor rides in her big Packard limousine about the city and vicinity many had come to know her well and pleasantly.

THE CITY'S 5,000 ITALIANS PREPARE FOR COLUMBUS DAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 23—Consecration ceremonies were carried out this afternoon at Tyler Square in anticipation of the elaborate program by the Italian-American society of New London October 12, when the statue of Christopher Columbus will be officially unveiled. Father Gordon Bodenwein was in charge of the religious part of the ceremony and Mayor James A. May delivered a congratulatory address to the assemblage on the progressiveness shown by the committee and buckers in charge of the affair. Following the ceremony a parade took place on Bank and State streets after which a mass meeting was held in Lawrence hall. Joseph Perrone was chairman at both affairs. The Italian population of New London is over five thousand and every citizen is boosting the grand celebration October 12. The monument of Columbus will be unveiled by the girl who wins the most votes for being the most popular Italian miss in the city.

MAYOR MAY MISSED SOMETHING FROM PUBLISHED LETTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 23—Mayor James A. May does not relish an open letter, published Saturday night, regarding the present form of government in this city. He comments as follows:

"The published letter written by my co-councilor Whiton, (I say letter, in reality a personal attack) contained so many comments that might be construed as against a government for the people, by the people, that some who read the communication are disposed to pass it by, as being characteristic. I was very much disappointed that it did not contain some reference to the Pequot Land Scoop so-called, in which instance the city of New London is interested. I refer to the plot acquired by Mr. Whiton, later sold by him, title now in the court awaiting action, that has been deferred from time to time. I should hate to think that the motive of postponement, was for the purpose of electing a council that might be disposed to surrender the city's interest in this important matter.

We don't forget the last time that Mr. Whiton published a communication in the press, when he made accusation that the Boy Scouts had perpetrated destructive acts in connection with a Waterford schoolhouse, later to offer his apology to the Scouts for the false accusation. Aside from his attack against me, he made an accusation in his last letter, serious in nature, regarding the process of our criminal prosecution department. It will not be surprising if Mr. Whiton decides that an apology is necessary in this instance. The insinuation, I am informed, is altogether contrary to facts."

E. L. Geiger, submarine base, was arrested on Broad street this afternoon by State Police Officer William Visocay charged with driving a motorcycle without having a license.

Carl T. Hedstrom, 6 Tremont street, Hartford, was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Henry Hick when the officer detected Hedstrom driving on North Bank street, a Hudson sedan Six and owned by Robert Gotter, of 73nd street, New York. The driver was held in bail of $10.

SOLICITED TOO EARLY FOR NEW BEDFORD STRIKERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 23—The police Saturday caused a group of men, women, young men and girls to discontinue their acts of soliciting contributions for the benefit of the striking textile workers in New Bedford, Mass. Local residents interested in raising funds for the strikers caused a petition to be presented to the city council recently in which request was made for permission to solicit funds on the principal streets. Permission was granted for the work, but the 29th inst. was fixed as the date that the soliciting could be carried on. Instead of waiting until next Saturday, the sympathizers with the strikers went about the streets and to merchants yesterday. The solicitors had been at work but a short time when numerous complaints from merchants were received at police headquarters because of the solicitors seeking money from pedestrians in the places of business of the complainants. Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney discussed the matter with City Manager William A. Holt and the latter instructed Capt. Pinney to put an end to the soliciting. When this action was taken, Ralph Harris, Bank street barber, went to police headquarters for he was one of those most interested in aiding the strikers. He remonstrated with Capt. Pinney for the stopping of soliciting with the result that Harris was ordered out of police headquarters.

MILKMAN'S HOLD-UP STORY WAS ONLY A FAIRY TALE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 23—The detective bureau has abandoned investigation of the case of Theodore Goodrich, East Lyme milkman, who reported to the police two weeks ago that he had been held up at the point of a revolver by two Negroes and that he had only frustrated the attempted holdup by firing several shots at one of the men, who, Goodrich said, wore a handkerchief as a mask, and who had been wounded. Goodrich related conflicting stories when interrogated relative to the alleged holdup and his story was doubted from the start. The investigation has been dropped with the continued belief that Goodrich's story was a manufactured one, for a purpose known only to himself.

Tomorrow night the meeting of the Sunday school board of the Methodist church will be held in the church parlors. After business a supper will be served by the junior department. Today at noon promotion exercises for the beginners and primary departments of the Sunday school of the Methodist church were held. To every student promoted from primary to junior department of the school, a bible was presented. Pins for perfect attendance were also presented juniors. An entertaining program was carried out as follows: Polite Little Boy, Charles Strutt; vocal solo, William Thomas; prayer, Robert Smith; What I May Be, Ruth Payne; closing speech, Kathryn Rasmussen; song, Sunbeam Pots, Beginners department. Primary department under the direction of Mrs. Harry Holmes; department songs, Open the Gates; Graduation recitation, Dorothy Pierce; vocal solo, Frances Lewis; exercise, graduating class.

When members of Loyal Friendship lodge No. 5 Independent Order of Odd Fellows held a pinochle and whist party in Moose hall, prizes at whist were won by Mrs. Janet Black, Mrs. Harry Wilbur, Mrs. Josephine McQuillan, Mrs. Mame Bain, Mrs. Christine Greig. Thomas Isaacs, Donald McArthur, and Thomas Morash. Pinochle prize winners were Mrs. William Mantice, Mrs. Annie Sheppard, Mrs. Rebecca Crandall, Mrs. John Holland, Mrs. Darrow and Thomas Thompson. After the play refreshments were served by a committee of which Mrs. William O'Brien was chairman.

Mrs. Rose Damon of Pacific street entertained the Harbor Workers last week at the first meeting of the season. Plans were discussed for fall and winter activities.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Edward Preston

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Preston, wife of Edward Preston, was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her residence, 48 Howard street, the services being conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe. The bearers were Mrs. Preston's four sons-in-law, Nelson Rousseau, Michael Donovan Henry Hyde, and Paul Winslow and two grandsons, Henry Hyde, Jr., and Morris Glaessner. Burial was in Jordon cemetery.

Bruno Benvenuti

Bruno Benvenuti, aged 40 days, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Benvenuti 93 Smith street, died Saturday at Lawrence-Memorial hospital.

Matthew Mulcahey

The funeral of Matthew Mulcahey, of 116 Jefferson avenue, was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners, including a delegation of members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. The mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Michael Regan. As a waiting hymn, Edward P. Murray sang, "Some Sweet Day." The bearers were John Cavanaugh and Arthur Peeley and John Mansfield, John P. Mansfield, William and Richard Mansfield. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Calvin Burrows

The funeral of Mary, widow of Calvin Burrows, was held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at her residence at Poquonoc Bridge. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Hyland, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Burrows cemetery, Fort Hill, Poquonoc Bridge.

W. Alpha Lewis has sold a building lot on Williams street to Jane E., George H. and Helen B. Stoll.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel Saturday ordered the suspension of the driver's license of David N. Ennis, submarine base.

The only cases presented in the police court Saturday were of men charged with intoxication. One of them, a mason, has been arrested several times within a few months, twice on charges of non-support. Saturday he was fined $5 and costs and could not pay, so was committed to jail. Another was fined $5 and costs and paid. The other two were given suspensions of judgment.

Austin Peabody of Waterford, was arrested Saturday by Patrolman Frank Philopena charged with violation of the city's parking ordinances. Peabody drove his auto to Huntington street and parked it in front of a driveway, so that users of the driveway could not get in or out. He furnished a bond of $2 for appearance in the police court Monday.

Broadway Theatre

Beginning today and continuing until Wednesday with a popular priced matinee on Thursday, Dunigan and Stevens present your favorites The Garrick Players in George L. Graves' clean comedy that tells the truth—America's greatest timely subject "Is Companionate Marriage Legal?"—now in its seventh month at the Cort theatre, Chicago. This homey play is not a tragedy, or a soul stirring drama but a clean, story of life in a small mid-western city, dealing with a subject that is being widely discussed by welfare workers, lawyers, judges and people of all stations in life. The play affords every member of your own stock company a splendid opportunity to display, for the first time since coming to Norwich, real versatility. Charles Mylott as Judge Lindale gives an unusually finished characterization of this lovable misunderstood jurist. Irving Morrow as the loveable but strict parent in one family, gives his best characterization. Peter Ferguson will be ideally cast as the lover. Helene Wesley will have a charming role to portray as Gertrude. Pearl Young, as Mrs. Dottard will be splendid. Sally Wall will do her best work as June. Bob Stevens as the fiery brother is well cast. Walter De Luna as the father of the other family will play that sympathetic role splendidly. The comedy element of the play is capably handled by Mary D. Bryant as Deacon Snowbridge. Helen Vincent and Sisters and Harold Preston as Deacon George Dunigan will be pleasing as Louise Lindale and Bill Powers, "Is Companionate Marriage Legal?" will afford lovers of real theatre goers in Norwich a genuine dramatic treat. It is plain, to the point—and clean! It is the sort of play grandma or daughter can enjoy—the kind that the Garrick Players stand for.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Most pictures have to do with love of course. But it has remained to John Gilbert, more or less noted as a lover, to inject a new idea into this thing that screen drama is made of. This idea—and it is an intensely dramatic and thunderously powerful one—is to be seen in "The Cossacks," his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle now playing at the Palace theatre. "The Cossacks" is huge in concept, cast and setting, and, like "The Big Parade," its gigantic effectiveness serves only to accentuate the love theme of the boy and girl that runs through it. Interestingly, too, Renee Adoree is the girl.

Through it runs the sweetest love story in the world: the romance of a boy and a girl tossed hither and thither by the resistless tide of affairs. Gilbert, as the swashbuckling Cossack soldier on the Russian steppes, is dramatic, dashing—and appealing. Miss Adoree is charming as a peasant girl. Ernest Torrence, as the stern old Cossack chieftain, is a figure of compelling power, and Mary Aiden, as the hero's mother, Dale Fuller, Josephine Borio, Nell Neely, Yorke Sherwood, Joseph Mari and Paul Hurst make up a truly notable cast.

Cossacks, brought from Europe, stage sensational rides in the picturesque garb of their race; gigantic settings, including a whole Russian town, hundreds of people in the colorful garb of Russia, form a background of kaleidoscopic beauty. Sensational rides and battles, grim torture, and the struggles of strong men in battle blend into a massive accompaniment to an idyllic romance. George Hill, who directed the picture, has made of it one of the true masterpieces of the screen season, mighty, gripping and intensely human.

N. L. County Fair

A stunt which will be long remembered will be the feature of the Diving Horse on the list of free attractions at the fair next week. "John the Baptist," a beautiful 1,500-pound white horse, on whom sits astride—bareback—winsome Miss Sonora Carver, makes a clean dive from a platform 40 feet high into a tank of water. This thrilling performance has been given by "John the Baptist" for nearly 13 years. During all this time the elevation from which the jump is made has been increased until it now reaches 40 feet. Miss Carver, attired in bathing suit, climbs the steep incline to the platform. Then the horse trots to the edge, looks around and takes the plunge. For a thriller, this act ranks among the highest.

A super-strongman whose hands can not be unclasped by two horses pulling him apart who allows enormous rocks to be piled on his chest and broken up with a sledge hammer, as well as other phenomenal stunts, provides another thrilling period of amusement.

With the several other acts of exceptionally fine type, the free entertainment in front of the grand stand will hold the crowd well interested and amused.

Commander Byrd's Washday

Fifty-five picked men with Comdr. Richard E. Byrd of the United States navy have left for the Antarctic. They face six months to two years in this desolate country with its merciless elements, and during that time every domestic task, from sewing on buttons to washing clothes, must be done by the men themselves.

Out of 3,000 applicants, 55 volunteers were selected for the trip after passing rigid tests and physical examinations. Equipment of all kinds was selected with the same care, and the Maytag washer, with its sturdy construction, cast-aluminum tub and many other outstanding features was chosen as the washday servant.

Not only the success of the adventure, but the health and life of the men depend on proper equipment and careful methods of living. Cleanliness keeps away disease, and so they are prepared to wash their clothes in Maytags.

On the icy slopes of the Antarctic continent, when the men dress in heavy skins and furs, the Maytag will of course be impractical, but on the supply ship and during the long journey through the tropics and on farther south where the red in the thermometer drops nearly out of sight, there will be many days when the Maytag will find plenty to do keeping clothes fresh and clean for 55 men.

Count the shirts, socks, breeches, blankets, handkerchiefs and what not for 55 men. There is no place at which to purchase new supplies when clothes wear out. The nearest store is many, many miles away, so enough clothes are taken to last two years.

From these clothes the Maytag will have to wash away the dirt. It won't be dust—not in the Antarctic, but it will be grease from engines, grease from guns or instruments, grease from seals which are captured—real stubborn dirt, but with a good supply of salt water soap, the Maytag will take it out.

GREENEVILLE

Timothy A. Carey.

On returning to his home, Timothy A. Carey of 108 Golden street, from a trip to Canada and reaching New York state he suddenly died Friday evening at 8.30 o'clock. Mr. Carey was in poor health for the past two years. He is the son of the late Timothy A. and Catherine M. Carey and was born in this city on Nov. 24, 1898, where he spent most of his life. Mr. Carey was united in marriage to Mildred Briggs on May 24, 1922, by Rev. John J. Walsh, cousin of the deceased, at St. Joseph's church in New London. Besides his wife he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Timothy Carey and two children, Mary and Joseph Carey, one sister, Mrs. Patrick Devivo of New Jersey, and one brother, James Carey of this city. He received his education at St. Mary's parochial school and also was a devoted member of St. Mary's Memorial church, also belonging to the parish society of the Holy Name. Fraternally Mr. Carey was a member of the Knights of Columbus, White Cross council, No. 13, and St. Mary's T. A. B. society. He was a salesman by trade having been employed with the Providence Pipe and Sprinkler house of Providence for the past five years. News of his death will be learned with grief and sorrow by his many friends in this civinity who extend their sympathy to his family in their bereavement.

Edward Gleason has returned to his home on Golden street after spending two weeks at Boston, Mass. While there he attended the Mason and Bricklayers' convention which was held in that city.

At St. Mary's Memorial church on Sunday at the three masses the parishioners were told that the services at the church on next Sunday morning would be on standard time.

Miss Elizabeth Donovan has returned to her home at Hartford after spending her two weeks' vacation at the home of Miss Marie Gadle on Hickory street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barwell of Hartford spent the week end as guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Barwell of Central avenue.

Miss Jane Sunlicki has returned to resume her studies at the Willimantic State Training school after spending her week end recess at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Sunlicki of Golden street.

Mrs. Mary Grady and mother, Mrs. A. Lacavera of Central avenue is spending a few days with relatives at Albany, New York.

Gasoline Tank on Fire

There was but one call for the fire department over the week end, an oral call for a blazing gasoline tank at Bailey's garage on Bath street. About 9 o'clock Saturday night Squad A and the deputy chief's car responded to the oral call, but their services were not needed as the blaze had been extinguished when they arrived. There was no damage.

For Fishing in Reservoir

Oscar St. Germaine of Taftville was found fishing in the Taftville reservoir Saturday by Game Warden Watson and was placed under arrest to appear in the city court.

On and after October 1, 1928, The Uncas-Merchants National Bank will be located at 29 Shetucket Street, directly opposite The Gas and Electric Office.

RAYMOND HILL FARMER'S BARN AND HOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE

A two story farm house and a barn on the farm owned by Alex Nirschko on the Raymond hill road, in the town of Montville, were totally destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon, entailing a loss of several thousand dollars. It was about 2 o'clock that the fire was discovered by one of Mr. Nirschko's children, a small boy. Mr. Nirschko had been carting hay and his wife was feeding the turkeys and poultry on the farm.

The boy saw smoke coming from the house and told his mother that the house was on fire. He then hurried to where his father was working and notified him. When Mr. Nirschko reached the house, he found it almost impossible to enter owing to the dense smoke. However, some of the furniture was saved, neighbors assisting in getting the furniture out doors. A telephone call was sent to the Norwich fire department asking for help but as the house was in flames and as there was no water supply to fight the fire it was useless for the department to respond.

A hand pump was brought into use but the flames spread through the building so rapidly that the house and shed were doomed from the start. The family lost most of their clothing. In a short time the buildings were a pile of ashes. All that remains of the farm house is the huge old time stone and brick chimney. The ruins burned throughout the afternoon and evening. The loss is covered by insurance.

Mr. Nirschko stated Sunday that he had no idea what started the fire. There was a fire in a stove and it is thought that the chimney may have been responsible for the blaze. The family are living in the garage temporarily.

EAGLES TO HAVE FAMOUS SPEAKER AT MEETING

Norwich aerie, No. 367, F. O. E, had one candidate to initiate at its last regular meeting, which was held at the Eagles' home with Worthy Vice-President Joseph Gadle, Jr., presiding, and the aerie voted to hold an open meeting on Monday, Oct. 1, to which every member is expected to bring a friend. At this meeting, Edgar W. Bigelow, past state president of the state of Washington aerie, is to be present. He has a reputation as one of the best speakers in the ranks of the Eagles.

The quarterly report was read and it showed that Norwich aerie made a gain in membership during the last quarter.

An invitation was received from Bell City aerie of Bristol to attend the opening of their new home, Saturday, Sept. 29. There was also an invitation from Waterbury aerie for Sept. 26 when Grand Worthy President Edward J. Bryan will be present.

The entertainment committee announced the opening of the whist and pinochle tournament for an eight weeks series.

TRINITY METHODIST QUARTET GIVES SPECIAL ANTHEMS

Sunday evening at Trinity Methodist church the order of service included: Prelude—Symphony in C (Andante con moto), Schubert; Hymn—No. 237; Pastoral Prayer; Anthem—"My Soul Longeth," Marston; Responsive Reading, 39th Sunday evening; Bible Reading—I Kings 7:13-22; Anthem—"Art Thou Weary?" Marston; Hymn—No. 661; Sermon—"The Religious Teachings of the Great Cathedrals," Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor; Hymn—No. 55; Benediction; Postlude—Fantasia, Adams.

The quartet which gave the two anthems was composed of Mrs. Mabel C. Buckingham, Mrs. Frank Lathrop, Robert Gray and Joseph Hynd. Mrs. Olive R. Roberts was organist. Mrs. Buckingham directed the music.

SUES ADMINISTRATOR OF HIS MOTHER'S ESTATE

Harry H. Linger of Stonington, son of William and the late Mary Linger, has brought suit in the superior court against his father as administrator of his mother's estate. Deputy Sheriff William H. Casey, who went on the administrator's bond for $500, is named as a party defendant, and the plaintiff asks damages of $5,000, claiming that his father did not include certain bonds and a bank account in the inventory of the estate and did not pay over to him $1,076.09 to which he claims he was entitled.

The plaintiff alleges that there was a $500 Liberty bond and a bank account of $1,161.51 belonging to Mary Linger at the time of her death, which the administrator received but did not include in the inventory. The suit is returnable in October.

SUNDAY TRAFFIC COP NOW AT ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH

Such is the confusion of crowds and cars following the 9 o'clock mass at St. Patrick's church, Norwich, every Sunday that Chief of Police George Linton detailed Officer William J. Ryan to regulate traffic Sunday morning. Cars are parked up and down Broadway, on Union street, Otis street, Perkins avenue and in the parish school grounds. When they are all started at once there is a dangerous jam and Officer Ryan has to step lively and signal quickly to straighten out the tangle. This is the special mass for the parish children; but as the majority of them remain for the Sunday school session the cars have mostly dispersed before the pupils are out of the chapel. The officer is stationed at the head of Otis street, and controlled the lines most effectively Sunday.

WEDDING CAKE PRESENTED AT RECEPTION AND DANCE

Saturday evening, the Oswegatchie house was open to guests and there was dancing in the casino, when Mr. and Mrs. John T. Broadhurst of 135 West Thames street, Norwich, gave an informal reception and dance for their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. Henry Griswold, of Pequot avenue, New London. The music was by D'Atri's orchestra, Norwich. About seventy guests were present from Norwich, New London, Hartford, Putnam, Plainfield, Providence and Portland, Me. A large and beautifully decorated wedding cake was presented the bride by Mrs. William F. Bogue; and other members of the auxiliary to the American Legion assisted in serving during the evening. Cake, ice cream and candy were served by Mrs. Bogue, Mrs. John B. Oat, Mrs. William R. Denison, Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. E. B. House.

Arrested on Fight Charge

On a complaint by Frank Mallory that he had been beaten on Saturday and Sunday by Russell Morgan, 19, and James Bush, 41, these two were arrested Sunday afternoon in the West Side section of the city by Sergt. Myron O Morgan and Officer Lamphere. They were released on bail later in the afternoon. A woman witness who said she saw both fights claimed that Mallory used a knife on Morgan. All concerned in the fracas are Negroes.

Collision Near Post Office

Three machines were slightly damaged in an accident near the post office, Main street, Saturday morning. It is said that a machine driven by Lester Bendett of No. 22 Marion street collided with a coupe driven by Robert McClure of Ledyard and caused the coupe to strike a machine operated by Wilfred St. Germaine of Uncasville.

Met at Mohegan Park

The Golden Eagles of Christ Episcopal church held a meeting at Mohegan park Friday afternoon.

DUWELL CLUB OUTING WAS BANNER ENTERTAINMENT

A successful outing was held at Oxoboxo pond Sunday by the members of the Duwell A. A. and the day was spent full of action, eats and athletic events.

Ed Duro in all his glory and Johnny Williamson, his able assistant, served a delicious chicken dinner with all the fixings, to the boys who had worked up a real appetite by two thirty.

The club's annual stag affair is one of the banner events of the club's itinerary and follows closely on the heels of the open house picnic for the members and their friends. Nothing in the line of entertainment is overlooked by the master of ceremonies, Ellsworth Cramer, and Sunday's time was no exception. Although Cramer had to leave on account of his ecclesiastical duties, which left a hole in the day's program the boys managed to eke out a very pleasant time.

In the athletic events Alex Charnetski and his little brother Linus cleaned up in the horseshoe pitching contest. Alex also won the mile marathon. Raymond Christianson won over Bill Pedace in the three round boxing exhibition. Edward Shanley and Ed Duro took the honors in the 100 yard relay swim and both claimed that the cool waters gave them a new lease on life.

The afternoon was spent in less strenuous games some of the boys sitting down to their beloved pinochle game and others just sitting down. Pete Barber elected to stand however and every one was satisfied. All in all it was a most enjoyable time and every one was unanimous in saying that once a year is too long to wait for the next outing.

HERBERT LUCAS KNOWS FLORIDA STRICKEN REGION

Herbert W. Lucas of this city, who has spent several winters recently in Florida, is very familiar with the towns where the hurricane took such a toll of lives recently, Belle Glade, South Bay and Pahookee. He spent the night at Belle Glade on his way up to Cluviston and put up at the hotel, where, during the hurricane, several were killed and the hotel was blown away. Mr. Lucas says these three towns are noted for their production of truck garden stuff and very beautiful gardens are to be seen in all parts of this section. He has ridden many times over the Connors highway, which is reported to be lined with dead bodies on both sides for miles, as the water is away over the roadway. All of these towns were coming to be known as a truck garden center as many families locating there were starting small farms and raising beans tomatoes, peppers and potatoes, as well as some sugar cane.

FACE CUT BY GLASS IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

A Ford coupe owned by the O. C. Wolfe Co., and driven by Paul A. LaBlanche of Taftville, was badly damaged and Mr. LaBlanche was slightly injured Saturday morning when the coupe struck a pole at North Main and Tweedie streets. The pole was broken off. Mr. LaBlanche received cuts on his chin and nose from flying glass.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Laramie of Plainfield have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Smith and Miss Lillian Laramie of North B street.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Sharples of North Second avenue are on a week's automobile tour of Canada.

Charles Proulx of Hunters avenue has been a visitor this past week at the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Mass.

MAN AND WIFE HURT IN AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

Fred Baxter, 25, of Uncasville, and his wife Gladys were injured Saturday night about 8:15 in an automobile accident on the Uncasville-New London road when an automobile owned by Antonia Basilice, 153 Shaw street, New London, and driven by John Novellino of the same address, ran into the Baxter machine head-on.

Mrs. Baxter was thrown partly out of the car, suffering a badly cut upper lip and bad cuts on the neck, which were sewed up by Dr. John J. Donohue. She also sustained finger and leg bruises. Mr. Baxter had cuts on his head and nose sewed up and also had cuts on his leg. Both persons were taken into the home of Arthur Perry.

Baxter was driving towards New London and when about opposite the Avery house at Hilltop met a string of four machines going in the opposite direction. Novellino, who was driving the last car in the string, tried to pass the other three and ran into Baxter's machine. Novellino was arrested by Officer George Sisson and is to appear before Justice Miller on Tuesday.

SEEKS FORECLOSURE ON PROPERTY IN NORWICH

In a suit brought by the Bankers Trust Co. against Ella F. Lane, et al, foreclosure of a mortgage for $3,200, dated Jan. 3, 1928, is sought. The property is at 594 East Main street. Harriet A. Harris is named as party defendant as she claims a mortgage of $2,100 on the property.

The suit is returnable in the superior court in October.

CAFETERIA SUPPER HELD BY DROP IN CLASS

A cafeteria supper under the auspices of the Drop In class of the First Congregational Sunday school, Friday, was most successful, a substantial sum being realized. Mrs. David M. Dean was in general charge. Preceding the supper, from 3 o'clock on, a sale of aprons and home-made candy was held, with Mrs. Henry F. Frazier in charge of the table. Other tables, large and small, were arranged in the chapel where patrons were seated during the supper hours. The fine variety of food consisted of baked beans, succotash, potato and cabbage salads, rolls, coffee, cake and ice cream. The tables were decorated with the season's blossoms. Those who assisted Mrs. Dean were: Mrs. Charles Learned, president of the class, and Mrs. Frank Wheeler, Mrs. Philip B. Whaley, Mrs. Clyde M. Beebe, Mrs. Dwight W. Avery, Mrs. Michael Buckley, Mrs. Frank Skinner and Mrs. C. H. Nylen. Henry T. Frazier was cashier.

"The Story of Jonah" was the theme of the Rev. George Warren Potter at the Sunday morning service at Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church. "The story of Jonah is one of the most discussed books in the Old Testament. Some believe in its historical accuracy, some believe it is a parable, teaching a splendid lesson; in either case if we get the moral of the story we are helped," he said. The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Lewis Aldrich, sang an anthem. Mrs. Helen Haviland Potter told a children's story entitled "Golden Gloves," which was enjoyed by the grown-ups as well. Mrs. LeRoy Miner led an interesting session of the C. E. society, with many taking part. In the evening, Rev. Mr. Potter preached on the theme, "Wanted: a Liar." He took for a text I Kings, 22:8. "But I hate him, for he doth not prophesy good concerning me, but evil."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her So Much

Kingston, Mo.—"I have not taken anything but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for 18 months and I cannot praise it enough. I weighed about 100 pounds and was not able to do any kind of work. My housework was done by my mother and my out-of-doors work was not done. I have taken four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and now I am well and strong and feel fine. I got my sister-in-law to take it after her last baby came and she is stronger now. I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. HATTIE V. EASTIN, R. 1, Kingston, Missouri.

Football Time Coming

When autumn leaves come tumbling down
And the air gets sort of chilly,
Baseball games are called off
And football "knocks 'em silly."

Dressed in their leather trappings
Just like warriors of old,
They tumble and scramble on the field—
Scuffle and ramble and hold.

It's the greatest sport in the world—
A well-played football game;
And what cares a guy if he sprains a thigh,
Or gets a little lame?

And maybe his sweetheart's big, brown eyes
Are following his every play.
If that's the incentive you may be sure
He'll be the hero of the day.

—Avery Podwel, in the Florida Times-Union.

Elberta

Last summer when we parted, sweet
Elberta!
You look'd quite fair enough to eat
Elberta!
Yet this for absence may atone,
Since last we met you've fairer grown;
Yes, though you have a heart of stone,
Elberta, you're a peach!

Your cheeks reflect the sunset glow,
Elberta!
Your rounded outlines please me so,
Elberta!
Your breath is sweet as summer dew;
Your life blood richly flowing through
Imparts a matchless charm to you.
Elberta, you're a peach!

You've caused me many an aching pain,
Elberta!
I swear you never would again,
Elberta!
Your ripening beauty tempts like wine;
Yet though you charms were all divine
Touch not your downy cheek to mine;
Elberta, you're a peach!

I would not mar your bloom so fresh,
Elberta!
Nor bruise the fairness of your flesh
Elberta!
I promised my right worthy mate
That I would be most temperate,
And gaze on you with thought sedate;
Elberta, you're a peach!

I would devour you with my eyes,
Elberta!
But gazing never satisfies,
Elberta!
Soon in your flesh so rosy bright
I'll set my teeth most sharp and white,
For when you're peeled you're out of sight;
Elberta, you're a peach!

"Bygge och Bo," or "own your own home," is becoming a popular phrase in Sweden, due largely to exhibitions intended to encourage the construction of better and more beautiful homes. Many articles of American manufacture, such as sewing machines, refrigerators, floor polishers, washing machines and vacuum cleaners, are demonstrated. The government contributes surplus profits from lotteries to aid in financing the exhibitions.

The first attempt at arctic exploration by air, made in 1897, ended disastrously. The Swedish balloonist, S. A. Andree, and two companions, set out for the north pole in a large free balloon. The start was made from Danes island, in the north of Spitsbergen, on July 11, 1897. Five tons of supplies were carried. In an hour the balloon was out of sight. That night, seven and a half hours later, a message buoy, found later, was dropped. That was the last trace of the expedition, although years afterward various unconfirmed rumors of finding the balloon have come out of the arctic regions of Siberia and Alaska.

CHARGES OF CORRUPTION IN REP. PARTY VOICED BY SMITH

Democratic Presidential Nominee Refers to Oil Lease Disclosures—Holds Republican Party Responsible For the Conduct of Its Agents—Declares That Hoover, as Cabinet Member, Uttered No Word of Protest—Calls Attention to the Wrong-Doing of Charles R. Forbes, of the Veterans' Bureau, and Alien Property Custodian Miller.

HELENA, Mont., Sept. 24—(AP)—Reciting what he termed a "long tale of corruption, intrigue and treason against the government itself," on the part of republicans charged with the administration of the nation's affairs during the last seven and one-half years, Governor Smith tonight declared he had searched in vain for any word from Herbert Hoover "of protest, o condemnation or of repudiation of this black chapter in his party's history."

The democratic presidential nominee recalled the oil lease disclosures and court action growing out of them, as well as revelations of wrong doing on the part of Charles R. Forbes, director of the Veterans' bureau, and Thomas W. Miller, as alien property custodian, which landed them in prison, and asked whether there was no responsibility for this resting on the republican party.

In a campaign speech prepared for delivery here in the home city of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, who prosecuted the senate oil inquiry, the New York governor declared that testimony in the courts or before the senate investigators showed that the leasing of the naval oil reserves was discussed in the cabinet of the republican president of the United States; that an oil official had sent a communication to Secretary Hoover "protesting against the secret leasing of Teapot Dome," and added:

"The record of the last seven and a half years is as well known to the republican candidate for president as to any other man in the United States. Nobody will deny that. Mr. Hoover sat in the cabinet for seven and a half years, yet I search in vain for any word from him of protest, of condemnation or of repudiation of this black chapter in his party's history.

"On the contrary, in the face of that record, in his speech of acceptance he said: 'The record of these seven and a half years constitutes a period of rare courage and leadership and constructive action. Never has a political party been able to look back upon a similar period with more satisfaction.' Would Mr. Hoover have the American people believe that in the light of the disclosures I mentioned there was any rare courage, any leadership or any constructive action?

"Above all things, would he have the American people believe that a political party with that record in office would look upon it with satisfaction? Does Mr. Hoover want the people to believe that he looks back with satisfaction upon that record? It will not satisfy the American people to have him pass that question on to the chairman of the republican committee; nobody can answer that but himself."

Governor Smith said he was fully aware that almost all of the oil lease disclosures were before the American voters in 1924. Since then, however, he recalled that the supreme court had rendered its decision "placing its condemnation of these wicked transactions" and the people have learned from the authority of the highest court of the land "that these oil leases were the product of official corruption and fraud."

In addition, the democratic nominee said it had been developed since the last presidential election "that the chairman of the republican national committee secured from the beneficiaries of the oil leases at least $26,000 in Liberty bonds" to help liquidate a campaign deficit of some $1,500,000. "It was the handwriting of a dead man," the governor went on, "that disclosed to the people of the United States to whom these bonds were offered. They were offered to the republican secretary of the treasury in an amount of $50,000. The secretary of the treasury was unwilling to be a party to this fraud and instead contributed $50,000 to the republican national committee and rejected the bonds.

"But this much must be said, that the senate committee in search of information as to these bonds could have gotten it from the republican secretary of the treasury long before it was forced out, had he been disposed to aid the senate of the United States in laying bare this wicked conspiracy against the American people.

"It stands admitted in the record that for a period of years the republican secretary of the treasury concealed from the senate investigators his knowledge of the manner in which these bonds were being put into the treasury of the republican party."

The republican party in 1924, Mr. Smith concluded, "judging from the election returns, must have convinced the American people that guilt in the oil lease transactions was personal and that it ran against the individuals involved and not against the party.

"Unless we are willing to accept this theory," he went on, "we must take another which to my mind is unbelievable; it is that the people of this country are callous about these things."

The democratic standard bearer paid tribute to Senator Walsh and his colleague, Burton K. Wheeler, who is up for re-election, for their part in disclosing official wrong doing. Both were on the platform in the Shrine temple as he delivered his speech.

Mr. Smith also declared that Josephus Daniels, as secretary of the navy in the Wilson cabinet, "stood four square" for the preservation of the oil resources of the nation, and made this inquiry, based on the supposition that betrayal of public trust had taken place in the Wilson administration:

"Would not the republican party make glorious campaign material of it? Insist that the American people believe it to be the record of the democratic party, claim it to be legitimate campaign matter. Offer it as an abundant reason for the defeat of the democratic party and the return to power of their own party?

"Could anybody in his wildest imagination believe that the republican managers would be prepared to say that if such guilt, clearly proven, had existed under the incorruptible administration of President Wilson, it should be regarded as personal and in no way charged against the democratic party?

"Nobody believes that," he added. "Nobody thinks it."

FOREST FIRES IN VARIOUS SECTIONS OF CALIFIORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO Sept. 24.—(AP)—Nearly a dozen unseasonable forest fires were burning today in widely separated areas in California, but the state and federal forestry officials believed that by tomorrow they would be controlled.

Aided by increased humidity and heartened by weather bureau predictions of rain and lower temperatures, fire fighters in northern California had stopped three blazes in Butte county near Richardson Springs, at Bidwell Bar and at Maralia.

At Hemet, Riverside county, and on Cahuilla Mountain fires were believed under control. In the Shasta National Forest. The Stevens Pass fire, burning a week, was controlled by 150 men under direction of federal foresters. This blaze was in the McCloud district east of Mount Shasta.

In the Lassen National Forest, the Philbrook valley fire broke over the north line yesterday and today was expected to cross the Humburg road where it would run into land burned over in the old Snag Lake fire with prospects of easy control.

Three hundred and fifty men had partly controlled the Soda Creek fire, which has burned over 2,500 acres in the Sequoia National Forest this afternoon.

The Ridge route blaze in the south was burning in both the Angeles and Santa Barbara forests on both sides of the road. A high wind carried the fire over 25,000 acres of brush. Foresters predicted it would be controlled tonight.

In the San Bernardino forest the San Jacinto fire had burned to Banister Creek and consumed 18,000 acres inside the forest and about 25,000 acres outside.

Two fires in the Cleveland forest were burning steadily.

CLAIMS NIECE FABRICATED "MURDER FARM" CHARGES

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 24—(AP)—Gordon Stewart Northcott, 21, indicted in Riverside county, California, on charges of murdering four boys on his chicken ranch there, issued a written statement from his jail cell here today in which he accused his niece, Jessie Clark, of fabricating the "murder farm" charges on which the indictments are based.

Northcott also defied the authorities in his statement, criticized his father, Cyrus Northcott, who corroborated the charges, and called Sanford Clark, his nephew, who "started" the charges, "a lazy, stupid boy, half cracked from reading too many detective thrillers and seeing too many wild west movies."

"After reading the charges in the newspapers I doubt the sanity of my father and Sanford Clark, my nephew," said Northcott in his statement. "As for Jessie, I firmly believe her to be at the bottom of everything. She is a movie, publicity-mad girl from whose mind all these ideas came."

Mrs. Sarah Louisa Northcott, the boy's mother, jointly charged with the Riverside murders, still was being held in Calgary today, pending instructions from Riverside or Vancouver.

SEN. HEFLIN ATTACKS SMITH AND RASKOB

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 24—(AP)—United States Senator J. Thomas Heflin today delivered another verbal broadside at Gov. Alfred E. Smith, the democratic presidential nominee, and John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, in an open letter to E. W. Pettus of Selma, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, in which he refused the latter's invitation to a place on the state democratic campaign committee.

Senator Heflin brought the race question sharply to the fore, charging the nominee and national committee chairman with endorsing the practice of "social equality" as against "white supremacy," which he said has the support of southern democrats. He cited New York's law providing punishment for a hotel or restaurant keeper who refused to serve a Negro as proof of his charges and said Smith had voted for that law. He also mentioned the south's stand on separate schools and churches for Negroes.

APPEAL WITHDRAWN IN "ICE BOX DEATH SUIT"

DANBURY, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Defendants in the "ice box death suit" in which Judge Allyn L. Brown awarded $10,000 damages to Mrs. Clara Force and Mrs. Margaret Frome, of Danbury in superior court at Bridgeport this year, today announced withdrawal of an appeal from the verdict which is now pending before the supreme court of errors.

Defendants in the suit which had for its basis the death of Frank W. Force and Warren Force Frome, his grandson, by poisoning alleged to have been caused by an imperfectly installed refrigeration plant at Danbury, were the Pahquioque Realty and Security company, of Danbury, the Home Heating and Appliance company, of Bridgeport, and the Coldak company, of New York city.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Sept. 24—(AP)—Lady Astor sailed on the Aquitania for a two weeks' visit to her old home in Virginia. She hopes also to spend a few days in Boston, New York and Washington.

SKUTARI, Albania, Sept. 24—(AP)—In obedience to papal advice and encouraged by their bishops, the Catholic Albanian tribes have agreed to bury their battle axes and will own allegiance to King Zogu.

CAMBRIDGE, Eng., Sept. 24—(AP)—Sir Horace Darwin, son of Charles R. Darwin, who wrote the "Origin of Species," died here yesterday. Sir Horace, who was himself noted as a scientist, had been in failing health for some months.

BANGALORE, India, Sept. 24—(AP)—Reports from Chitaldroog, Mysore, say a serious riot occurred there when Moslems attacked a procession in honor of Ganesha, the Hindu god of wisdom. The reports say the Moslems burned the palanquin containing the idol, and injured forty persons, mostly Hindus.

HOOVER AT CONFERENCE OF BUSINESS PAPER EDITORS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—(AP)—Herbert Hoover laid aside his new role of republican presidential nominee tonight to follow a custom of seven years' standing during his commerce secretaryship by attending the National Conference of Business Paper Editors.

Closing his desk after a day of working upon his Elizabethton, Tenn., speech, the nominee faced an evening with the editors at their regular dinner at the National Press club. He has been a guest at their dinners since the beginning of his service as head of the commerce department and as such several times each year has given them his aid in analyzing economic problems.

Arrangements for tonight's dinner were made while he still was secretary of commerce and the discussion on the program following the dinner was confined to business prospects, matters of business organization and other such topics of a non-political nature. Virgil Guthrie of Cleveland, editor of Petroleum News and president of the conference, was toastmaster.

The nominee spent the entire morning at his home working on the Elizabethton speech. He came to his personal headquarters on Massachusetts avenue at noon to receive a delegation of visitors from Delaware, and also to renew his labors on the address.

Governor Robert P. Robinson, and former Governor J. G. Townsend, republican candidate for United States senator, headed the group from Delaware. They brought to the candidate the word that, while they anticipated a hard fight in that state, they felt it would cast its electoral vote for Hoover and Curtis in November.

Secretary Davis of the war department paid the nominee a parting visit before leaving for the west where he will make several speeches on the importance of developing waterways for transportation as a means of farm relief.

With those exceptions the candidate had few visitors during the day and spent virtually the entire time upon the speech on industrial development, he is to make in the eastern Tennessee mountain town on October 6. Already he is far along in the preparation of the address and probably will finish it in time for a brief rest before he starts his southward campaign journey.

SICILIANS INDICTED FOR KIDNAPING IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 24—(AP)—Two Sicilians were reported under indictment today on kidnaping and extortionist charges, accused before the grand jury of membership in a band of terrorists who have preyed on their countrymen here for the last six months.

Pasquale Capotosto, identified by four wealthy Italian contractors as the "secretary" of the black mail ring that wrung tribute from them under threats of death, was reported named in a true bill charging him with extortion. Angelo Petitti, held for a week as the agent of Billy Ranieri's abductors, was said to have been charged with extortion and kidnaping for ransom, punishable in Illinois by death.

The ten year old Italian youngster whose kidnaping two weeks ago led to the investigation of the Mafia blackmail syndicate, and the discovery of 200 families made victim of its plotting was one of the witnesses before the grand jury. The boy and his father, A. Frank Ranieri, and an uncle had already identified Petitti as the man to whom they were directed to pay a $60,000 ransom for Billy.

Mrs. Ranieri was in a hysterical condition when she appeared with her husband and son at the criminal court building this morning. A new demand for money threatening the bombing of their home if the extortionists were not paid $5,000 by Wednesday night, had brought new terror of the black hand and a fear that their troubles were not ended with the safe return of Billy last week.

LURED TO DEATH THROUGH A MATRIMONIAL BUREAU

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 24—(AP)—Presumably lured here through a matrimonial bureau to marry a man who never existed, police said today they believed that Mrs. Catherine Clark, divorcee of Boston and San Francisco, whose body was found on an orchard yesterday, was hacked to death on the night set for her wedding. She was supposed to have had $1,400 with her.

The woman's body was found by two prune pickers about 15 miles from here. Archie F. Moock, mill worker, at whose home the woman had been staying since her arrival a few days ago, was being held in jail today without bail while his "unsatisfactory story" was being investigated by police.

Moock said he had taken Mrs. Clark toward Coeur d'Alene, Ida., east of here, last Saturday, to meet her intended husband. What more Moock said police declined to reveal. Meanwhile, the identity of a mysterious man who was supposed to have been the prospective bridegroom, remained secret.

An autopsy is to be held.

TO BE HANGED FOR MURDER OF WAITRESS SWEETHEART

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 24—(AP)—Russell St. Clair Belisel was sentenced today to be hanged for the murder of his waitress sweetheart, Barbara Mauger, 19, whose body was found in a canyon above Hollywood several weeks ago. Date for execution of the young Philadelphian was not fixed but the court announced that it probably would be set for December 30.

Must Pay Customs Duty On $2,500,000

On Articles Brought Into the Country Last [illegible] by Mme. Ganna [illegible]

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—(AP)—Collector of the Port [illegible] ruled today that Mme. [illegible]ska, wife of Harold Mc[illegible] is a resident of America and therefore that the clothing and jewels unofficially estimated to be worth about $2,500,000 which she brought into the country last week are dutiable.

Mme. Walska listed all the articles, which were contained in 15 trunks, on her customs declaration, and as there is no question of any penalty, she merely stated that she had lived abroad for three years and so was not an American resident, a definition of residence with which customs men disagreed.

TEXAS REPUBLICANS TALK ABOUT CARRYING TEXAS

FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 24.—(AP)—The state of Texas, ever a paragon of democracy, now is experiencing the greatest political surprise of its life. For the first time in history the republican party actually is seriously talking about carrying Texas in a national election, and just the thought of that possibility is giving old line democrats a headache.

A republican victory would be a political eighth wonder of the world, say these democrats, and they refuse to believe that it can happen. But there are some even many, democrats who say it can happen and they are striving to see that it does; for the democratic party of the Lone Star state is split, and badly so.

To find the exact line of cleavage is the problem of the assessor of facts who wants to answer the question—Smith or Hoover? For all practical purposes this is a one-party state; it rarely gives office to a republican in local affairs and in national affairs has never given less than a very comfortable two to one majority to the democratic candidate, and often a greater margin. The republican party has always been an almost negligible quantity, but now, with the opposition divided, it offers temporary shelter to the democratic anti-Smith forces. Together they create what doubt there is as to the outcome of Texas. In its simplest terms the problem is: Will democrats quit the party of Alfred E. Smith and vote for Herbert Hoover in sufficient numbers to upset the normal ratio?

PURCHASED LIQUOR FROM THE SOCIETY BOOTLEGGER

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24—(AP)—Nearly a dozen prominent Philadelphians testified before a jury in United States district court today that they had purchased liquor from Joel D. Kerper, alleged society bootlegger, who is on trial charged with violating the prohibition law and with conspiracy.

When dry agents raided Kerper's place several weeks ago they found liquor and a so-called "customers' list," which included the names of persons socially prominent. Kerper was indicted by a federal grand jury on 37 counts and Alfred E. Norris, New York broker, John Brill and Tony De Mayo, were also indicted. Brill and De Mayo were employes of Kerper.

A shipment of alleged liquor to Norris, is said to have furnished a clue that ultimately resulted in Kerper's arrest. Norris will be tried later.

High prices were named during today's testimony, and the names of such liquors as Chartreuse and Benedictine (said by some of the witnesses to have been "very good,") were tossed about the trial. A chemist who had tested some of the liquor said however that the whisky was colored alcohol and the gin "distilled spirits with a gin flavor."

Gardner Cassatt, a banker, testified that he had dealt with Kerper for five or six years.

ATTACKS RENEWED BY MRS. MABEL WILLEBRANDT

WARREN, Ohio, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, assistant attorney general continued her attack upon opponents of the prohibition laws in an address prepared for delivery before the Westminister Men's club here tonight, directing her fire chiefly upon Governor Smith and Tammany Hall.

"When some leaders, industrially and politically, press upon the American people, are incapable of enforcing the prohibition law, or any law," Mrs. Willebrandt said, "then such leaders are inflicting upon the American people a wound and a hurt beyond the power of such leaders to calculate.

"Whenever we get to the point that we really believe of any national job, nobly and honestly undertaken, that 'it can't be done,' we will have reached the apex of America's achievement. That is why there has been so tremendous a recoil against Governor Smith's policy of retreat on prohibition.

"One serious reason for opposition to the democratic nominee is his tammany connections. x x x Those who oppose Governor Smith believe he x x x used the forces of Tammany and the underworld as stepping-stone with the inevitable political obligations thereby imposed."

REPUBLICANS TO HOLD TOWN CAUCUSES OCT. 10

HARTFORD, Sept. 24—(AP)—Wednesday, Oct. 10, was set as the date for republican town caucuses to nominate candidates for representatives in the generala ssembly and justices of the peace at a meeting of the state central committee at the Hartford club tonight. All of the candidates on the state ticket were present except Dr. William L. Higgins of Coventry, candidate for secretary of the state, who was forced to be in New York because of illness in his family. The candidates present and Chairman J. Henry Roraback and Miss Katherine Byrne, vice-chairman of the committee, [illegible] on campaign plans and pre-election organization work.

LONGWORTH TO SPEAK IN NEW BRITAIN SEPT. 29

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Col. John Q. Tilson, director of the eastern division of the republican national committee's speakers' bureau, tonight announced the list of republican campaign speakers for this week. It included:

Florida Death List Is More Than 2,300

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Dr. E. D. Clawson, head of the Red Cross medical relief committee here, tonight placed the death list from the tropical hurricane in Florida at more than 2,300 persons.

SUPPLIES FOR STRICKEN DISTRICTS IN FLORIDA

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 24—(AP)—While surveys of the needs of the hurricane-ravaged area went forward today, Floridians poured fresh emergency supplies and personnel into the most sorely stricken districts.

Evacuation of some refugees continued as lines of communication gradually were opened by the crews of men who have been clearing the debris cluttered roads. Others were moving back in. Radio communication was established to Belle Glade but no telephone and telegraph wires were working into the area.

A. L. Schafer, director of disaster relief for the National Red Cross, went into the Everglades with Dr. William DeKleine, medical officer of the national organization, and John Hendricks, also of national headquarters, to survey the ruin reported in the Pelican Bay district.

After personal surveys of the situation at Belle Glade, Pahokee and near Okeechobee City, and issuing a call for funds, Gov. John W. Martin was en route to Jacksonville, where he said he would make another appeal over the radio.

Schafer held his estimate of the known dead at 1,200 persons but Howard W. Selby, a chairman of the Palm Beach county Red Cross committee, announced again today that surveys of casualties completed for him by O. C. Geiger, one of his workers, showed a total of 2,200 persons. Other official estimates varied from 1,500 to 3,000, the latter figure viewed to President Coolidge by business men of Okeechobee City.

Search for bodies still went forward. Relief workers said they were disposing of the bodies as best they could.

DEM. ORGANIZATION WINS IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 24—(AP)—After an hour's battle which ended with David J. McCoy, temporary chairman, casting the deciding vote to break a tie, the democratic organization tonight carried the city convention to elect delegates to the third district congressional convention. Patrick J. Harkin, former president of the board of aldermen, was elected permanent chairman. The 47 delegates to the district meet were instructed to support Nicholas Moseley.

Members of the Bergin-Cahill faction which sought to elect John C. Ready, of the 24th ward, as permanent chairman and select delegates who would back Joseph Tone for the congressional nomination, bolted the convention when the vote went against them after apparent victory.

The tie was brought about only after the first roll call and the vote showed 49 ballots cast for Ready and 46 for Harkin. The vote of Marshall Armstrong, who cast his vote in place of his father, Martin Armstrong, for Ready, was thrown out when it was challenged by David M. Richman and Salvatore Cioffi, of the 28th ward. Cioffi was not present when the roll call was taken and he then voted for Harkin. His vote automatically voided that of the alternate from the 28th, James McManus, which had been cast for Ready, and made the count 47 to 47.

THREE MEN HURT IN CRASH ON MERIDEN ROAD

WATERBURY, Sept. 24—(AP)—Two Southington men and a Meriden man were injured when the car in which they were riding left the Meriden road, crashed through a fence and went down an eight-foot embankment to rest in a brook shortly before 11 o'clock tonight. The men were taken to St. Mary's hospital for treatment, after which they were discharged.

RESENTS USE OF STUDIO BY PETTING PARTIES

STOCKBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 24—(AP)—Stating that his studio had been used by petting parties during his absence, Augustus Lukeman, noted sculptor, today called upon state police to keep trespassers off his grounds. "I don't object to petting for I am not that crabby yet," said Mr. Lukeman, "but I do insist that they select some other location."

OBITUARY.

Dr. Anna Jackson Ferris.

MONSON, Mass., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Anna Jackson Ferris, 82, who was the first woman physician at Meriden, Conn., and practiced there for 35 years and who was five times resident physician at the Hospital for Women and Children at Roxbury, Mass., died here tonight. Dr. Ferris was a native of North Brookfield and was a graduate of the Women's Pennsylvania Medical college in 1874. She married Adam Ferris, a Civil war veteran soon after but continued to practice her profession.

Parker D. Martin

SOUTH DEERFIELD, Mass., Sept. 24—(AP)—Parker D. Martin, 72, town clerk of Deerfield since 1915, died here today. Mr. Martin was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., and after coming to Deerfield he became a blacksmith. He used his spare time in the study of law and over 30 years ago was admitted to the Franklin county bar and had since practiced in Greenfield and this town.

Leonard Sanford Tyler

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 24—(AP)—Leonard Sanford Tyler, an executive of the Acme Wire Co., died tonight after a long illness. He was employed by the company for 18 years. He first served as assistant treasurer and then became vice-president.

Early this year he was removed from his position as vice-president and general manager and soon after he fought to get control of the company with the backing of a western syndicate. He failed to get the support of the stockholders and his plan fell through.

He was born in this city April 20, 1881, the son of Morris and Delle Audubon Tyler. He was a graduate of Andover and from Yale university in 1905.

CURTIS LAUDS RECORD OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

The Senator Calls Attention to the Four Tax Reductions Made in the Last Eight Years—Claims the Republican Party "Saved the Day" in 1921 For the Farmers by Enacting the Emergency Tariff Act.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 24—(AP)—From the same platform occupied two nights ago by Governor Smith, Senator Curtis, the republican vice-presidential nominee, tonight lauded the record of the republican administration and held out new hopes in a higher tariff.

Senator Curtis recalled the four tax reductions made in the last eight years; stated "smoke screen tactics" by the opposition had "failed," and scourged "constant nagging and attempts to break down the confidence of the people in the republican administration" in his prepared address.

The address of Senator Curtis made no mention of the democratic presidential nominee whose path led into this city last week, but at Cheyenne earlier in the day, Curtis denounced Governor Smith for his declaration at Omaha to the effect that the administration had done nothing to relieve farmers.

After stating that the republicans had "saved the day" in 1921 for the farmers by enacting the emergency tariff act, the senator read to the Cheyenne audience a statement by the American Farm bureau made in 1923 and lauding the legislative record of the congress in session that year in behalf of agriculture.

Senator Curtis showed the effects of his strenuous campaigning of the last week in the west. His throat was "awfully sore," as he expressed it, and he spoke with the aid of a microphone and loud speakers. He had been on the train almost all day, spending three hours at Cheyenne in the afternoon before coming to Denver. Tomorrow night he speaks in Omaha again from a platform occupied recently by Governor Smith.

"No man can conscientiously say," he declared, "that the republican party has failed in its earnest endeavor to restore conditions throughout the country. The party has adhered to its purposes while the unsympathetic opponents have tried to divert it by constant nagging and attempts to break down the confidence of the people in the republican administration.

"But the smoke screen politics have failed. The republican party has remained consistently steadfast in its determination to rehabilitate the country and to give constructive administration to that end.

"There has been retrenchment wherever possible and economy in incurring new obligations, even against the efforts of the democrats to increase the burden on the people by proposing greater expenditures."

REP. PURNELL TO SUB FOR SENATOR CURTIS

CHICAGO, Sept. 24—(AP)—Representative Fred S. Purnell, ranking member of the house committee on agriculture, will hereafter substitute for Senator Charles Curtis, republican vice-presidential candidate, the republican national headquarters here announced tonight. The substitution became necessary following the orders of a physician who said Senator Curtis might seriously impair his voice if he continued his outdoor speeches.

RASKOB SORRY FOR CRITICISM OF HOOVER

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—(AP)—John J. Raskob, democratic national chairman, deplored today rumors that Herbert Hoover had violated the prohibition law since he became a public official, and declared he knew that Hoover's household had been absolutely dry while he was in the cabinet, and said he admired him for it.

A statement attributed to Senator William C. Bruce of Maryland, democrat, that Secretary Hoover had taken drinks with Clarence Darrow, Chicago criminal lawyer, was publicly denied in Washington yesterday by George E. Akerson, Mr. Hoover's assistant.

Mr. Raskob did not mention Senator Bruce.

"I am sorry to see criticism of Mr. Hoover on the ground that he is a drinking man," Mr. Raskob said. "I don't know whether he drinks or not, and to my mind it doesn't make much difference. But I do know that since he has been in the cabinet his household has been absolutely dry, and I have admired him for it."

ABOUT 100 DEATHS FROM FIRE IN MADRID THEATRE

MADRID, Sept. 24—(AP)—Approximately 100 dead had been recovered tonight from the ruins of the Novedades theater where a Sunday performance had suddenly been turned into a raging inferno, which made a holocaust of the panic-stricken audience.

The fire chief said tonight that the total death toll could be conservatively estimated at 120.

Whole families of laboring men had been packed in the upper galleries. The narrow stairways leading to these upper levels were quickly choked as fathers sought to fight a way through for their children. The orchestra and stalls were only half filled when the fire started and so most of these spectators were able to make their way out.

Less than half of the bodies recovered have been identified.

PROPOSED FLIGHT TO ROME NOT CALLED OFF

HARTFORD, Sept. 24—(AP)—Despite motor trouble and the lateness of the season, the projected flight of the sequi-plane "Roma," from Old Orchard, Me., to Rome, will not be called off, it was learned here tonight following a conference of the co-pilots, Count Cesare Sabelli and Roger Q. Williams with officials of the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft company.

Sabelli and Williams came to Hartford today and went immediately to the Pratt and Whitney factory where they spent nearly the whole day with service engineers. It was decided that repairs would be made on the present motor in the "Roma," which became overheated in a test flight and if the repairs do not bring satisfactory results a new Hornet motor will be installed. Count Sabelli and Williams returned to Old Orchard tonight.

VENIZELOS SATISFIED WITH ITALO-GREEK PACT

ROME, Sept. 24—(AP)—Premier Venizelos of Greece, receiving the foreign press today, expressed satisfaction with the signature of the Italo-Greek pact of friendship and conciliation which he said was "not directed against anybody."

He expressed the hope that a solid concord of friendship would be built upon it and added that as soon as certain questions regarding the port of Saloniki could be settled he hoped to conclude a similar pact with Jugoslavia.

He said that as yet no pact had been made with Turkey but that he would like to conclude one as soon as possible.

RESCUED HER 4-YEAR-OLD SON FROM DROWNING

BOSTON, Sept. 24—(AP)—Mrs. Marion S. Eaton, 40, of Dorchester, mother of four children, plunged fully clothed into the Neponset river today to rescue her four-year-old son from drowning. The child had fallen from a raft and had been drawn by a current more than 300 feet from shore.

Mrs Eaton swam to the child and succeeded in remaining afloat with him until a boatman reached her and towed her ashore by the hair. Neither mother nor child suffered ill effects.

KIDNAPER-SLAYER INDICTED FOR FIRST DEGREE MURDER

HONOLULU, T. H., Sept. 24—(AP)—A grand jury today returned a first degree murder indictment against Myles Yutaka Fukunaga, 19-year-old Japanese who was formally charged with the kidnaping and murder of Gill Jamieson, 10, son of a Honolulu banker, last Tuesday.

Much surprise was expressed today when it was revealed that the 19-year-old Japanese, mild mannered and apparently kindly, had once edited a school weekly in which he urged protection for children and animals. He has confessed the atrocious crime against the banker's son.

It was pointed out that the case presented many features paralleling those of the kidnaping and murder of little Marion Parker by William E. Hickman, who is awaiting execution at San Quentin penitentiary in California.

Fukunaga in 1925 edited a humane weekly edition of his school paper at Waialua in which he advocated kindness to children and animals. The boy then was considered one of the most promising pupils of his class. He won the honor of delivering the salutatory oration at the graduation exercises and carried off his school honors during the national essay contest.

Resenting any implication that he was insane Fukunaga has expressed sorrow for the kidnaping and slaying. In perpetrating the crime for the purpose of obtaining $10,000 ransom from Gill's father, Frederick W. Jamieson, the Japanese said he had studied the methods of Hickman.

SEN. CURTIS TO SPEAK IN HARTFORD OCT. 20

HARTFORD, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, republican candidate for vice president, has been secured to speak in Hartford at a republican rally at the state armory, Saturday night, Oct. 20, Senator Edward N. Allen, chairman of the republican town committee announced today. In honor of the appearance of Mr. Hoover's running mate, an old-time red fire demonstration is planned, it was announced.

Announcement of Senator Curtis' proposed visit was made after confirmation had been received by William M. Harney, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the republican state central committee, from the eastern speakers' bureau, of which Congressman John Q. Tilson of New Haven is chairman.

HOME PROGRESSIVE PARTY TO HOLD NAT'L CONVENTION

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 24—(AP)—The American Home Progressive party, a new national political group, organized by Conrad Reno, of this city, will hold its "national" convention here Saturday, according to announcements in paid advertisements in local papers today. The convention, the announcement says, "will nominate candidates for president and for vice president of the United States on a platform of prosperity for farmers and business men, manufacturers and workers."

The platform proposes to give farm relief by fixing prices of American farm products at 25 per cent above world market prices, declares that "comprehensive prosperity" can come only from making the nation really "bone-dry," and favors private ownership of power and other utilities, but under government regulation.

WEIGHING PERSONALITIES OF HOOVER AND SMITH

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—(AP)—The big issue with the voters in Massachusetts is the personalities of Hoover and Smith, said Senator Frederick H. Gillett of that state, who called at republican headquarters today.

"The republicans," he asserted, "are asking the voters to weigh the relative fitness of the two candidates. We believe that Hoover, on account of his long experience with national and international problems, supplemented during the last two administrations by his record as head of the department of commerce, is pre minently the best equipped man for president, and that the voters of the nation, after weighing the merits of the men, will decide that they prefer him to Smith.

"In Massachusetts we are preparing to carry the state for the republicans, as usual."

ST. JOSEPH CURATE IS TRANSFERRED TO STAMFORD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 24—Rev. Paul J. Bartlewski, curate at St. Joseph's church here for the past four years, received notification today from Right Rev. John J. Nilan, bishop of the diocese of Connecticut, of his transfer as an assistant at the Church of the Holy Name in Stamford.

Rev. Father Bartlewski is a native of New Britain. He completed his elementary studies at the Sacred Heart parochial school and the New Britain grammar school. He matriculated at St. John's Preparatory school in Erie, Pa., and upon completing his course at this institution entered the University of Freiburg in Switzerland, remaining there for five years. He was ordained to the priesthood in Freiburg, July 6, 1924 and his first assignment was to St. Joseph's church, this city. The transfer to the Stamford church is effective next Thursday and Father Bartlewski plans to leave for there on Wednesday. On his departure he will take with him the well wishes of a host of friends. His brother, Rev. G. M. Bartlewski is pastor of St. Stanislaus church in Bristol. As yet no announcement has been made as to the successor to Rev. Father Bartlewski in the local parish.

WEDDING

Smith-Mullen

Miss Agnes Mullen, daughter of Mrs. Josephine Mullen of 43 Elm street became the bride of George A. Smith of Norwich at a wedding performed in St. Mary's church at 8 o'clock this morning by the pastor, Rev. J. J. Papillon. Special singing was rendered for the ceremony and during the nuptial high mass, under direction of the choir director, Joseph F. Gaudreau. Miss Bertha Gaudreau, intimate friend of the bride wore a pretty gown of brown B. Downes of Norwich was best. The bride wore a prett ygown of brown transparent velvet with hat to harmonize. She carried an arm bouquet of bridal roses. Her maid of honor was attired in a gown of similar material and design. The wedding breakfast was served at the Bond hotel in Hartford to where the bridal party motored. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside at 87 Lincoln avenue, New London upon returning from their wedding tour which they are taking by automobile. The groom is in the employ of the Southern New England Telephone company. His bride is well known here and up to recently was employed at the American Thread company office.

Following a halt caused by a delay in completing arrangements with the Connecticut company for regrading the trolley road bed and putting the tracks into good condition the work of repairing and resurfacing Main street from the New Haven railroad crossing to Thread Mill square is now progressing rapidly and will soon be completed. The work is being done by the city street department while the laying of the top surface of tarvia-lithic will be done by an out-of-town concern. The original plan of the Connecticut company to change over the roadbed and duties proved to be a more expensive undertaking than business on the line would warrant, in the opinion of the company and a compromise arrangement has been made. An engineer of the company has been at work with city officials for the past three or four days and the grading work is expected to be complete within one or two days.

An effort is being made at the chamber of commerce office to definitely determine the status of the new silk industry proposed for this city before the end of the present week. Money for the new industry was pledged in a recent campaign by a large number of local people who are anxious to know what the ultimate outcome of the proposal will be. Authentic information given out by the chamber of commerce today, however, was to the effect that one member of the firm still continues to be critically ill and insofar as could be determined this fact only was the cause of the delay in further consideration of the project.

Meanwhile officials have recently escorted a group of manufacturers on an inspection tour of available factory space in the city and given such information as was requested as to renting facilities, power rates, school advantages, etc. The last group to visit here represented a company making light hardware and employing a large force of men. As near as could be determined the only drawback which these men found with the city was the renting situation. A committee is now at work to prepare facts and figures to show that this phase can readily be arranged to their satisfaction. The work of putting the former Quidnick-Windham mills into shape for manufacturing is progressing and will be completed within ten days.

The funeral of Matthew Galligan was held from 36 John street this morning with arequiem high mass in St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Charles M. Kelly was celebrant. Mrs. Henry Mathieu was heard in several well rendered solos, accompanied by Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance, organist. Burial was in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery where a committal service was conducted by Rev. Father Kelly. The bearers were James Summers, H. Easterbrooks, Clifford Carey and Pierre Marcotte. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

Willimantic's quota for the American Red Cross relief of sufferers of the recent hurricane in Porto Rico and Florida is $82, according to word received today by Frank P. Fenton the chairman of the local Red Cross chapter. John Barton Payne chairman of the national executive committee urged that assistance be given at once. Chairman Fenton made immediate reply in which he stated that up to date $701 had been received $600 of this amount coming to the chapter from Mrs. Mary A. Williams of Lebanon. Mrs. Williams sent two checks one of $300 for Porto Rican relief and the other of $100 for the Florida fund.

At a session of the Coventry town court last Wednesday Willard Green of North Coventry was fined six dollars and costs amounting to $19 on a charge of allowing his two cows to wander on the state highway unattended resulting to damage of crops on farms at Ashford's corner in North Coventry. The offense dated back to July 28. Green gave notice of an appeal to the Tolland county superior court and furnished a bond of $100.

A reorganization of the North Windham Congregational church Sunday school was made Sunday with Mrs. Ellsworth Weeks as superintendent; Orin L. Colburn assistant superintendent and Stowell Burnham secretary and treasurer. There were 59 pupils present at the meeting. The following registered as members of a Sunday school orchestra: Arthur Kopke, Francis Wright, Leroy Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Orrin L. Colburn and Mrs. Weeks, director.

Officers from the state police barracks at Stafford Springs are investigating the raiding of several henhouses in the Mansfield Four Corners and Gurleyville districts. Quite a large number of hens were stolen during the past week as a result of these raids. In one coop a bag was found which contained a substance believed to be a powder used to stupify the chickens to make theft of the birds easy and noiseless.

Today was observed as Yom Kippur or the Day of Atonement at the local Hebrew synagogue and services, which began at sundown Sunday night were continued throughout the day until sundown tonight. Rabbi Max Levine was assisted by Rabbi M. Mandell of Norwich. Hebrews from surrounding towns attended the local services.

E. L. Mansure, W. MacKeeney, Alfred Peck and Robert Bates, summer residents at North Windham, have been made honorary members of the North Windham fire department. In acknowledgment of the honor, Mr. Mansure presented the department with a check of $50. The department is in excellent financial standing, much of this being credited to the series of whists and other entertainments held during the year. The mortgage on the fire house has now been reduced to $700.

The annual census of St. Joseph's parish was started today by Rev. Henry E. uinn, pastor, and assistant priests of the parish.

Mrs. John F. McKenna of Jackson street underwent a major operation at St. Joseph's hospital Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Nasif Rayhall had as Sunday visitors Albert Gassin and Saliba Gassin of Ansonia and M. S. Malouf, Michael Thomas and Salem Rayhall of Waterbury. Mr. Rayhall and Mr. Malouf are well known correspondents for a Syrian newspaper printed in New York.

A small hole was burned in the roof of B. C. Hallock's ice cream manufactory at 358 Jackson street early this afternoon when ignited by sparks from the chimney. Engine company No. 1 responded with the chemical truck.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Norwich will hold a free chest clinic at the Visiting Nurse association rooms at 10 o'clock Tuesday forenoon.

Mrs. Earl J. Arnold has as Sunday guests her brother, Mr. Harry C. Clow and Mrs. Clow and Mrs. Arthur P. Clow of Terryville.

"Old Faithful" the public timepiece in the tower of the town building ceased operations this forenoon and was at once placed in the hands of a local jewelry firm for a thorough overhauling. The clock will again be in operation within a day or two.

Harry Mandell of New York city and Henry Rothblat of Newark, N. J., are spending the Jewish holiday at their homes.

Mrs. George Woodward is entertaining her daughter, Miss Bella Roy of Montreal, Canada.

Miss May Moriarty spent Sunday and Monday as guests of her brother William M. Moriarty and family in Woonsocket, R. I.

Miss Olive Crane of Mansfield has returned from a two weeks' visit with her cousin, Mrs. Caroline Hennis of Clinton, Mass.

Miss Bertha Daniels and Mrs. William A. Green of Columbia Road and Mrs. Flora Warren and son of Norwich spent Sunday at Pleasure Beach.

Mrs. Harry Wood of South Coventry returning home with them after having spent two weeks there with Mrs. Green.

JEWETT CITY

INFANTILE PARALYSIS PATIENT TAKEN AWAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 24—In Monday's Bulletin an item in this column declared that Jewett City had a case of infantile paralysis, so diagnosed by the doctors and so reported by the state health officer, Sunday evening, when that statement was written it was an honest-to-goodness fact; but conditions changed suddenly.

Joseph Ganudett and his large family occupied the Rioux block tenement. It was his small child that was suffering from the dreaded malady. Some time during Sunday night Citizen Gaudette, accompanied by his animate chattels flew the coop. This decidedly precipitate exodus from the borough confines, was not, however, made "bag and baggage," for furniture of various sorts remains in the otherwise deserted apartments. "Gone to Canada," will be entered on the town rgeister. The doctor's fees on several cases will be shy, but various household furnishing dealers may think of claiming the forsaken fittings. The rent, too, must be entered in the column of profit and loss, mainly the latter.

STIFF FINES IMPOSED FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATIONS

George Kelly and Pauline Kaban paid fines of $200 each in Judge John T. Barry's town court Monday morning for violations of the liquor law. Kelly was given a 30-days in jail, suspended sentence. Within 365 days if there is further violation of the law this sentence becomes automatically operative.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kallenberger and grandson William were visitors at Springfield fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Brown of Brunswick, Maine, are guests of State's Attorney and Mrs. Arthur M. Brown.

Reports from Backus hospital, Norwich, Monday evening were to the effect that Vincent Jacobs who was seriously injured by a truck Saturday, was still unconscious, but holding his own.

The Ninigret division of the Fisk Tire Co. has a gang of men trimming the elms and maples, growing on the company's property in several parts of the borough.

TOWN SPENT OVER $20,000 ON HIGHWAYS LAST YEAR

At the annual town meeting Monday afternoon the board of selectmen, Daniel F. Finn, Arba Browning and Simon Brewster Jr., presented their report which shows the following cost of running the town of Griswold for the year ending August 31, 1928: Highways $20,597.40; bridges $2,367.28; town officers $2,129.30; assessing and collecting taxes $1,822.15; outside poor $4,185.52; medical attendance $1,20.25; care of insane and imbeciles $1,834.91; town farm $123.52; damage done by dogs $25; town hall $1,888.18; town hall, Pachaug $15; vital statistics $267.50; election expenses $349.40; interest $7,440.96; taxes $5,245.09; loans and bonds $49,000; miscellaneous $3,710.64; total $100,894.50. Deduct taxes $5,245.09; deduct loans and bonds $49,000; total $54,245.09; current expenses of year $46,648.81.

July 4th is about the latest date that sweet corn can be planted here, with any hope of its becoming edible size before frost. Last year corn planted that date amounted to but little. This year the fourth corn is the best of the season.

Mrs. E. E. Scates entertains Whatsoever circle of The King's Daughters, this (Tuesday) evening at her home in Sylvandale.

Not many eastern Connecticut villages are more pleasantly situated than Voluntown. In the hey-day of the local textile industry, as carried on by the Briggs Manufacturing Co., a contented community received good wages from a concern that always carefully guarded the best interests of its organization. Today the mills are idle, tenants who must be employed to live have moved away and, once marked with the bustle of industry, Voluntown, with all its surroundings of natural beauty is still.

A local man in looking over some of the available land and residence offerings, found values unsurpassed, and hinted that in view of the tenement shortage in Jewett City today to any one with transportation facilities the problem was solved. Many of the residences are already owned by their occupants, and local prospective buyers are considering offerings at costs less than the price of lumber.

SELECTMAN'S SALARY INCREASED BY TOWN MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 24—At the annual town meeting, held in Pachaug town hall this afternoon, Edward J. Jodoin presided, and John Welch was clerk. The reports of the selectmen and other town officers were accepted as printed, James H. Shea was reappointed a member of the committee on the Daniel S. Anthony Trust fund. It was voted to authorize the selectmen to borrow money for temporary use, and to pay any part of the town debt that can be paid. In the matter of salaries for the town officers, it was voted to raise the pay of the first selectman from $400 a year to $1,200 The sense of the meeting was favorable to this increase by the setting forth of the efficiency of First Selectman D. F. Finn with regard to the repairing and rebuilding of the outlying district roads during the past year. Twelve miles of roads have been repaired with gravel and ashes, and eight bridges replanked. Mr. Finn has been in constant supervision daily of the work, which means that it has been properly done, with full-time work. Numerous other phases of town affairs take much time and travel, altogether proving that the remuneration has not been at all adequate for the amount of work necessary. The meeting voted to leave the repairing of the highway in the hands of the selectmen; also that the physicians for town work be employed and paid as formerly. $900 was the amount appropriated for the district nurse, in case it is needed. It was voted to purchase a gravel loader.

Not all the floods descend in Florida, for one good sized shower descended on one unsuspecting person in Jewett City Monday. A very good friend of Mrs. E. E. Hiscox spread the news that she had a birthday Monday. And a deluge of post cards, flowers and telephone calls proceeded to descend, not only from Jewett City, but from Pachaug, Lisbon and Norwich. It was a most delightful surprise, and much appreciated by Mrs. Hiscox as she read the kind wishes on the over one hundred and twenty-five cards received.

Lawrence Rogers' valuable German police dog was run over and killed by an automobile at Willard's corner, Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Barton of Hartford were guests Sunday of local friends and relatives.

Mrs. John M. Riley, Mrs. H. J. Bailey and daughter were business callers in Norwich Monday.

YANTIC

PECULIAR GENTIAN GROWTH ALONG WALL OF CANAL

Fringed gentian blossoms have already made their appearance in meadows, although there have been no frosts to encourage them. An unusual sight is a fringe of white and blue-bottle gentian along the triangular wall of the canal, near the engineer's room of the American Woolen Co. It is thought the roots were brought down with last spring's floods and found resting places in the crevices. They are very tall and the blossoms are unusually large.

Rev. Robert B. Day of Kent, England, who spent a few days last week with local friends, left Saturday for Hartford.

Miss Elizabeth Kempton leaves town this week for Washington, Conn., to resume her duties as art instructor in the Boys' Gunnery school and at Wykham Hall.

The Springfield fair last week attracted many from here as in former years and the Norwich fair will get its share of attendance of the town people.

Arthur Bauman has constructed a very attractive toy airplane that is on display in Jacob Fishbone's garage office window.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee of New Haven spent the week-end in town at the Colonial, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph MacKenzie.

Miss Lucy Ladd of South Manchester spent the week-end at Elmwood.

John Brissette of Clinton, Mass., was a guest over the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Louis Oliver of Herkimer, N. Y., spent the week-end with Mrs. Oliver's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hamilton.

Mrs. William Leary has returned to Ware, after a brief visit with relatives here.

Charles Molter, agent of the American Woolen Co. here, spent the end of last week in Boston and Maynard, in the interest of the company.

Miss Rose Gobel of Jewett City was a week-end guest of Miss Blanche Richard.

Who's Reasonably Dissatisfied with This Town . . . and Why Not?

ANY good citizen's reason for being satisfied with this town is an asset to the community. But if there's any way of discovering one or a dozen reasons for being reasonably dissatisfied with economic conditions as they are here and now . . . THERE'S an opportunity to make some REAL PROGRESS.

And there is a way. It's done by searching out and studying the actual facts of this community's situation in all the important economic and civic phases of activity wherein this town meets with competition . . . Modern Business calls this "Research."

Charles F. Kettering, vice president and general director of the General Motors Research Laboratories once said, "The full, low-down reason for research is to keep your customers reasonably dissatisfied with what they have." That's merely his playful way of saying that in order to maintain continual prosperity through the changing conditions of years, you must find ways of providing something progressively more desirable for your customers.

TOWNS SHOULD PLEASE THEIR "CUSTOMERS"

This town, also, has its "customers" . . . the individuals and enterprises that have found good reasons for maintaining their homes or headquarters here, good reasons for buying, selling or enjoying whatever this town provides.

This town has its "prospective customers" . . . the people, the capital, the commercial and industrial companies that might be induced to come here for good, sound reasons of fact mutually beneficial to them and to the whole community.

Youth and industries always tend to go and stay where they are convinced the opportunities are good and conditions are favorable.

Anywhere in America, the progressive community of today is the one that is taking stock of its actual 1928 resources, advantages, industrial conditions and needs . . . and taking steps to insure continued employment for its people through balanced growth and development along the right industrial and civic lines.

JOIN FORCES WITH THE NEW ENGLAND COUNCIL

In New England, progressive communities have many advantages . . . but none more potent for progress than this: that you and your town, for instance, can have, through the New England Council, guidance and assistance of inestimable value in such development work as this.

The New England Council is the centralized cooperative institution sponsored in 1925 by the Governors of the six New England states for the purpose of putting the best available information, the accumulated experience and the ablest leadership in all New England activities at the service of all New England . . . including you and your town.

"OVER THE COUNTER"

DEAR DOT:

I recall that in your last letter you described so vividly all the happy events of your summer activities and your splendid vacation, then in your closing paragraph you said, "But it's back to the daily grind for me now that the leaves are about to turn to gold and the nights are becoming chilly with the forecast of winter."

I was thinking this over and it occurred to me that we humans, with all our ambitions and willingness to labor, must indeed constantly seek about us for amusement. I was also thinking how vitally necessary play is to the conscientious worker and how many wise men have given it as the secret of their success that They Work Hard and Play Hard.

All this I thought about and wondered just what amusement I would find in the long dreary months ahead when I was greeted with an announcement from the CAPITOL THEATRE that the Vaudeville season of this popular playhouse was about to open. My doubts at once dispersed and I knew where I would readily find an abundance of clean, lively and high class entertainment. Let me tell you about it.

The CAPITOL opens its vaudeville season next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. I know from personal experience that it has always been Manager George A. Bartlett's policy to obtain the best acts possible. He has just returned from New York, where he booked headline acts for the season of 1928-'29. There will be vaudeville every Thursday, Friday and Saturday for the season's programme, giving a wide variety of high class entertainment.

Feature photoplays have also been secured by Manager Bartlett for the season and several stupendous motion pictures have been booked to run in conjunction with the week-end programmes. Let me also add that popular prices will also be maintained as in the past.

We in Willimantic are proud that we have such a beautiful theatre equipped with a stage where any vaudeville from the high-wire or trapeze thriller to the dancing and singing performance, can be accommodated and shown to the best advantage.

Really, Dot, with the CAPITOL bringing to us outstanding attractions at popular prices there is entertainment a-plenty for us all, and it's the best kind of entertainment at that. You'll find an evening at the CAPITOL a real diversion and a mental tonic that is bound to be of great help during the "shut-in" months.

Yours for Work and Play

JANE.

They are unusual, and that makes them desirable aside from their utility features.

And do you know of any other garment which will look so well in the school room or on the campus, at so small a price?

But you will have to watch them, for they will soil even if they don't show it; but don't worry about that, for they are fast in color if not treated rough. You would never guess the correct price on them because they look so good, and so we have put the prices on them in the window. They look worth more than $1.98, don't they? POETRY

The Least of These

Thank God for humble weeds that jump
At springtime's call beside the dump—
That grimy children search—
For ragged robin, pepper-grass,
Which arise from filth and broken glass,
Yet show no spot or smirch.

Thank God for blooming spiderwort
Which braves the acrid dust and dirt
Along the railroad tracks—
Blue flash of joy for hands whose goal
Is salvaging the scattered coal
To fill old fraying sacks.

When through dark city streets I take
My way, this thankful prayer I make,
For all these humble things.
I thank Him for the sparrows, too,
For what would gutter-babies do
Without a sight of wings?

—Bertha G. Woods, in the Presbyterian Advance.

To the Aviator

Ye valiant souls who dare to ride
The ether blue though storm betide!
Ye brave young pioneers who dare,
To jest with death high in the air,
Our prayers are thine, our hopes and fears
Shall follow thee with smiles and tears
O'er forest, plain and ocean wave,—
On middle wings with heart so brave
Ye soar and fly, count not the cost,
Nor quail at thought of others lost.

Some would have called the airman fool,
But deeds like thine are God's own rule!
To span the earth with shining wings,
From pole to pole thy courage brings
A message from the Book of Life,
That peace shall supersede all strife!
Ye herald great things yet to be,—
In homage, then, we bow to thee.

—Mrs. A. E. Sage, in the Detroit Free Press.

The picture on the screen showed a poor old woman, cast off by her cruel children, trudging wearily along the road. The patoos of it brought tears to the eyes of a well-dressed woman who sat with her little boy in one of the front rows. The boy heard his mother sob.
"Don't worry, ma," he said comfortingly. "When I grow up to be a man I won't let you go to the poorhouse like that."
"Won't you dear?" she said. "What will you do?"
"I'll get you a taxi," was his reply.—Boston Transcript.

THE COUNTY FAIR

Even the weatherman brings us to a realization of the fact that the time has come for the county fair. This year it has been placed at a later date than for a numbers of years in the belief that it will permit of a greater agricultural exhibit, and this year extra efforts have been made, for the purpose of bringing before the people of the entire county the responsibility which rests upon them in insuring the permanency of this organization and its great outdoor show, now on the way toward the century mark.

The county fair permits of a getting together of the people in this end of the state like nothing else. It was a big event in the days when transportation facilities were not so good and when roads were in poor condition. It not only should be a bigger event in these days of motor vehicles and good roads but there should be a large attendance on each of three days. It is time that the county should rise to its responsibilities in this respect and through its attendance and interest assure one of the best fairs in the state.

It cannot be overlooked that a fair is what the people for whom it is intended make it. If there is a large and enthusiastic support there should be a fair in keeping with the demands. If there is a half hearted interest it is inevitable that the fair should deteriorate. Through the cooperation of the people in the respective towns and cities and the work of the fair officials, this outdoor attraction with all the customary features and the chance to meet old and make new friends should not only be bigger and better with each succeeding year but should be handsomely self sustaining.

This is an annual event in which Norwich should be particularly concerned. It means much to the city, but there is likewise a value to the entire county which should not be overlooked. It is time to get back to the spirit of those days when it was freely proclaimed that "every road leads to the fair grounds." It should also be remembered that it is not strictly a local affair but intended for the entire county.

HANDLING SECURITIES

With more and more institutions being established for the safeguarding of securities and with additional provisions for the warning of investors that their money may be protected, it becomes apparent that there is growing need for them.

There are those who are being separated from their hard earned money through distressing swindles, but there are also those who are giving little heed to their gilt-edged securities. They make their investments and then they forget them. When the time comes to cash their bonds they either don't know it or they don't know where the certificates are. They have put them away so carefully that they have lost them, or else they have failed to keep in touch with such action as they have been taken concerning their payment and as a consequence have not collected their principal and are no longer getting any interest on their money.

This might seem to involve but few people but when it is shown that there are $25,000,000 worth of second Liberty bonds which have never been redeemed, though the redemption date was a year ago, that there are in addition $13,000,000 worth of government bonds of earlier date which have never been presented for payment, and of the third Liberty issue there are outstanding $360,000,000 worth though they ceased to pay interest the 15th of this month, there must be more than a handful involved.

That this does not prevail solely with the government issues is revealed by the statement from bankers who directed the reorganization of the St. Paul road and who shows that holders of bonds to the amount of $5,000,000 have never presented them for exchange. This means a direct loss unless the terms of the reorganization are complied with. Though it is possible through court approval to terminate the period in which such exchanges can be made the bankers have continued to extend the time in the hope of preventing needless losses. Evidently there are many who play loose and fast with their own funds even after they invest them in good securities.

EDUCATING THE PUBLIC

When New Jersey put into operation its new traffic regulations it was inevitable that the enforcement of them involved much work and much training. There were radical changes. It made necessary the education of the pedestrians as well as the motor vehicle drivers and if we can judge by the experiences of the traffic officials it is not the easiest thing in the world.

As must have been anticipated the pedestrians do not like the prohibition of jay walking. They do not take readily to the new rules which require them to cross streets at fixed places and then only when the signal is on their favor. It is a move that has been made in the interest of safety but that doesn't make it any the more popular. The people afoot insist that the auto drivers do not give them a fair chance even when the signal favors them.

But the new laws are under trial. In time it is possible that they will be modified, but the best way to determine that depends upon the manner in which the test is made. If enforcement is effective it will soon be able to determine whether the laws are good or bad. If they are only half heartedly enforced there will be little to judge by. If those who are balking at the regulations are able to bring about a breakdown in the enforcement the laws will be next to useless.

It is an unfortunate situation where new regulations are adopted to have them lived up to for a week or two and then forget them. It can be told how good or how bad they are by a thorough tryout. Let the public, the auto drivers as well as the pedestrians, understand that there must be cooperation with the officials in the enforcement and the value or the mistake in the change will be quickly disclosed.

The problems in the highways today are far different from what they were a score or more years ago. They must be faced and in a manner that will accomplish the desired results. Regulations are what they are because of demands and it does little good to fight them unless there is sound reason. At the same time those periods when regulations are on, then off, then on again are unfair to everyone.

TROUBLE UPON TROUBLE

Conditions in Porto Rico were bad enough from the devastation caused by the hurricane but when there is piled upon that the additional burden involved in dealing with 13,000 cases of the flu it presents a disturbing situation.

Porto Rico is in better condition to meet such troubles than it was some years ago, but it can not cope with such tremendous handicaps. Either one of the troubles would be bad enough alone, but when they are combined it needs little explanation to show the justification for the assistance which has been called for.

When physicians admit that they are alarmed it discloses the seriousness of the situation and emphasizes the need for all the help that has been called for. It is a situation that must be met and efforts which are underway indicate that it will be, but there ought to be no delay. For the island to be swept by the flu offers trouble enough but that is by no means the only disease that has increased victims following the flood.

The service of the Red Cross is being required over a larger area at once. At a distance there is small chance to understand the real distress and yet the knowledge that there are people without homes, without much food, surrounded by death and devastation, to which has been added the flu epidemic and with little clothing makes it evident that there should be early and generous responses to the appeals which have been made by the Red Cross for necessary funds to cope with the demands.

Porto Rico and part of Florida have been dealt a frightful blow from which they had no chance to escape. There is an opportunity now, however, for those who haven't suffered to administer to their needs.

HIT AND RUN DRIVERS

There can be little sympathy for the hit and run driver. While there might be much for the individual who strikes a person in the highway under certain conditions such a thing ceases when the driver who hits and possibly kills a man steps on the gas and cowardly sneaks away.

It is perfectly evident that he wants to get out of sight and escape being known. No one likes to be involved in such an affair, but drivers as a rule are men enough to stop and do whatever is possible for the injured person. It is difficult to take any other view than that the person who runs away makes an admission of his guilt. However much he might dread the publicity connected with an accident, it is far preferable that he should make a clear presentation of the case instead of bringing down upon himself that public condemnation which is certain to follow when he runs away. It is not only prejudicing his own case but it strengthens the inference that he was driving in a reckless manner, whether that happened to be the case or not.

In a Massachusetts city there is much indignation over the killing of a young man by a hit and run driver and every possible effort is being made to locate him. Because of just such cases rewards have been offered in that state for those who furnish evidence as to the identity of the driver who disappears and it is recognized by all those who think about it as being an excellent stimulus for the people in general to keep their eyes open for their own protection as well as for the restraint of others. The fellow who strikes and speeds away brands himself for what he is and can expect to encourage general opposition.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The last week of daylight saving this year so make the most of it.

Now that the line storm is over is everything ready for a delightful autumn?

If red cheeks indicate health, many of the girls seem to be healthy in one cheek and ailing in the other.

The man on the corner says: Some don't think the best season has come till the cool days and the multi-colored foliage arrive.

If that was one of those "whispering" campaigns in Maine what a hurricane there is going to be when all of the states are heard from.

If President Coolidge was running for another term he couldn't have gotten bigger crowds than those which greeted him at stations in Vermont.

ANNABELLE ANN TAKES A WALK.

Annabelle Ann's mother, before she died, had warned her of hasty decisions, especially in regard to men and marriage. And her brother Dick's last word to her as he boarded a train for the west had been, "If ever you have to make up your mind about anything important, Annabelle Ann, take a good, long walk and think it over."

So Annabelle Ann put on her new brown spring dress and her light weight brown coat and her brown hat and her brown shoes and hose and went for a walk, intending to devote herself to a brown study of the pros and cos of Larry Wolf.

It was more like May than March and Annabelle Ann's heart beat gayly as she stepped along the boulevard, preparing to think things out. She was going to walk five miles, all the distance to the park where she had told Larry she would meet him. She had just two hours before her "date," two hours, she felt certain, in which definitely to make up her mind. For Larry, she knew intuitively, was going to demand an answer today.

She stopped in the glove shop to have a button moved on her glove. As she waited she heard from a back room where the work was being done the voice of two persons, presumably the shopkeeper and his wife, rising higher and higher as the conversation progressed.

"If I'd known you were going to turn out a lazy, good-for-nothing husband I'd never have married you. Where are all your promises now? Here I do all the work and you take all the money and go off and play pinochle."

"How you women can nag!"

"If it ever did any good—"

"Oh, shut up!"

"Don't you dare talk to me that way."

"Well, I've had enough—"

"You used to say you would do anything to make me happy."

"Well, I'm tired of you and your nagging. I'm going down to Jim's to play pinochle." A door slammed. A little stoutish woman who had been wiping wet eyes with a handkerchief soon entered and handed Annabelle Ann her gloves.

A bit further along the boulevard Annabelle Ann noticed an approaching figure which looked familiar. The figure was pushing a baby buggy and by its side, tugging at its hand, trudged a child of perhaps 4. Suddenly Annabelle Ann recognized Rosie Rider.

They clasped hands amid a geyser of chatter. But as she talked Annabelle Ann was observing, making mental notes of the changes in Rosie. She had been so pretty, so inexhaustively fresh and vivacious. Somehow she looked faded now; her face was a bit too pale, a bit puffy; she looked tired, anxious, harassed.

"It's these darling babies," sighed Rosie. "The deadly routine of them wears yo uout. We can't afford a maid and I've had them weekdays, Sundays and holidays since they came. Oh, for a little relief! If Tom isn't calling me, then Helen is crying for something. They're good kids, on the whole—but, oh, Annabelle, I'm just so tired."

Presently Annabelle Ann said goodby to Rosie and passed on. She had to hurry now if she were going to keep her appointment on time. But she couldn't resist stopping to buy some violets at a place she knew, a little flower stand on the corner.

She had always thought the woman who sold flowers here had "an interesting face." What was her surprise to note that it wasn't the same woman today. She asked, tactfully.

"My sister," explained the new flower woman. "Yes, she died. Consumption. Just wasted away, to tell you the truth. Starved to death, in plain language. Her husband never did support her, you see. She never knew anything but poverty and want. And to hear him talk when they were first married you'd think he was going to make a fortune and lay it at her feet."

Annabelle Ann was two minutes late. There at the corner was Larry waiting. She saw his fine, gray eyes light up as she approached.

A policeman standing near by considerately turned away when he saw the girl in brown walk straight up to the man on the corner and greet him, shamelessly, with a kiss.

"Yes," said Annabelle Ann.—Chicago News.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24— Charlie Curtis has hopes — and only hopes—that before the presidential campaign is over, local republican stalwarts selected to introduce him when he goes a-stumping for votes will have learned what his name is.

He has had little success so far in that respect. The parents of the republican vice presidential nominee thought just plain Charles Curtis was enough of a name for anybody, and he was so named.

He's quite satisfied with a two stage handle like that and has never seen any necessity of picking up a middle name of even an initial to round it out. To his friends, and they are many, he's invariably Charlie, which again is entirely satisfactory to the Kansas senator.

Political spellbinders of local note don't seem to agree with the Curtis viewpoint. It is only once in four years most of them get a chance to spread themselves for the party and vent their fervor for speechmaking under such auspicious circumstances. They like to make the most of it and fill the air with rounded periods and booming tones, winding up with a happy turn of expression presenting the nominee to his audience. Take such names as Alfred E. Smith, or even those of the two division order like Herbert Hoover or Calvin Coolidge. There are enough syllables or inflections to give an orator a chance.

Charles Curtis is different. It is terse and abrupt. It lacks the true rythm for oratorical delivery. And the Kansas senator has already found to his distress that this introducers are apt to paw over the alphabet and give him almost any letter of the whole 26 that meets their needs of the moment. He has been introduced as Charles E., Charles R., Charles C., and in a variety of other ways, although nobody has yet gone so far as to confer a political middle name upon him.

Borah Began It

Senator Borah began it in a speech of no less importance than that which placed the Kansan in nomination at the Kansas City convention. What the Idaho senator actually did was nominate Senator Charles E. Curtis of Kansas, there being no such person. It caused no little amusement in the press section.

Now, nobody accuses Borah of straining for oratorical effects. He relies on the punch of what he says rather than any trick of voice to get across to his audience. So it was more slip of the tongue, so far as Borah was concerned, that saddled the nominee with a middle initia. Yet it is possible that the thing has proved catching because subsequent introducers of Hoover's running mate have been studying uncorrected copies of the Borah speech by way of preparation.

It would not be natural for a rough and ready political campaigner like Curtis not to notice this little bobble over his name as he goes about his campaigning business. He is very much of the plain people. Old Hickory type when in action on the platform.

One highly unconventional mannerism is freeing his vocal chords from restriction before he turns loose. Curtis just frankly loosens up his necktie, sometimes even snaps loose a collar-button, runs a quick forefinger around the inside of his collar to give his neck plenty of room, and then booms into action. He does that even in the senate. That forefinger to neckband gesture is part and parcel of Curtis on his feet speechmaking.

YOUR HEALTH

THE BUNION DERBY.

(By M. C. Harding, M. D., San Diego)

To most people a bunion means an enlarged and painful joint at the base of the great toe. In reality it is composed of several different conditions, any one of which may give rise to trouble. First is the callous or corn. This may or may not be present and painful—at least half have no callous. Next is the bursa, or water sac, lying between the skin and the bone. If inflamed this is apt to be most painful. The enlargement of the joint is mostly new bony growths, called exostoses, piled up in knobs, and caused by long continued irritation either from inflammation or mechanical pressure. Lastly, there is deformity both of the toe and of the metatarsal bone. In all cases the toe is bent toward the other toes, while in many the deformity is increased by the metatarsal bone being deflected toward the inner border of the boot like the hand bone attached to the thumb. This latter type of foot is usually hereditary and leads to the most deforming type of bunion.

Most people attribute their bunions to wearing short shoes. While this is of some importance it is not of as much as is usually thought. The hereditary foot just mentioned cannot help but have a deformed great toe if any shoe is worn; there is simply no other place for the toe to go! Whether the other factors—corn, exostoses, etc.—are added, depends on inflammation. Here is the important thing—inflammation—whether from infection or pressure of shoes. Arthritis, or rheumatism, is the underlying cause and outstanding feature of the most painful types of bunions. It is usually only a part of a chronic arthritis affecting especially the small joints, and may either be a primary cause of enlargement, or complicate a bunion already formed mechanically.

In choosing treatment we must consider carefully what kind we are dealing with. The simple painful corn may be removed by a corn plaster and sand paper, being kept thin and pliable at all times. Additional protection can be had by a felt ring. Soreness caused by use is best relieved by contrast bathing—dipping the foot rapidly into hot, then cold water, and followed with a alcohol pack. Cases of arthritis call for the best of medical care and are usually stubborn, as the necessary use of the foot does not allow sufficient rest. The most important thing is a proper shoe. This is not always easy to secure, as these feet do not conform to store models. Secure the best shape possible in soft leather, then patiently insist on stretching and re-stretching of a pocket to fit the bunion. A shoe wide enough to slip in more apt to irritate than a fairly snug one well pocketed out for tender spots.

The question of operation is one to be carefully watched. Bunions with arthritis should not be operated until the disease is thoroughly quieted, and even then a flare-up may occur with as much pain as before. Other types may be safely operated for cosmetic reasons, relief of pain, or inability to fit shoes. Except in cases with arthritis, operation is safe and satisfactory, but should not be resorted to until palliative methods have been thoroughly tried.

Arm Chair Journeys To Other Lands

HAMBURG—(AP)—Formality is a characteristic of German life to which the stranger living within its borders can accustom himself only with difficulty.

Take the endless ceremony of handshaking and handkissing for instance. It is by no means sufficient to shake hands once on entering and leaving a friend's house. After the meal, everybody else or, in the case of a married woman, the man touches his lips to her hand.

Then, as one is ready to leave, a series of handshakes ensues in the living and host. If there are many guests, ing room, beginning wit hthe hostess with all of whom the department stranger shakes hands next, he feels that the first adieu with the host and hostess may have worn off by this time. Accordingly, he shakes hands with them once more.

Often the hosts go out into the reception hall with their guests. This means that a third handshake is indulged in before departure. And should the visitor chance to leave the apartment building with other guests, he will solemnly shake hands with them anew before the house-door.

When members of an executive board or of a conference convene, the session will not open until everybody has shaken hands with everybody else. When there is a series of daily sessions, the handshake exchanged when first the members met will not be considered to hold through, but new handshakes are exchanged at each session.

The handshake is always accompanied by a bow, varying in angle according to the amount of respect due the person to whom one bows. Another frill thrown in with handshaking, hand kissing and bowing is the clicking of heels on the part of the men, and courtesying on the part of younger to older women.

Titles further make for formality. The title in Germans is infinitely more important than the first name. People don't care whether a man having the ubiquitous name Schmidt is Hans or Fritz Schmidt—they want to know is he Herr Direktor Schmidt or is he merely Herr Friseurgehilfe—meaning barber's attendant—Schmidt. Germans usually sign their letters not with their Christian names besides the family name, but with the title. Jacob Schmidt, teaching biology at the University of Berlin, signs his name as Prof. Dr. Schmidt.

Men meeting daily and engaged in the same task will nevertheless address each other by title. It is almost unthinkable, for instance, that members of the German Reichstag, sitting side by side year after year, should address each other familiarly as "Bill" or "Charley" or "Jim." They will continue to address each other as "Herr Kollege."

This "Her Kollege" habit offers the one escape from the embarrassment of not knowing the exact title or name of someone engaged in the same class of work. An American correspondent, or "Herr Redakteur," as he is called may have forgotten whether the representative of the "Tageblatt" has the rank of editor-in-chief, feature editor, or departmental chief. And he may have forgotten whether his name is Mueller or Schulz. He need not feel embarrassed; if he simply calls him "Herr Kollege" all further questions are obviated.

One curious formality which often baffles the stranger is that of wishing "Mahlzeit," literally "mealtime." It is an abbreviation for a German saying, "Gesegnete Mahlzeit," or "may you enjoy a blessed meal," and was originally used as a polite expression after Grace had been said at table. Now, however, the mail carrier coming into an office will shout "Mahlzeit"; the janitors wife as the business man hurries to his office will accost him with "Mahlzeit even though he has just breakfasted and several hours will intervene before he takes his next meal.

Little Talks on Thrift

CONCENTRATION OF EFFORT NECESSARILY FOR PERSONAL PROGRESS.

We hear the statement made now and then that such and such a man has a "one-track mind." Whether such a characterization is intended as criticism or compliment, the fact remains that the power of concentration is a valuable possession.

Nothing worth while was ever accomplished without concentrated effort. This rule applies with special force in the administration of one's personal affairs. Those who scatter their efforts and give their time to all sorts of activities and enterprises are not apt to gain satisfactory results.

Observation in any community will show that those who are succeeding best in life are to a great extent men of single purpose. A study of the careers of the successful man of this or of any other country will bear testimony to the same truth.

This does not mean that there is any virtue in selfishness or in a narrow attitude toward life. Successful men keep themselves in a receptive mood to changing conditions in order that they may not get out of step with the marching feet of progress.

But it is lack of thrift—a sheer waste of time, effort, opportunity and money—not to have one outstanding purpose or plan in life and bend every effort accordingly. It is always better to do one thing well than to do many things poorly. It requires will-power and strength of character to stick to a given purpose. It is the weakling—the potential failure—who follows ever the line of least resistance, enthusing over one project today and casting it aside for another one tomorrow.

Stories That Recall Others

Out of Sight

Nine-year-old Joe had challenged his mother to a game of hide and seek at his grandmother's country cottage and, of course, mother was "it." She, counting up to 100 by fives, shouted, "Here I come!" in orthodox fashion and began hunting. She searched every nook and cranny and peered behind every tree and bush, but no boy, no at last she was forced to call "Home free!" When Joe appeared she was very curious to know where he had been hiding so successfully. "That was a cinch," declared Joe, "I just climbed up the windmill."

Just a Good Luck Piece

Three girls were observed wandering abstractedly about a piece of turf where many saw them apparently engrossed in a search for something. A business man approached and looked also, two women came along and got interested, and finally three boys joined the party, two of the latter getting down on hands and knees. It was the teacher who had the idea.

"May I ask," he said, "what is it you have lost?"

Thereupon the youngest of the three girls looked them over scornfully and coldly and said shortly: "A four-leaf clover. Did you find one?"

IN THE DAYS NEWS

WHO'S WHO AMONG THE WINDS.

With a tornado devastating middle western states and a hurricane sweeping over the West Indies, the National Geographic society says:

A gale is a strong, straight wind.

Whirlwind: An eddy of air which whisks up dust; or a stronger whirl of air such as that which strips leaves from a cornfield and sends them hundreds of feet aloft.

Tornado: A violent, powerful whirlwind, covering a small area, that sucks up heavy objects or twists them from their moorings. Its vertical forces are more important than its horizontal ones.

Hurricane: A violent circular system of winds in the tropics and semi-tropics of the Atlantic and Caribbean, covering a considerable area and moving long distances. These are the strongest of the predominantly horizontal winds. They are sucked toward a great central vortex. One hundred miles an hour is their usual maximum for the wind toward the center of circulation.

Waterspout: A tornado or violent whirlwind over water.

Cyclone: A continually misused term. In popular parlance, any destructive wind is a "cyclone." Properly, a cyclone is a circular system of winds covering a great area (sometimes 1,000 miles across) and including gentle breezes as well as stiff winds. Cyclones are beneficial rather than harmful. They give us most of our weather changes. Each "low" on the daily weather map has its cyclonic system of winds circulating around it. When nature dips her spoon in the weather brew and stirs, the result is a cyclone.

Ship Fashion for London.

London has a vogue for sailing ship decorations. Brizs are stenciled on bridge coats, ship models are used as house decorations and silver teaspoons are given miniature replicas of ships as handles. Book ends also represent ships. Fashionable photographers have caught the idea and are posing members of high society hold over modern galleons.

Kapok Life Rafts Appear.

Lifeboats are to be replaced on some Atlantic liners by mattresses of kapok, a floating floss resembling cotton, according to reports from Paris. Rafts of four or more of the mattresses will not be swamped by huge waves, and therefore will be easier to handle than lifeboats. Capt. Warneck of the French navy suggested the use of kapok.

No Oil, but Gas Find Helps.

Although the search for oil in Roma, Australia, has proved a failure, natural gas that will run all the engines of the town has been discovered. The supply of the fuel seems inexhaustible, the pressures varying from 320 to 450 pounds to the square inch. Valuable products are obtained by filtering the gas and the exhaust as it comes from the engines.

A Sour Stomach

In the same time it takes a dose of soda to bring a little temporary relief of gas and sour stomach, Phillips Milk of Magnesia has acidity completely checked, and the digestive organs all tranquilized. Once you have tried this form of relief you will cease to worry about your diet and experience a new freedom in eating.

This pleasant preparation is just as good for children, too. Use it whenever coated tongue or fetid breath signals need of a sweetener. Physicians will tell you that every spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Get the genuine, the name Phillips is important. Imitations do not act the same!

60	6.00	3.00	3.20	3.40

For the present, forget our side of the case. Forget your personal viewpoint, too. Consider the question from the broad community viewpoint.

Which rate puts 3 cents electricity within the reach of every customer and yet charges no small user more than he can afford to pay?

Which rate will enable the poor man to use this great labor saving agent as freely as his well-to-do neighbor?

Which rate means more uniform bills from month to month and therefore less complaints?

Which rate comes closer to making each customer pay his share of the costs and thus permits low priced electricity to be offered for additional use by every customer?

From the standpoint of the community, YOU cannot help but choose the new rate as being better than the present one.

No More Gas From Indigestion

Stomach sufferers can only get safe quick and lasting relief from gas sourness and indigestion pains by correcting their cause—"too much acid." The stomach needs an alkaline to neutralize its excess acid, sweeten its food contents and make digestion normal and painless. A safe, reliable treatment is Bisurated Magnesia—powder or tablets. Just a little after every meal stops all chance of indigestion and guarantees stomach comfort or money back. Druggists everywhere sell it on this understanding. Begin today to enjoy your food after as well as during meal time. A test will tell.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Charles B. Bromley

Mrs. Charles B. Bromley died at her home, No. 288 West Main street, at 11.15 o'clock Monday morning after an illness of six weeks. Mrs. Bromley was born in Voluntown, Conn., October 10, 1858 and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Saunderdegrs. She was united in marriage with Charles B. Bromley at Westerly, R. I. November 25, 1874.

Surviving are her husband and four children, Mrs. J. E. Kennedy of Preston, Mrs. William Deloney of North Weymouth, Mass., Frank A., and Lewis W. Bromley of this city. Mrs. Bromley was a kind and loving mother and wife and will be sadly missed by her many friends.

George Owen Stead

After a long period of failing health, George Owen Stead, former Bozrah postmaster and a former member of the state legislature, died Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home, No. 357 McKinley avenue. Mr. Stead was the son of the late Owen and Adeline Ladd Stead and was born in Norwich Sept. 3, 1847. In his early years he was engaged in the grocery business in Greeneville afterwards going to St. Paul, Minn., where he was engaged in the same business.

Returning from St. Paul he located in Bozrah and for several years was postmaster there. In 1881 he was elected a member of the state legislature.

"I shall see you often, Jane Dare."

Mr. Stead was married twice. His first wife was Ellen Angel and the marriage took place at Central Village. Following her death he was united in marriage with Lydia Hough in Bozrah, in February, 1885. Mr. Stead was a member of the Masonic bodies in this city. He is survived by his wife; one son, Theodore Stead, and one daughter, Mrs. Helen Amelia Raymond. There are also two grandchildren, George Owen Stead, 2d, and Sonny Raymond. Mr. Stead was well known and had numerous friends who deeply mourn his death and who extend heartfelt sympathy to the surviving family.

Mrs. Richard W. Arnold

After a brief illness, the life of Madeline Ver Steeg, wife of Richard W. Arnold, formerly of this city but now of New Haven, came to a close Sunday evening at 7 o'clock at Grace hospital, New Haven. She was born at Hacketts Town, N. J., the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ver Steeg, her father having formerly been superintendent of parks in this city. She is survived by her sister, Mrs. Frank Shea of Stamford, by her husband, Richard W. Arnold, and by two children, Doris Margaret, 16 months old, and Richard W. Jr., born Tuesday, September 18.

Mrs. Arnold was a member of Calvary Baptist church, New Haven. She was well known in Norwich, Stamford and New Haven and was a prominent member of the young married set in New Haven. She was liked by all who came in contact with her because of her cheerful spirit, her friendly hospitality, and her thoughtfulness for others. Her sudden and premature death will be a great shock to all who knew her and especially to those who knew her best and came in contact with her most frequently.

GARRICK PLAYERS PRESENT COMPANIONATE MARRIAGE PLAY

The Garrick Players mixed the grave with the gay in attractive measure at the Broadway theater Monday night when they presented the three-act play, Is Companionate Marriage Legal? There was warm appreciation from the audience for the sincere and convincing work of the members of the cast who gave clear cut delineations of the characters assigned to them and made the production one of special merit.

Charles Mylott as the understanding judge, whose office motto for the people he was trying to help was "Search yourself before you accuse others," gave the parts a sympathetic interpretation and Helene Wesley was delightfully engaging as the innocent and sheltered daughter who has been kept from knowledge of the world. Walter De Luna, a new member of the cast, was unusually well placed and Irving Moore, Peter Ferguson, Bob Stevens, Pearl Young and the other members of the cast add notable parts to the presentation.

"The Rose of Picardy" was announced for next week.

WOMEN VOTERS LEAGUE HEARS THE TWO CANDIDATES COMPARED

In addresses at a non-partisan meeting at the town hall Monday evening, under the auspices of the Norwich League of Women Voters, Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman of this city and Mrs. Alice Mooney of Waterbury, a vice chairman of the democratic state central committee, discussed the qualifications of Herbert Hoover and Gov. Alfred E. Smith as presidential candidates. A third speaker, Mrs. George Fenner of New London, spoke of five of the principal issues in the present political campaigns. Several hundred men and women, republicans and democrats, comprised the audience.

In the absence of the league president, Miss Alif Stephens, Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins, a vice president, presided. Mrs. Higgins introduced as the first speaker, Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, well known writer and lecturer, who spoke briefly on the aims and purposes of the League of Women Voters. Mrs. Gilman said she was delighted to see so many present at the meeting. She told of some of the accomplishments of the League of Women Voters since its organization a few years ago. During the first four years the league worked for 13 federal measures and was active in 45 states in promoting 420 laws. Some of the aims of the league include the child labor amendment, the world court, adequate appropriations for the United States children's bureau. She said the league always works for measures held to be good and beneficial.

The general purpose of the league is to develop more intelligent and conscientious electors, she said. The speaker called attention to the fact that only about half of the voters of America fulfill the responsibilities of citizenship. We need a broader understanding of our business, our political business, she said. Government, today, is service, always more and more service. The speaker said she realized that there are a great many women who are not interested in politics. It is a very definite universal duty, she said. If you join the League of Women Voters, even if you do nothing else, you have added to the names of those who are interested. The league ought to grow. In closing Mrs. Gilman announced that enrollments would be taken after the meeting from any who wished to join the league.

Five Principal Issues

As the next speaker, Mrs. Higgins introduced Mrs. George Fenner of New London who spoke on the principal issues of the political campaigns. There are many issues before the country in this campaign, she said. We read of and hear talked about five of the principal issues—the tariff, farm relief, government control of natural resources, flood relief and the 18th amendment.

All of those problems have got to be worked out sooner or later.

The tariff is a perpetual issue. It is always before us. Just so long as work is done under changing conditions, just so long we will have the tariff question. Hoover probably knows more about international trade than any one else. Speaking briefly of government control of natural resources and flood control, Mrs. Fenner said that Hoover is one of the greatest engineers of the day and has an international reputation. Farm relief cannot be worked out overnight, she said and added Hoover is familiar with relief work.

When we were working for the 18th amendment we were told we must keep the liquor question out of politics by the politicians who had put it into politics. With reference to prohibition, the speaker said she believes it is the most important question we have to settle today. It is in the constitution and it will be prettily nearly as long a process to get it out as it was to get it in. Of course we can nullify it. They say things are worse now than they were before prohibition. You know that isn't so. Mrs. Fenner characterized prohibition as the greatest moral experiment any civilized country has ever started.

Mrs. Fenner scored the men and women who neglect to exercise their privilege of voting. If we don't do our duty we can wreck any political party, she said in her closing words.

Speaks for Governor Smith

Mrs. Alice Mooney, vice chairman of the democratic state central committee, of Waterbury was the next speaker. Mrs. Mooney spoke on Gov. Alfred E. Smith and his qualifications as a presidential candidate. Mrs. Mooney said she has been a member of the League of Women Voters since 1921 and expressed regret that there are so many women who haven't availed themselves of the opportunity of league membership.

Mrs. Mooney reviewed, briefly, Gov. Smith's life history from the time of his birth on the "East Side" in New York city. He was born and lived on the East Side and his father was a truckman, she said. Doubtless on December 30, 1873, when he was born, many other children were born in more pretentious homes, but none of them occupy the position he does today. He was given his father's name, Alfred Emanuel and the family numbered four. As a small boy he sold papers. At 13 he obtained a job in Fulton fish market and in later years referred to his "alma mater" as F. F. M. (Fulton Fish Market).

One of Gov. Smith's outstanding characteristics is his wonderful memory, said Mrs. Mooney. His honesty, sobriety and clear headedness attracted the political leaders in his community. Gov. Smith has the magnetism of a born leader of men. The friends of his youth are greeted cordially wherever he meets them. He is no snob and he has no use for snobbishness. Many times the charge that Gov. Smith is a man of Tammany is brought against him. If Tammany means furnishing shoes for thousands of children, let us have more of it.

If Tammany means providing gifts and Christmas trees for thousands of children, let's have more of it. If Tammany means furnishing coal and medicine for thousands of others, let's have more of it.

Tammany was founded before the revolutionary war. Five of our early presidents were members of Tammany. Of course, during the long years some dishonest men got in. Just as dishonest men get into mission societies, banks and even in the president's cabinet.

Gov. Smith was married in 1900. In 1903 he was elected to the New York state assembly and served until 1915. He was instrumental in putting into law many matters of interest to women. In 1915 he became sheriff of New York county. He was endorsed by both parties. In 1918 he was elected governor and took th eoath of office in January 1919. The new governor was delightfully informel with his friends but he never forgot the dignity of his office. Mrs. Mooney told of his vetoing the law that would have abolished the direct primary and of the many beneficial laws he worked for.

Mrs. Mooney said that Mrs. Smith would prove a worthy successor to the best that has ever been in the white house. Al Smith is human, she said, and his personality appeals to the people.

Hoover's Outstanding Fitness

The final speaker of the evening was Mrs. Gilman. She devoted her talk to Herbert Hoover. If you are going to employ a captain of a ship, the one predominant thing is his ability to run that ship, said Mrs. Gilman. It is true that Mr. Smith has been a good, honest and efficient governor. I will admit that practice in any art or science is an excellent thing The president of the United States has not only to understand local needs, state needs, and national needs, but he should be prepared to face the needs of America with the nations of the world. The international problems are the most important problems of today. Hoover is a man who has personally dealt with peoples and the needs of other nations. He has moved in a different area of experience than Gov. Smith.

Mrs. Gilman said that one of the most important things to hold in our minds is the danger of ceasing to be the United States of America. She said that in 1920 the males of voting age of native white parentage were only 100,000 over one half of the total. Almost half of us come from somewhere else, she said. It is a very serious matter if we lose our national character. Unless the national danger is met in a few years more the native citizens will be helpless in their own country.

Hoover shows that we need to not only protect industry but that we need to protect the labor of the United States. Every additional million that comes to this country tends to lower wages.

With reference to Mr. Hoover and Gov. Smith, Mrs. Gilman said: "I do not think, as far as personal character, there is anything except an exchange of compliments."

Mrs. Gilman said that what Hoover sees to be wise and right he will do. It will be a good thing for this country, she said, to have for its chief executive, a man who is known among the great men of the world. Mrs. Gilman said that Hoover is the best candidate America has had set before her in many a year. If Hoover were the democratic nominee I would vote for him, said Mrs. Gilman.

The meeting came to a close about 9.45 o'clock.

CORONER MAKES FINDING ON FATAL ACCIDENT

Coroner Edward G. McKay in a finding made public today sets forth that no one is responsible for the death of Abner F. Tilton, Jr., 30, of Hartford, who died in a hospital at New London, from injuries received in the town of Montville on Aug. 26, last, when a Buick touring car, owned by Ethel M. Reardon of Hartford and driven by Tilton, collided with a stone wall. Tilton sustained a laceration of the brain, crushed left chest, multiple fracture of the left knee, multiple contusions and abrasions about the body.

In his finding, Coroner McKay says;

On Aug. 26 and at about 1 a. m., (d. s. t.), in company with Gilbert Doyle and Charles Terry, both of Hartford, the said Abner F. Tilton, Jr., left Hartford in the said automobile, intending to drive to New London and to spend the day there and at the beach. The said Doyle sat in the front seat with the said Tilton and the said Terry sat alone on the rear seat. This pleasure trip was arranged at the time of departure and there was no particular plan—for the trip nor for any of its details.

The said Abner F. Tilton, Jr. drove the said automobile to New London along the Hartford-Colchester-New London highway. After arriving there it was still dark and the party decided to ride around until daylight, at which time they intended to go to Ocean Beach, outside of New London. The said Tilton suggested that they ride to Norwich, about thirteen miles north of New London, and then return to New London. At about 3.30 a. m. (d. s. t.), they started along the Norwich-New London highway, on the west side of the Thames river. This latter highway is surfaced with cement and is in a very good state of repair the entire distance. At this time the surface was wet from a heavy mist which was falling.

During the ride up the said Norwich-New London highway, the said Tilton was operating the said automobile at a speed averaging between 40 and 45 miles per hour. Until he came to the Uncasville Four Corners he had the said automobile well under control and was driving about in the center of the road. At this time there was no traffic on the road and the visibility was poor.

Near the said Four Corners the said highway goes down a slight grade and bears gently to the right. It continues along said curve and crosses a spur track of the Central Vermont Railroad company and continues then straight up a steeper grade beyond the said track. The trolley tracks of the Connecticut company follow on the right hand or easterly side of said highway at this place and branch off the highway to the east near the aforementioned spur track. At a point about half way along said down grade an intersecting highway crosses the said Norwich-New London highway and leads westerly to Palmertown and eventually to the Norwich-Salem highway. This intersection is almost at right angles. Notices of the curve and intersection are posted at points some distance southerly of the curve and intersection, to warn travelers going north on the Norwich-New London highway.

Near the northwest corner of the intersection of the two said highways, a tight stone wall, about three feet high, is built, and runs along the west side of Norwich highway, and acts as a protection against a drop from the highway. The said stone wall curves westerly into the Palmertown road, and runs along that road for a very short distance. Near the west side of the intersection of the two highways, and about in the center of the Palmertown road, there is a traffic beacon with a red light showing on the top, the purpose of which is to direct traffic into and out of the said Palmertown road, but does not interfere with traffic on the Norwich-New London road.

The said Abner F. Tilton, Jr. approached the said intersection and started down the aforementioned grade. For some unknown reason the said Tilton continued to drive the said automobile in a straight course without following the general curve in the road. He applied the brakes of the car as he came over the crown of the hill. All four wheels locked and the rear wheels did not follow in line with the front ones. From the crown of the hill where the marks of the wheels were visible the said Tilton drove his car on an angle to the usual course of the Norwich-New London highway, as though he were going to turn westerly into the Palmertown road, but after swinging to the left shoulder of the former highway he continued straight ahead without turning the wheels further. At this time he was very near to the said stone wall. The said automobile then struck the said stone wall, the left spring guard and fire striking the said wall. The automobile then continued on for about ten feet scraping along the side of the said wall tearing the left front door off and demolishing the left side of the car. The automobile finally left the said wall, went across the highway, turning around, and came to rest on the easterly side of the Norwich-New London highway facing toward New London. After the machine came to a stop, the said Abner F. Tilton, Jr., was found unconscious on the road suffering from the aforementioned injuries. He was taken to the Lawrence and Memorial Hospital, where he died shortly afterwards from the said injuries. The two passengers received a shaking up, but had no serious injuries.

There does not appear to be any known reason for the direction taken by the automobile after it came over the brow of the aforementioned grade. The driver was sober and apparently in possession of all his senses. His attention was not distracted by any traffic nor by any actions of his passengers. From the course of the automobile, two theories may be advanced; namely, that after the driver came over the brow of the hill he may have decided to turn westerly into the Palmertown road and failed to do so on account of the grade and the slippery condition of the road, which two factors combined with the speed of the car, made a turn extremely difficult, if not impossible. Another theory may be that due to the poor visibility, the driver may have mistaken the said stone wall for a part of the highway and discovered his mistake too late to avoid hitting the wall. The driver gave no expression of his thoughts while the car was going down the grade nor immediately before.

I am satisfied and find that the death of the said Abner F. Tilton, Jr. was not caused by the criminal act, omission or negligence of any other person or persons.

NIANTIC

Rev. and Mrs. Frank A. Fuller of Putnam are spending a week at Black Point, guests of Miss Payne. The Rev. and Mrs. Fuller are well known locally, especially by the Congregational church parishioners as a number of years ago the former was pastor of the local church and lived at the parsonage.

The annual town meeting took place Monday night at the town hall in Flanders. Many important matters were brought up for consideration.

The executive committee of the Niantic and East Lyme branches of the American Red Cross met early in the week at the school house in Flanders and made plans to donate the sum of ten dollars for the benefit of the Porto Rican sufferers.

It is understood in political circles that Walter G. Barker has withdrawn his name on the democratic ticket running for town tax collector against Charles R. Tubbs, republican. Mr. Barker states "he does not choose to run." The name of A. R. Wolf has been mentioned in his place.

Following the prayer meeting service Friday evening in the vestry of the Methodist church there was an official board meeting to make plans for rally day, October first.

BOTH GIANTS AND CARDS WIN TO HOLD PLACES IN NATIONAL CIRCUIT

Home Runs Beat Reds

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—(AP)—A deluge of home runs that swamped Ray Kolp, Cincinnati right hander, enabled the New York Giants to remain in the thick of the National league pennant race, a game behind the St. Louis Cardinals. The Giants took today's game from the Reds, 7 to 4.

All seven of New York's runs came on homers into the right field stands, four of them in all. Frank O'Doul hit two of the circuit drives. In the first inning he broke the ice with a four bagger with no one on base and in the third he repeated the act, scoring Welsh ahead of him. Mel Ott followed O'Doul's first homer with another just like it. Jackson drove out the fourth homer of the day to break a tie score in the eighth. This wallop accounted for three runs as Lindstrom and Terry had singled before Jackson came up to bat.

Larry Benton, New York's pitching star, won his 25th victory of the season, but failed to show his usual effectiveness. The Reds hit freely off his delivery, getting eleven safeties, but none of them went for four bases and the brilliant errorless support the Giants gave their moundsman pulled him over several difficulties.

Except for the four homers, Kolp pitched an effective game for the Reds. He gave only nine hits, and few of the five that did not go into the stands counted.

The Giants scored two quick runs in the first on the first pair of homers when O'Doul and Ott successively found the range of the right field stands. O'Doul's second homer gave them a 4 to 1 lead in the third, but the Reds, scoring one run at a time pulled up until they tied the count in the eighth and set the stage for Jackson's winning homer.

The first Cincinnati run came in the third on singles by Ford and Pipp with an intervening walk to Dressen. The Reds scored again in the fifth when Critz beat out a bunt, went to second on Dressen's single, reached third on a wild pitch and came home on Pipp's sacrifice.

Another run in the seventh on singles by Kolp and Dressen, a force out that put Critz on first and Pipp's second sacrifice fly which scored him from third, and one in the eighth made on a triple and a sacrifice, brought the Reds up to even terms. The score:

CUBS NOSE OUT PHILLIES IN TIGHT ENCOUNTER

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24—(AP)—Opening their farewell appearance of the season in Philadelphia, the Chicago Cubs defeated the Phillies, 7 to 6 today. A Phillies flare-up in the ninth with four hits and an error gave the tail-enders three runs and Chicago a scare. Percy Lee Jones and Hal Carlson were called from the bull pen to halt the Phillies. Kiki Cuyler hit a home run in the third with one on. The score:

Cards Stage Batting Attack

BROOKLYN, Sept. 24—(AP)—A savage batting attack that netted fourteen hits kept the St. Louis Cardinals a game ahead of the Giants today as the league leaders easily defeated the Robins, 9 to 2. Pitching a steady game, Grover Cleveland Alexander veteran St. Louis hurler, never was in serious danger after the third inning when his mates gave him a lead.

Jim Bottomley, again delivered the longest blow of the contest when he drove his 31st home run of the season over the right field wall in the fifth inning to take the league lead in four baggers. It was his second homer in two days and put him one ahead of Hack Wilson of Chicago in the race for the home run crown. Nobody was on base.

Brooklyn used three pitchers in a vain attempt to stop the St. Louis attack. Jim Elliott started the game but began wavering in the third when his rival moundsman started a three run rally with a clean single. Douthit's single and High's sacrifice fly put Alexander around the bases. Douthit stole second and scored on Frisch singled, Bottomley walked, and scored on Bottomley's infield out when he collided with Gooch and the Brooklyn catcher dropped the throw to the plate. The collision gave Gooch a bad shaking up and he had to leave the game.

Elliott passed out of the picture when the Cards continued their attack in the third opening with a double by Wilson and a single by Maranville. Ehrhardt stepped in here and yielded two hits to Alexander and Douthit, each of which drove in a run. Moss relieved Ehrhardt and finished the game although he failed to stop the Cardinals' batting attack. He yielded four runs and six hits, including Bottomley's homer. The Cards finished their scoring in the seventh when they got three runs on two singles, a double and a walk. Frisch, singled, Bottomley walked, and Hafey drove both in with a double. Orsatti ran for Hafey and came home on Holm's single.

The Robins got only eight hits off Alexander, they had a brief lead when they scored in the first. Gilbert and Hendrick bunted safely, Herman put Gilbert on third with a sacrifice and he came home when Bressler forced Hendrick. Bissonette's single followed by Bancroft's triple gave them their other run in the fourth.

MISS ORCUTT LEADS IN WOMEN'S NATIONAL GOLF

By BRIAN BELL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CASCADE GOLF CLUB, Hot Springs, Va., Sept. 24—(AP)—A score of 80 won the medal in the qualifying round of the women's national golf championship today but a total of 91 furnished the excitement. Miss Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., player, took the low scoring honors early in the day when she came home in 39 after going out in 41, a count good enough to win the medal by two strokes.

Mrs. C. Kyrie Bellew, the last to qualify, fittingly enough as the daughter-in-law of a great romantic actor of yesterday and wife of a motion picture actor, occupied the center of the stage.

Mrs. Bellew, playing in her first championship, compiled a par four at the eighteenth green protected by deep, blue water, to become 32nd player to enter the match play grind tomorrow.

Until the vivacious, dark-eyed brown-haired Los Angeles woman changed the complexion of things, it was in order for players with scores of 92 to play-off for the one remaining place. The scores of 91 and under have preempted 31 of them.

Frankie Woods Wins

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 24—(AP)—Benny "Kid" Carter, of Mexico City, won a technical knockout over Frankie Dundee, of Lawrence, in the fourth round of a scheduled eight round main bout here tonight.

In a six round preliminary, Frank Woods, of Taunton, won a technical knockout from Frank Caton, of New Bedford; Henry Diamond, of Boston, won a decision over Pancho Villa, of New Bedford and Young Brousseau, of Fall River, won a decision over Pancho Villa, of New Bedford and Young Erpusseau, of Fall River, won a decision over Walter Main, of Westerly, R. I.

FIRST BOUT OF N. E. BANTAMWEIGHT TITLE BOUTS AT NEW LONDON THURS.

Eastern Connecticut, and New London, in particular has been picked as the scene for the setting of the New England bantamweight controversy that now exists. Ernest Fakourey, matchmaker for the New London arena is to stage a series of elimination bouts to seek a suitable opponent for Harry Goldstein, now holder of the New England crown the first of which will be held at New London on Thursday night of this week.

For the first bout he has matched Hughie Devlin, who is now making his home in New London, against Jimmy Picardi of Boston in the feature bout of his card of six bouts. Devlin, who favorably impressed local fight followers with his work in previous bouts, holds a decision over Picardi. But on the other hand Picardi holds a verdict over Devlin which makes Thursday night's scrap a deciding bout as to the relative merits of the two boxers and also eliminates one or the other in the quest of the New England crown.

For the other star bout of the evening Fakourey has matched Eddie Paul, former Woonsocket lightweight against the hard-hitting Eddie Corbett of Bridgeport. Both bouts will be over the eight-round route. Corbett is perhaps the best known of the two fighters through his victories over Day and several other tonliners in the state. Paul is now making his home in New London which is fast becoming a mecca for boxers.

Three six round bouts are listed on the card for Thursday with Johnny Bedell of New London swapping punches with Young Ilison of the U. S. Coast Guard. Bedell is no stranger to local fans and Ilison has an enviable record in the service holding the flyweight championship of the entire Coast Guard service.

Emory Branch of Hartford who is one of the fastest of the 145 poundboys in the state tackles Norman Cutbertson of the Marine corps in another six rounder. Branch is well known in Norwich having fought here as an amateur and then fighting in Westerly as a pro.

Westerly is represented on the card by Kid DeBartalo who is staging a comeback against Eddie Ardos of the Coast Guard. Neither of these younesters need any introduction to local fans.

In the opening bout Young Tauff of the Coast Guard who only this week turned pro, will fight his first professional bout against Kid Langlois of the Submarine base. Tauff is known to be a rugged fighter and can be depended upon to give plenty of action during his 12 minutes in the ring.

This card shapes up as one of the best put on at New London this season and other cards just as attractive are promised by Matchmaker "Pop" Fakourey during the winter months.

PIRATES AND BRAVES GET EVEN BREAK IN DOUBLE BILL

BOSTON, Sept. 24—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates had to work overtime to get an even break from the Boston Braves here today. The vistors took the first game, 3 to 1, in ten innings on Adams' triple, singles by Lloyd Waner and Traynor and a poor throw by Brown.

In the closing contest, Bob Smith held the Pirates to seven hits and the Braves took the game, 4 to 2. Mueller and Bell were the leaders at bat while Lloyd Waner's shoe string catch off Spohrer's bat in left center in the eighth was the fielding feature. The score:

CUBS WIN AND CLAIM CHAMPIONSHIP OF SPRAGUE

The Versailles Cubs on Sunday took their second straight victory from Baltic S. A. C. by the score, 12 to 7, thus claiming the championship of Sprague. This made the fourth straight victory the Cubs having taken from the A. C.'s.

The Cubs gathered 15 hits off the combined pitching of Deutremble and Passmore. The A. C.'s also hit well getting 10 hits off of Godaire but were unable to bunch them and scored most of the runs on errors.

Shovel and Finn of the Cubs were hitting stars, the former getting four hits out of five trips to the plate while the latter had two doubles and a single out of five trips. Deutremble of the A. C.'s also had a good day getting three out of four trips.

The Cubs challenge either the Smoke Shop or All-Greeneville for a series of games. For arrangements call 1942-5 between 6:30 or 7 o'clock any night this week.

ACADEMY OPENS WITH CHAPMAN TECH SATURDAY

The Academy now faces but four days before its opening grid game of the season. Saturday afternoon at New so opens the Red and White's campaign in the newly formed school conference in this section.

Coach Whitney has been drilling his boys hard for the last ten days and seems to have found a fairly strong combination that, however, having but four veterans, lacks experience. It is a bit too early yet in the drills to write down any first team for Saturday's engagement but hopes run high at the local school for a successful year with the list of candidates available.

Workouts will continue stiff today, Wednesday and Thursday with probably a light signal drill on Friday.

Chapman Tech of late has been considered but a set-up for the locals but a one-sided victory that was scored over Plainfield last Saturday bids the locls to go at top speed all the way in this tilt.

NO CHANGE IN RELATIVE POSITIONS OF LEADERS IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

Yankees' Chances Bettered

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24—(AP)—The relative status of the New York Yanks and the Philadelphia Athletics in the race for the American league pennant remained unchanged today. The Yankees lost the second game of the series to Cleveland 4 to 3. But the Athletics also lost to St. Louis. The double loss resulted in favor of the Yankees. With only six games left for New York and five for Philadelphia the two game margin by which the Yankees lead grows relatively larger every day that neither makes a gain.

Lefty Walter Miller, who beat the Athletics last week for Cleveland's only victory in 16 games, pitched the Indians to victory today. The Yankees got only five hits off Miller while the Indians battered Pipgras from the box with nine, then obtained two more off the delivery of Lefty Heimach. It was the third unsuccessful start of the present western tour for Pipgras.

Cleveland scored two runs in the second inning to take the lead after the Yankees had tallied once in their half of the frame. Hodapp and L. Sewell singled. Tucker sacrificed and Dorman sent the two runners home with another single. The Indians added a third run in the third on a double by J. Sewell followed by a single by Hodapp.

The winning run was scored in the sixth inning after the Yankees had tied the count in the fifth. Hodapp opened the frame with his third successive single and came home on Luke Sewell's long triple over Ruth's head. This blow ended Pipgras' stay in the box and brought Heimach to the rescue.

The first Yankee run in the second inning was the result of a single by Meusel followed by a fumble by Dorman that allowed him to reach second. a passed ball that sent him to third, and a sacrifice fly by Gazella that drove in the run. In the fifth a double by Combs, a walk granted to Koenig and another double by Ruth that scored Combs and sent Koenig to third. Koenig scored the tying run on Gehrig's sacrifice.

Combs' double was his first hit in four games while Ruth who returned from a similar batting slum yesterday barely managed to keep going with his hit: The score:

GOSLIN IS HITTING STAR OF SENATORS' VICTORY

CHICAGO, Sept. 24—(AP)—"Goose" Goslin, who is out after the batting championship of the American league, smashed out a home run, a double and a single in four times at bat today and led Washington to an 8 to 4 victory over the White Sox.

The victory pushed the Senators into undisputed possession of fourth place. Goslin drove in four runs and scored another. His homer came in the ninth inning with two on and two out.

Burke and Brazton hurled for the Senators while Adkins, who was on the mound for Chicago, was nicked for 10 safeties. The score:

Asphalt Temperature

How many know that asphalt has to have its temperature taken by the "road doctor" when this paving material is being laid? The mercury must run up to 300 degrees Fahrenheit, if Trinidad asphalt is used. California asphalt works at a lower temperature, but on account of the larger amount of oil contained in it this asphalt is out so lasting as that from the famous beds of Trinidad.

Oil is really essential in the preservation of asphalt paving, but is most beneficial when applied to the finished surface. This is done to a great extent by the lubricant falling from the drip pans of passing motor vehicles. The temperature of Trinidad asphalt ranges from about 275 to 340 degrees, while California varies from 250 to 340 degrees. The thermometer used is of a special construction that will stand the intense heat without breaking. Asphalt pavers always use wooden sandals over their shoes while spreading out this intensely hot material.

American gum is making the jaws of every nation chew. For each man, woman and child in this country, it is estimated that 100 sticks a year are used. American soldiers overseas during the World war exposed much of the rest of the world to the habit. Great Britain has become the best customer, followed by the Netherlands, Mexico and the Philippines, but with Japan, China and Siam not so far behind.

MASSIE B. MILLER, LOCAL PRO GETS 165 IN N. E. P. G. A. PLAY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 25—(AP)—Jack Curley, of Stony Brae and Herbert Lagerblade, of Bristol, Conn., opened up a gap of five strokes over their nearest competitors today as the crea mof New England's professional golfers struggled against an elusive par at the Rhode Island Country club. Curley and Lagerblade, playing together, completed the first 36 holes of the 72 hole battle for the N. E. P. G. A. crown in 154 strokes.

Tees that were set so far back that the drivers were brushing bushes with their clubs and cups that were sunk in almost impossible positions protected par from the field of 50 golfers who teed off in quest of George Aulbach's title. George himself, ended a day of stress with 163, nine strokes behind the leaders.

Massie Miller, of Norwich, Conn., completed the first 18 holes in 82, and finished the 36 hole with a total of 165.

Crowder Too Strong

ST. LOUIS, Stpt. 24—(AP)—Al Crowder allowed only four hits and the St. Louis Browns defeated the Philadelphia Athletics today, 6 to 2, thus leaving Mack's men two games behind the leading Yankees who lost to the Indians. It was the 20th victory of the season for Crowder.

Neither team scored until the sixth inning when O'Rourke's single started things going for the Browns. Manush followed with a double and Schulte was safe on Dykes' fumble. A sacrifice by Kress scored O'Rourke and Brannon's single scored Manush and Schulte, giving the Browns a three run lead.

A double steal by Blue and McNeely in the seventh was responsible for one run and Brannon's single scored another. McGowan hit a home run in the eighth for the Browns' sixth tally.

Crowder held the Macks to a single hit until the ninth when Bishop and Simmons got singles and Fox a double for the Athletics' two runs. The score:

The bearers were Henry Riley, Francis Riley, George Riley and Henry Ritacco.

The Jewish festival of Yom Kippur ended at sundown Monday, closing the observance which began Sunday night at sunset and bringing to a close the period of fasting and repentance observed by Jewish people the first week of their New Year. Yom Kippur, known as the day of atonement, was being observed with solemn services in all synagogues. The blowing of the Shofar or the Ram's horn just before sunset was to indicate the beginning of the harvest period, during which social affairs are held.

A large congregation assembled at Sharoh Zedik synagogue, Union street, where Rabbi Max Augenszicht and Rabbi Philip Goldberg officiated at the services, the congregations being the largest in its history. In observing Yom Kippur, the Jewish people spent 24 hours in praying and fasting, abstaining entirely from food or drink.

Westerly high school football squad under the leadership of Coach D. Harold Rogers has been reduced from 60 to 40. The eleven will be slightly crippled as Robert Gentile, backfield candidate of the team, is out of the game for two or three weeks as the result of an accident. He suffered a sprained ankle while engaged in practice Saturday. The school opens its season Friday afternoon when it faces the Colt Memorial school eleven on the Westerly grounds. Coach Rogers is putting the locals through rigid workouts with hopes of starting the year with a victory. With the exception of last season, the W. H. S. has always scored from its opponents from the Rubber Town of Rhode Island. A year ago the game resulted in a 0 to 0 tie, the cause of a big celebration by the Colt players on their return home to Bristol.

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 24—At the Kingston session Monday morning of Washington county superior court the assault case brought by Chief Brown against Edward Liotta was again continued until this (Tuesday) morning. The Liotta case was passed temporarily when attorneys in the civil suit of Anna M. Jones vs. William P. DeMayo, which went to trial Friday, expressed the opinion that this trial would last through Monday. Witnesses in the Liotta case were excused at 11:30 a. m. with instructions to report at the courthouse this (Tuesday) morning. Liotta is charged with assaulting John DiSantis of Westerly with a dangerous weapon. Three other criminal matters were disposed of Monday morning. Phillas Plante of Manville, driver for the New England Bakery of Pawtucket, pleaded nolo to a charge of reckless driving brought against him by Chief Thomas E. Brown of Westerly as a result of the bakery truck driven by Plante colliding with a truck of the Westerly post office on Aug. 28. In the Third district court, Judge Oliver H. Williams assessed a fine of $100. Plante appealed the case. Today, on recommendation of Third Assistant Attorney General Louis V. Jackvony, who declared that the young man's license would be suspended by the state board of public roads and his means of livelihood taken away if the $100 were allowed to stand, Judge Arthur P. Sumner reduced the fine to $45.

In a quarreling complaint against George C. Moore of Norwich, represented in court by Attorney C. E. Roche, which came before the Third district court in Westerly, Moore, who was charged with parking his car on Main street, Westerly, in violation of a town ordinance, pleaded nolo and was fined $5 and costs. The fine was the same as that imposed by Judge Williams in the Third district court.

The case of State, Joseph W. Marceau, complainant, vs. Frank Easterbrook, was called and defaulted. Easterbrook was charged with reckless driving.

Trial in the civil action of Anna Jones vs. William P. DeMayo was resumed. Miss Jones, a resident of Cleveland, O., seeks damages for injuries sustained by her on July 26, 1926, in an automobile accident at Narragansett Pier. Miss Jones was riding in the car of James McElroy of Providence when the machine was hit by DeMayo's Ford truck.

At 12 o'clock noon all spare jurors were excused by Judge Sumner until Tuesday morning, when a new panel will be drawn for the Liotta trial.

NOANK

DEVEAU, HUMAN FISH, SWIMS TO STONINGTON

George Deveau, the village human fish and long distance swimmer and Manager Eddie Ellis pulled an unexpected stunt. Standing on East Main street corner Saturday morning with several young fellows telling about long distance swimmers and what they could do, Deveau turned to his manager and said: "I will try to swim to Stonington, my last time in the water this year!" Going home after his greed bathing suit, then to the town dock. About 40 members of the Corn Cob club got wind of the plan, getting their cowbells and fish horns to give Long Distance Swimmer Deveau a send-off. Hiring a boat for his staff of officials (it was the boat Flat Iron, Capt. Walter Buddington). Putting a heavy coat of grease over his body to keep away the cold water, he was all ready as the town clock struck 5 o'clock. He made a pretty dive into the harbor for his long swim. The Corn Cob club members started a wild time with bells and horns, cheering the human fish. Many people in the village thought a circus had come to town with the noise. Over 100 saw him go on his way. Boat Flat Iron with Capt. Walter Buddington at the helm was following him close. He was using a slow crawl stroke, saving his power till near the end. The distance is 6 1-2 miles from the town dock to Stonington. Getting near Dodge's Island Manager Ellis said: "How is the water?" "Cold!" was the answer "Don't know if I can make it!" Mike Passi said stick it out. Not far from the goal. Going along fast using a Prospect Hill overhand stroke, looking out for a school of mackerel, he had been 5 hours in the water. Then when only 1 1-4 miles from shore he ran into a large school of jelly fish. One bit him on the leg but did not bother him. He wanted to make the high school town and it was 9.30 o'clock when the human fish made his goal, after being in the water 6 1-2 hours. The men in the boat cheered him and it disturbed several fishermen in boats at the dock. Looking at his leg it was swollen and Trainer Passi fixed it up. Then Deveau was taken into the village in an automobile and went right to bed for a good night's rest, after his hard battle with the waves.

Five Legionnaires of the village who are members of Richard Morgan post, No. 55, left in a sedan bound for New Britain Saturday noon, to take part in the big parade to unveil a $165,000 memorial for all those from that town who died in the World war. The line of march was 3 1-2 miles long and 29 bands kept the air filled with music. About 12 floats were in the parade, making a large and fine parade. Over 100,000 crowded the sidewalks. The Legionnaires from the village marched with the fifth district men.

At the last K. of C. lodge meeting held in Mystic recently at the election for the coming year, three members from Noank were made officers: Chancellor, Amos Banks; outside guard, John Ellis; trustee, William Ellis. After the meeting a social hour was spent. Robert Tooker got out of a packing box in which his brother members had nailed the lid with many long nails so he could not escape, also tying rope around the box. It took him 31 minutes to get out, after working hard. He won a big hand for the stunt. He is Noank's Houdini, being the second trick fellow in the town. Eddie Feeney, sat on the piano stool and played a tune so Jack Ellis could do some soft shoe dancing. Cake and coffee were the lunch.

U. S. STEEL COMMON WAS FEATURE OF HIGHER PRICE MOVEMENT IN MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—(AP)—Establishment of a new 1928 high record by U. S. Steel common featured the resumption of an irregularly higher price movement in today's stock market. Aggressive pool operations lifted nearly two score motors, oils, coppers, foods and specialties to new high ground, but final quotations also disclosed a rather sizable list of net declines. Owing to the observance of the Jewish religious holiday by many operators, trading showed a moderate contraction in volume, although the day's sales were well above 4,000,000 shares.

Wall street apparently was not disturbed by a continuance of relatively high money rates. Call funds were in plentiful supply all day at the renewal figure of 7 1-2 per cent, but a stiffer undertone was apparent in the time money market. Many bankers are reported to have declined to renew time loans, throwing the burden of stock speculation on the call loan market.

Establishment of another new low by sterling exchange revived hopes of further gold shipments here from Great Britain to relieve the credit strain. Argention is considered another possible source of gold exports as that country has more gold than it needs and the Argentine exchange rate is below dollar parity. Inasmuch as Wall street figures that each dollar in gold forms the basis for $10 in credit, a fresh supply of the precious yellow metal would be looked upon as a bullish development.

U. S. Steel common returned to its old role as a market leader by crossing 161 to the highest price since the declaration of the 40 per cent. stock dividend in January 1927, closing at 160 5-8 for a net gain of nearly 3 points. Youngstown moved up 2 1-4 points, but the other steel showed little change.

Coppers received considerable stimulus from the advance in the prices of export copper and brass. Anaconda, Kennecott, Howe Sound, Cerro de Pasco, Magma and U. S. Smelting all moved into new high ground.

Speculative activity in the motor group was divided among Chrysler, Packard and Graham-Paige, all of which reached new high ground, and Hudson Motors which ran up more than 3 points on unconfirmed reports that the Cutten-Durant group had become interested in the stock. General Motors closed unchanged at 213 3-4 after fluctuating between 212 1-4 and 215 1-2.

Briggs Manufacturing was again in brisk demand, touching a new high record at 57 1-4 on reports of record breaking earnings. The company is understood to have taken over, or begun the construction of new plants to take care of the increased business from Chrysler, Ford and other manufacturers. Motor Products scored a sensational advance of 18 points by touching a new peak at 193 but lost nearly 2 points of its gain. Murray corporation and Eaton Axle also reached new high ground.

Oils received some stimulus from unconfirmed rumors of an early increase in mid-continent crude prices. Atlantic Refining, Skelly and Sinclair reaching new high ground. Mexican Seaboard was another strong feature. Coty, Jewel Tea, Otis Elevator and Union Carbide also showed outstanding strength. American Linseed, City Stores B, Freeport Texas and Montgomery-Ward were conspicuously heavy.

A rally of 70 cents in cotton to $1.25 a bale was the only development of consequence in the commodity markets. Wheat futures ruled fractionally lower but corn displayed a firmer undertone. Coffee and sugar held steady.

Except for the establishment of a new low by sterling cables at $4.84 15-16, there was little of interest in the foreign exchange market.

DANIELSON

RED CROSS APPEALS FOR AID FOR HURRICANE SUFFERERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 24—A telegram this morning to Secretary Ernest R. Warren of the Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross accentuates the magnitude of the Porto-Rico-Florida hurricane disaster, and requests additional aid from the local organization.

The telegram reads: "First surveys of the Porto Rico and Florida disaster received at midnight by cable from Biker and telephone from Schaffer indicate needs both places far exceed preliminary estimate. In Porto Rico 400,000 destitute and near to starvation, with grave health problems and threatened epidemics. Refugees must be fed, clothed, sheltered by Red Cross for long emergency period. In Florida 15,000 families require immediate emergency aid and later rehabilitation. Five million dollars will be absolute minimum required as relief fund. This places your chapter quota at $425. Confident when people of your community realize grave need, response will be immediate and generous. Will you bend every effort to exceed quota if possible?"

JOHN BARTON PAYNE.

It will be recalled that during the past week the Danielson chapter of the Red Cross cabled $200 for the hurricane relief fund. It also is a matter of recent memory that the local chapter announced that it did not intend to make any appeals for funds here during the course of any year excepting at the time of the annual roll call in November. Here is a situation, however, that forces a prompt revival of that program, as such programs must be revised to meet emergencies. The Danielson chapter district is now asked to give $225 in addition to what it already forwarded.

This opportunity to give for the relief of suffering humanity is expected to find a ready response in Danielson and surrounding territory. In a way, this chance to help the suffering will be welcomed by many who have come to be nauseated by national politics and certain aspects relating to that subject in the current campaign, and to give where giving will aid some blighted human being whatever may believe, or regardless of whether or not he believes anything at all.

Contributions to a fund where generous people may find an outlet for their good will may be made to any of Danielson's bank treasurers.

Twaine St. Germain, a youth of 20, is scheduled to appear in the town court Tuesday morning to face charges of stealing chickens and to using an automobile without the consent of the owner. Incidentally, St. Germain, whose home is said to be in West Warwick, R. I., is an escaped inmate of a Rhode Island penal institution, to which he was committed for offences similar to which he will be charged in the local court. His escape is understood to have occurred in Rhode Island about two years ago, and he is said to have been in this territory much of the intervening time.

St. Germain will be charged in the local court with having stolen three different lots of chickens, some of these being taken in the vicinity of East Killingly, and with entering the Starkweather garage in Academy street, at night, and taking out cars for rides without knowledge or permission of the owner, Henry H. Starkweather. State police here were holding St. Germain today.

For the information of the hundreds of subscribers of The Bulletin in this town, it may be stated this morning that the paper has taken steps to insure the customary early morning deliveries and to overcome the delays that have been so frequent of late through the late arrival here of what for years was known as the morning boat train. This train did not arrive here this morning until approximately 8.45, too late for school boys who cover The Bulletin routes to make deliveries before reporting for classes. Similar situations arose on three days of the past week. Immediate steps to remedy this situation will be taken by The Bulletin Co.

Wednesday afternoon of this week at 1:30, there is to be a cooking demonstration in the vestry of the Westfield Congregational church under the auspices of the Killingly Woman's club. This demonstration was postponed from a few days ago. The demonstrator is to be Mrs. Carolyn Webber Boxhe of Boston, an outstanding expert in her line. The Killingly Woman's club is graciously inviting all who are interested in such demonstrations to be their guests upon this occasion.

This morning Supt. W. E. Parker of Killingly's schools expressed his appreciation of the prompt acquiescence of children and the parents of children relative to roller skating and use of scooters on walks and drives about the high school building after school hours and on Saturdays. It will be recalled that school authorities announced the past week end that they were in receipt of complaints that the activities of children with their skates and scooters approximated something approaching a nuisance. Publication of the fact brought a ratifying results, and school officials are appreciative.

Joseph Vicas of North Grosvenordale is due for an appearance in the Killingly town court Tuesday morning. He will answer to failure to grant right of way last Saturday night when the car he was driving figured in a jam that involved three cars on the new connecticut highway just north of Attawaugan. As the result of the accident four women who were riding in a light sedan owned by Emma Benoit of Putnam and operated at the time by Clara Benoit were subjected to minor abrasions and bruises. The accident appears to have come about through the fact that a car owned by Wilfred Leger of Ballouville was parked at the edge of the highway, forcedly, because of a broken axle. The stalled car was showing proper lights. Broken glass in the Benoit car is said to have caused the casual injuries the occupants of the machine received.

Wilbroad Geaudreau of, Walnut street, Putnam, and Leonard C. Kempton to Franklin street, Danielson, drivers of automobiles that were in a crash at Elmville Saturday night appeared before Judge W. Fenner Woodward, in the town court this morning, and both received small fines and costs incident to prosecution of their cases. Geaudreau was fined $5 and cost for failing to grant the right of way, which, with costs, amounted to an assessment of $15.37. Kempton was fined $1.00 and actual costs for being without an operator's license at the time of the accident, though he was able to establish to the satisfaction of the court that he possessed, but like many other drivers, was without it at the time the required credential of the state might have proved of real value to him.

Thursday afternoon of this week members of the Killingly Woman's club are to be entertained at "The Elms" on Church street in Brooklyn.

Mrs. John Murphy and children, Marie and Joseph, of Worcester, were guests yesterday of Miss Mayme Dunn of Danielson.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. J. E. Allen

Mrs. Martha Gallup Allen, 70, widow of J. Edward Allen, died this afternoon at her home on the West Side. She had been in failing health for some time and about two weeks ago was stricken with a shock and had since remained unconscious. She was born in Plainfield, June 9, 1858, the daughter of Simon and Louise Gardner Sheppard. Her husband died a year ago last January. Mrs. Allen leaves the following brothers and sisters: John G. Sheppard of Washington, D. C., Charles C Sheppard of Olneyville, R. I., and Everett Shenard of Seakonk, Mass., Mrs. H. B. Johnson of North Attleboro, Mass., and Miss Annie M. Sheppard of Norwich.

Mrs. Anastasia Roy

Today at her home on Dyer street, the death of Mrs. Anastasia Roy, 62, occurred suddenly, although she had been in poor health for some time. Mrs. Roy, a native of Canada, was the widow of Laurence Roy, who died a number of years ago. Mrs. Roy is survived by two daughters, Misses Rosanna and Rachel and the following sisters and brothers: Misses Marie Champagne and Maroda and Joseph and Alma, all of Danielson, Hector of Canada, Peter and Louis of Woonsocket.

Mrs. Godfrey Delage

A death at Moosup was that of Mrs. Elizabeth Delage, 51, wife of Godfrey Delage, on Sunday. Mrs. Delage was a native of Springfield, Mass., and is survived by her husband, a son, Joseph, and a daughter, Mrs. Samuel Kay, all of Moosup.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Baker in Central Village yesterday at 2 o'clock funeral services for Mrs. Hanna Bradford were conducted by Rev. Mr. Reece of that place. Burial being in Kerry cemetery in Canterbury. The bearers were Peter Dennis, Edward Cutler, A. T. J. Clark and Martin Davis. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

Additional workers were included on the force engaged this morning on forwarding the construction of the Brooklyn Saving bank's new building. This structure will be completed and ready for occupancy some time during the winter season.

Arthur ("Pop") Williams, former Connecticut Aggies football star and whose home is here, came through Sunday in his first professional game with the Providence Steam Rollers in fine style, contributing a touchdown and being a factor in various big gains for his team.

Rabbi Globus of Providence was here today to conduct services in the Majestic theatre, temporarily serving as a synagogue, in observance of the Day of Atonement, one of the most solemn days in the Hebrew year. The Day of Atonement ended at sunset tonight.

County Sealer Caston A. Maindon, whose home is here, is so much improved in health after an absence of several weeks from his business interests, as to plan to resume them next Monday.

A registered Ayrshire bull, one of the finest animals in the dairy herds of this section of eastern Connecticut, has been sold for beef by Everill James of the Green Hollow road. The animal had reached the age of seven years.

Treasurer Victor Anderson of the Connecticut Mills company is away on a trip that will take him to the new plant of the company at Albany-Decatur, Ala.

This is the last week that the borough of Danielson will get along without inspections as to fire and health hazards. The newly appointed public safety marshal, Chief A. P. Woodward of the fire department, will begin his duties Monday of next week.

This is the week that closes the annual town election campaign, that is so overshadowed this year by state and national political activities. Next Monday the polls will open in the town hall at 8 a. m., and all will be agreed on standard time observance that day, for the election of town officers. The annual town business meeting is scheduled for the afternoon of that day.

Officials here who have been intimately concerned with the case regard the present week as the closing one in th trial of Roland Lalone and Albert Raymond, being tride for the murder of State Officer Irving H. Nelson of the Danielson barracks at Pomfret on April 6.

An envelope containing money lost. Please return to 101 Main St.—Adv.

Laird Winchel, newly appointed borough police officer for night duty, will go on duty Tuesday evening of this week. Special Officer Hosea Greene has ben on duty weeks for the past fortnight.

No announcement has come as yet from democratic circles in Killingly as to who the candidates for representatives will be on that party's ticket in the November elections.

Slot machines that vend simple medicinal remedies are being tested in London.

PUTNAM

LIQUOR LADEN CAR DITCHED NEAR GROSVENORDALE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 24—Contraband liquor traffic over the Massachusetts line into Connecticut is fast being halted by the state troopers of the Danielson state police barracks. Sunday evening the state officers took into custody a large Chrysler touring car that had capsized on the North Grosvenordale highway, while it was laden with 29 gallons of contraband alcohol and other intoxicants. The state officers arrived at the scene a few minutes after the crash, but too late to apprehend the occupants of the car. A search of the property in the vicinity was made and is still being pursued yet it was fruitless until late this afternoon.

At the state police barracks in Danielson today it was learned that the car is the property of Miss Edith Clark of 77 John's street, Hartford. The troopers are to check the car with the alleged owner and she will be questioned as to why it was transporting the liquor. From Danielson came word late this afternoon that no arrests had been made in connection with the case.

It is evident that the driver and occupants of the car were fully aware of the state police patrol in North Grosvenordale, which is but a few miles from the state line, and they made their escape in another car as soon as their car turned over without attempting to save the contents.

The Putnam evening school will reopen again this year, according to a statement this morning by Supt. of Schools Leon M. Farrin. The sessions of the evening school will be open to all in the city except students enrolled in the city day schools. The enrollment night will be Oct. 1, at 7:15 o'clock.

As in preceding years, the subjects to be offered will be Americanism, short hand, typing and bookkeeping. Superintendent Farrin said this morning that the faculty of the evening school has not been completed as yet but a further announcement will be made regarding the teaching staff of the school.

The classes in Americanism in past years have been highly patronized by aliens desiring to become citizens of the United States and the advance enrollment indicates that a large number will re-enter the school this year to complete their work in the study of America. The other subjects which deal principally with the commercial work have aided greatly in the securing of positions. Many of the graduates of Putnam high school commercial departments have enrolled to keep up in their studies.

Complaints were received today from a number of tourists passing through Putnam and being unable to find any route marks that will direct them to the various cities. In the center of the business section, mounted on the silent policeman in Bussbe square, is a box sign, bearing the name of a leading hotel in the city on the east and west sides and on the north and south sides are pointers directing one, in an unclear fashion to the other points through Putnam.

The inability of autoists being able to decipher the markings on this advertising board and route indicator has been the cause of several collisions in the square, when a driver stops his car in the center of the square in an effort to find his road bearings. Criticisms are being offered each time this event occurs and one was quoted this morning as saying, 'Putnam should forget airplane signs for the present and place a few suitable directions about the city first.'

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the chapel of the Second Congregational church for Maurice B. Fuller, who died Saturday in Noank. The service was in charge of Rev James F. English, pastor of the church. Several of the friends and relatives of the former Putnam man were in attendance at the service. Burial was in Grove street cemetery.

Miss Katherine Byrne of Putnam, vice-chairman of the republican state central committee, left this morning for Hartford, where she will devote the coming weeks of the campaign to work at the republican state headquarters in Hartford.

Yom Kippur or day of atonement, was observed by the members of the Jewish faith in Putnam today. Services were held Sunday evening at the Temple Israel synagogue on Main street and were largely attended. The services were continued today as the observance of Yom Kippur does not officially end until sunset.

Priv. Henry Bugbee, a member of the United States marine corps, stationed in Cape Haitien in the republic of Haiti, writes that the island was devastated and scores of the natives were killed and injured as the result of the West Indian hurricane that recently swept over the south. Private Bugbee in letters to his Putnam friend, stated that the marine barracks were substantial enough to weather the storm that wrought death to the hundreds of residents and none of the garrison was injured. The marines are now in command of the island and are aiding the Red Cross units in restoring order and helping the injured.

Miss Blanche Bousquet of this city and William Dumas, son of Mrs. Louise Dumas of Bridge street, were united in marriage this morning at a nuptial high mass at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. U. O. Belleroce, pastor of the church. Following the wedding a reception was held at the groom's home on Bridge street.

While engaged in painting a house from a staging, Adjuter Benoit of 269 Church street suffered a severe fracture of the left arm as the result of a roof board slipping out of position and striking him on the arm. Mr. Benoit was working on the Bonneville house on Green street and was near to the ground when the board struck him and knocked him to the ground. He was rushed to the Day-Kimball hospital in the ambulance and treated for the injuries.

Mrs. Margaret Gahan and Mrs. Berenice G. Delany of Main street spent Sunday with friends in Woonsocket.

Morning mail and newspapers arrived in Putnam this morning exactly three hours and 15 minutes late. This great delay was due to the combination freight and passenger makeup train being late. The train, carrying a great amount of first class mail in addition to registered mail and nearly all of the newspapers due in Putnam at 6:16, did not arrive until 9:25. Scores of protests have been coming in from the business houses of the city each morning during the past summer because the train was delayed a few minutes, but a record for a late arrival in a run of less than 50 miles, put nearly every merchant and banker on the warpath this morning as well as a number of citizens who depend upon the timely arrival of their mail. The mail comes from New York to New London and is placed aboard this train and its irregularity seen this morning caused a general tie-up among the business houses. The delay this morning was laid to the switching off and taking on of freight cars, of which the train is made up excepting for a mail car and milk car. The switching resulted in the mail being exceptionally late, and set a new record for delay. The hope for improvement of service voiced this morning and it is believed will even grow darker after the daylight saving time schedule passes out next Saturday. Again the concerns having private interests aboard the tardy train have circulated talk of using trucks to carry their parcels over the highways. Some mail is transported over the highway from New London by truck and manages to maintain a fairly good schedule, yet the bulk of it and the registered mail is carried by mail since no clerk accompanies the truck driver over the route.

The Red Cross appeal for donations to aid the suffering victims of the hurricane disaster in Florida is receiving little attention in Putnam and vicinity. An official of the chapter was interviewed Saturday and reported that only a few donations had been received. The response given to the appeal is the smallest ever paid to any Red Cross drive, where funds were asked for. An urgent request has been issued by the committee to have the Putnam residents answer the cause more strongly. Contributions should be directed to the local Red Cross chapter.

James Kelly of Milton street and Ralph Gahan of Main street spent the week-end with relatives in Rockville, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Averill of Springfield, Mass., have returned to their homes after a visit with Mrs. Averill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren W. Averill, of Pleasant street.

Miss Edith Pease of Manchester spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Pease, of Fremont street.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at the undertaking parlors of Smith & Walker, for Mrs. Lottie Sturtevant of Marshall street, who died Friday. The service was officiated at by Rev. John Duxbury of the Methodist Episcopal church, of which Mrs. Sturtevant was a member. A number of friends of the deceased were in attendance.

Moses Deveau of Bolles street, who was seriously injured at the Bloom Silk Co. Friday evening, sustaining a fracture of the skull, underwent a decompression today and late this afternoon it was announced that his chances for recovery were much brighter. Deveau is a native of Salmon River, Nova Scotia.

County Investigator William E. Jackson of Willimantic, a leading figure on the investigating staff of the state in the prosecution of the "Ice Box" bandits, was in Putnam today on business.

NEW PAMPHLET DESCRIBES STATE FOREST AT PACHAUG

A copy of the first edition of the booklet The State Forests of Connecticut and What They Are For, by Austin F. Hawes, state forester, has been received. It contains the following interesting description of and information concerning the local park of 1,174 acres:

Pachaug Forest. This forest recently purchased in Voluntown is part of the large forest region which extends over eastern Connecticut and western Rhode Island. It is reached by Route 321 from Jewett City. This forest represents, perhaps, the most devastated part of New England, and was recommended several years ago for a state forest. The tree growth has been cut again and again without regard to reproduction of favorable species and the soil has been depleted by repeated forest fires. Only by thorough protection against fire and the gradual enrichment of the soil by the accumulation of leaf litter can this forest be brought up to a high condition of productivity. The presence of pine and the southern white cedar add to its possibilities in this direction. The chief immediate value of this forest is undoubtedly for fish and game purposes. Excellent trout brooks have long made this region a haven for fishermen. A portion of this tract was granted by Connecticut colony to volunteers in appreciation of their services in the early Indian wars. It is undoubtedly within the early hunting grounds of the Narragansett Indians.

STONINGTON

COMMUNITY SERVICE ASS'N PLANS REORGANIZATION

The Stonington Community Service association is to hold its meeting in the Community house Monday evening, Oct. 1. At this meeting a plan of reorganization will be presented. The aim is to place the entire management of the Community association in the hands of the societies and groups who use the property and equipment. Each society which has made use of the building during the past season has been asked to be officially represented at this meeting to act for its organization and to aid in formulating future plans.

When the meeting of Stonington council, No. 2, Jr. O. U. A. M., is held in Fort's hall on Friday evening, the council will be visited by 50 members of Washington council, No. 2, of Providence.

In the local churches on Sunday a call from the chairman of the Red Cross, Miss H. S. Trumbull was read for clothing for the hurricane sufferers in Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Articles are to be sent at once to Mrs. J. F. Joseph.

St. Michael's Portuguese Fraternity, No. 14 held a social in Fort hall Saturday evening.

The riding school which has been run at the Stoneridge club this summer has been moved to Stonington Manor inn and during the winter four horses will be kept for use in the spring 12 horses will be used for riding, which has proved a popular pastime in this locality.

Miss Dorothy Zelle attended a World Wide Guild house party at the Colonial Inn, West Haven, Friday as a representative of Stonington branch.

Mrs. George Allen of Providence is the guest of Janez Chesebro and family.

Henry B. Barnes and family returned to New York Saturday after spending the summer here.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Chesebro and son spent the week end in Canaan, Conn.

Miss Gertrude Mulville spent the week end in Norfolk, Conn.

There is to be a second anniversary requiem mass for Mrs. A. Danesie in St. Mary's church today (Tuesday).

GALES FERRY

HELD ALL-DAY SESSION AT HOME OF MRS. L. E. SMITH

An all-day session of the Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church was held at the home of Mrs. Latham E. Smith Thursday. There were 20 in attendance and the work provided was outlining quilt blocks. The president, Miss Alice Satterlee, presided at the business meeting, which opened with devotions conducted by Mrs. George H. Wright. Reports were given by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. D. C. Perkins. It was voted to give $9 toward the church bulletin board fund, this bringing the amount raised for this object to $20. It was also voted to take an offering at each meeting for the board. A letter of resignation from Mrs. Nelson Parker, vice-president of the society, was read, and her resignation was accepted with regret. Miss Mabel Smith, Mrs. Solon F. Chapman and Mrs. Avery Main were named as a nominating committee to supply the vacancy and report at the next meeting. One new member joined the society at this session. A vote of regret for the illness of Mrs. Fanny A. Moithrop, a member of the society, was signed by those present, and the secretary was instructed to order flowers for her. The president announced that the next meeting would be an all-day session with the Long Cove group, the members having taken a large order for quilts.

The sermon theme selected by Rev Jerome Greer for morning worship Sunday at the Community M. E. church was What Shall I Do? Acts, 22:10. Our God Is Near, was sung as a duet at the offertory by Miss Grace A. Chapman and Courtland E. Colver. The Epworth league evening meeting was in charge of the Rev George H. Wright. The topic was Building a Better Community, and this thought was continued by the pastor in his closing talk. Mrs. Robert Miller of Boston, former organist of the league, supplied for Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt at this service.

Under events for the week on the church calendar, attention was called to the annual sale for the conference work of the Woman's Home Missionary society at Silver Lake, with the request that those making donations bring their gifts to the parsonage by Wednesday night. The annual weinie roast of the Epworth league at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew P. Miller was also noted and the change in time for the church services next Sunday. The evening service will be at 7 o'clock, in place of 8, as during the summer months.

The president of the Epworth league, C. E. Colver, Jr., presided at a short business meeting following the evening service when it was decided to hold a Rally Social on the evening of Oct. 11. Mrs. Jerome Greer was named as general chairman, Mrs. Nelson Parker and Mrs. D. C. Perkins, the refreshment committee and Mrs. R. I. Hurlbutt and Mrs. R. W. Hurlbutt to be in charge of the social events.

Mrs. Chester E. Dimick, diocesan president of the Girls' Friendly society, was a recent guest of St. James' branch in Danbury, for the opening banquet; also for the banquet of St. John's branch at New Milford. Mrs Dimick presided at a meeting of the executive committee of the diocese at Park Church cathedral parish house in Hartford, last week.

Miss Margaret H. Parker entertained Misses Carol Norman and Christine Maynard of the village, with Miss Anna Mae Duffy of Fort Point, at supper Saturday evening in observance of her birthday. Miss Duffy remained as her guest over the week-end.

Rev. and Mrs. Jerome Greer, who have been spending a part of their vacation on Willimantic Camp ground, returned to the M. E. parsonage Thursday. They were accompanied home by their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Willard E. Uphaus. Their daughter Miss Ruth Greer, has returned to Boston to resume her studies at the New England Conservatory of Music.

Mrs. Charles H. Comstock and daughter, Mrs Mary C. Watrous were guests Sunday of their former neighbors, Mrs. George E. Lawson and daughter, Mrs. Ruth Euster, in New London.

Eben Hale of West Cheshire was a guest for a few days last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt.

Miss Grace E. Povey is making a vacation visit at Jaffrey, N. H.

Mrs. Charles Sands and daughter, Miss Hortense Sands, of Norwich, were recent guests at the home of Mr and Mrs. J. Otis Winchester.

Miss Gertrude D. Allen, who has been spending her vacation with Mrs. Robert Miller in Boston returned to her home at Long Cove Friday. Mrs. Miller accompanied her here for a visit to her parents Mr. and Mrs. Ludley C. Perkins.

The Long Cove group of the Ladies' Aid society of the local church were guests Thursday of Mrs. Chester H. Howe of New London at her summer home at Long Cove.

Miss Evelyn Ottley of Norwich was a week-end guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew P. Miller.

A four-legged duck, which is able to hold its own in activities of the other ducks, is a recent acquisition of Mrs. Homer Latimer at Kenton. The duck has the regular set of legs and in addition has another set growing out of each side of its body.

MY VARICOSE VEINS NOW MUCH BETTER THANKS TO RABALM

"Dear Friends," writes Mrs. C. L. Kellogg of Williamsburg, Mass., "I have been a sufferer with Varicose Veins for eight years, and have tried everything, but got no results until I tried the Rabalm salve, and I have used only six boxes and they are a good deal better. So I am doing the housework for eight in the family. I will gladly recommend it to all others who are troubled with Varicose Veins. Also it is wonderful for eczema. I never will be without it."

Rabalm is the result of a scientific effort to find an effective remedy for Varicose Veins; to relieve the pain and irritation; to heal ulceration where it occurs; and to reduce swelling. If you, too, are suffering the torture which varicose veins can give, start using Rabalm tonight, and speedily find relief as Mrs. Kellogg and many others have done before you.

Two sizes: 80-cents, and $1.00 containing 3 times as much. Rabalm is for sale by all druggists.

DODGE BROTHERS
NEW VICTORY SIX

A Car of Striking Originality Now More Luxurious and Comfortable Than Ever

NINE distinctive new body styles advance Victory smartness and luxury to still higher levels.

All dimensions that affect the comfort and convenience of passengers are now more generous still. Bigger bodies, wider doors, greater head room, increased vision and extra broad, luxurious, deeply-tufted seats, reveal the sweeping nature of these latest Victory refinements.

You will also discover a rakish new sweep to the lines—a dashing new flare to the fenders—an arresting new massiveness in the height and breadth of the hood.

Add to all these the far-famed originality of Victory design—Body mounted directly on the chassis without sills, materially lowering the center of gravity and increasing the head room. Chassis the full width of the body, eliminating body overhang and sidesway along with it.

These and many other revolutionary features result in a character of roadability, performance, interior comfort and beauty of line that is utterly unique, superior and exclusive to Dodge Brothers brilliant Victory Six.

ALSO DODGE BROTHERS STANDARD SIX $895
Superior in every detail. Richly equipped. Fast and dependable. See these cars and you will concede that Standard $15 beauty and hundred Six performance are now distinctive in harmony.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation for the many acts of kindness shown us during our recent bereavement, the illness and death of our beloved sister, Miss Nellie A. Nagle. We also wish to thank those who so kindly sent flowers to the funeral.
HER SISTERS and BROTHERS.

IN MEMORIAM

Just one year ago today
Our loved one passed away.
She leaves a vacant chair and empty place,
Since we last looked on her dear face.
Many a heartache and silent tear
We've shed through the long and lonely year
May we place our faith in God on high,
And pray there she'll guide us bye and bye.

PATIENT AT NEW LONDON HOSPITAL INCRIMINATES NIANTIC WOMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 24—Mrs. Kate Ramistella, 55, of Niantic, was arrested last night by state police from Groton barracks, charged with performing an illegal operation. It is probable that she will eventually be arraigned on the more serious charge of homicide, for Mrs. Julia Locarno, Niantic, 37, wife of Enrico Locarno and the mother of seven children, is in a dying condition at Lawrence-Memorial hospital from septic poisoning, which, it is claimed is the result of an abortion being performed upon the latter woman by Mrs. Ramistella. Mrs. Locarno was admitted to the hospital a few days ago and Sunday evening the physicians discovered evidence of the poisoning. It was then revealed that an abortion had been performed. Acting Medical Examiner George P. Cheney was notified and he notified Coroner E. J. McKay, of Norwich, and the state police. Coroner McKay came to New London and went to the hospital as did Sergeant Henry Albright and Officers Frank Webber and Louis Bristol. Mrs. Locarno was questioned and admitted that the abortion was performed by Mrs. Ramistella. Officers Webber and Bristol went to Niantic where Mrs. Ramistella was arrested at her home. A search of the house did not reveal the finding of any surgical instruments. The woman was brought to the hospital where Mrs. Locarno positively identified her as the woman who performed the operation, although Mrs. Ramistella stoutly denied all knowledge of the operation. She was however, locked up at police headquarters. Mrs Locarno made an ante-mortem statement to Coroner McKay and Sergeant Albright in which she declared that Mrs. Ramistella had performed the abortion. Mrs. Locarno's condition rapidly grew worse during the night and today she lapsed into a state of unconsciousness from which, it is believed death will result.

Mrs. Ramistella was taken to Niantic at 6 o'clock this evening and presented before Justice of the Peace Charles Watrous. A continuance was granted to Thursday evening next at 6 o'clock (standard time). A bond of $5,000 was ordered and it was furnished by Louis Eifenbein, of this city.

Street Sergt. Samuel Hick was unable to perform police duty tonight, he being confined to his home on Blydenburg avenue by illness.

TA Henry R. Griswold has leased to Dr. Richard M. Starr, the lower floor of the residence on Huntington street, formerly occupied by Dr. Henry Rogers. The lease is for three years, dating from Oct. 1.

Miss Ruth J. Ackley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Ackley of Quaker Hill, and Joseph J. Molkenthin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Molkenthin, Jr., of Glen Ridge, N. J., were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth at the parsonage of the First Church of Christ. The bride wore a dress and picture hat of white. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses, orchids and lilies of the valley. Virginia Arnold of this city, who attended the bride, wore pale green and carried butterfly roses. Wyeth Whetmore of Roseville, N. J., was best man. Following a luncheon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Monkelthin motored to their new home 86 Montclair avenue, Newark, N. J. The bride, who is a graduate of Chapman Technical high school, was employed at the Tate and Nellan store, Mr. Molkenthin is an electrical inspector in Newark.

STEAM AND NOT SMOKE CAUSE OF FIRE ALARM

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 24—The fire department was called out this morning for a supposed blaze in the store of Joseph Fine, 54 State street. The store was closed because of the observance of the Hebrew holiday and when steam, which appeared to be smoke, issued from the building, it was believed that a fire was in progress. A still alarm caused Chief Thomas Shipman and Niagara Engine Co. No. 1 and Nameaug Engine company, No. 2, to respond. The firemen were compelled to force the entrance and it was then revealed that the building was merely filled with steam that entered from a radiator that lacked a shutoff. No damage resulted.

Sunday evening fire damaged the residence of A. F. Daugherty, 104 Lincoln avenue. Sparks from the chimney ignited shingles on the roof and these became ablaze. An alarm was rung in from Box 23, corner of Lincoln and Jefferson avenues and on the arrival of the firemen the fire was quickly extinguished with chemicals. The damage will not exceed $50.

Another fire occurred Sunday when a short circuit on an automobile owned by A. G. Decatur, New York, caused the automobile, which was on Main street, to be threatened with destruction. An alarm was sent in from Box 25, corner of Main and Federal streets, causing Chief Thomas Shipman and four pieces of apparatus to respond. The fire was quickly subdued and the damage was not serious.

Another fire occurred Sunday when a short circuit on an automobile owned by A. G. Decatur, New York, caused the automobile, which was on Main street, to be threatened with destruction. An alarm was sent in from Box 25, corner of Main and Federal streets, causing Chief Thomas Shipman and four pieces of apparatus to respond. The fire was quickly subdued and the damage was not serious.

The state police made numerous arrests Sunday in their endeavor to compel automobile drivers to conform to the state motor vehicle laws. Otto Ferry, 24 Main street, Norwich, proprietor of a market, was arrested in Montville by Officer Bernard Kenerson, charged with failing to equip his car with a windshield wiper. Ferry was presented before Justice of the Peace Miller and fined $2 and costs.

Joseph Morris, 473 Main street, East Haven, was arrested in East Lyme charged with reckless driving and when presented before Justice Roy Richmond, a fine of $25 and costs was imposed, but 10 of the fine was ordered remitted. Morris was arrested by Officer John Smith.

Harold M. Johnson, Providence, was arrested by Officer Smith charged with driving without a license. He was arrested in East Lyme and when presented before Justice of the Peace Richmond was fined $5 and costs.

G. Gimble, of 256 Ocean avenue, this city and Anthony Pinto, New Haven, was arrested in Waterford by Officer Louis Bristol, the former charged with failure to grant right of way and the latter with reckless driving. The case will be tried in the Waterford town court next Monday and both Gimble and Pinto furnished sureties on their respective bonds. The double arrest resulted from a crash between the automobiles of Gimble and Pinto, the former's automobile being damaged.

A thief obtained entrance to the office of the Firemen's restaurant, Bank street Sunday night, but was not rewarded with obtaining plunder of value for the only articles discovered missing are two checks, one of them a blank. The other check was drawn in favor of a New London merchant for $28, but payment on it has been stopped at all banks. Discovery of the place having been entered was made by Max Hendel, proprietor of the restaurant. Entrance was gained by the use of a duplicate key.

Several cases were presented in the police court today, but in each instance the offense committed was either for intoxication, or violation of the state or city automobile laws. In the cases of intoxication two of the accused failed to appear and their respective bonds of $25 were declared forfeited. Three others were fined $10, but judgment was suspended, while another was fined $5 and costs. He paid.

Austin Peabody, Waterford, was charged with violation of the city's parking ordinance in blocking a driveway on Huntington street. He also failed to appear in court and his bond of $2 was declared forfeited. Geiger a sailor charged with driving a motorcycle without having a license was fined $10 and costs.

COUNTY S. S. ORGANIZATION WANTS TO PAY $1,000 DEBT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 24—Representatives of sixteen Bible schools gathered at the New London Y. M. C. A. Friday evening for the purpose of discussing the possibility of the formation of a New London council of religious education. It was agreed that such an organization should be formed, and that two committees should be appointed, one, consisting of Mrs. Robert A. T. Bitgood, chairman, Rev. Chester H. Howe and Herbert W. Hicks, to draft a constitution and present at a future meeting, to be called by this committee when their work and the work of the nominating committee is completed. The other committee, composed of Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, chairman, Rev. C. E. Spaulding and Mrs. Susan P. Elder, is charged with the nominating to the offices created by the constitution, those whom, in their judgment are best fitted to carry on the work of the new organization. It was felt that the organization and election of officers should be completed before the annual convention of the county council, October 19th, that that county organization might take into consideration the fact that there are, now two local organizations within the county, and there is a probability that it will then be decided to disband the county organization. One of the questions which came up for discussion was that of the outstanding debt of the county organization. Over ten years ago the county organization put on a strenuous program and went into debt for it. The outstanding notes have been gradually reduced until at present the total amount is $1,200. Norwich council has agreed to fund $700 of this amount if the New London end of the county will take care of the remaining $500. This was felt by the meeting to be an obligation which should be met before the formation of the local organization, and plans are on foot whereby it is hoped that the full amount may be secured prior to the call of the next meeting.

DISCOVERER OF AMERICA TO BE SPECIALLY HONORED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 24—The consecration ceremonies held yesterday afternoon at Tyler park square has generated such enthusiasm among the Italian residents of the city that additional and more elaborate plans have been laid for their Columbus day exercises here October 12. Every Italian organization in the state has been invited to participate in the program planned and the sum of money, appropriated for the fireworks display has ben materially increased.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferruccio Aviani, of 22 Fourth street, celebrated their silver anniversary last night. The occasion was attended by a large number of friends and numerous gifts were received by them. At the conclusion of a social evening refreshments were served.

The Laurel Social club of Groton opened its fall activities at the week end when a dance was held in Odd Fellows hall. A feature was a prize fox trot.

Mrs. W. J. Carey of Hempstead street became the bride of Edward S. Carey, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Carey of Hempstead street, Saturday evening. The ceremony was performed at the First Church of Christ by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. The only attendants were the parents of the bride.

Fidelity chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, held its first meeting of the season Saturday night in Brainard temple. The session was chiefly devoted to the discussion of fall and winter activities. After business was transacted Mrs. George Gregory entertained with readings and a violin solo was rendered by Miss Ruth Long, accompanied on the piano by Catherine Amos. Later refreshments were served.

Mrs. Arthur Grimes, of Waterford, gave a party Saturday afternoon on the third birthday of her daughter, Gwendolyn. Twelve children were present and after games, refreshments were served by the hostess.

Fall and winter activities of the Catholic Girls' club opened during the week when a meeting was held in the club rooms on Jay street. After a discussion of activities, plans were made for a card party to be held in the rooms of the Diocesan bureau. Social hour was enjoyed, following which refreshments were served.

Mrs. George S. Cramer of 360 Broad street will entertain the W. C. T. U., tomorrow afternoon. At the meeting delegates to the state convention to be held in Waterbury next month will be elected.

Representatives of Brainard lodge of local masons paid a visit the other night, to the lodge in Colchester.

Classes in speaking, reading and writing of English will open in the Winthrop, Nameaug and Jennings schools, October 1. Inasmuch as interest has increased in the evening classes every year, it is anticipated that the coming session will be the largest in attendance ever recorded in this city.

New London and vicinity is furnishing fifty-four students at Connecticut college this year, the largest number to enroll at the institution since its founding. Seven of those who have decided to choose the local school as their alma mater are resident students, the remaining number are commuters.

As a token of respect to Louis B. Gardner of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., vice president and general manager of the New York office, who died suddenly at his home Saturday, the mills of the Corticelli Silk company of this city were closed today between 2.30 and 3 p. m.

Samuel Fern has brought suit against Mrs. Helen Patterson Kellas, former owner of the Patterson confectionery and ice cream store, 76 State street. The action was brought today and for damages of $1,000. The building formerly occupied by the confectionery and ice cream store was attached by Deputy Sheriff Manuel J. Martin. The case is returnable before the next civil term of the court of common pleas. It is understood that the suit is brought by Fern to recover money loaned Mrs. Patterson.

SCOTT, CHAPPELL, MURRAY, FOX, WIN, WITH SCOTT MAYOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 24—The second city election to take place this month for the purpose of electing four members of the city council, three members of the board of school visitors and one selectman, was held today and resulted in a higher vote being cast than two weeks ago. Up to 3 o'clock the vote, excepting in the second and fifth wards, was less than that of two weeks ago, but between 5 and 6 o'clock there was a rush to the voting places so that when the polls closed there had been cast about 80 more votes than was the case at the previous election.

The vote recorded today brought about the election of Malcolm M. Scott, Robert P. Chappell, John F. Murray and William C. Fox to the office of councilor, with Mr. Scott polling the greatest number of votes, 2,680. As a result of the election, Mr. Scott will be mayor for the ensuing year. Messrs. Scott, Chappell and Murray were re-elected and Mr. Fox will be the only new member, although he has served before in the council. The voters also elected Ezekiel Spitz, Arthur T. Keefe and P. LeRoy Harwood members of the board of school visitors, Mr. Spitz having the greatest number of votes, 2,403. Ralph Wetmore was elected a selectman, obtaining 2,290 votes against his opponent, Harry Frischman, who received but 942. At the election two weeks ago no members of the council were elected. Neither was a member of the board of school visitors. Selectmen elected two weeks ago were Lawrence S. M. Cook and William L. White, both being re-elected. The total vote cast today was 4,968.

The vote today follows: For member of council—First ward, Robert B. Chappell, 450; Second, 647; Third, 319; Fourth, 287; Fifth, 688; total, 2,391. Henry Coogan, First ward, 299; Second, 305; Third, 144; Fourth, 152; Fifth, 279; total, 1,179. Joseph F. Fitzpatrick, First ward, 116; Second, 154; Third, 146; Fourth, 131; Fifth, 254; total, 850. STONINGTON TOWN MEETING VOTES $28,000 FOR HIGHWAYS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 24—The annual financial town meeting at Stonington was held this evening at Stonington town hall, when 100 taxpayers assembled, with Selectman John Fribance chairman and Elias H. Hinckley, clerk. Most of the reports were in printed form for distribution to the taxpayers. On motion of Judge William A. Wilcox, the selectmen's printed report was voted adopted. The town treasurer's report as printed, on motion of Dr. James H. Weeks, was voted accepted. The school committee report in separate pamphlets, was also voted accepted.

Tax Collector T. Everett Hoxie presented his report, also in printed form in the pamphlet, and the same was voted accepted, as was that also of the town auditors. The meeting voted to publish the next year's report of the selectmen and school committee, to be available one week before the annual meeting. Recommended appropriations amounting to $118,000, were also voted adopted. A discussion arose in the appropriation for town highways when Selectman John Fribance recommended $20,000 for highways and $3,000 for borough streets. In answer to questioning he stated that $15,000 for tar roads would be asked for in March. Albert G. Martin of Pawcatuck presented an amendment asking for $28,000, to include highway maintenance, also for tar, and that amendment prevailed. The sum of $50 was voted various patriotic town societies and $25 for their Memorial Day observance. The following streets were voted accepted as town highways: Central avenue at Lord's Point, from Maple avenue to Langworthy avenue; Palmer street, in Pawcatuck, from Courtland street to Mayflower avenue, and in lower Pawcatuck, Pawcatuck avenue from Courtland street to Cleveland street and the Mystic street asked for. It was voted that the tax abstract be printed. The selectmen were authorized to negotiate loans to pay the town expenses.

Henry A. Stahle stated that the town meeting call asked for no vote on the acceptance of the new Stonington town hall. Chairman Fribance explained that this was an oversight. It was voted that the report of the building committee as printed be accepted and the building committee; Henry A. Stahle of Pawcatuck and Frank F. Dodge of Stonington, be discharged with a vote of thanks. A rising vote of thanks was tendered Frank M. Wilcox for his duties as inspector on the Stonington town hall, for which he made no charge. The meeting adjourned after a three-quarter hour session.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Woman's Club Garden Party

An event eagerly awaited by members of the Woman's City club of Norwich is soon to take place, the initial activity of the club's winter program. Mrs. Thomas M. Shields, chairman of the committee on gardens, has been planning an indoor garden party, to be known as open house. Open house will be held in the afternoon and evening of October 1, in the Wauregan hotel.

There is to be solo dancing, both instrumental and vocal music and a short playlet, which is in charge of Mrs. Willis P. Austin, chairman of dramatics.

In connection with the purely social joy of getting together once more as a club, there will be much of interest in a flower show, which is open both to local florists and amateur gardeners of the club. There will be a blue ribbon award in each class. Flowers which are being given for decorative purposes are to be in charge of Mrs. Henry F. Parker.

The Insulated Glenwood bakes as evenly as an old Dutch oven

The old brick-walled Dutch ovens used to be considered the standard of perfection for even baking. Nowadays it's the Insulated Glenwood.

Put your baking in, anywhere—at the top, bottom or middle of the oven—and you will never need to move it or even look at it until the clock tells you that it's done.

You can bake pies or biscuits on both oven racks at once and count on their being brought to the same brown perfection at the same moment.

And once you set the Glenwood AutomatiCook you can leave the kitchen and let this device take all the responsibility for keeping the oven at just the right degree of heat to make success a certainty.

BURGLARS MAKE VISIT TO GOLF CLUB SHOP AND SCHOOL HOUSE

Two burglaries, which are believed to be the work of boys, were committed over Saturday and Sunday night, one at the Elizabeth street school and the other at the shop of Pro. Masei the other at the shop of Pro. Massie Miller at the Norwich Golf club.

The school house burglary was during Saturday night, when the intruder got into the building by way of a fire escape on the side and pushing the catch off a window. The lock on a thrift club was spoiled, but the burglar did not get the bank open and nothing was stolen.

The golf club shop was burglarized some time Sunday night, the break being discovered Monday morning by Dan Shea, the assistant pro. A number of golf balls, two sets of Croyden registered irons, valued at $48 a set and about $10 in change from the cash drawer, were taken by the thief. Mr. Miller's name appears on the head of each club and will probably lead to the detection of the thieves. The rear door to the shop was forced. The police are investigating. Pro. Miller is in Providence to participate in the New England P. G. A. two day tournament at the Rhode Island Country club.

Other recent burglaries in which the results to the thieves have been comparatively small have been at the Thames street school, Broadway school, Werman shoe factory on Thames street, Harder Cigar store, Franklin street and the grocery store owned by Sam Vasington, at 208 Franklin street.

SAFE AT WEST PALM BEACH AFTER FLORIDA HURRICANE

Mrs. C. R. Jerome of Plainfield has just received word from her sister, Mrs. George A. Perkins who is in West Palm Beach, Florida, that she and her husband are safe.

Mrs. Perkins wrote from West Palm Beach on Sept. 18 as foloiws: "We are alive and neither of us injured for which we are very thankful. You can't imagine what a 125 mile gale can be like, our rof is on but most of the shingles blown off, several windows blown in so my bedding and everything is soaked as well as things all over the house. City loss estimated to be ten million dollars."

George Perkins is a brother of Austin F. Perkins of West Thames street.

ANOTHER PHILADELPHIA POLICE CAPTAIN ARRESTED

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Charged with accepting bribes from saloonkeepers, another police captain was arrested today as an outgrowth of the special grand jury investigation of rum-runners, gang murders and other underworld activities.

He is Charles W. Schoenleber, commander of the Fourth and York streets station. He was charged with taking $7,400 for protecting bootleggers in his district, and was held in $15,000 bail and later suspended from duty and ordered to be tried by the civil service commission.

Matthew Patterson, republican city committeeman of the ward in which Schoenleber's district is situated, was declared in open court to be a fugitive. Patterson also is a member of the state legislature.

DEBATE ON ALCOHOLISM AND OPIUM SMOKING

GENEVA, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Alcoholism and opium smoking had attention today fro mdelegates to the assembly of the league of nations.

The debate on alcoholism culminated in unanimous adoption of a resolution for an investigation of the abuse of alcohol as a beverage, including the deleterious effects of the pool quantities of hard liquor that are now being consumed in various parts of the world.

The inquiry will be limited to ardent spirits.

The assembly also approved the British proposal to send a commission of three experts to the Far East to investigate opium smoking and opium smuggling.

ADOPTS NEW AUTOMATIC GEAR SHIFTING DEVICE

LONDON, Sept. 24.—(AP)—The Daily Mail today says that a "motoring development of first rate importance" in the form of an automatic gear shifting device, has been adopted by one of the leading British manufacturers after successful tests over 50,000 miles.

By this device a driver moves a pointed on a quadrant on his steering wheel to the desired speed designated, steps on a pedal, and the gear changes "automatically, smoothly and silently."

Big Steam Turbine.

What is said to be the largest steam turbine constructed on a single shaft is about to be assembled at the Long Beach steam plant of the Southern California Edison Co. This is the first of eight additional 125,000-horsepower units which the company plans to install at this plant, which, when completed, will have a total capacity of 1,250,000 horsepower.

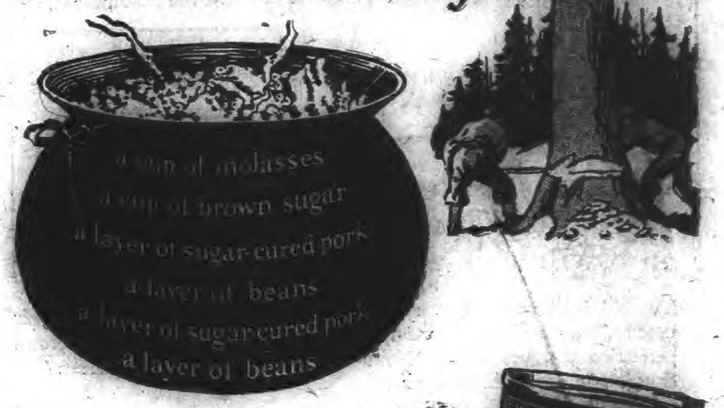
WATCH OUT FOR TEMPEST

BEANS!
A wonderful new kind with the real "baked-out-of-doors" taste



Now you can enjoy beans like those baked in the ground in the Maine woods

Never did baked beans have such flavor as those old-time beans baked in the outdoor oven—the bean hole—of the Maine woods lumber camps.
The richest of ingredients went into the big-bellied iron bean pot—lots of sugar-cured pork, molasses and brown sugar. Then the pot was buried in the bean hole to cook all night in a bed of pine embers.
For the first time, now, that wonderful woods flavor is reproduced. In Bean Hole Beans!
They're like no other beans you've ever tasted! Enjoy this new deliciousness today. Your grocer has Bean Hole Beans—medium and large size.

DISARMAMENT NECESSARY WITH MINIMUM OF DELAY

Pronouncement Made by the Assembly of the League of Nations—The Great Naval Powers Are Requested to Find the Solution—Nicholas Politis, Noted Greek Jurist, Submitted "a General Act" Designed to Give Force to the Kellogg Pact For the Renunciation of War.

GENEVA, Sept. 25—(AP)—Further steps toward disarmament must be accomplished with a minimum delay said the assembly of the League of Nations today. The solemn pronouncement was embodied in a resolution which urged the great naval powers to find solutions, in a spirit of conciliation and international solidarity for the difficulties which they have encountered.

The resolution, which was framed by the disarmament commission of the league, called for the convocation of the preparatory disarmament commission by the beginning of 1929.

Joseph Paul Boncour, French delegate, warned the assembly that if this commission failed to draw up an acceptable draft convention at that time, the result would be a catastrophe to league prestige and hopes.

"The league would be as a goddess despoiled of her crown," was the way he phrased the idea.

"A general act," designed to give force to the Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war, was submitted by Nicholas Politis, noted Greek jurist. The act would provide pacific settlement of all disputes by pledging its signatories to use conciliation, judicial procedure in accordance with the needs of each case. The states would be invited to subscribe to this instrument.

M. Politis told the assembly that the Kellogg pact was an incomplete instrument in that it failed to provide for arbitration or mutual assistance among its signatories.

His "general act" was accompanied by model treaties of conciliation, arbitration, non aggression and mutual assistance. All states were urged to negotiate and sign agreements of this nature.

Discussion on the measure probably will be resumed tomorrow. It is expected that the assembly will adjourn after that session.

KOPPLEMANN OF HARTFORD NOMINATED FOR CONGRESS

HARTFORD, Sept. 25—(AP)—Herman Kopplemann of Hartford, former state senator, was nominated as the democratic candidate for congress by the first district convention held here today, defeating both Jesse Moore of Farmington and Ufa E. Guthrie of Hartford. Ex-Senator Kopplemann won on the first ballot with 29 votes to spare, 84 votes being necessary for a choice and the vote being: Kopplemann, 104; Moore, 44; Guthrie, 18; absent, 1.

National Committeeman Thomas J. Spellacy, speaking at a luncheon following the convention, told the delegates that "none of us concede the right of any democrat to desert the party because of the defeat in a convention," a statement construed by many of those present as the national committeeman's answer to reports that the victory of Augustine Lonergan in the convention over Robert P. Butler, who was supported by Mr. Spellacy, would mean a lack of enthusiasm for the candidate for United States senator in so-called "organization" ranks.

REALTORS TO PROTECT THEMSELVES AND PUBLIC

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 25—(AP)—Realtors of Connecticut, who have unsuccessfully sought regulatory legislation for their business by the general assembly since 1921 and who propose to carry their fight for protection of themselves and the public into the 1929 legislature, received encouragement from Edward L. Kelly, executive secretary to Gov. John H. Trumbull, and Representative Albert E. Lavery tonight.

Both Lavery and Kelly were speakers at the banquet of the fourth annual convention of the Connecticut Association of Real Estate Boards, the former as toastmaster and the latter as a representative of the governor, who was unable to attend. Dr. William Horace Day, pastor of the United Congregational church, and William E. Herren, of Chicago, national field secretary of the association, were other speakers.

After Secretary Herren had outlined at length the dangers to communities and property owners in continuing to allow incompetent, unscrupulous and irresponsible people to engage in the real estate business, Toastmaster Lavery suggested that the realtors of the state had better have him make another speech before the judiary committee of the next legislature.

MRS. JOHN GANSER HAS BROKEN HUNGER STRIKE

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 25—(AP)—Entering upon a hunger strike last Friday, when her daughter, Margaret eloped, Mrs. John Ganser, of 84 Fairlawn avenue, tonight took her first nourishment since her daughter's disappearance after being prevailed upon by physicians, her husband and friends.

On the day that her daughter left with Edward Madgefrou, and was married, the grief-stricken mother said she would not take food until she received word from her daughter, or learned her whereabouts. This vigil she kept up for four days and nights ending it Tuesday when physicians told her she must take food or suffer a breakdown.

The daughter eloped when she and Madgefrou told the girl's parents that they were going to Oliver church to a dance. When they failed to return, police were enlisted and it was found that they had been married.

NOT AUTHORIZED TO SPEAK FOR SWITCHMEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—(AP)—Thomas G Meaney, of Buffalo, N. Y., a director of the Switchmen's Union of America, in a statement tonight said that Dan G. Smith of Chicago, director of labor of the western republican campaign headquarters, was not authorized to speak for the switchmen's union.

Mr. Smith was quoted in dispatches as saying that the election of Governor Alfred E. Smith "would be a menace to organized labor." Mr. Smith was characterized in the dispatch as a leader of the Switchmen's Union of America.

"Mr. Smith is a member of Lodge 36 in Chicago," Mr. Meaney declared, "but he has not done any railroad work since 1920. He has no influence in labor circles and is not authorized to speak for the switchmen's union. In addition he is a henchman of 'Big Bill' Thompson."

WHOLESALE ARRESTS OF PHILADELPHIA POLICEMEN

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25—(AP)—Charles Cohen a captain of police, and 22 policemen, including seven sergeants and two city detectives, were arrested late tonight, charged with extortion, bribery and conspiracy.

The arrests were an outgrowth of the grand jury investigation of bootleggers and their "rackets" which has been under way since Aug. 28.

FUNERAL FIRES SEEN IN THE EVERGLADES

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 25—(AP)—Flood waters in the hurricane devastated Lake Okeechobee area were reported gradually receding today despite recent heavy rains, making the task of transporting relief to the district less difficult.

Aside from the pressing necessity of furnishing fod for the hungry refugees in the interior and shelter to protect them from the rain, the greatest task faced by the relief workers remained the disposition of human and animal bodies.

Funeral fires were seen tonight in several parts of the Everglades as the workers went about their grim task forced upon them because of the impossibility of taking out any more bodies for burial and the necessity to dispose of them as a sanitary measure.

The death list grew into greater proportions than any had first imagined and the task of recovering bodies virtually swamped the personnel. Red Cross and military officials now admit that the exact toll of lives taken by the hurricane will never be known. They have been unable to keep an accurate record of all bodies found, it was said, and the record keepers themselves have been busy burying the dead.

While Dr. E. D. Clawson, head of medical relief, declared the death toll would be in excess of 2,300, A. L. Schafer, representative here of the National Red Cross held to his estimate of 1,200 known dead. At the same time Howard W. Selby, chairman of the Palm Beach Red Cross chapter, asserted the known dead at 2,200 on the basis of the survey made for him by O. C. Geiger, who went into the Everglades to make an investigation for that purpose. Governor John W. Martin after placing the estimate at 1,500, declared today in Jacksonville that it probably will reach 2,200.

DEATH OF CARTOONIST RICHARD F. OUTCAULT

FLUSHING, N. Y., Sept. 25—(AP)—Richard F. Outcault, cartoonist and creator of "The Yellow Kid," "Buster Brown" and other newspaper comics, died at his home here today. He was 65 years old.

He was born in Lanaster, Ohio, and often was called the father of the modern newspaper comic supplement. In 1895 he launched "Hogan's Alley," the first full-page colored comic ever published. He retired ten years ago.

LEADER IN HOLD-UP SENTENCED TO PRISON

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 25—(AP)—Harold Gamun, 24, of this city, leader in an attempted hold-up of a store who was shot in the leg while making his getaway, was sentenced to state's prison for from two and a half to four years by Judge Isaac Wolfe after he pleaded guilty at the opening of the fall term of criminal superior court today to assault with intent to rob. Judgment was suspended on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Floyd Bethke, 22, an accomplice in the attempted robbery, was sentenced to an indefinite term in the Cheshire reformatory. He pleaded guilty to assault with intent to rob.

GRAND JURY INDICTS SAMUEL WEISS FOR MURDER

HARTFORD Sept. 25—(AP)—Indictments charging Samuel Weiss with the murders of his brother, John Weiss, and two friends, John Stehr and John Stein, all of New Britain, by putting poison in their beer, were handed up to Judge Brown by the grand jury in superior court this afternoon.

Weiss sat in the prisoner's dock, his face white and drawn, when the jury came in at 4:25 o'clock. Two minutes later Judge Brown announced that true bills had been returned in each case and remanded Weiss for trial without bail. The exact date of the trial will not be set for several days.

WITHDRAWS FROM FARMER-LABOR PARTY TICKET

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 25—(AP)—Dr. H. G. Alexander of Charlotte, N. C., vice-presidential nominee of the farmer-labor party, announced today that he had withdrawn his name from the ticket to give his unqualified support to the democratic party.

LEADERS OF MEXICAN GUERILLAS CAPTURED

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25—(AP)—Two leaders of guerrilla bands, Felipe de Anda and Carlos Gonzales, have been captured and executed after engagements with federal troops, according to dispatches from Guadalajara.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

ROME, Sept. 25—(AP)—The newspaper Osservatore Romano says that it has learned that four priests recently were shot in Mexico as part of the "persecution" of the church in that country.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 25—(AP)—The steamer Fulton, which is bringing from Greenland Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer of the plane "Greater Rockford" passed Hirtshals at noon today. She is expected to dock here at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

LONDON, Sept. 25—(AP)—There were 11,300 bales offered at the wool sales today. The attendance was good and bidding was more active and chiefly for medium grades. Continental buyers secured the bulk of the 6,500 bales sold at current rates.

LONDON, Sept. 25—(AP)—Scientists from 50 nations searching for new fuels to meet ever increasing world demands, convened to discuss fuel problems and possibilities of industrial development in the light of latest knowledge. One of the most important questions of the conference will be the use of pulverized fuel in marine engines.

RED CROSS TAKES CHARGE OF SICK IN PORTO RICO

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 25—(AP)—The American Red Cross today took full and official charge of the problems of rehabilitation and care of the sick and injured growing out of the hurricane disaster.

Gov. Horace M. Towner, in a proclamation today, empowered the Red Cross to carry on the relief work as long as it cares to assume the task. Assuring the people of the island that the American Red Cross would extend to them the same aid which had been given other sections of the country in time of need, Governor Towner praised the prompt response of continental Americans to the call for aid by President Coolidge.

The resources of the Red Cross were strengthened further today by the arrival of Dr. S. B. Grubbs, with a corps of assistants. More adequate hospitalization seemed assured today with the arrival of a transport loaded with tents, blankets and medical supplies.

MOTHER FORGAVE ALL HER CHILDREN FOR "NEGLECT"

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(AP)—A mother in her will filed for probate today forgave all her children for "neglect" and hoped "that my children's children will make them very happy."

Mrs. Mary Reed Harris—the mother—forbade "anyone to wear mourning for me after my death." She died last May leaving an estate of "over $10,000."

Lois Harris, a daughter-in-law, and her two children, Reed and Barbara, all of Cambridge, N. Y., share equally in all cash. In addition, the daughter-in-law is to receive real estate at Shelter Island R. I.

Mrs. Harris' town house is to be held in trust, half the income to go to a daughter, Mary Seacrest, and half to the latter's son.

A son, Tudor Harris, receives only one dollar, but his debts to the estate are to be cancelled.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY JUNIOR ORDER U. A. M.

HARTFORD, Sept. 25—(AP)—Elijah Sturdevant, of the Ben Miller council, No. 11, Danbury, was elected state councilor at the annual state council meeting of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics held today at Grand Army hall.

Other state officers elected are: State vice-councilor, W. H. Wolverton, Washington council, No. 7, Noank; state secretary, J. W. NO DECISION REACHED IN OBREGON ASSASSINATION CASE

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25—(AP)—No decision was reached tonight by the justices of the supreme court on the motion by attorneys for 16 defendants in connection with the assassination of President-elect Obregon that the orders of arrest be cancelled.

These defendants include the Mother Concepcion and some are also charged with having conspired to manufacture and place bombs in Obregon's headquarters and the chamber of deputies. The judges met in the city hall of Mixcoac to hear the pleas, which if granted would amount to dismissal of charges. Otherwise the defendants must stand public trial. The court will sit again tomorrow.

All of the defendants sat in the front row in the courtroom, surrounded by police guards. Mother Concepcion laughed frequently during the arguments on the definition of "banda" and even Toral, whose face is usually serious, smiled occasionally. Sometimes the defendants applauded points in the arguments made in their behalf.

JURY SELECTED TO TRY CONNOLLY AND SEELY

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(AP)—The jury to try Maurice E. Connolly, former Queens borough president and his former sewer engineer, Frederick E. Seely, was selected today and ordered locked up for the night.

Connolly and Seely are charged with conspiracy to defraud the city on sewer contracts. John M. Phillips, sewer contractor indicted with Connolly died before he could be brought to trial.

Former United States Attorney Emory Buckner, who was special counsel appointed by Governor Smith to the $16,000,000 alleged graft on the sewer contracts, is conducting the prosecution. Max B. Steuer is representing Connolly and Dana Wallace is Seely's counsel.

Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, in a statement issued through the democratic national committee, announced that he would both work and vote for Gov. Alfred E. Smith, democratic nominee. He will serve as vice-chairman of the College League for Alfred E. Smith.

Army Flier Killed During Maneuvers

Lieut. Cornelius Fell to Death When His Plane Locked Wings With Another

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 25—(AP)—Death struck into the ranks of the "Three Musketeers" of the army air service again today and wrote finis to the brilliant career of Lieut. W. L. Cornelius, the second of the daring trio of army pursuit pilots to be killed within two weeks.

Lieutenant Cornelius fell to his death when his plane locked wings in midair with another craft piloted by Lieut. Roger V. Williams of Spokane, Wash., at Rockwell field here. The pilots were flying in battle formation.

Witnesses said Lieutenant Cornelius leaped from his disabled plane but his parachute caught in the instrument board and he crashed to earth with the two ships, which locked together. Williams saved his life with a parachute jump and escaped with cuts and minor bruises.

The collision came when the planes were executing a "Lufberry circle" at an altitude of about 1,200 feet.

Lieut. J. J. Williams, leader of the little band of airmen whose daredevil exploits and comraderies made them modern prototypes of the romantic "Three Musketeers" of fiction, was killed only two weeks ago while heading his fellows in thrilling evolutions at the national air races at Los Angeles.

Lieut. Irving A. Woodring is the lone survivor of the trio who, like the characters of Dumas, lived, ate and courted death together—one for all, and all for one.

Following Williams' death at Los Angeles, Cornelius and Woodring carried on and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took their dead leader's place for the remainder of the air show.

Cornelius was a native of Oklahoma and a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, with A. B. and B. S. degrees. He was 26. His parents live at Antlers, Okla.

The flier was a member of the Missouri Valley conference championship baseball team of the university in 1924 and later played professional baseball with the Guthrie team of Oklahoma.

The trio were attached to the first pursuit squadron at Selfridge field, Mich., before being transferred to the 95th pursuit squadron at Rockwell field.

PROPOSAL TO SETTLE NEW BEDFORD TEXTILE STRIKE

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 25—(AP)—Settlement of the New Bedford textile strike on the basis of a five per cent cut seemed open to labor tonight as the state board of conciliation and arbitration ended a long day of conference with representatives of the textile council, the New Bedford Manufacturers' association, the Citizens' Mediation committee.

A joint statement issued at six p. m., when the discussions which had been on since ten o'clock this morning broke, announced that such a compromise was urged by the citizens' committee and the state board. Moreover, this recommendation, the statement added, was accepted by the conference committee of the manufacturers who agreed to recommend its acceptance to the association.

Impression of the conferees was that the manufacturers' association could be expected to follow the suggestion of its committee which includes President John Sullivan and Andrew T. Pierce. In this spirit the statement urged the textile council conference committee to submit the recommendation to the textile council for action. The statement asserted that the labor representatives at the conference were conciliatory in meeting this suggestion.

Chairman Edward Fisher of the state board, said that if this recommendation did not work out the board would in about two weeks issue the report on its investigation of the merits of the strike against a ten per cent wage cut. The strike is now in its 24th week.

The statement:

"The board of conciliation and arbitration sitting jointly with the citizens mediation committee heard today at length the respective conference committees of the manufacturers' association and the textile council and having given the matter of the strike controversy full and careful consideration, they unanimously make the following recommendation:

"The conflict between the parties as developed at the conference is upon the wage cut. Having in mind the condition of the industry as well as the proper desire to keep wages at the highest level possible, it is recommended that there be a five per cent cut instead of the ten per cent imposed by the manufacturers.

"This recommendation has already been submitted to the conference committee of the manufacturers and they have approved it and have agreed to reocmmend its acceptance by the manufacturers' association.

"In view of the attitude of the conference committee of the textile council, the board suggests that this recommendation be submitted by them to the textile council for action."

The statement was signed by the board members and the citizens committee.

If the textile council votes acceptance of the compromise, the questions must finally be submitted to the membership of the unions for final decision.

ELECTED PROVISIONAL PRESIDENT OF MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25—(AP)—Emilio Portes Gil tonight was elected provisional president of Mexico by a joint session of the senate and chamber of deputies.

He received 277 votes with none opposed. He will take office on December 1 on the expiration of the term of President Calles in place of General Alvaro Obregon the regularly elected president, who was assassinated last July.

After casting its vote congress gave prolonged cheers for Calles, Obregon and Portes Gil.

Congress ordered that a popular presidential election be held on the third Sunday of November, 1929. The regular president then elected will succeed Portes Gil on February 5, 1930.

Portes Gil, for the past few months secretary of the interior in the cabinet of President Calles, has expressed his intention of continuing the policies of his chief, including the attitude taken toward the religious controversy.

Trial Of The "Ice Box Bandits" Nears End

...ents May Be Concluded Today and Case Be Given to the Jury Thursday

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 25—There is the possibility that the case of Albert J. Raymond and Roland G. Lalone, jointly charged in the first degree with the murder of State Policeman Irving H. Nelson at Pomfret on the evening of April 6th will go to the jury about the middle of Wednesday afternoon, with both the state and defense having two hours left to their agreed allotment of four hours in which to present arguments to the jury. There is also the probability that the deliberations of the jury may not start until Thursday morning, this depending considerably on the amount of time Judge Edward M. Yeomans plans to use in delivering his charge to the jury.

The court day is of six hours and should both sides consume the entire two hours each left for arguments and Judge Yeomans plan to use one hour or over in making his charge, there is also the likelihood that court will adjourn upon the conclusion of the arguments and Judge Yeomans defer his charge until Thursday in order to give the jury the benefit of as nearly a full day as possible in which to deliberate, thus avoiding a night deliberation. It has been explained that in either case the jury retires immediately upon the conclusion of the charge by the court.

Today was one of much action of bringing to a close the trial of the two alleged "ice-box" bandits. The session opened this morning with a continuation of the rebuttal testimony by the state, nine witnesses taking the stand in this respect. With the exception of one the purpose of these rebuttals by the state was to prove that no violence had been used in the questioning of Raymond and Lalone by the authorities following the arrest of the pair on April 11. The exception was Jacob Nabich, owner of a grocery and meat store in Springfield, who testified that Lalone entered his store on the night of March 24. Under a veritable bombardment of objections by the defense and commands to stop testimony by the court, Nabich testified that Lalone held a gun in his hand on the occasion of his visit to the market. The persistency of the witness led Special State's Attorney Harvey and Judge Yeomans into a deadlock. Attorney Harvey contended that inasmuch as the defense had claimed in its evidence by Lalone that the accused had "never owned a gun," the state should be granted the privilege of showing that Lalone did possess a gun in rebuttal testimony. The privilege was denied and testimony to that extent was excluded. Nabich testified that on a date later than March 24 he had identified Lalone in jail.

A motion entered by the defense for a directive verdict was denied by the court and ordered filed by the clerk. The defense attorneys claimed this was done as a matter of record.

Arguments in the case were started at 11:45 o'clock by State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford of Putnam. Attorney Bradford talked for two hours. In asserting that the state had introduced no evidence as to which of the two accused had fired the fatal shot that killed Officer Nelson, Attorney Bradford briefly reviewed the states as to the equal guilt of both parties in a crime of this nature. Attorney Bradford proceeded to review the state's evidence in chronogical sequence from the time the accused, riding in a Willys-Knight sedan are alleged to have been seen in Springfield where they figured in a shooting affray on Terrence street with Officer Raymond P. Gallagher, through Willimantic and Pomfret and to Webster where the machine was found abandoned later on the night of April 6. From Webster the trail led on to Worcester, the home of the accused.

Attorney Frank H. Foss of this city took up the arguments for the defense at 2:30 o'clock, consuming one and one-half hours in tearing down the weight of the state evidence as to the alleged identifications of Raymond and Lalone. Attorney Foss called to the jury attention that the defense was not concerned over the alleged course of the Willys-Knight sedan, nor did it question the fact that a shooting had taken place in Pomfret. "The only question," he said, "is, did Raymond and Lalone have anything to do with the killing?" Attorney Foss sifted out the 60 odd witnesses for the state to show that only 11 testified relative to identification and that of that number but six made direct identification. These six he named as Officer Raymond P. Gallagher, Mrs. Beesie B. Archer, Russell G. Skinner, all of Springfield, Harold Lester of Willimantic, Michael F. Radzik, Emil Bernier and Edward C. Mason, all of Webster, Mass. In a carefully studied argument Attorney Foss proceeded to break down all identification evidence, strongly questioning the memory of some of the witnesses, especially that of Mason and Officer Gallagher. As to the alleged activities of the accused in Webster Attorney Foss presented figures of distances alleged to have been covered and the hours at which the pair were claimed to have been seen in various localities, to show discrepancies in time. He termed some of the identification evidence as being ex-post facto, stating that conclusions and descriptions made by some of the state witnesses were based on impressions gained through the newspapers and other sources after April 6.

A short recess was declared at 4 o'clock and at 4:15 Attorney John M. Thayer of Worcester, Mass., representing Roland G. Lalone, addressed the jury for one half hour. In his argument Attorney Thayer made a few pointed remarks concerning County Detective Jackson and caled it a case of Jackson against Raymond and Lalone. He spoke of the effects of newspapers in the establishment of ex-post facto testimony and said that the state's weak point was lack of proper identification. After pointing out that Lalone had not been identified as having been in Willimantic prior to the shooting in Pomfret, he cautioned the jury on the fact that the verdict must be based on evidence established "beyond a reasonable doubt."

Court allourned at 4:45 o'clock until Wednesday morning when Attorney Frank B. Hall of Worcester will resume arguments for the defense.

During the first hour and a half of today's session the state was engaged in calling to the stand additional rebuttal witnesses, Captain William T.

HOOVER TO MAKE TRIP INTO SOUTH EARLY NEXT MONTH

Now at Work on His Elizabeth, Tenn., Address For October 6—On October 17 Mr. Hoover Will Speak in Carnegie Hall, New York—Gov. John Hammill of Iowa Brought to the Republican Presidential Candidate a Survey of the Political Conditions in the Corn Belt.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—(AP)—Herbert Hoover had a busy day today, working for a while on his Elizabethton, Tenn., speech and receiving reports on the political situation in the middle west. He also held his semi-weekly conference with newspaper correspondents, but would not disclose whether his campaign plans would be extended to include addresses in a number of cities to which he has been invited.

Gov. John Hammill of Iowa brought to the republican presidential candidate a lengthy survey of conditions in the corn belt and Iowa in particular. The governor was accompanied to the Hoover headquarters by Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the republican national committee.

With Roy O. West, secretary of the interior department and former secretary of the national committee, Hoover also discussed the political situation in the middle west. Plans for an extension of the campaign work in that section were considered.

From Walter J. Kohler, republican nominee for governor of Wisconsin, the presidential candidate received information on conditions in that state. Kohler said the Hoover-Curtis ticket had a good chance to carry the state.

Hoover's press conference was one of the briefest on record. Making his way through the group of nearly half a hundred newspapermen in the semi-circular room at his headquarters, the candidate announced that he had nothing on his mind and said in response to questions that he was unable to help the correspondents with respect to a number of subjects with which they treated.

During the day, Hoover put the final stamp of approval upon the schedule for his trip into the south early next month. Leaving here on his special train on the night of Oct. 5, he will go direct to Elizabethton, where he will speak in midafternoon of the next day at the patriotic and industrial celebration which will be held at that time in that mountain town.

When his train reaches the Virginia-Tennessee line at Bristol, a stop will be made for a rear platform appearance. Before delivering his address at Elizabethton, the republican standard bearer will be a guest at a luncheon and will review a historical pageant.

Then Hoover will motor ten miles to Johnson City, where he will make brief talk to the veterans of all wars domiciled in the Johnson City Soldiers' home, which is one of the largest in the country. He then will go direct to his train for the return trip to Washington, arriving here early Sunday.

This will be his last journey away from Washington until the middle of October when he will invade the home town of his democratic opponent, speaking at Carnegie hall, on the night of Oct. 17. Plans for this trip still are in the making and it may be that the original program will be extended somewhat.

SMITH SPECIAL TRAIN EN ROUTE TO MILWAUKEE

GOVERNOR SMITH'S TRAIN EN ROUTE TO MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 25—(AP)—Apparently satisfied with the reaction to his brand of campaigning, Governor Smith was headed eastward tonight toward the twin cities of Minnesota and Milwaukee, the last speech-making stops on his first stumping tour.

Behind the democratic nominee, as he pierced deeper into the territory where LaFollette showed his greatest strength in the 1924 presidential race, were Helena, where last night he flayed the republicans, including Herbert Hoover, on the corruption issue, and Butte, where he received a rousing reception during an hour layover this afternoon.

On Thursday night Governor Smith will speak in St. Paul. While no definite announcement of his subject has been made, it is expected he will make a round-up address, touching on agriculture, the tariff and other issues of particular interest to the independent republican element and farmers of the northwest.

At Milwaukee Saturday night indications are that he will talk on prohibition, a subject many an American voter has been waiting for him to discuss.

From Milwaukee the democratic standard bearer will return to his home state, going direct to Rochester for the New York state democratic convention next Monday and Tuesday. He will address that meeting and have a hand in the shaping up of the state ticket, then he will return to Albany for a few days rest before taking the road again.

CHARGED WITH SLAYING MRS. CLARK FOR HER MONEY

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 25—(AP)—Archie F. Moock tonight was formally charged with having decoyed Mrs. Katherine Clark of Boston, Mass., to Spokane under promise of marriage and with slaying her with a hatchet for her money.

A roll of money for which Mrs. Clark is believed to have been slain here recently, was found today buried in the back yard of Moock's home. Bills totaling $1,390, a sum approximating the amount which the woman is thought to have brought from Boston with her, was discovered wrapped in a piece of newspaper.

In another hole was found a bundle of love letters signed "James Murphy" which officers declare were written by Moock to lure the woman here on a promise of marriage to "Murphy."

The woman, who was staying at the Moock home was killed with a hatchet. Moock told the police he was drunk at the time and that he had just introduced Mrs. Clark to "Murphy" before he lost consciousness. Her body was found in an orchard east of here.

PHILADELPHIA WARD LEADER SURRENDERS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25—(AP)—Matthew Patterson, republican organization ward leader and a member of the state house of representatives, today surrendered to District Attorney John Monaghan, who had issued a warrant charging him with complicity in the collection of $12,100 protection money from bootleggers.

The evidence involving Patterson was brought out Monday in connection with the special grand jury investigation of gang murders, bootlegging and police bribery. Patterson then could not be found by detectives who sought to serve the warrant.

Paterson entered $15,000 bail.

Mayor Mackay in an address tonight said that Philadelphia, as the result of the grand jury investigation of bootleggers and gang warfare is the "cleanest city in the United States" and "practically free" of unlawful establishments."

LIQUOR DISTILLED FROM SPRAY GERMICIDE

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(AP)—Liquor redistilled from a spray germicide was the product of a 1,000 gallon still raided at Lagrangeville, federal agents testified today at the arraignment of three men accused of operating the plant.

Charles Danna of Hackensack, N. J., and Michael Munna and Salvatore Polisi of Freeport, L. I., who were arrested in the raid, were held in $1,500 bail each for hearing at a date to be determined later.

HOPPE ON TRIAL FOR SLAYING POLICEMAN

DEDHAM, Mass., Sept. 25—(AP)—John J. Fitzgerald, Quincy policeman who accompanied Patrolman Alfred N. Hollis early on the morning of October 4 last, when the latter was slain by a burglar surprised in a store, testified here today in the trial of Stephen Hoppe, charged with the murder of Hollis.

Hoppe, a notorious jail breaker, whose last attempt at freedom cost the lives of two trusties at the Dedham jail, was brought to the courtroom under heavy guard. Earlier in the day, Judge Keating, presiding at the trial, had overruled a motion of Hoppe's counsel that Hoppe be permitted to accompany the jury on its trip to Quincy to view the scene of the crime, and the jury was taken to the scene without him.

Under the plan adopted for the conduct for the trial, all witnesses, except the one testifying, were excluded from the courtroom.

REPEATS CHARGE THAT CURTIS HAD WHISKEY

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25—(AP)—Senator William Cabell Bruce tonight issued a statement in which he reiterated his charge that Senator Charles Curtis, republican vice presidential candidate, had whiskey in his pocket at the Pimlico race track here last year, and furnished a written statement from a local attorney to corroborate his charge. The attorney's statement said that he had had a drink from a bottle which the senator produced from his pocket.

The attorney, James A. McGrath, of a Baltimore law firm, declared in his statement that he, in company with Robert B. Ennis, another local attorney and John Gray of Brooklyn, N. Y., had met the senator at the track on the closing day of the meeting in November 1927. It said that Senator Curtis asked the three of them to join him in a drink and that they went into the bar at the track. There, he said, after procuring four glasses from the bartender, Senator Curtis produced the bottle of whiskey from his pocket and furnished the drinks.

KERPER PLEADED GUILTY TO SELLING LIQUOR

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25—(AP)—Joel D. Kerper, bootlegger whose account books showed names which also appeared in the social register and membership lists of exclusive clubs, today pleaded guilty to selling liquor. Sentence was deferred.

Kerper testified that he acted for a "Mr. White," who was never clearly identified.

Judge Kirkpatrick in accepting it announced he would release Kerper in $10,000 bail, pending sentence Friday.

John Brill, 65, who worked as a clerk for Kerper at $20 a week, and who was a co-defendant, was sentenced at once to serve 60 days in jail.

Kerper, according to a witness declared he made $30,000 a year through selling supposedly rare liquors to prominent residents of Philadelphia and New York. At the same time it was testified Kerper had showed him how he doctored alcohol so that he deceived his wealthy customers.

HONEYWELL WON THE CIVILIAN BALLOON RACE

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25—(AP)—Captain Harry E. Honeywell of St. Louis today was notified he had won the civilian balloon race which started from Altoona, Pa., September 8. He landed at Hampton, N. H. His official distance, as scaled by the United States geological survey was 423.1 miles.

It was believed at first that Edward J. Hill of Detroit, who landed at Laconia, N. H., had covered the greatest distance.

LIFE SENTENCE FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

IONIA, Mich., Sept. 2—(AP)—The habitual criminal section of the state's new criminal code was invoked here today to send Alfred Noyes, 54, to prison under a life sentence when he pleaded guilty to a liquor law violation.

Noyes had been convicted three times previously for larceny. A fourth felony is punishable by life impris

ELECTION OF TOWN OFFICERS NEXT MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 25—Ernest P. Chesebro, C. Arthur Kaney and Jeremiah Healy, comprising the board of selectmen, through Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, have issued the warning for the annual town meeting to be held on Monday, October 1st. Only one clause of the warning will be carried out on that day, according to the custom for many years, which will be the vote for town officers. After the ballots have been counted and the official result announced, the meeting will be adjourned to Saturday, October 6th in the town hall at 2 p. m. when the remaining clauses will be taken up in turn and acted upon.

Town officers will be voted upon at the four polling places within the city limits as follows: First district, town building, entrance on High street; second district, old town building on Church street, second floor; third district, voting booth at the corner of Ives and Milk streets; and fourth district, voting booth on Pleasant street, near the residence of Mrs. Flora Maine. The polls will be open from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Action at the adjourned meeting includes voting on a number of appropriations which are asked for, some of them being made annually. Following are the other clauses of the warning: To receive the reports of the town officers and act on the same; to authorize the selectmen and treasurer to borrow on specific accounts or otherwise, such amounts as may be necessary to meet the expenses of the town for the ensuing year; to determine if the town will vote to appropriate the sum of $960 for the Welfare bureau and $960 for St. Joseph's hospital for the ensuing year; to determine whether the town will appropriate the sum of $100 for the public library at Windham Center in order that the library may obtain the benefit of the expenditure of a similar amount by the state, pursuant to the statute laws of the state; to determine if the town will instruct the selectmen to purchase a tract of land known as Hayden's field, to be used as school property, to appropriate a sum of $4,500 for the purchase and an additional sum of $2,800 to prepare the property for school use; to determine upon vote of the town school committee if the town will appropriate the sum of $191,000 for the support of schools for the ensuing year; and to authorize and instruct the selectmen to purchase for school use, additional land adjacent to the North Windham school and to appropriate a sum not to exceed $400 for that purpose.

ASHFORD BAPTISTS HOLD 104TH ANNUAL MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 25—The Ashford Baptist association held its one hundred and fourth annual meeting in the Hall Memorial church at South Willington Tuesday with morning and afternoon sessions. Rev. David Winslow Lovett of this city presided at both sessions. The one in the morning opened at 10 o'clock with a short worship period, led by Rev. F. W. Howell, pastor of the Dunham Memorial church. This was followed by the rules of order; welcome to delegates and visitors by Miss Rosa O. Hall of Willington; response by Rev. Mr. Lovett; report of the executive committee and reading of the records of the last meeting. At 10.30 o'clock there was the roll call of the eighteen churches comprising the association; three-minute messages on the work of the year; and welcome to new pastors. The annual sermon on the subject, "The All Sufficient Christ," was given at 11.30 o'clock by Rev. Edwin E. Sundt, pastor of Hall Memorial church, followed by offering, appointment of committees and announcements. At 12.30 o'clock luncheon was furnished by a committee from the Hall Memorial church.

A meeting of the Woman's Missionary society opened the afternoon session at 1.30 o'clock with Mrs. Henry Fryer of this city presiding. An address on "Christian Americanization" was delivered by Miss Ida Chesbrough of Brooklyn, N. Y., secretary of the Christian Americanization department of the Baptist Church Extension society of Brooklyn. The following program was then carried out: 2.30 p. m., worship period, led by Rev. Howard E. Eno, pastor of the Stafford Baptist church; business session, reports of committees and election of officers; 3 p. m., address "Our Unused Resources" by Rev. Horace E. Sloat of Hartford, missionary cooperation secretary of the Connecticut Baptist convention; offering; address, "Our Denominational Program," by Miss Elsie Kappen, New York City, field representative of the Northern Baptist convention; hymn; address, "World Redemption Through Evangelism," by Rev. John Newton Lackey, D. D., of Hartford, pastor of the Central Baptist church and member of the state committee on evangelism; reading of records of the day; hymn and adjournment.

Members of the Catholic Daughters of America and Maccabees with friends joined to tender Mrs. Ida M. Grady a reception and farewell dinner at the Nathan Hale hotel Monday evening. Covers were laid for fifty-seven. Following the dinner the party adjourned to the rooms of the Catholic Daughters in the Capitol theatre building where whist was played. Mrs. Grady, who is leaving to reside in Eastford, was presented with a gold wrist watch and overnight bag.

A large number of local merchants attended a meeting held in the chamber of commerce rooms Tuesday forenoon and voted not to hold a fall opening this season. This action rescinded a previous vote of the committee to keep such an affair and means that the stores will arrange for any special event they may desire to hold in connection with the start of fall business, such plans already being in the works. The meeting represented several of the principal lines of merchandising in the city. President Robert F. Newton of the Merchants' association presided and Walter S. Barnes acted as secretary.

President Newton was authorized to appoint a committee of seven to arrange for the Christmas holiday shopping. This committee will have full charge of the plans to make the main business district of the city resplendant with decorations. The appointment of this committee will be made at this time in order that definite arrangements may be made and all details out of the way before the holiday rush begins.

Indications now point to success of the effort to secure the metal screen industry for this city, as evidenced at a meeting held in the chamber of commerce office Monday evening. Chairman Kenneth N. Hillhouse of the campaign committee presided. Reports up to the present time indicate that $8,000 of the $10,000 needed has been subscribed. This amount has been pledged by practically fifty-two persons.

The concern has made arrangements for operating in the S. C. S. Box company plant on Moulton court. The machines now in use and adaptable to the new screen will be moved from the Massachusetts plant to this city if the present drive is a success. The company now has five salesmen and they are meeting with good success. It is planned to increase this number so that by next year there will be fifty salesmen disposing of this product. Applications for territory for this new type of metal screen are already reaching the company and a very large volume of sales is believed to be awaiting the proposed local concern.

A meeting of the class of 1929 of Windham High school was held Monday afternoon when the following officers were elected: President, Ralph Wolmer; vice president, Waldo Bass; treasurer, Clifford Mason; secretary, Anna Lou Ferguson; representatives, to the athletic council, Arvoll Lamson and Marion Branch; Lyceum representatives, Adolf Warren and Evelyn Fournier. Mrs. Cecelia Mahoney was chosen faculty advisor.

A quiet wedding took place Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Benajah E. Smith, 24 Chestnut street, when her daughter, Mrs. Maud Smith Deming, was united in marriage to William B. Deming of Hartford. Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, pastor of the local Congregational church, performed the ceremony. The bride wore a gown of transparent velvet. The rooms were decorated with flowers from the gardens of friends. Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Deming left for a short trip by automobile. They will be at home after November 1st at 61 Oxford street, Hartford.

Engine company No. 1, of the local fire department extinguished a small blaze on the platform of the "round house" of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Tuesday morning shortly before noon. The blaze, which was extinguished by the use of chemicals, was caused by the burning of rubbish or sparks from a passing engine.

In a semi-final match in Group 3 of the Willimantic Country Club golf championships played Monday afternoon on the local course, William P. Jordan defeated Dr. C. E. Simonds, 4 up and 2 to play. Mr. Jordan will meet Joseph St. Onge later in the week for the group title.

The Windham Girls' club held its first monthly social of the season Monday evening at the rooms of the organization on Union street with about thirty in attendance. Miss L. Monica McKean sang pleasingly, accompanied on the piano by Miss Mary Sugrue. Mrs. Arthur C. Racicot of Miami, Fla., a former member, gave an account of her experiences there at the time of the hurricane in 1924 and conditions afterwards. Whist was played following the program at which Mrs. Ethel Bergeron won the first prize and Miss Rose Giguere, the consolation award. Mrs. Racicot was presented with a guest prize, a hand bag containing a gold piece. Luncheon was served with Miss Blanche Hallahan in charge.

Dr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Guild, their daughter, Miss Julia and a friend, Miss Conrad of New York, with Mrs. Henry Hatch of Windham Center were at the cottage owned by William F. Maine at Pleasant View, R. I. over the week end and were joined by members of the H. B. club and guests on Monday for a steak dinner. Samuel Chesebro of this city was one of the guests.

A very enjoyable party was tendered Hazel Wheaton at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wheaton of 6 Strong's Court Monday evening in honor of her eighth birthday. Games were played and a luncheon was served by the hostess. Little Miss Wheaton was the recipient of a number of choice gifts. Those in attendance were Hazel, Arline and Emily Wheaton, Alice Williams, Elizabeth Kelly, Mildred Kelly, Fidelis Wylie, Inez Loveland, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wheaton, Mrs. Julia Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. David Brown and Edward Williams.

Dorothy P. Denault of 7 Cottage Place was tendered a birthday party in honor of her tenth birthday Sunday afternoon, when she received numerous gifts. A luncheon was served with the birthday cake and table decorated in a color scheme of pink. Among those in attendance were Alice and Helen Roy, "Peggy" and "Bunny" Lombardo, Virginia and Alice LeClair, Evelyn Prue, Lucille Kelley, Dolores Cloutier, Florence Curran, Docina Delude, Medora Marrotte and Dioretta and Dorothy Denault.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lucas gave a birthday party in honor of their daughter Anna, at their home, 28 Spruce street, Saturday evening, the occasion being her seventeenth birthday. More than fifty guests were present. A supper was served at ten o'clock, a feature of which was a large birthday cake with seventeen candles. During the evening games were played and musical numbers enjoyed. Miss Lucas was the recipient of many gifts.

Robert Rafferty, who has been spending several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Rafferty of 262 Church street, left Monday for Boston, Mass., where he is to enter the Harvard University Dental school.

Mrs. E. R. Pierson of Norwich was a week-end guest of her daughter, Mrs. Roland B. Jordan of 122 Windham street.

Miss Faith Webster of 110 Walnut street has been visiting relatives and friends in Hartford and Manchester for several days.

Miss Lottie J. Burdick of Quonochontaug was a guest of Mrs. A. S. Babcock Saturday and attended church here.

Everett Kenney has returned from a trip to Maine.

Mrs. Carlton Irish has returned home after a week's visit with Providence relatives.

Mrs. Lulu Palmer is critically ill. Her daughter Miss Ella M. Palmer, R. N. of Battle Creek sanitarium is helping care for her.

Some from this place attended the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Mass., last week.

Mrs. Ida Irish has returned home from a week's visit with Mrs. Nellie Phillips at Hope Valley.

According to the report of Scout Executive J. Harold Williams, the past season which recently closed at Camp Yawgoog, was a banner one, 3,800 campers being at Yawgoog during the camping period of 10 weeks. In week there were 370 campers and staff at Yawgoog. The average weekly attendance was over 240.

A motor boat regatta was held on Yawgoog pond Sunday, under the auspices of Gordon Green post, American Legion. It was largely attended.

JEWETT CITY

HEALTH OFFICER ENDORSES IMPROVING MILK SUPPLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 25—The report of the health officer, G. H. Jennings for the year ending August 31st shows that there were reported four cases of pulmonary tuberculosis, twenty-nine cases of mumps, two cases of pneumonia, one syphilis, three gonorrhea, two chicken pox, one whooping cough, one influenza, four measles, five scarlet fever. Mumps were epidemic in November and December, probably other cases treated without calling a physician and so not reported. Spent for control of communicable diseases $27, school inspection $15, all other (unclassified) $3.50, total $45.50. Supplies of diphtheria antitoxin, diphtheria toxin-antitoxin, tetanus antitoxin, typhoid antitoxin and solution silver nitrate furnished by the state department of health, have been kept on ice, for use by all physicians.

The watershed around the reservoir is well kept. The supply of water has been sufficient and safe for domestic use. The water supply of Glasgo village comes from a large spring, the analysis of this water has always been satisfactory. Condition of the milk supply for public use have not much changed. Two public meetings of the Griswold selectmen, the Jewett City borough officials and the milk dealers were held last year to consider the problem of a better milk supply. At this meeting representatives from the state board of health and the dairy commissioner were present and addressed the meeting. So far no definite action has been taken. There is some increase in the amount of pasteurized milk sold the past year. Milk absolutely safe for use as a food should be obtained from accredited herds (tuberculin tested) or pasteurized.

Changes for the better have been made in the toilets of the schools. There are still other toilets that need attention. Those of the Jewett City school especially, they have been in use for over thirty years and are out of date and should be changed. Only two schools have a supply of drinking water, all others get the water from some neighboring well. The present conditions of ventilation and light can be much improved at a comparatively small cost. The question of consolidation is under consideration and will be the best way to get what is so much needed.

There is no change in caring for school children. Three nurses do service for the corporations; two care for the employes at the mills, one cares for employes and their families; this supplements the work of the district nurse. As heretofore the district nurse works under the supervision of a committee appointed by the town. This work is of incalculable value to the sick; it meets the hearty approval of the citizens. The expenses, while sponsored by the town and Red Cross chapter are as usual largely met by two insurance companies, the Metropolitan and John Hancock. The number of visits made for the Metropolitan 1988, for John Hancock 148, outside 330, total 2475. Balance from last year $50.40, received from nurse for outside calls $202.25, from Metropolitan $1386.41, from John Hancock $107, from Red Cross chapter $200, from town $300; total $2246.76.

Expenses, incidental, including repairs and storage of car $361 71, town nurse $1702.05. Total $2063.76. Balance August 31, 1928, $182.

In the winter through the kindness of Mr. Barnett, manager of Finn Opera house, and by his advice choosing Friday night when a large number of mothers attend weekly, health films, loaned by the state department of health were shown for two months. Also the United States department of health acting with the state department of health had two lectures on health as a part of the Swarthmore Chautauqua program this summer. One by Miss Dohm, a dietitian, "Why Die So Young," and one by Dr. David A. Vaughan, "The Right to Life". A large and appreciative audience was present at both the opera house and the Chautauqua tent. An increased interest in public health has been shown by the community. A larger number of children have been protected by vaccination and by receiving the diphtheria toxin-antitoxin treatment.

Public benefit whist and bridge for hurricane sufferers, Rioux hall, Thurs eve.—adv.

RIVER FOG EFFECTIVE IN KEEPING OFF FROST

As was the case in the early fall of 1926 the first frost was warded off in this section Tuesday by the damp of the river fog which arose from the Quinebaug on the west and the Pachaug on the south. Along toward sunrise the mercury fell to 34 in the borough; but with heavy frosts reported in Plainfield and a freeze in Canterbury, no damage was done here. In addition to the river moisture the Tadpole and Ashland ponds were contributory to the local escape.

Jewett City is entirely surrounded by water with the exception of a narrow neck at the Dorrville ice houses. At this point about 16 rods separates the Ashland and eastern Tadpole pond. Otherwise the borough is on an island.

Pachaug Community club has postponed its meeting until Friday evening, that it may not interfere with the public benefit whist for the hurricane sufferers to be held on the regular meeting night.

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. McLaughlin have as guests Dr. and Mrs. Charles Rickaher and Mr. and Mrs. William Stever of Fairfield, Iowa, who made the trip here by automobile. Mrs. Rickaher and Mrs. McLaughlin are sisters.

A public meeting is to be held at the Methodist church tonight at which time the missionary mite boxes will be opened. There will be a short program by the children. Rev. J. W. Carter will be the speaker.

Miss Ellen Prior returned Tuesday to her studies at Brown university.

Miss M. A. Burdick, chairman of the local Red Cross chapter and Mrs. J. H. Tracy, have been appointed to attend the state convention in Bridgeport Tuesday next.

Tuesday, Oct. 9, will be the last day to hand in the names of those desirous of "to be made". That is, any person, 21 years or over, who is a citizen, but not a voter, must file his intentions of becoming a voter, either with the selectmen, the town clerk, or registrars of voters not later than Oct. 9. Those who are 21 years old after Oct. 20 and before election day will be made Monday, Nov. 5. Election day, being a national election this year comes on Tuesday, Nov. 6.

The Methodist Ladies' Aid society is to meet in the vestry Thursday at 2 o'clock to sew.

MYSTIC

LEGION POST INVITED TO GEN. LYON HOMESTEAD

The meeting of the A. C. Latham camp, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, was held Tuesday evening in G. A. R. hall. Matters brought up for discussion included the district meeting, 1928-1929, in observance of Sons' day, at Noroton Heights, Sunday, September 30. The camp also acted on the invitation of the committee on pilgrimages, Arthur L. Peale of Norwich, DeForest Wells of Danielson and Charles R. Brown of New London to attend ceremonies and hear a short address at the old homestead of General Nathaniel Lyon in the town of Eastford, which has been secured by the state as a state park. Members and their families and friends were invited to attend, Sunday, October 7 at 2 p. m. A basket lunch is to follow. General Lyon was one of the outstanding men in the Civil war period and was the first general to lose his life in defense of the union. Several members of the local camp are planning to attend, if weather permits.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Gates and the latter's mother, Mrs. Isabel Neal of Providence were week-end visitors at their summer home on River road. Mrs. Neal is recovering from a broken shoulder, also the cast was removed Saturday from a broken thumb.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church held a variety supper in the vestry, Tuesday. Mrs. Leonard Allyn was chairman of the committee. A large number attended.

Odell D. Tompkins was in New York to attend the funeral of David Angus, Sunday afternoon.

Herman Eldredge is in Tennessee for several months on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace S. Williams and daughters, Eleanor and Elizabeth Anne have returned to Old Mystic after spending the summer at their camp at Lantern Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Dowley of Ogdensburg, N. Y., are here for a visit with relatives.

Mrs. Clara Wilcox, Mrs. Julia Coates and E. D. Bliven are motoring through the Adirondacks.

Mrs. Sadie Wheeler had with her over the week end, her son, Reynolds Wheeler of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Guile of Canton, Mass., and Mrs. Charles Guile of West Somerville, Mass., motored here last week and took their great aunt, Mrs. Nettie Noyes and their aunt, Mrs. Amy Williams to their home. While in Canton, all went on several motor trips to nearby places. Mrs. Williams and Miss Noyes returned home Sunday evening. This is the first time that Mrs. Noyes has been away from home over night in twenty years. Mr. Guile is a former Mystic boy. He has completed an attractive home in Canton, having been his own architect and doing much of the work himself in spare hours.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary E. Judd, were held at local funeral parlors, Tuesday afternoon at 2.30, Rev. Ernest P. S. Spencer, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church read the service. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Annie D. Lathrop is confined to her home by a cold.

Mrs. Robert Angus and daughter Dora have been in New York attending the funeral of David Angus, held Sunday afternoon at the Collegiate church, 5th avenue and 48th street. Mr. Angus was a stone contractor and was murdered in his apartment last week. The burglars secured most of the payroll which was to have paid the help that afternoon. His brother Robert, died about three weeks ago here in Mystic.

Mrs. Edward Potter of Elmville was at the Potter cottage on River road Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Merrill of Providence were guests there.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McGuire had many callers Sunday to look at their beautiful flower gardens.

MOHEGAN

Miss Winifred Quidgeon, who has been in Boston on her vacation at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Spick has returned.

Mr. and Mrs. Sturgis of New London called on friends here Sunday.

Thelma Strickland was in Norwich Saturday.

FAREWELL PARTY GIVEN GIRL FROM GOLDEN WEST

A farewell party was given Miss Bertha Hintke at the home of Mrs. John Tourjee on Riverside avenue, Miss Hartke spent the summer at Groton Long Point and will leave soon for St. Louis, Mo., by automobile, a distance of 1,400 miles. Guests were present from Mystic, New London, Groton Long Point and this village. The parlor was decorated with crepe paper in four colors. Games were played and the Prospect Hill Ramblers' orchestra played for dancing. One dance was "Tucker Wants a Wife." It proved funnier than a boy with a new pair of skates on at Christmas. Fred Larkin lost his wife and had everybody trying to find her. He found her getting the oats ready. Before the table was set, with potato salad, hamburg sandwiches and other good things, Miss Hartke told about St. Louis, a great city and one where it is easy to get about. The time is two hours different from this. "It is my first visit east," she said, "and I find it all right. I think Groton Long Point is delightful—always a nice breeze blowing, no matter how hot the weather is." Mrs. Tourjee said, "All ready," and everybody sat down. "Who wants to cut the radio cake, that is three layers thick?" Billie Crowell was the lucky fellow and cut it like a lady at a fair. Stretch Morrison made a short speech, saying that he was glad to see so many at the party for a girl so far away from home. "I am glad to have her with us tonight," he said. "In behalf of the guests, I present this box and wish you a successful trip back to the west." Opening the box, she found a Beacon blanket. She thanked them all. "A thousand times," she said. A short program followed. John Tourjee played the piano as Miss Hartke sang "The Little Gray Home in the West." Stretch Morrison brought out a new hand saw and gave a solo. "Let a Smile Be Your Umbrella on a Rainy Day," all singing the chorus.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Plympton of Bernardson, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Haskell of Shrewsbury, Mass., are spending a few days with Mrs. Martha Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. George Barker of South Coventry were in Noank recently.

Mrs. James Allen has closed her summer home, Rock Ledge, at Groton Long Point, and has returned to St. Louis.

Paul Chesebro of Princeton university is spending a few days at his home.

Frank Allen has returned to St. Louis, Mo., after spending the summer at Groton Long Point.

NEW TRAFFIC COP KEPT HUSBAND OUT LATE

Two young men, William Frank and Harry Buerr, were returning by automobile from a dance in Hope Valley late Monday night and got on Elm street, when Driver Frank saw a large animal, black and white, in the middle of the road. He thought it was a cat, but getting closer found it was a skunk. It would not let them pass. They had a new car and did not want to have it nebd painting so soon. Mr. Skunk was doing traffic duty like a city policeman and they almost read on his lips, "Do not pass." He kept them waiting over an hour with several automobiles in back of them and wanting to make their homes before their wives got up and found their husbands missing. At last the black and white pussy ran into the woods so the automobile men could get home. It was early morning, as the birds were singing, that they hit the hay. Raising his right hand, each said, "Never again will we get held up by a skunk in the road!"

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barber of Hartford were recent callers on Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Main.

Alden Brocky recently spent a day in Saybrook with friends.

Mrs. Lewis Martin was in Middletown Monday.

Billie Banks spent a day this week with his cousin, O. Farnell, on Block Island.

Carl Ashcroft has returned from Derby, Conn.

Walter Welles was in Eagleville Monday.

NORTH LYME

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Davis and son, of New Haven, were callers at W. M. Sisson's Friday.

Miss Fluvia Miner who has been assisting Miss Emily Stark for several months, has returned to her home in Willington. Miss Buck of Chester is taking her place.

Edward and Robert Strong, Wallace Maynard, G. H. Strong and Mrs. N. S. Strong were callers at H. A. Gates' in Little River Sunday. G. H. Strong remained for a few days' visit.

Rev. E. E. Yates of Hartford conducted the services at the Baptist church last Sunday.

Rev. B. F. Trick of Bridgeport is expected to preach Sunday next.

DANIELSON

LOCAL YOUTH SENT TO REFORMATORY FOR THEFT

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 25—Twaine St. Germain, 20, was ordered committed to the state reformatory at Cheshire today by Judge W. Fenner Woodward at a session of the town court at which St. Germain was accused of stealing three different lots of chickens at East Killingly and of making his way into the Starkweather garage on Academy street, possessing himself of a car with which he went out for a joy ride and then returning it. St. Germain's sentence is indeterminate, and he faces a prospect of remaining at the reformatory for several years.

However, he did not appear at all depressed by the predicament in which he found himself this morning. He was good natured and smiling and apparently carefree. Being a prisoner will be no new experience for St. Germain, who two years ago escaped from a reformatory in Rhode Island and has since been at large, spending much of his time in this town, where it was not known that he had a criminal record.

His case is a bit uncommon inasmuch as it is very seldom that an accused person is sentenced directly from the Killingly town court to the Cheshire reformatory. St. Germain's home is in Warwick, R. I.

Up to late this afternoon no one has appeared at the state police barracks on North Main street to claim the Chrysler roadster that was ditched and abandoned on the highway near North Grosvenordale Sunday night with its cargo of 70 gallons of alcohol.

It now appears that this car is not an entirely strange one to the officers at the barracks. Last July it was in another jam at Eastford, when it got into a hole while two intoxicated men were riding in it. At that time it was established that the machine was owned by an Edith Clark of Hartford, and she represented upon being quizzed as to how it happened to be in Eastford that she had loaned it to two men, neither of whom she was very well acquainted with, a circumstance that was regarded as peculiar at the time.

Since the Eastford affair the registration of the car has been changed, and the Connecticut numbers now upon it are not the numbers that it was carrying in July.

There was nothing to indicate today when the car might be claimed by the owner or whether it will be claimed at all, due to the fact that state officers are very likely to make careful inquiry as to how it happened to have such a quantity of alcohol aboard.

It was said today that power developed at the Connecticut company's Dyer dam plant, two miles south of here on the Quinebaug river, will be made available for use during certain periods by the Eastern Connecticut Power company. The Dyer dam plant has remained in constant operation for the delivery of power to points where it has been required by the Connecticut company, though trolley service through this territory has been replaced by motor coach service for nearly three years.

The arrangement of the power company with the trolley company relative to the Dyer dam plant is said to be similar to other agreements through which the power company takes surplus power during certain parts of any given 24-hour period from manufacturing concerns in its territory, some of them in this neighborhood.

Mrs. Mary Boucher, 65, a resident of East Killingly, died in Norwich today after having been in feeble health for some time. The body was brought here in charge of Undertaker A. F. Wood. Mrs. Boucher, whose husband died a few years ago, was a native of Glocester, R. I., and was a daughter of Joseph and Ruth Adams Sanders. She leaves three brothers, Robert Sanders of Danielson, Elmer Sanders of East Killingly and Edward Sanders of Foster, and three sisters, Mrs. Herbert Oatley, Mrs. Emma Moran and Mrs. Elizabeth Whitney, all of East Killingly.

During Monday night a death at Dayville was that of Mrs. Etna B. Mowry, 74, wife of Charles D. Mowry. Mrs. Mowry had been in feeble health for a long time. Mrs. Mowry was born in Brooklyn, January 17, 1854, a daughter of Alfred E. and Elizabeth Botham Beals. Mrs. Mowry leaves her husband, one of the well known citizens of Killingly. There are no other immediate relatives.

The usual procedure of petitioning for an evening school in Danielson has not taken place as yet, and it was said this afternoon that no steps have been taken to date this season for the opening of such a school. Sessions of an evening school were held at the high school building last fall and winter and proved of material benefit for those attending.

As a general rule, churches here will hold services on standard time next Sunday, but at the usual hours. Post-office hours will be adjusted also on Sunday to the standard time schedule, a change, however, that will not be apparent, and on Monday, schools, manufacturing plants and banks will again be following standard time schedules. The same will be true of the motor coaches of the Connecticut company.

For the first time this season flower-ing plants were blighted this morning by a frost that nipped at things in a damaging way in many parts of the town. However, there were no reports of damage to such sections of corn fields as remain uncut. Much of the corn grown hereabouts this season already is in shocks or silos. Reports of temperature readings down to 36 degrees were reported today from some sections of the town.

Lieut. Albert S. Field, inspector-lieu-tenant of the state police department, made a visit for inspection purposes to the Danielson state barracks today. Lieut. Field, as a sergeant, was in charge of the Danielson barracks for several years prior to his promotion to a lieutenancy in 1927. His present duties take him throughout the state to all the posts of the department.

Recent spectacular buying and sell-ing in the stock market is coincident, it would appear, to another bombardment of local people by mail. Stacks of letters and circulars are being received here from brokerage firms, mostly New York houses, and contain all kinds of investment propositions.

Ira A. McDaniel is slowly recovering from a severe attack of typhoid fever at his home in Cedartown, Ga., where he is the assistant treasurer of the Goodyear Mills. Mr. McDaniel formerly was at the local Goodyear plant in a similar capacity.

Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Tillinghast of LaCrescenta, Cal., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wood.

Attorney Harry E. Back and Judge W. Fenner Woodward were among those attending the Raymond-Lalone trial in Willimantic this afternoon.

An interesting event at Wildwood park this evening was a "battle of music" participated in by Earl Shean's Rocky Point orchestra and Anson Smith's Clinton, Mass., orchestra.

The Killingly Woman's club is inviting all interested women to attend the cooking demonstration at the vestry of the Congregational church Wednesday afternoon of this week.

Another series of shares of the Danielson Building and Loan association is to be issued October 1, this being the second such issue since the original set matured during the spring of this year.

Buyers of coal these early fall days are finding some of Danielson's dealers offering the commodity at 50 cents per ton lower than the price that prevailed here during the winter of last year, the lower price being $15.50.

During the Promotion day exercises in the Westfield Congregational church school next Sunday there will be a short consecration service for the teachers therein.

This morning the Weymouth Ameri-can Legion post band that has become familiar to many radio owners through their Sunday evening concerts in the interest of a shoe manufacturing concern came to town unexpectedly. Somewhere east of here, out on the Providence road, the big motor coach in which they were traveling developed difficulties and had to be towed into Danielson. The band proceeded from here in an open truck to fill an engagement at a fair at Rockville.

F. A. Norton of New Haven was in Danielson today on a business mission.

In next Monday's town election all ballots will be cast at the polling place in the town hall building. In the November election the town will vote by districts—at Danielson, Dayville and East Killingly.

Some applications already have gone into the offices of the New York American league club from Danielson for tickets for the World's series games likely to be played in that city, it would appear today.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Atwood and Miss Dorothy Atwood of Wauregan returned from a motor tour in northern New England.

The case of Joseph Viens of North Grosvenordale was nolled in the town court this morning. Viens' car was in an accident while he was driving near Attawaugan late Saturday night.

PLAINFIELD

A birthday party was held Saturday at the home of Mr. Amedee Bouley in the Old Village, celebrating her 69th birthday. A cake with 69 candles was presented her with a purse and several other gifts. The address was read by her granddaughter, Lydia Lavigne. The cake was presented by another granddaughter, Doris Lavigne. Those present at the party were her children, Mr. and Mrs. Amedee Bouley, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lavigne and daughter, Lydia, Mr. and Mrs. Mathias Lavigne and children, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Houle, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith and family, all of Plainfield, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fournier of Baltic, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lavigne of Jewett City, Miss Blanche Lavigne, Moosup, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brelsford, Mr. and Mrs. Adams Rojoski, Jewett City, and Mr. and Mrs. Desire Vezina and Amedee Rousseau of Plainfield. Piano solos were played by Miss Blanche Lavigne of Moosup. Sandwiches, cake, candy and ice cream were served by Mrs. Amedee Bouley, Mrs. Henry Lavigne and Mrs. Joseph Smith.

SOUTH KILLINGLY

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Cole and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cole haave returned after two weeks' vacation at Quonset Point.

Beatrice Coffey returned to K. H. S. Monday after an absence of a week. Miss Coffey had an attack of tonsolitis.

Several local people attended a dance in East Killingly Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Place, their son Stanley, Edith Gallup and Harvey Fortune were members of a fishing party off the rocks at Point Judith recently.

Mr. and Mrs Charles Spaulding of Auburn, R. I., have been spending a week at their cottage.

A number of local residents attended the fair in Brooklyn.

The first meeting of the Kitadini Camp Fire Girls was held Friday afternoon. Mildred Kelley is the new camp guardian.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hall, Elizabeth Barber and Mrs. P. H. Coffey took a motor trip Friday through Plainfield, Norwich, Windham and Pomfret. While in Norwich they called on Mrs. Hall's aunt, Phebe Barber.

Henry Leonard and family of Valley Falls spent Sunday at Spaulding cottage.

A junior branch of the Camp Fire, to be known as the Cherios, was organized Friday afternoon. There are eight members ranging from 9 to 11. Ruth Coffey is the guardian.

Fred Shipper and son Junior were callers at The Oaks last week.

PUTNAM

ELABORATE ARMISTICE DAY OBSERVANCE FOR PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 25—The tenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, that ended the World war on November 11th, 1928, is to be largely observed in Putnam if the general interest of the public is as great as was that of the representatives of the various organizations of the city that gathered Monday evening in the chamber of commerce rooms to discuss plans for the observance of the day.

The meeting was called to order by Commander Martin B. Robertson of the American Legion post and a roll call of organizations was taken, there being over 15 societies represented.

It was definitely decided that the day would be celebrated on Monday, November 12, and all parts of the observance would be held over until that day. The committee also voted for a parade and nominated the following members as a parade committee: Captain, J. J. McGarry, Captain Anson Buchanan of the G. A. R., John B. Byrne, Commander Ernest J. Durand of the V. F. W., Harvey Grinsell, Colonel Henry J. Thayer and Lieut. Francis J. Murphy.

Following the planned parade, a programme will be held outdoors. A committee consisting of the following members were appointed to draw up the programme including the securing of the speakers: Rev. James F. English, Ernest J. Durand, Eric H. Johnson, John H. Bulger and Rev. U. O. Bellerose.

Upon a suggestion from Rev. James F. English, it was voted that a banquet be held early in the evening at which all the veterans of the various wars would be present. The plan was adopted and the following committee was appointed to take charge of arrangements: John H. Bulger, Kenneth C. Sharpe, Carl F. Weeks, Robert Allard, Maurice Muior, A. S. King, Arthur Renshaw, and Mrs. J. D. Potter, who later was appointed chairman.

Plans are now underway for a military ball to be held on Armistice night. The ball will be a public affair and will be run jointly by the headquarters company of the 43rd division with the following members of a committee, representing the community Armistice day committee cooperating: Eugene Alvord, Mrs. William Saretski, Mrs. Lewis T. Champlin, Frederick Benoit, Arthur Renshaw, Kenneth C. Sharpe, John H. Bulger, G Stanley Shaw, William Leader and Albert Williams.

There was a vast amount of enthusiasm at the meeting and it is the aim of the organizations to have the tenth anniversary one of the most elaborate ever witnessed in Putnam.

Joseph Mason, of Mechanicsville, was arrested this morning by State Trooper Emil Castagna of Danielson barracks, after he had crashed into a large coach of the Acme Lines in Mechanicsville. Mason was operating a Dodge touring car and was said to be under the influence of liquor when the crash came. His car was badly damaged yet an examination disclosed that he had suffered no serious injury, other than a few body scratches. The motor coach was neither damaged nor delayed.

Mason was taken to the Putnam police station by Trooper Castagna and is being held for his appearance in city court Wednesday morning.

Thomas Kelly of this city, was grant-ed another week's continuance by Justice P. P. Tourtellotte in the town court in North Grosvenordale last evening. Kelly was arraigned in court a week ago charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested by State Trooper James Carmody on last Sunday evening, after his employer's car which he was operating figured in an accident with that of Omer Maynard of Putnam.

Frank W. Foskett, widely known cattle dealer and farmer of Woodstock was arraigned in the first district court of Webster this morning and paid a fine of $25 for the illegal sale of meats. It was proven that Foskett did sell in Webster meats that did not bear the seal of the government inspectors.

In Massachusetts slaughtered cattle offered for sale must have the seal of the commonwealth upon it. Foskett had been violating this rule for several weeks it was alleged, until he was finally discovered through an investigation conducted by the state department of public health.

His arrest was also brought about by merchants in Webster, since he was offering his produce at a considerably reduced rate than that which had received the state inspection giving cause for unfair competition.

Foskett is well known in Putnam and has business interests here.

By order of Superintendent of Schools Leon M. Farrin, the Putnam high school closed its session today at 11 o'clock because of the extreme coldness inside of the building. The fires have not been started and all during the morning the teachers and students were complaining of the conditions and were forced to wear their wraps to continue study. When it was discovered that the large building could not be heated in the short time left before the close of school, Supt. Farrin ordered the building closed rather than subject the scholars to further exposure.

Again a rumor relative to the sale of the large Mechanicsville textile plant gained circulation this morning, but its truth was quickly dispelled when officials representing the Gurel mills in Putnam stated that there was absolutely no foundation for the story, other than the mill has been placed in the hands of an agency to be offered for sale.

Neighbors night of the Putnam Grange, 97, was held at the I. O. O. F. hall on Pomfret street at which the local chapter was host to the organizations from Thompson and Woodstock. A programme was arranged and carried out, which was followed by general dancing. About two hundred were in attendance.

John Rogers, who has been assistant manager of the branch store of the W. T. Grant company in this city for the past year, has been transferred to Carlisle, Penn., where he will become manager of a similar store.

Miss Gertrude Warner of South Main street, who has been spending a few weeks in Canada, has returned to her home in this city and has began her duties as head of the primary department of the Israel Putnam school. Her mother, Mrs. Edgar M. Warner, returned Monday from a six weeks visit in Washington, D. C., where she has been the guest of her daughter.

Service on the morning mail train running over the Norwich branch of the New Haven railroad, and delivering first class and registered mail to cities and towns along the branch line, greatly improved upon its schedule of Monday morning, when it stopped at the Putnam station only about an hour and fifteen minutes late. Monday, despite the protests of the business men, because of its service, the train arrived here three hours and fifteen minutes late. There was little comment on the service this morning by the merchants and bankers as only a slight delay was experienced compared to the arriving time of the combination freight and mail train on previous mornings throughout the summer months.

A Dodge sedan owned and operated by Dr. K. T. Phillips of this city, was damaged this morning when it figured in a collision with a truck owned and operated by Leonard Beausoliel of Providence street. Dr. Phillips was proceeding along Front street in the direction of the Day Kimball hospital when the truck, owned by Beausoliel, crashed into the doctor's car in front of the silent policeman at the intersection of Front and Main streets. Neither the doctor nor the driver of the truck were injured. The police investigated the "get-to-gether" but no arrests were made.

The Red Cross appeal for funds to aid the suffering victims of the hurricane disaster in Florida and Porto Rico, is still unanswered by the residents of Putnam and vicinity, according to Geo. W. Baker, chairman of the local chapter. Mr. Baker said tonight that the donations turned into the treasurer of the Putnam chapter since the appeal was issued by the organization at the national headquarters in Washington nearly a week ago have been so small that the Putnam committee has been unable to make a remittance to Washington. Mr. Baker stated tonight that all persons who have felt the call and who are to contribute to the cause, should send their checks at once to Miss Emma Roberts, treasurers of the Putnam chapter.

Valmore Lapiere, of Lincoln street, left Saturday for Hampton Roads, where he had joined the United States navy. The young Putnam boy is a radio expert, and through his knowledge of the subject was fortunate in securing an enrollment in the government radio training school.

Balance Your Total Ration

The word "Total Ration" means the total amount of feed consumed in one day. The ration is balanced for the dairy cow when sufficient nutrients are furnished to maintain body weight, nourish the unborn calf and produce milk to the limit of the cow's capacity. The kind of roughage should be considered in selecting the proper grain ration.

UNION GRAINS CAN NOW BE OBTAINED IN TWO DIFFERENT FORMS

Twenty-four per cent. dry UNION GRAINS and 24% sweet UNION GRAINS. Both feeds are exactly the same quality. Select the one which best fills your needs. Let us discuss with you the matter of booking your season's requirement.

FALSE CHARGES BRANDED

Not so many days ago an elaborate story was given out by Candidate Smith in which there was run down the story which had been circulated to the effect that the democratic presidential candidate had been intoxicated at a fair in New York state. It got its start from a letter which was claimed to have passed between a woman in New York state and another in a state south of the Mason and Dixon line. The letter was not produced but there were denials on the part of those whose names had been connected with the charge. Because there was no proof to be had the charge failed.

That all such attacks are not being made against Mr. Smith is evidenced by the recent declaration by Senator Bruce, democrat, of Maryland that Clarence Darrow, the well known criminal lawyer of Chicago had said that he had had several drinks with Mr. Hoover in Washington since the dry law became effective.

That was so or it was not so. George Akerson, secretary to Mr. Hoover, promptly denied it and declared that Mr. Hoover had made no use whatever of liquor since the 18th amendment went into effect. He also stated that he had never known or met Mr. Darrow.

Not only that, but Mr. Darrow also felt called upon to clear his connection with the alleged act and he repudiated the entire charge and declared that he had never taken a drink with Mr. Hoover. If they had never met and do not know each other it is quite apparent that they would not likely to be drinking together.

The effort to pin something on a candidate which isn't so is by no means a new dodge in political campaigns. Perhaps Senator Bruce thought he was enjoying the wide privileges of the senate floor when he made the charge and didn't expect that it would be denied. It leaves him in an even more bumiliating position than the two women inasmuch as he is a United States senator, but the activities of those who are responsible for spreading false tales for harmful purposes cannot be too strongly condemned. One of the worst features of these false accusation is that the denials and proof of such seldom catch up with the original charges.

THE AWAITED REPLY

When England and France seek to learn the attitude of this country toward the armament agreement which has been negotiated between those two countries it cannot fail to arouse interest. They do not say that they will be governed by whatever this country says. They do not insist that it will be immediately broken if it is considered objectionable. Nevertheless it is evident that there is a feeling, through the manner in which it was negotiated and the fact that it is an understanding between two nations which are already now included with two others in a naval agreement the terms of which were openly arrived at, that it is a secret and undesirable pact. Because of the manner in which it was secured it has even aroused suspicion in London.

In the answer which will be forwarded by this government there will be set forth the position of the United States. It is entirely possible that there is nothing in the agreement which is detrimental to anyone. It may mean a step that will lead to a better adjustment of the armament problem. Possibly this country takes the view that neither of the negotiating countries had any desire to take advantage of the United States.

The situation is aggravated some by the fact that last year's effort to get a three power agreement failed only to be followed by a secret understanding between two of them. It also seems unfortunate that it should have been brought to light at a time when the nations were joining hands in the signing of the Kellogg treaty renouncing war, but it is to be hoped that the response by this government will serve to clear up any doubt through the clear presentation of the position which is taken by the United States. Other countries than the three concerned are naturally interested in developments.

AWAY-FROM-HOME VOTERS

In other states where it is possible under a provision of the law to vote although away from home on election day, instructions are already being given in regard to the use of such a ballot.

This is a plan which takes into consideration the fact that there are many people away from home every day in the year and the number is always bound to be large on election day. Those who can get or stay at home for election do so but there are many who cannot without a great sacrifice. Absentee voting has therefore been advocated and obtained in certain states. Connecticut has sought it but has as yet failed to get it. Massachusetts extends that privilege to its voters in case they are two or more municipalities away from their legal residence on election day. This requires them to make application for an absentee ballot which application is passed upon by the board of registrars and if found to be justified a blank ballot is forwarded to be filled out and returned to the city clerk by mail and by him to be delivered at the polling place where the voter would vote on election day.

This makes it evident that the absentee voter cannot wait until the closing hour of the polls before providing for his vote. He must forward it sufficiently in advance to insure its arrival in time, but when he does that he has the satisfaction of knowing that he has not been deprived of his franchise just because he could not avoid being away from home on election day.

It is not to be expected that the number in such a list will be tremendous. Yet they are voters and as such ought to have a chance to express themselves even if it does mean the preparation of their ballots days in advance of election. The absentee voters may never swing an election but when appeals are being made for those at home to get to the polls and vote on election day it is only fair that those who cannot be at home and want to vote should have a chance to do so. Inasmuch as there are precautions to see that this privilege is not abused it is not surprising that there are increased demands for it.

MADRID'S PANIC

From old Madrid there comes a story of disaster which has had frequent repetitions. In various places much the same thing has occurred as happened when the theatre in the Spanish capital was burned, for unfortunately the evidence or cry of fire prompted a stampede which resulted in many being trampled to death, whereas if there had been an orderly though rapid emptying of the theatre this loss would have been avoided.

In this instance the flames appeared on the stage. That was to the advantage of the audience had it been favored with adequate exits and taken immediate steps to use them without pushing and jamming the aisles and doorways. Haste which results in tripping others, frantic crowding that floors other people simply means that horrible injuries if not death are going to be sustained by those who cannot keep their feet.

It is probably too much to expect that a large audience is going to move as slowly as it would if the show were over. The very nature of the situation calls for getting out without delay but not by a feverish rush. This has been repeatedly emphasized by the results which have attended the panic in playhouses.

For the protection of the public the theatre should have sufficient doorways to permit the emptying of the house in a few minutes by the use of the nearest exit. This provision in behalf of safety needs the added support of an orderly audience. It is natural that there should be a desire to get out and away from danger, but it is equally desirable that this departure should be gained without causing the death of any in the audience. It is not a situation in which it is possible for everyone to keep cool but it is a time when much depends upon the conduct of the average person. If everyone is engaged in a fighting rush trouble will follow. If a few are made to understand the folly of such a course the real cause of many of the panics will be eliminated.

Those who are responsible for false alarms under such circumstances and those who make a bad situation worse may not realize it at the time but they are invariably more dangerous than the actual fire.

MODERN DEMANDS

The problem of good roads is one which no country can refuse to consider. That is apparently recognized by the American firm which has made an offer to Chile to reconstruct the existing roads and build new and good ones in the northern part of the country. There is always the question of expense in connection with any such proposition, but the American contractors would have that taken care of through the payment of highway tolls. The idea is that this is going to be a particular service for those who use highways and accordingly those who use them should bear the expense of construction.

This is in keeping with a policy under which roads of long ago were constructed and there are many points along the highways which can be pointed out today as one time toll gates. Those roads were not modern ones but they were advantageous. Today toll roads are practically unknown, but there is recognition of the justice involved in the idea of having those who use them pay the expense of maintenance through the tax on gasoline which is now collected in nearly every state of the Union.

Chile is duty bound to consider the benefits of an improved system of roads. It has opportunity for development and there is nothing that gives better aid than good roads. In fact the motor vehicles are so common in most countries that good roads are a necessity. Whether the American contractors get the opportunity to built the roads in the South American country, there can be little doubt but what Chile's interest in such a proposition will be so awakened that it will give increased attention to this problem of providing modern highways without extended delay.

THE GIRTONS OF GIRTONBURY

"Since I last saw you, dearest Jess," wrote Jerry Girton to her best friend, Jessica Hunt, "I have been living almost in another world; it's so different here from the life we know in the city.

"When I first arrived I longed for the good times we used to have—for the shows and the dancing and the people who don't frown on the 'new woman.' I soon discovered I dared not mention such longings before my gentle mid-Victorian aunts here. It's funny how differently they regard things from the way we do.

"Did you know that it is unladylike to sit with your knees crossed? Of course you didn't, you little ruffian! You're probably reading this letter, or will be, with one leg thrown jauntily over the other, as though good Queen Victoria had never been born. You in your innocence undoubtedly think that the term lady is practically obsolete, but I'll have you know that in these parts it is a household word, and, moreover, the last word on any subject.

"Aunt Cornelia declares that no real lady would wear skirts as short as those in which I arrived at the portals of my ancestral halls. So most of them have been lengthened, temporarily, and let me add that several nice, warm petticoats, through the kindness of Aunt Cornelia, have been added to my scanty, in that particular, wardrobe. It seems that no lady, and especially no Girton lady, would eliminate that garment from her dress.

"I have learned during this visit what a heavy responsibility it is to be a Girton of Girtonbury, Mass. Aunt Prudence tells me that the Girton women have always prided themselves on their low voices and plain garb. Our dear papa always said that a real lady was known by her quiet laughter and her modest apparel,' remarked Aunt Cornelia, who is ever at hand to bolster up any precept of Aunt Prudence's.

"Their teamwork is admirable. Their 'dear papa' was my grandfather, who married late in life, and after providing the world with two perfect examples of ladyhood and one scion, who became my charming dad, died long before my time.

"I never regretted his demise as a personal loss until I found in rummaging through an old chest of papers in the attic some gay and gallant letters that proved him not to be quite the severe paragon that his loyal daughters appear to think. I fear, dear Jess, that they have long done their esteemed parent a fearful injustice, for I happened to discover that he was a real fellow, and I am sorry that I never knew him.

"Could you see me washing the old Belleek cups and saucers every night after dinner, because no lady leaves such treasures to the hands of a servant, and then counting all the ancient knives, forks and spoons, and carrying them up to the cupboard in Aunt Prudence's chamber, you would never think it was your little Jerry. and, my dear girl, you would be right. It is Geraldine Girton performing (awkwardly enough) what Aunt Cornelia calls the graceful offices of the home. I'll have you understand that no one with such a good old family name as Geraldine should ever allow anyone to call her such a tomboy abbreviation as Jerry. Aren't you ashamed of yourself?

"Did you know that when you sit still you must sit perfectly still? When a lady has nothing to do, she does nothing, so quoth my great-grandmother, and since this oracle spoke all the Girton women have cultivated the repose that marks the caste of Vere de Vere. A great deal is forgiven your poor, misguided Jerry because she was so unfortunate as to be brought up beyond the sacred precincts of Girtonbury.

"A few days ago I was counting the very minutes until I could burst out of this backwater, but now when the time is so near for parting with my venerable aunts I feel unexpectedly lumpy in the throat. They are the dearest old last-century models in the world, and, my dear, let me whisper it to you, your sophisticated Jerry has learned a lot from them. Being a Girton, I find, really isn't so bad after all.

"Do you remember telling me you wouldn't let yourself in for such a dull visit and warning me I couldn't stand it a week? And it's been four already! When I told my aunts about you they at once told me to ask you down for a fortnight, so I'll close by extending their invitation, knowing in advance what your answer will be. But, anyway, love, GERALDINE."

YOUR HEALTH

Good Grinders and Digestion

By Manuel Leo Adler, D. D. S., New York

If some of the grindstones of a flour mill were missing and others were chipped and broken in places, the wheat put into it would never be properly ground. Consequently a good loaf of bread could not be baked with such poorly ground flour.

Nature gives us grindstones in the form of two sets of teeth, an upper and a lower, to grind, crush and chew our food. These grinders are similar on both sides of the mouth, left and right; a double force for chewing. As with the flour mill, if some of your teeth are missing and others are chipped and broken due to decay, the food you put into your mouth cannot be properly chewed or ground and prepared for the stomach. Consequently you do not get the full benefit of what you eat.

A definite job is assigned to each tooth in the act of mastication or chewing. The front teeth are called the incisor teeth because they incise or cut the food. The back teeth, the bicuspids and molars, triturate or grind the food. The back teeth are your best friends because they are the ones that prepare the food for your stomach. If these teeth are missing, you cannot chew your food well. The stomach has no teeth. Food must be ground and prepared in the mouth.

Food is crushed in the mouth by the lower teeth striking against the uppers. In chewing meats this is done in an up and down motion, while vegetables are crushed in a side to side movement.

Every time you lose a tooth and do not replace it, three other teeth are affected. The tooth in the opposite jaw cannot do its work because it has nothing to grind against. You need two stones with which to grind. The tooth on either side of the missing one loses its necessary side support. Nature tries to close up this missing space, but, unfortunately, it cannot be properly done. The tooth in the opposite jaw grows towards the missing one. If a lower tooth is missing, the upper grows downward and soon appears lower than the others. If an upper is missing, the lower grows upward. The teeth on either side of the missing one tilt towards the missing tooth space. It is this tilting of the back teeth and teeth growing out of proper alignment that prevents some people from having their front teeth meet when they close their jaws.

When teeth are missing the remaining teeth must do extra work for which they are not fitted. The front ones, in addition to cutting the food, must grind the food when the back teeth are missing. The back teeth, in addition to grinding the food, must do the cutting when the front ones are missing.

If your grinders do not properly prepare your food, your digestion suffers. The larger particles of food that are swallowed because of poor chewing are not digested and the movement in the intestines is delayed. Starches, which form a great part of our food, have been proven to be improperly digested when the molar or back teeth are missing. Vegetable particles have also been known to pass through the body practically unchanged unless chewed by all the teeth.

When food remains in the system longer than naturally, fermentation takes place with a subsequent gastritis (inflammation of the stomach) and an enteritis (inflammation of the intestines). I believe the use of laxatives and cathartics would be materially reduced if people would properly chew their food.

Replace your missing teeth. Good teeth mean good digestion, and good digestion means good health and the pursuit of happiness!

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—President Coolidge is back from his highly isolated summer sojourn in the Wisconsin woods and the cowpuncher hat which has figured in news and pictures of his summer outing has been consigned to the mothballs, probably never again to grace a presidential head.

The president has never given the Washington public a direct glimpse of his headpiece, the very antithesis of the famous known brown derby of Governor Smith. When he wears it again, it no doubt will be in his post-white house days and as former president. Where and when that will be is anybody's guess, for Mr. Coolidge has given no inkling of what he proposes to do when he turns his back on the white house March 4 next.

Aide Spurns Luxuries.

Back with the president has come also that dashing frontiersman and essentially out-of-door soldier, Colonel Osmun Latrobe, senior military aide at the white house. Like the huge cowpuncher hat and the unexpected skill with shotgun and pistol Mr. Coolidge seems to have disclosed during his Wisconsin relaxation from cares of state, Latrobe symbolizes to most observers a deeply buried yearning toward a life of adventure in the Coolidge makeup. There has never been any other logical explanation of the president's action in hailing the bluff cavalryman away from his regiment to dance attendance at white house social and ceremonial functions that must bore him stiff.

Perhaps the dashing colonel is already suffering from the fleshpots of Washington. At any rate, a tale of his experiences at Brule is occasioning considerable amusement in army and white house circles.

The military guard from Fort Snelling, Minn., which guaranteed presidential privacy at the lodge, lived under canvas while on that duty, as did the secret service men, the president's aides and the rest of his necessary entourage. When the presidential party arrived, Latrobe's tent was not ready, so he went back to Superior, 40 miles away, for the night.

His inspection of the tent colony, however, had revealed a very deluxe affair to his soldierly eye. There were floored tents, running water, screen protection from insects and many other comforts remote from cavalry bivouac simplicity to which the colonel was well accustomed. This was no roll-up-in-your-blanket-and-use-your-saddle-for-pillow camp, and he scoffed a bit at its luxuries.

"Softies" Laugh Last

The next night Latrobe's quarters were ready. When he decided to turn in, brother officers and secret service men who had already shivered through a few nights of those northern latitudes tipped him to take precautions. They suggested many newspapers beneath his blankets to keep off the cold and the cavalryman laughed at them. Who was he to worry over a little camp life with his years of sleeping under the open sky.

In the morning, however, he was sneezing with a heavy cold, and back he went to the hotel at Superior for the next three nights to rid himself of the ailment. It was the turn of the hard-boiled Fort Snelling contingent to do the laughing, and they did. From then on, quite unofficially of course, the gallant cavalry colonel, veteran of a thousand stirring adventures by flood and field, became "One-night" Latrobe.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Different Views

Mr. Editor: Not many days ago a nationally known business man, an illustrious son of Norwich, a most generous benefactor of the Central Baptist church and a loyal generous friend and alumnus of Norwich Free Academy announced through the press that he would not only vote for Gov. Alfred E. Smith but donated $10,000 to the campaign fund. For years this man, Mr. Noyes, has known Gov. Smith intimately, studied his policies and affiliations and learned to admire his character and ability as citizen, patriot and statesman. Mr. Noyes as a leader among the most successful business men of New York certainly knows whereof he speaks when he announces that he will vote for Governor Smith and help to finance Governor Smith's campaign.

On Sunday, Sept. 23rd, the pastor of the Central Baptist church talking politics in the pulpit of his church urged the defeat of Mr. Noyes' political idol. While Catholic priests of the city and nation were devoting their time to exhorting their respective congregations to a study and practise of Christ's mandate "Love thy neighbor as thyself" Mr. Pitt spent his precious time talking politics. By insinuation he taught that much is to be feared, in the event of Gov. Smith's election, from the "organization back of" Gov. Smith's religion. Mr. Noyes evidently did not share Rev. Mr Pitt's fear when he donated $10,000 to aid in the election of Gov. Smith and surely no one will deny that Mr. Noyes is as good and intelligent an American, and as zealous for America's protection from foreign "dictation" as Rev. Mr. Pitt.

Mr. Pitt further insinuates that Roman Catholic church threatens the welfare of our public schools when he says "it is the Catholic organization (which is feared)—where there is such a marked difference of opinion as the public schools."

Mr. Noyes has on countless occasions and in a most generous manner proven his love for Norwich Free Academy and our public schools. As an intelligent New Yorker he knows that Gov. Smith has done more for the promotion of the interests of the public school system of New York than any governor in many years. Whose opinion on this matter is the more weighty, that of Mr. Pitt's the Norwich Baptist parson or Mr. Noyes one of the greatest business men in New York? I refrain from any reference to the contrast between Mr. Pitt's talking politics only at a church service while Catholic priests talked only on Christ's mandate "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

One More Letter

"Have you those letters stamped and ready to go?" asked dad as he pulled on one coat sleeve in the morning.

"Yes, here y'are." The letters were given to him and he headed for the door to go when he was stopped by a command from his wee daughter.

"Wait, daddy," she piped, "here's a letter I undressed."

A Vacation Afterclap.

Jack, who had just returned from a visit to his indulgent uncle, was sitting disconsolately with his father on the porch.

"What's the matter, son, feeling badly?" asked the father.

"I'm just feeling sorry for you!" replied the calculating youngster.

"What's the matter with your dad?" inquired the puzzled father.

"Well, I'm sorry cause you are not rich like Uncle Jack. He buys ice cream cones every day," was the lad's ineffective answer.

Burgess Bedtime Story

The Stranger Drops

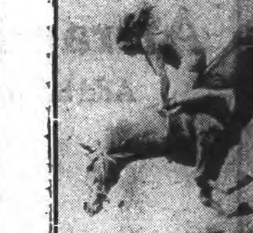
By Thornton W. Burgess

Impatience never will attain
The end that it is sought to gain.
—Old Mother Nature

Cubby bear stood on the ground looking up in a little tree. It was too small a tree for him to climb. Grinning down at him from near the top was a stranger—a stranger to him anyway. Now Cubby knew that that stranger was afraid. Had he not been afraid he wouldn't have climbed that tree. But there he was up the tree, and Cubby was doing his best to shake him down. But though he shook and he shook and he shook and he shook he couldn't make the stranger lose his hold. And the more he shook the angrier Cubby grew. He tried to scramble up, but the little branches broke and the little tree bent and he just couldn't get up.

Finally Cubby was forced to give up. Then he had a happy idea. He would go off a little way and hide. He would wait for that stranger to come down. So Cubby shuffled away, and when he was sure that the stranger could no longer see him he very softly stole around to one side and there he sat down where he could watch the stranger but was quite sure he couldn't be seen himself. He waited and waited and waited. The stranger knew when he was well off. He remained right where he was. He seemed quite satisfied to stay in the top of that little tree.

Now, little Bears seldom have much patience. Cubby remained quiet for a remarkably long time for a little bear. But at last his patience gave out. He just couldn't keep still any longer. He was just getting ready to give up and go shuffling off when the stranger in the little treetop began to move. He crept out on a small branch and he let go with his tail. Cubby



Cubby stopped and stared.

Bear saw his chance. Before you could wink an eye he was at the foot of that little tree and shaking it. The stranger lost his hold. He flew out into the air and down he dropped to the ground with a thump.

Cubby rushed over to where the stranger had fallen, expecting to see him scramble to his feet and run away. But the stranger lay right where he fell. Cubby stopped and stared. The stranger lay on his side; his lips were partly drawn back, showing his teeth; he didn't move so much as a toe; his eyes were closed. Could it be that that fall had killed him?

Cubby walked in a little circle around the stranger. He walked around him three times. Still the stranger didn't move. Very gingerly Cubby reached out and touched him. The stranger didn't move. Cubby grew a little bolder. He rolled the stranger over. There was no movement.

"He's dead," thought Cubby. He certainly is dead. Who would have thought a little fall like that would have killed him?" He sniffed at the stranger. Somehow it was all so queer that he lost his appetite. Now that he had the stranger there, dead, he didn't feel so much like eating him as he had when he was trying to catch the stranger. There was something queer about it all, and Cubby is always suspicious of queer things. He sat down at a little distance and gazed long and hard at this small person of the Green Forest whom he had never seen before.

"I wonder who he is?" said Cubby to himself. "I wonder who he is? I must ask about him. It certainly is funny how a little fall like that could kill anybody. It must be I scared him to death. That must be it—it must be I scared him to death. Well, I'll leave him here a while. Perhaps I'll come back and get him later."

So Cubby shuffled away. As he moved off one eye of the stranger opened. Cubby turned his head to look back. That eye closed. But the instant Cubby went on that eye opened again. When Cubby had disappeared one ear cocked up. When the ear no longer hear Cubby's footsteps the stranger's head lifted. Then he grinned, yawned, got to his feet and went on his way. Of course you know who it was. It was Uncle Billy Possum and he had been playing dead to fool Cubby Bear.

What Dr. Caldwell Learned in 47 Years Practice

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Note special coupon offer:

Suit Against Paper Company

The Thames Towboat Co., of New London has brought suit in the superior court against The Quaker Hill Paper Co., of New Haven, doing business in Waterford, for damages of $850. The suit is brought on the common counts.

MAKE CLAIMS FOR $35,000 IN FOUR SUITS FROM MYSTIC AUTO CRASH

As the result of an automobile accident at Mystic, July 26th, four damage actions, totalling $35,000 have been filed in the superior court against Charles C. Dodd and Roscoe K. Burrows, both of Groton.

Damages of $5,000 are claimed by Andrew E. Startz of Groton. The plaintiff is the father of Andrew Francis Startz, a minor, late of Groton, deceased. The complaint charges that on July 26th last about 5 p. m. d. s. t. the plaintiff's son, aged one year and four months, was standing on the sidewalk with his mother, father and brother on West Main street, Mystic, at a point on the sidewalk in front of the store of Orrin H. Sanford.

The defendant, Charles C. Dodd, was driving an automobile owned by the defendant Roscoe K. Burrows, on Pearl street, Mystic, at the intersection with West Main street. The machine darted across the intersection a 3 onto the sidewalk, striking the child, cutting off his left leg, fracturing his skull and killing him. Mr. Burrows was riding with the driver. It is charged that the automobile was being operated by Mr. Dodd, an inexperienced driver, and while under the instruction and direction of Mr. Burrows, on a busy and much traveled highway in Mystic. The defendants failed to exercise due care and caution, according to the complaint, the machine was not equipped with proper brakes and the machine was not under proper control.

The suit is brought as compensation for the loss of the child's future earning capacity to which he would have been entitled during the period of his minority.

In a second suit damages of $10,000 are asked by Andrew E. Startz, in his capacity of administrator of his infant child's estate.

Gertrude L. Starix of Groton, has brought suit claiming damages of $15,000. She was standing in front of the Orrin H. Sanford store, when the machine darted across the intersection and onto the sidewalk The machine hit her and hurled her through the display window of the Sanford store, according to the complaint. She was badly injured, and in consequence of her injuries her health has been greatly impaired.

Additional damages of $5,000 are asked by Andrew E. Startz, hurband of Gertrude L. Startz. He asks damages claiming that he has been put to heavy expense because of his wife's injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Lamphere of 29 Washington street, had as their guest last week, Rev. Robert Day of Hartford.

COMMON PLEAS COURT HEARS FEW MOTIONS

The majority of motions on the motion list of the court of common pleas in New London Monday with Judge Charles B. Waller presiding, were either continued or went off the list.

Judge Waller took the papers and reserved decision on a hearing on demurrer in the case of the Security Finance Corp against Bascl of New London.

Attorney Keefe in his argument for the defendant said that the plaintiff was an Iowa concern while the defendant was from this state. The plaintiff claims to hold notes of the defendant, which it bought from another concern, the notes aggregating $6,159.84. Attorney Keefe maintained that the Iowa concern should be ordered to exhibit its books and records in court as well as send its officials here to be examined in court.

Attorney Belcher maintained that there was statute on this, and that of the company's books, there were other transactions entirely foreign to the issues in this case, and that they should not be open for such inspection. In addition, Mr. Belcher said that such a procedure would greatly hamper the company and that the statute was intended to cover just such a case.

Judgment by default for failure to plead was entered in the case of Alex Poinetti against E. M. Sweeney.

Judgment for $933.91 was entered in favor of the Shetucket Coal & Lumber Co., against Paul Postler and Barbara Wunderlich, both of Norwich. The latter holds a lien on the property in Norwich. The redemption day for Postler was set as November 19.

Judgment in accordance with a sworn bill of particulars was entered in favor of Latham Avery of Groton against George Yates of New London.

Disclosure of defense within one week or judgment was ordered in the case of A. H. Burr et al, against P. J. Clifford.

A motion for more specific statement was granted the plaintiff in the case of Meyer Hollandersky against Herman A. Tyler. The suit started over a dispute in connection with a two year lease of property. Judge Waller, at the conclusion of arguments presented by Attorney Foster K. Sistare for the plaintiff and Attorney Leon J. Beisheim for the defendant, suggested that the defense amend its special defense to give certain information asked for by the plaintiff.

NEPHEWS AND NIECES APPEAL UNCLE'S WILL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Sept. 25—Four Westerly and North Stonington residents, nephews and nieces of the late William E. Stewart of North Stonington, are the plaintiffs in an appeal taken to the superior court from the Norwich probate court on admitting the Stewart will to probate. It was dated June 11, 1928. Mr. Stewart died Aug. 30 of this year. The four appellants, who are G. Russell Stewart of Westerly, Mrs. Florence S. Wheeler, wife of Fred N. Wheeler of Westerly, Clifford H. Stewart and G. Floyd Stewart, both of North Stonington, make the claim Charles L. Stewart of Norwich, also a nephew of the decendent, exercised undue influence upon him. By a previous will dated 18 years ago, all the nephews and nieces were treated equally, but by the contested will, the four appellants each are to receive $1,000 and the residue of the estate of about $25,000, after paying certain bequests is left to Charles L. Stewart. Attorneys Percy A. Guthrie of Boston and G. Curtis Morgan of New London are counsel for the appellants.

BEAT HIS WIFE AND FOUGHT POLICEMAN

Aristolelis Sideropoulos of No. 19 Thames street, proprietor of a local dyeing and cleaning establishment, was arrested Tuesday night on charges of breach of the peace and resisting arrest. Sideropoulos beat up his wife at their home about 9 o'clock Tuesday evening and when, on complaint of the wife, Officer Clifford Crary was arresting him, Sideropoulos put up a fight in the kitchen. He kicked the officer and created a general disturbance in the house. The officer buckled into him and handcuffed him.

There was no further trouble from the would-be pugilist. He was brought to the police station in a passive mood and when presented before the desk there was no more fight left in him. He was locked up for safekeeping and will be presented before the city court this (Wednesday) morning.

GIVES MODIFIED PERMISSION TO ERECT A GARAGE

The joint zoning board of the city and town has denied an appeal by Mrs. Margaret J. McGillicuddy, for permission to erect a one-car garage on her premises at No. 31 Bliss place, within 50 feet of the street line. However the board allowed the appellant permission to erect the garage within five feet of the property dividing line, provided that the garage is built 50 feet back from the street line.

WATCHMEN FOR HUBBARD'S SCOTLAND ROAD FARM

Depradations of thieves on the fine farm of James L. Hubbard on Scotland road have grown to such an extent in the past week that Mr. Hubbard has arranged to have night and day watch kept at the place in order to protect his property.

Poultry, various kinds of fruit and anything which the thieves could lay their hands on have been taken but Mr. Hubbard expects the officers he will have on watch will cure the thieves of their idea that his place can be robbed with impunity.

NORWICH PARTY IN AUTO CRASHED INTO BRIDGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 25—Five Norwich people, including three colored men and one colored woman, and one white man narrowly escaped serious injury shortly before 6 o'clock tonight when a sedan in which they were riding toward this city collided head-on with the westerly abutment of the Willimantic river bridge at the end of Columbia road just within the town of Columbia. The occupants were William Carter, 50 Cedar street, driver of the car, Mrs. Monica Joubrey, 57 West Main street, owner of the car, James Bush, 3 Water street, Russell Morgan, East Great Plains, and John Kingsley (white), Central avenue. Carter sustained lacerations on the head and face and shoulder, Mrs. Joubrey was cut about the arms and shoulder and complained of soreness to her left side. Bush suffered a wrenched shoulder, but he and the others of the party were otherwise uninjured.

Carter and Mrs. Joubrey were rushed to St. Joseph's hospital in the ambulance and were detained there over night. They were attended by Dr. A. J. Girouard. The driver of the car was placed under arrest by Deputy Sheriff Harvey S Collins of Columbia and notified to appear in the Columbia town court next Thursday night to answer to a charge of reckless driving. Bush claimed that their machine had been forced to the side of the road by a large blue sedan travelling in the opposite direction He said the party was returning from a trip to Hartford.

The machine was completely wrecked and would not be worth repairing, according to those who viewed the wreck.

LOUIS WALLNER'S DAUGHTER WAS KILLED ACCIDENTALLY

Norwich friends of Louis Woodruff Wallner, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wallner, have been saddened by the tragic death of his daughter, Mary Cole Wallner, aged 15. She was accidentally killed Saturday while duck shooting at Holderness, N. H., when her gun caught in her clothing as she was leaving the boat and was discharged, wounding her so that she died shortly afterwards. The young man who was her companion ran a half mile to get help, but on his return the girl was unconscious Burial was in Holderness Monday.

Mr. Wallner married Miss Doris Cole, who has relatives in Mystic, and the family frequently visited there and in Norwich. Louis W. Wallner went from Norwich to New York and later entered Princeton university, taking a course in journalism. Afterwards he became a broker in Manhattan, being highly successful and having a seat on the Stock Exchange. The family has had a summer home at Holderness, N. H., and on their return trips to their New York home have called on Norwich friends.

Mr. Wallner's father was the late Eugene Wallner, a prominent musician in Norwich, a most successful teacher of the violin, who directed an orchestra of his pupils and others. His wife was a cousin of the late Rev. Leonard W Bacon, for a term of years pastor at Park Congregational church Mrs. Wallner was a woman of many gifts and a number of the hymns which she wrote are still sung in the services at Park church. Their son grew up with many in Norwich to whom the news of the tragedy which has plunged his family into grief brings a sense of profound sorrow.

GAVE ENTERTAINING TALK BEFORE ARCANUM CLUB

The Alcanum club opened the fall season Tuesday night with a club-night supper at 6:30 in the clubhouse where the menu of chicken pie, mashed potatoes, biscuits, pickles, apple pie, cheese and coffee, followed by cigars, was enjoyed by about 150. It was well served under the direction of the committee, Wilbur S. Williams, Julian L. Williams and John Durnan.

Senator Hiram Bingham had been expected to speak upon aviation, but was unable to be here because of an attack of tonsilitis. In the emergency President Tyler D. Guy invited his supper guest, Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, to speak and introduced him to the company to speak upon "France."

Rev. Mr. Cooper responded in a delightfully entertaining way, which was recognized by hearty applause and a rising vote of thanks as he concluded. He spoke of a number of interesting incidents while he was abroad this summer, speaking especially of Chateau Thierry, Belleau Wood and Paris.

The gathering also sent a vote of sympathy to Senator Bingham.

The supper hour was delayed for about 15 minutes by trouble in the switchboard, which left the building in darkness until repairs could be made.

NIGHT SCHOOL TERM WILL OPEN MONDAY

The annual term of the night schools under the auspices of the town school board, is to open next Monday evening at Broadway, Greeneville and Taftville schools, the sessions holding from 7 to 9 o'clock on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

A new departure this year will be the advanced grade, which will be added at the Broadway and Taftville schools. There will be four grades at Broadway, the advanced, intermediate, general and beginners'; three grades at Taftville, the advanced, intermediate and beginners', and two at Greeneville, the intermediate and the beginners'.

Posters have been placed on the trolley cars and a circular letter from Miss Bernice E. Willey, director of adult education, have been distributed to call attention to the opening of the night schools.

CURTIS DIFFERS WITH SMITH ON THE AGRICULTURAL ISSUE

OMAHA, Sept. 25—(AP)—The "republican protective tariff" was declared tonight by Senator Curtis, the republican vice-presidential nominee to be the "res. difference between the major parties on the agricultural issue in this campaign.

From the same platform used a week ago by Governor Smith in presenting his farm relief views, the Kansas senator tonight took issue with that presentation and gave his party's viewpoint. He also criticized the democratic presidential nominee's position on state control of liquor as presented in his address here, and declares against states "going into the liquor business."

"Governor Smith says what remains of the McNary-Haugen bill is a mere matter of method," the senator declared in his prepared address, "and that he would not limit himself to the mere mechanics and methods of that bill. It remained he said, but to work out the details by which the principle should be put into effect, and he pledged himself to appoint a non-partisan commission of farm leaders and students of the problem to work out such details.

"The republican platform declares and pledges itself to the development and enactment of measures which will place the agricultural interests of America on a basis of equality with other industries. Our republican candidate pledges himself to carry out the promises of our platform and to regulate the marketing system for agriculture on more economical lines, and declares that he favors a commission clothed with authority and resources to assist in the solution of the farm problem."

Compressing Cotton

The city of Los Angeles possesses an electrically operated cotton compress whereby cotton can be compressed to 42 1-2 pounds to a cubic foot, the pressure obtainable being 2,250 pounds to the square inch.

The advantages of this for shipping purposes are obvious. For instance, 200 bales of cotton, totaling 101,858 pounds, have been loaded in one 50-foot car. The cotton is received in loose bales, after going through the gin. This is piled up in a corrugated grating. When the jaws of the compress have been filled, the power is turned on and on the lever principle, with a weight of 175 tons on the other hand, the cotton is pressed with this enormous force.

Steel bands are put around it, and coarse sacking wrapped around the bale for protection. It is then ready to be loaded into the cars for shipment.

VERY LITTLE DIFFERENCE IN DEFENSIVE QUALITIES OF LEADING TEAMS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(AP)—If performances of the past month are to be taken as the index of world's series form the New York Giants are the best defensive outfit of any of the four clubs engaged in the current hand-to-hand struggle for the major league pennants.

Take a few recent examples. In the game with the Cardinals last Saturday that meant the making or breaking of their pennant hopes, Young Karl Hubbell went into the box with the bases full, none out and Jim Bottomley at bat. Jim tied the score with a hit but Hubbell checked all remaining efforts of the Cards to score and the Giants won. This was superlative relief pitching, which comes under the general heading of defense.

The next day the Giants faced defeat in the ninth inning of a game with the Reds when Wally Pipp, with the score tied, tripled and the next batter punched a long fly to center. Nine out of ten times Pipp would have tallied but Jimmy Welsh came through with a perfect throw to the plate that nailed Wally. The Giants won in the 14th. This was typical of a superlative fielding defense.

Over the season's span, the Cardinals have a fine defensive record but they fell considerably below the more flashy standard of the Giants in the big series here last week. The left side of the Card infield and outfield both have displayed defensive flaws but the St. Louis pitching corps is capable of blocking most enemy moves especially when Alexander, Sherdel or Haines is in the box.

The Yankees seldom have been credited with as much defensive ability as they possessed. The big sock has overshadowed the finer points of the club's all-around play, just as the casual observers of Babe Ruth see chiefly his hitting power and overlook his marvelous fielding or throwing ability. Bob Meusel may have a rifleshot arm for long distance throws but it has never had the accuracy of Babe's southpaw heaves from deep right field.

Since the big slump set in, the Yankees haven't sparkled afield as they usually do. The long absence of Tony Lazzeri took a lot of dash out of the infield. So did the decline of Joe Dugan, who in the days before he developed a trick knee yielded to no man in agility around third base. Added to these have been the weaknesses of the pitching staff.

The Athletics suffered defensively when the old timers, Speaker and Cobb, ambled in the outfield but the injection of younger talent there, as well as some reconstruction of the infield, strengthened Mack's barriers Although it's chase is now virtually hopeless, the team shapes up in the closing drive as superior to the Yankees in both fielding and pitching. Bishop and Boley have developed into the fastest working keystone combination in the league.

Behind the bat, where defense counts as much as any place, Mickey Cochrane gives the Athletics a decided edge over any of the Yankee maskmen. There is not much to choose between the respective abilities of Frank Hogan of the Giants and Jimmy Wilson of the Cards, both young, aggressive and resouceful.

Herp are the latest team fielding averages:

YANKEES IMPROVE CHANCES BY SWAMPING INDIANS

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25—(AP)—The Yankees marched another long mile toward the 1928 pennant by routing the Cleveland Indians by 10 to 1 in the rubber game of the series here today. Even though the Athletics defeated the Browns by 9 to 5 in St. Louis, the Yankees held their lead of two games and moved into a position where they can clinch the flag with three more victories.

Old Tom Zachary, the Washington orphan, won his third victory for the champions, holding the Redskins at bay all afternoon. He gave up only eight hits and was in small danger of being scored upon at any time until Joe Sewell and Hodapp bunched doubles in the eighth after Tom had a lead of ten runs.

The Yankees pounded George Grant from the mound under a six-run barrage in the first inning, and scored from time to time on Billy Bayne who succeeded him.

Babe Ruth was forced to retire from the game in the sixth when his injured left knee began troubling him again. Durst took Ruth's place in right field. Tony Lazzeri also gave way to his understudy, Leo Durocher, a little later. The third Yankee cripple, Mark Koenig, played through the game.

The Indians added three double plays to their record, which again is rivaling that of the Cincinnati Reds, dual league leaders.

The Yankee scoring was closed out in the eighth with a three run assault capped by Lou Gehrig's twenty-fifth home run of the season with one man on base.

GOLF CLUB CHAMPIONSHIPS REACH SEMI-FINAL ROUND

The championship play for the Norwich Golf club title has reached the semi-finals with Dave Morton meeting Bruce Rogers in the upper bracket while Johnny Sayles is pitted against Eddie McKay in the lower half. Morton eliminated Eldred, Rogers disposed of A. H. Chase, Sayles beat F. R. Smith and McKay won from Park in the first round.

By beating Goffe Briggs 5 and 3, C. A. Gager became a finalist in the lower half of the first sixteen and will meet the winner of the Kirby-Ford semi-final match. Ben Gaines and Louis Quinson are finalists in the consolation eight.

Curly Wins N. E. Pro Title

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 25—(AP)—Jack Curley, of Stony Brae, with a 314 carried off the championship of the New England Professional Golfers' association at the Rhode Island Country club today. M. Miller, of Norwich, did not turn in a card after today's play. He shot a 165 in the first round yesterday.

GIANTS WIN WHEN FAN INTERFERES WITH BALL

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(AP)—A spirited rally for two runs in the ninth, marked by a Cincinnati protest that fans interfered with Joe Stripp's fielding of a batted ball, enabled the Giants to nose out the Reds by a score of 4 to 3 in the final game of the series here today, and so keep pace one game behind the leading Cardinals, who defeated Brooklyn by 4 to 3 in fifteen innings.

Going into the ninth trailing by 3 to 2, John McGraw sent O'Farrell to bat in Scott's place, and Bob responded by coaxing out the only pass Epps Rixey gave the home forces. O'Doul replaced O'Farrell as a runner, only to be forced by Welsh, but the former Boston Brave dashed home with the tieing run on Andy Reese's triple to right.

Stripp did not immediately field the drive, but tried instead to direct the attention of the umpires to spectators in the right field sector. He contended that a fan deflected the ball, preventing him from catching it, but the protest, joined in by several other Cincinnati players, availed nothing.

The Red infield then moved in on the grass to try to cut off Reese at the plate. But Mann drove a single past Dressen, scoring Reese with the winning run.

It was Andy Cohen day at the Polo grounds, and the Giant infielder received a check for $1,500 from the Knights of Pythias. Mayor Walker was to have made the presentation, but failed to arrive at the park until the second inning. The score:

JONES BLANKS WHITE SOX WITH SEVEN BINGLES

CHICAGO, Sept. 25 — (AP) — The Washington Senators took a firmer hold on fourth place in the American league when they defeated the Chicago White Sox 3 to 0 today in the final game of the season between the two clubs. The Senators' victory gave them two of the three games of the current series.

Extra base hits proved the undoing of "Red" Faber, who started for the Sox and his successor, Young Ed Walsh. In the third Goslin hit a home run and Judge followed with a single, scoring on Bluege's double. Cronin and Rice put together two triples in the ninth to score the third run.

Only Mostil and Shires were successful against Jones, the two Sox lead off men getting six of the seven hits.

PHILLIES BREAK LOSING STREAK BEATING CUBS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25—(AP)—The Philadelphia Nationals latest losing streak which had reached twelve in a row was broken today when the Chicago Cubs fell before the tail enders 5-2.

Home runs over the right field wall by Chuck Klein in the second and Cy Williams in the seventh assured victory. Williams' came with hurst on first.

Both Sheriff Blake and Claude Willoughby were hit hard but the Phillie pitcher was stronger in the pinches and did not issue a pass.

GOOCH SUFFERS THREE BROKEN RIBS IN COLLISION

BROOKLYN, Sept. 25—(AP)—Johnny Gooch, Brooklyn catcher, sustained three broken ribs and a badly bruised back when Frankie Frisch of the Cardinals crashed into him at the home plate in the third inning of yesterday's game here. The extent of Gooch's injuries was disclosed when he had an x-ray picture taken today. Frisch's knee struck Gooch's left side as the Robins' backstop was blocking the plate to prevent Frisch from scoring on Bottomley's infield out.

CARDS MUST FACE DAZZY VANCE TODAY

(By The Associated Press)

The Cardinals battled into the shadows at Brooklyn last night to hold their margin of one game over the Giants in the National league pennant race, and succeeded by noising out the Robins by 4 to 3. The Giants earlier in the day had defeated the Cincinnati Reds at the Polo grounds by an identical score. The Cards now face a chance of increasing their lead as they meet Brooklyn today while the Giants are idle, but they will have to beat Dazzy Vance to turn the trick. The Cubs lost to Philadelphia. Two more defeats or two more victories by the Cards will end the Cubs' last mathematical chance.

ATHLETICS HOLD PLACE BY BEATING BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25—(AP)—The Athletics remained two games behind the Yankees in the American league pennant race today when they defeated the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 5.

The Macks batted both Ogden and Coffman out of the box. Earnshaw was replaced by Walberg when he was hit freely during the first two innings. Dykes, Philadelphia shortstop, got five straight hits, driving in four of Philadelphia's runs.

Bill Killefer, who was coaching at third base for the Browns, was ordered off the field when he protested a decision of Umpire Guthrie.

YALE VARSITY SCORES AGAINST THE SCRUBS

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 25.—(AP)—In the first scrimmage of practice the Yale varsity, with Johnny Garvey playing the leading role, scored 14 points against the scrubs in a 30 minute session at Pratt field today. The first team had no trouble in holding back the scrubs even without the services of Greene and Keil at the guard positions.

Garvey opened the scoring with a 35 yard end run for a touchdown and was the main factor in the second score when Paul Switz, quarterback, crashed through from the one yard line. Chauncey Hubbard booted the goals.

The varsity lined up with Godman and McEwen, ends; Captain Eddy and Marting, tackles; Chamlesworth, center; Hoben, quarterback; Garvey and Decker, halfbacks, and Hubbard, fullback. Ellis was the only substitute used, going in for Hoben who in turn took Garvey's place.

Bob Hall, substitute quarterback last year, was sent to the hospital today with a knee injury and he will be out for the season. "Red" Grange, former backfield star of the University of Illinois, was an interested spectator.

Lizzies Beat Alumni.

The Elizabeth street school football team defeated the Alumni on to 9. The school team came from behind at 9 to 6 at the end of the third quarter with two touchdowns in the final period for the victory.

The Lizzies challenge Broadway, Samuel Huntington and Greeneville schools for games. For arrangements get in touch with the manager at Elizabeth street school.

Two-Day Tourney Postponed.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The two day open golf tournament and interstate team matches scheduled for October 2-3, at the Farmington Country club, have been postponed to Oct. 9-10. These matches will be played between the Massachusetts Women's Golf association and the Connecticut Women's Golf association.

CARDS HAVE TOUGH FIGHT TO HOLD LEAD

BROOKLYN, Sept. 25—(AP)— The Cardinals carried a stubborn fight through to a successful conclusion in fifteen tense innings here today, defeating Brooklyn by 4 to 3 for their third straight triumph. By their victory the Red Birds escaped falling into a tie for the lead with the Giants, who posed out Cincinnati 4-3.

Wee Willie Sherdel went the route for McKechnie's men and kept Brooklyn's eleven hits so scattered that he seldom was in danger. The Cardinals got only ten safeties off Douglas McWeeny and Watson Clark, but Del Bissonette started Clark to his downfall in the fifteenth by fumbling Rabbit Maranville's grounder with one gone.

Sherdel then sacrificed, and Douthit delivered the winning hit, a Texas league double which fell at Max Carey's feet just a few inches from his outstretched glove.

Sherdel would have won in the regulation distance but for Hafey's error in the eighth. This permitted Carey to take an extra base on a single and put him in a position to score the tieing run on Bissonette's one bagger.

The Cardinals got all of their runs except the winning marker by bunching hits on McWeeny in the third. The Robins launched a sudden attack for a pair in the fifth, moved into a tie in the eighth as related, and then plunged into a long extra-inning fight with the leaders.

DEFENDING CHAMPION FALLS IN WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNEY

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The world's annual golf championship will have to worry along the rest of the week for a champion. Mrs. Miriam Burns Tyson, Kansas City, defending titleholder, ran into Miss Helen Paget, a slim Canadian girl playing in her first United States championship in the first round and was eliminated 2 up, and one to play. Mrs. Tyson, who was Miriam Burns Horn when she won the championship at Cherry Valley, Long Island, was unsteady.

Another champion, Miss Edith Cummings, Chicago, faded from the picture on a technicality. She had finished the regulation 18 holes all square with Mrs. Charley G. Higbie, Detroit, and thfe players went to the 19th.

Just before Miss Cummings putted she waved her hand in front to brush away a fly, therefore, Robert M. Cutting ruled that this was pressing on the line of the putt and although the hole was halved, he awarded hole and match to Mrs. Higbie.

Miss Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., favored by many to continue to the finals, defeated Mrs. Austin Pardue, Chicago, 7 and 6. She played better than yesterday when she led the qualifying field with a score of 80.

There are such things as upsets in women's golf and there were some today. Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, north and south champion, played par golf on her first nine holes against Miss Edith Quier, Reading, Pa., playing in her third championship, and did not win a hole. Miss Quier went out against Mrs. Hill in 28, playing six holes in par and getting three birdies to start home, three up. Mrs. Hill then staged a great rally, winning three holes in a row to square the match. Miss Quier then won the next three holes to go three up again. Mrs. Hill made a last bid by winning the 16th but Miss Quier was dormie two and she won the 17th to end the match.

TROLAND TO DEPEND MOST WHOLLY UPON JOHNNY TILLMAN

Manager Troland of the Taftville A. A. will depend almost wholly upon Johnny Tillman, pitching ace of the York, Pa. club of the New York-Pennsylvania league, to pull him through his series with the J. B. Martin club over the week end. Tillman will probably pitch both games if he goes well in Saturday's game at the Providence street grounds. If Tillman should falter Troland will throw the pitching burden on to the shoulders of Lefty Dugas. As for the remainder of his lineup Troland says that he will place the same team in the field that has gone so strong this season. He is not hiring any big league or minor league stars this year outside of a pitcher or two. The first game between these two clubs showed that the clubs were evenly matched and outside talent was simply an expense.

The camp of the Velvetmen is exceedingly quiet at the present time and Manager Fred Erlbeck is keeping mum as to his lineup for the weekend game. There have been several rumors that he will strengthen his pitching staff with an Eastern league hurler, but this is only a rumor. Russ Fisher and Pepin have been doing mighty fine work for him this year and there really seems to be little need of outside talent.

WOMEN'S STATE TEAM TITLE PLAY NEXT WEEK

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 25—(AP)—The New Haven Country club team, winners of the southern district women's golf championship, will play Hartford Country club, northern district winners in the finals for the state championship at Shuttle Meadow, New Britain, next Tuesday.

The result of the team matches were announced today as follows: Southern district, New Haven C. C. 65 1-2 points; Brooklawn C. C. 62; Waterbury C. C. 43; Race Brook C. C. 27; Fairfield C. . 12 1-2 and Ridgewood C. C. 0.

Northern district, Hartford C. C. 65 1-2; Long Meadow C. C. 54 1-2; Shuttle Meadow C. C. 35; Highland C. C. 32 1-2; Sequin C. C. 28 1-2 and Springfield C. C. 14.

STONEHAM APPROVES ACTION OF PRESIDENT CUNNINGHAM

BOSTON, Sept. 25—(AP)—Charles A. Stoneham, vice president of the American Soccer league expressed to President Bill Cunningham of the league his accord with the president's action in imposing a fine of $1,000 each on three American league teams and suspending them from competition pending a retraction of their entry in a cup tournament run by the United States Football association. The teams, which had entered the tournament contrary to a league vote, were Bethlehem, the New York Giants and Newark.

"The action of these clubs in entering this competition in defiance of a league vote is contrary to every known procedure of organized sport," Stoneham said.

BEAUREGARD BEAT LUCCI IN 10 TORRID ROUNDS

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 25—(AP)—Al Beauregard, of Taftville, fought through 10 torrid rounds to gain a decision over Pete Lucci, of Clinton, in a feature bout here tonight. Lucci was bolted over three times in the first round for the count of nine but came back strong to hold his opponent even. It was their third ring engagement. Beauregard weighed 118 1-2 and Lucci 119.

K. O. Brown, of New Bedford, failed to live up to his name being knocked out by Georgie Day, of New Haven in the 16th round. Brown weathered a flurry of punches from the start of the fight and was in a helpless condition when the finishing blow came.

Joe Currie, of New Haven, outpointed Johnny Scully of Boston in six rounds and Tony Lucci brother of Pete gained a six round decision over Johnny O'Keefe of Hartford. The other two preliminaries were abbreviated contests, Frankie Marino, New Haven scoring a technical knockout in the third round over George Labate of Boston and Joe Masselli, New Haven, made it a perfect night for the local mittsters by disposing of Johnny Ryan, of Boston, in one round.

MANDELL BREAKS COLLAR BONE IN FIRST ROUND

FLINT, Mich., Sept. 24—(AP)—Jimmy Goodrich, of Buffalo, scored a technical knockout over Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, in the first round of a scheduled ten round nontitular boxing contest here tonight. Mandell suffered a broken collar bone in the initial session and was unable to continue.

Articles of agreement for the fight provided that Goodrich must weigh in over the lightweight limit of 135 pounds and as a result Mandell's title was not involved. Goodrich weighed in at 140 pounds.

The blow that caused the halting of the fight came early in the first round. Mandell led with his left and Goodrich countered with a looping right that landed on the left collar bone.

Dr. F. L. Tupper, physician of the state boxing commission after an examination of Mandell ordered the referee to stop the contest.

RICHARDS REACHES SECOND ROUND IN PRO TENNIS

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 25—(AP)—The two favorites Vincent Richards of New York and Karel Kozeluh of Czechoslovakia, champions of the United States and Europe, had an easy time of the opening day of the first championship staged by the newly organized Professional Lawn Tennis association of the United States. Richards, winner of last year's informal tournament, reached the second round today by default when his opponent, Vladimir Terentieff of Russia, failed to appear, while Kozeluh lost only one game in his first round match with John Collom of Baltimore.

Only a handful of spectators braved the cold weather to watch the opening day's matches.

All of the six seeded players who saw action today reached the second round and only one was carried beyond three gets.

THREE SCRUBS MOVED TO HARVARD VARSITY

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 25—(AP)—Three members of the Harvard "Black Gang" as the scrubs are known, were promoted to the varsity squad today at the end of a light practice session. They were Dana M. Greely, a sophomore, considered one of the best quarterback prospects, Ken Robinson, a tackle, and C. F. Richards who played center on last year's freshman team.

Sam Burns, varsity end, returned to the squad today after being out for ten days with injuries. Douglas, who played end in the last Yale game, was ordered to rest. He received a leg injury in yesterday's scrimmage.

OVER $1,000 CONTRIBUTED TOWARD FUND FOR RED CROSS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 25—In response to the appeal made by the American Red Cross for funds to carry on work in Porto Rico and Florida, up to noon today, $1,014.25 had been received by Treasurer Lewis Stanton.

James M. Pendleton, chairman of the local chapter, stated today that the need for money to assist the afflicted people of Florida and Porto Rico is so urgent that the money collected here is being forwarded there from day to day. Those planning to contribute are requested by Mr. Pendleton to do so at once.

John Findlay, manager of the United theatre today offered to donate the entire proceeds of Thursday night's show to the cause, an offer gratefully accepted by the local chapter.

BUS SCHEDULE CHANGES ON ALL BUT TWO LINES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 25—Motor bus changes for Westerly lines become operative Wednesday when the number of trips to the nearby shore resorts will be considerably curtailed. On the Atlantic Beach line, there will be but four trips until further notice instead of three as in the past. Buses will leave here at 9:15 a. m. and 6:15 p. m., and will make the return trip at 2:45 p. m. and 6:45 p. m.

During the summer, 12 trips have been made daily to Watch Hill. Under the new schedule, there will be but four, the buses leaving here at 6:45, 7:45 and 11:45 a. m., and 3:45 p. m., starting their return trips a half hour later.

There will also be four round trips daily to Thompson's Corners, with six trips Saturday and seven trips Sunday. This will be a ten-minute run, the week day starting hours being 9:45 a. m. and 1:45, 4:45 and 5:45 p. m. The extra Saturday trips will be at 6:45 and 10:05 p. m. Sundays, the buses will leave here at 7:45 and 10 a. m., and 12:15, 1:45, 3, 5:45 and 8:45 p. m. No changes will be made in the schedules of the Ashaway and Bradford lines.

Franklin lodge, No. 20, F. and A. M., Lewis R. Greene, worshipful master, held a stated communication in the Masonic hall Tuesday evening, when at the first meeting since the summer recess, business was disposed of and ballots were taken on candidates.

Arthur G. Stillman has returned from a motor trip as far as Bar Harbor, Me.

Stephen Potter of Hope Valley, who had been on two weeks' vacation in Machinas, Me., returned home during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bourdon A. Babcock and daughter, Miss Priscilla, of Pawcatuck, were on a motor trip to Manchester, N. H., to be the guests of Mr. Babcock's sister over the week-end.

The boilers have been delivered on the site of the new Westerly Central fire station on Union street. Fireproof glass has been set in the windows and this week the floors are being laid in the apparatus room, plasterers having finished their work.

Mrs. Ella Burdick of Marion, Mass., has been the guest of relatives and friends in Pawcatuck and Westerly.

WESTERLY DAHLIA SHARPS BROADCASTS INFORMATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 25—At the flower Show of the American Dahlia Society at Madison Square Garden, New York, George L. Stillman, Westerly dahlia grower, was a speaker on the radio program, giving his talk at 1 p. m. In attendance at the exhibition from Westerly, Tuesday evening, and today (Wednesday) are Councilman Farquhar Smith, of the Smith Flower Shops and his foreman of greenhouses Peter Bernasconi.

Town Sergeant George L. Madison, of Westerly, under the new Rhode Island Court and Practice act has summoned a second list of talesmen for the September term of Washington county superior court, the present petit jurors under summons having completed their two weeks' tour of service at this week end.

The petit jurors under summons to report at the Westerly courthouse for the Westerly adjournment of the September term of the court Monday, Oct. 1st at 11 a. m. are:

James A. Koulbanis, confectioner, 82 Stillman avenue; Frederick R Lamb, fish dealer, 42 Cross street; Leo C. Nye, painter, East avenue; Walter F. Clark, draftsman, 8 Dayton street; John E. Stenhouse, stonecutter, 4 Washington street; George Smith, granite cutter, 23 Newton avenue; Thomas Mellow, laborer, 46 Main street, White Rock; Henry R. By all indications Westerly democracy is awakening from a long sleep and the largest democratic vote in the history of Westerly is predicted this year, by Thomas V. B. Clancy, chairman of the local democratic town committee.

Voters in various parts of the town have been urging the formation of a local Al Smith-for-president club. It was decided to organize such a club at a meeting held following the democratic town caucus Tuesday night.

STONINGTON

RODERICK-HENRY WEDDING AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH

Miss Constance Mary Henry and Joseph Jeal Roderick were married in St. Mary's church Monday morning at 9 o'clock. Rev. E. A. Cotter performed the ceremony and read the nuptial mass which followed. The wedding marches were played by Mrs. James Murphy of Westerly. The bride wore a gown of white satin. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor, Miss Irene Roderick wore pink satin and a pink hat and carried pink roses. Francis De Bragga was the best man. Following the ceremony, a reception was held for many relatives and friends at Fort Hall. Music for dancing was furnished by Souza's orchestra. After a wedding trip to New York city and Niagara Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Roderick will be at home to their friends at 12 Hancox street, after October 1.

Trial of "Ice Box" Bandits Nears the End

Finneran of the Worcester detective bureau, who was on the stand when court adjourned last Thursday afternoon, was recalled. He was asked to give a description of Henry Clouthier, mentioned previously as the man who was in possession of a Willys-Knight sedan on the night of April 4, when it was placed in the Comptois garage in Worcester with the assistance of Raymond and Lalone. Attorney Moynihan cross-questioned the witness on the description he had given.

George W. Bicknell, lieutenant of detectives in Springfield; Patrick J. Fenton, also a detective lieutenant; Bernard Smith, chief probation officer of Springfield; Attorney Richard S. Bellows, Springfield city prosecuting attorney; James F. McPhee, police court reporter for the Springfield Union; Frank H. Kelley, court reporter for the Springfield Daily News and Commissioner Robert T. Hurley, of the Connecticut state police department were called to the stand by the state to make denials that they had noticed any marks of violence on either Raymond or Lalone at the Springfield jail on either April 11 or on April 12, the day the youths were arraigned on a series of charges in the Springfield court. The detectives claimed that the questioning of the pair was entirely without violence.

While under cross-examination by Attorney Moynihan both court reporters claimed that it was Attorney Moynihan who had spoken of alleged violence to them and other reporters. Kelley said that Attorney Moynihan had spoken of the abuse of Raymond and Lalone and had told the reporters that they might use that statement in the newspapers. Following the testimony of Jacob Nabich as related previously in this article, the remaining business consisted of entering exhibits marked for identification as full exhibits. The state had used 13 rebuttal witnesses, but four of whom had testified during the taking of direct evidence, giving the state a total of 68 witnesses. The defense presented 15 direct witnesses and did not enter any rebuttal testimony. Today marked the eighth day of the case which opened September 11. The actual trial, following the selection of a jury panel of 12 veniremen from 111 talesmen examined, began on the afternoon of September 12. The state rested late Tuesday afternoon on the 18th, when the defense opened its case, completing it late last Thursday afternoon, September 20, the state then taking up rebuttal testimony.

WILL DO ALL IT CLAIMS TO DO

Mrs. Steele Says of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pratt, W. Va.—"I was so weak and nervous that I was in bed most all the time and couldn't sit up and I am only 30 years old. I saw your advertising in a magazine and after I had taken three doses of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could feel that I was better. After taking two bottles I began doing my work and I feel like a new woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and say it will do all it claims to do and more. I will gladly answer all letters I recive."—Mrs. S. E. Steele, Pratt, W. Va.

POETRY

Song of the Trippers

Gold finches round the purple flow'rs
Of thistles all a-blow
Have loosed the little reels of brown
And, restless, they float from town
To the far ocean's flow.

And we released from mill and loom
From wage and work set free,
Float light of heart as thistles blown
The faery fleets of thistledown,
And Commonsense may pitch and drown
Now we are near the sea.

We know a blue and elfin foreland,
Its pines than dreams more fair;
A young slim moon with clear white eye
Peeps laughing from the twilight sky;
Snow-breasted swallows circle by,
With gulls, all summer there.

Tom Fool in velvet cap of foxglove
And harebells at his feet
Plays daylong there, plays sightlong there;
He makes the winds his dulcimer;
The merry sea flutes back his air
And dances to his beat.

The water twirls, the water skirls,
His windy cap nods he;
And past him dance and play the clowns
And faery fleets of thistledown
That venture out to sea.

—Geoffrey Johnson, in Christian Science Monitor.

The Day You Came

Such special sweetness was about
That day God sent you here,
I knew the lavender was out,
And it was mid of year.

Their common way the great winds blew,
The ships sailed out to sea;
Yet are that day was spent I knew
Mine own had come to me.

As after song some snatch of tune
Lurks still in grass or bough,
So somewhat of the end o' June
Lurks in each weather now.

The young year sets the buds astir,
The old year strips the trees;
But even in my lavender
I hear the brawling bees.

—Lisette Woodworth Reese, in "A Handful of Lavender."

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Elmer—Do you talk in your sleep?
Roy—No; my wife says I'm perfectly exasperating—I only smile.—Pathfinder.

Mrs.—Oh, Harry, I'm worried about the car!
Mr.—So am I; if we don't trade it in pretty soon, we'll own the darn thing.—Life.

"Can you imagine anything worse than being a cornstalk and having your ears pulled by farmers?"
"How about being a potato with your eyes full of dirt?"—Montreal Star.

Wife (in a telegram from a spa)—In four weeks I have reduced my weight by half. How long shall I stay?
Husband (wiring back)—Another four weeks.—Cleveland Press.

With increasing amusement he laughed
Because of his daughter's wild laughter;
Then said: "Though I seem to be daughed
I am sure that my daughter is daughter."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Doctor—You are on the verge of a long illness.
Patient—Oh, doctor, I haven't as much money as you imagine.—Smith's Weekly.

"Most of the efficiency experts you encounter," a motion picture producer once remarked, "remind me of the fellow who can't enjoy a sea voyage because all the salt is going to waste."—Los Angeles Times.

After the dance they had meandered out on the piazza and into the garden. As he was about to spout his love song his prom girl screamed, "Oh, oh, I've been stung! It must have been a bee. Oh, what shall I do? Please tell me."
"Don't worry, dear, don't worry. We'll just put a little alcohol on it."
"Yes, but I'm sure it's flown away."—Punch Bowl.

KALEIDOSCOPE

The United States produces more than 2,000,000,000 pairs of stockings a year.

The north pole is at sea level, but the south pole is on an ice plateau almost 10,000 feet high.

Recent investigations indicate that more than 80 per cent. of the heart trouble of young people is a result of some form of rheumatism.

There are primitive tribes existing today that have not developed beyond the use of crude stone weapons and that are literally men of the stone age.

A model tenement called Flower house was built in Sweden from Flower fund money, which friends of dead persons contributed instead of buying flowers for funerals.

Until the Fourth of July, Luella Thousand, a 13-year-old girl from Spencerport, N. Y., could not swim a stroke. One month and eight days after she earned to swim, she swam across Lake Keuka, a distance of one and one-half miles.

In order that the engineer may communicate with trainmen in the caboose of long freight trains moving through the curves in the sandhill regions, trains will be equipped with radio sets, according to Burlington railroad officials at Alliance, Neb.

Vacations come once a year to many persons, but not to Fred Degen, Chicago loop barber, who has been at his chair 50 years without a vacation. Now that his chance has come, Degen will take "a little run out to Elgin and Aurora and maybe have dinner at a fashionable city hotel."

Mrs Sarah Chaloupkas of Wyoming, Ia., is telling a toad story. Her toad, a tree toad, she says, croaks though it has been imbedded in the concrete basement wall of her home 11 years. The toad was not heard until a year after the house was built, and is silent in the winter, but through the spring, summer and fall it is noisy. Three years ago, according to Mrs. Chaloupkas, the toad was silent, and she thought it was dead, but a few days later she heard it again, and today it is croaking as merrily as ever.

Minnesota Indians, hard pushed by paleface monopoly to earn a living, have taken a tip from the white man in harvesting their share of the fruits of the land. Using collegiate flivvers instead of the usual scrawny horse, and outboard motors instead of slow-moving birch canoes, they are penetrating parts of the north country to gather the rich blueberry harvest that is unknown or inaccessible to the whites. The red men and their squaws are earning as high as $10 a day from the unusualy large crop of berriesthis year. In the lake country they attach a motor to a canoe, pack squaws, children and pails in the bottmo and start at daybreak each day for the berry fields.

MARKET OPENED STRONG, TURNED WEAK, THEN HEADED UPWARD AGAIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(AP)—Curious cross currents of prices ran through today's stock market, which opened strong, turned weak around mid-day and then headed upward again in the late trading. Final quotations were mixed, with many of the popular industrials showing small net declines and a few specialties recording sizeable gains.

Trading was conducted at such a furious pace that the ticker fell more than 40 minutes behind the market by early afternoon, but part of the delay was made up before the close. Total sales of 4,606,300 shares have been exceeded only about five times this year.

Call money renewed at 7 -2 per cent and a plentiful supply seemed available, but when banks began to call about $10,000,000 in loans a general selling movement set in. This was checked by the lowering of the call rate to 7 per cent. Although sterling was again quoted at the year's low, no engagement of gold in Great Britain for shipment to this country was reported, but the belief was expressed in banking circles that some of the gold recently purchased there by Germany might find its way into this country. Hope is still held out for the imports of gold from Argentina, which has taken about $100,000,000 of the yellow metal from the United States within the past year.

Time money rates held firm at 6 to 7 1-4 per cent, with 7 1-2 bid by some brokers. Commercial paper, on the other hand was quoted at 5 1-4 to 5 1-2. Interest rates on margin accounts for the month of September are expected to be the largest in years.

"Bear" traders, taking advantage of the long ticker delay and the top-heavy speculative position in some of the specialties, inaugurated the midday selling movement. So swift was their attack that prices on the floor, in many instances, were quoted several points away from those appearing on the tape before the extent of the reaction became generally known. Liquidation by frightened investors and speculators forced several issues 5 to 10 points below their early highs, but buying support was quickly provided. In a few issues, such as Montgomery-Ward, which rebounded from 249 1-4 to 265 the rally assumed violent proportions.

The day's trade news was largely favorable. Steel mill operations were reported to have increased 6 per cent within the past week and a continued good inquiry was noted for copper. Several favorable August railroad earnings reports were published. Union Pacific Texas & Pacific and Missouri Pacific all making favorable comparison with the same month last year.

Automotive shares again attracted a large following. Packard, Chrysler, Graham-Paige and the Chandler-Cleveland issues all moved into new high ground. Yellow Truck was under heavy accumulation on reports that recent "write-offs" placed the stock in a position to consider the payment of dividends next year. Briggs Manufacturing, which is doing a record-breaking business, again changed hands in large volume, cross-ing 58 to a new high and holding near the top throughout the selling movement in the general list.

Coppers continued to respond to the recent stiffening in commodity prices. Howe Sound, which has been selling out-of-line with some of the other issues in that group on a yield basis, crossed 70 to a record high price. Anaconda, Granby and Kennecott also eclipsed their previous 1928 highs.

U. S. Steel common, General Motors, Radio, Hudson National Biscuit, National Dairy Products and Westinghouse were among the recent favorites to close a point or two lower. Case Threshing broke 5 points. Murray Corp. dropped from an early high of 93 1-2 to 83 and then rebounded to 90, off 2 3-4 net. Greene Cananea slipped from 135 3-4 to 129 1-2 and snapped back to 132 3-8, off 2 1-4. Similar fluctuations took place in several other specialties.

Rails were again inclined to sluggishness.

Foreign exchanges moved within extremely narrow and irregular limits, with sterling cables quoted around $4.84 15-16.

Most of the commodity markets lost ground. Cotton reacted about 75 cents to $1.25 a bale and wheat about 1 1-2 cents a bushel. Coffee closed unchanged to 11 points lower and sugar quotations were fairly steady.

RULES FOR YOUNG WRITERS

2—Use pen and ink, not pencil.

3—Short and pointed articles will be given preference. Do not use over 250 words.

4—Original stories or letters only will be used.

Write your name, age and address plainly at the bottom of the story.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

Help the Helpless

Help the helpless! Hear the cry?
Do not idly pass them by,
They depend on you and me
For our aid and sympathy.

And this bond of sympathy
Binds together you and me,
Tells of work that we must do
If we would be tried and true.

Help the helpless! Do we need
Something better for our creed?
Deep down in the human heart
Sympathy must play its part.

Tired horses old and weak
Plead with us and we must speak.
They have filled a useful place—
Benefactors of the race.

Feed the helpless day by day.
Frightened homeless little stray
Cat or dog without a friend,
On our sympathy depend.

Give the birds the crumbs they need.
They will thank you for their feed.
Help the helpless! Hear the cry?
Do not idly pass them by.

MRS. HENRY ARMSTRONG.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES

The gorilla, when he was discovered in the jungles of Africa by explorers, was called the wild man. This is an appropriate name because the gorilla is a fierce animal of untamed appearance. He is accustomed to walking on all fours, like a dog or horse, but he can stand erect on two legs like a human being. This, however, is not his normal way of moving about. The nearest relative of man in the animal kingdom are the gorilla, the chimpanzee and the orang-outang.

In structure as well as in appearance these animals are similar, which suggests that they are probably cousins as a result of the long-continued evolution of living forms. The gorilla is the largest of these related animals; the adult male is five and one-half to six feet tall, and the female four and onehalf to five feet. He has broad, rugged and powerful chest and shoulders, with short neck and a comparatively small head. His face, too, is small; his nose, short and stubby, but his mouth is large, and his jaws powerful. His long and muscular arms are a conspicuous feature. In proportion to his size, his arms are much more highly developed than those of a man. His legs, though comparatively short, are also muscular and powerful. His skin is black, and long, oily hair covers most of his body, including his face, arms, and legs. In old age, the hair sometimes turns gray or white. In weight the adult male varies from 350 to 500 pounds. His eyes are small and of short range, for which reason all gorillas are comparatively near-sighted.

Many stories to the contrary notwithstanding, the gorilla is not a ferocious animal in its wild state. He never attacks man unless first attacked. But when he is cornered or slightly wounded he is among the most savage of wild beasts, and he then fights fiercely. When defending himself, the male stands erect and uses his flats to strike, and his rugged arms to crush and tear his adversary to pieces. In this he is aided by his large, strong and sharp teeth. In combat with an enemy, the gorilla fights somewhat like a bear, depending largely upon his muscular arms and legs, aided by powerful teeth and jaws.

In his native environment, the gorilla subsists principally on vegetable food which he gathers in the daytime. Though his numbers have been reduced by the ruthless slaughter of hunters, he may still be seen today in the wild and unsettled regions of northern and central Africa, where he roams at large in the forests and jungles in families consisting of one adult male, two or three females and several young. When darkness comes on in the evening, the females and infants climb a tree, in whose branches they spend the night in sleep, while the male head of the family reclines in sleep on the ground near the base of the tree. He is a good provider as well as protector, and few animals are more ready to engage in combat when necessary to protect their progeny.

Though gorillas probably lived in large numbers in the wilds of South America and Australia, they have now practically disappeared from those regions, and they are now found in a native state only in Africa. Few are exported to Europe or America for exhibition purposes because they do not live long after being removed from their natural habitat. They early succumb to pneumonia when transported to a cold climate, or to one subject to frequent and marked changes of weather, such as are experienced in Europe and North America.

LETTERS OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Marjorie Grieve, Yantic—I thank you for the nice book you sent me for a prize. I know I shall enjoy reading it very much.

Augusta Heibel, Taftville—I received the book and thank you very much. I think it is very interesting. I hope I will win again.

E. Barbara Horton, Pomfret Center—I received the prize book and shall enjoy reading it. I thank you very much.

WINNERS OF PRIZE BOOKS

2—Mildred Crandall, Mystic, R. F. D. No. 1—A World of Girls.

Winners of prize books living in Norwich may obtain them by calling at The Bulletin business office after 10 o'clock this morning.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

Our Health Club.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell the Wide-Awakes about our Health club. We formed a health club about a year ago. There are twenty-six members in our club. We have a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. I am the president of our club. We have meetings once a month. We initiate new members into club work whenever one wants to join. We form new health habits and help to cure some of the following bad habits: Chewing pencils or erasers, sucking the thumb, putting money in the mouth or picking up cigarette stubs and smoking them. There are many other habits that we also help to cure.

I thing that our club is a great help to all and hope the Wide-Awakes think the same.

TONY CARBONI. Age 12.
North Franklin.

Likes Her Prize Book.

Dear Uncle Jed: Please forgive me for not writing and thanking you for my book with which I am much pleased. I never dreamed I would get a book. I have read my book through and so has my mother.

We both think it is very good. I heard that Bertha had written to you again and got a book. Well I will close and I thank you for my book ever so much.

THELMA BURDICK.
Stonington.

My New School

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would tell you about my new school. It was just completed in time for the opening of the fall term on Sept. 4. There are eight grades and a large assembly hall. I am in the fifth grade. During the past week the school has had many visitors. We have had many useful gifts, one being an encyclopedia and for the assembly hall several pictures and a beautiful silk flag mounted on a staff and this was given by the Mary Keeney Tent, Daughters of the Union War Veterans, and I am sure both pupils and teachers are proud of their new school.

DOROTHY LA POINT. Age 9.
South Manchester.

Story of a Quarter.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you and wish to tell you and the Wide-Awakes about a story which is called "The Autobiography of a Lost Quarter."

Once upon a time I was in a little girl's handbag which was opened by accident and I fell out and rolled into the gutter where I lay for several days without being seen. But one day a little boy found me and picked me up and rushed home to tell his mother of his good fortune.

He said, 'I am going to buy some candy and ice cream." So he went to the store and gave me to the store man who put me in the cash register but it was only a short time before a man walked in and the store man gave me to the man who then walked down the street and was asked by a little boy if he wanted a shoe shine to which he answered yes, and he gave me to the little boy who happened to be the same one that found me in the gutter.

AUGUSTA HEIBEL.
Taftville.

My Vacation Trip

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about the nice vacation I had. I spent a week with my aunt and uncle in Keene, N. H., and while there I visited many places of interest, among them two mica mines.

One Sunday afternoon we went to a pretty little lake. There were swings teeter boards and boats for the children. We had a lovely time and a very pleasant trip home.

I hope all the children had as nice a vacation as I did.

ELEANOR MAE WHIPPLE, age 9.

A Tame Mouse

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and I hope you will enjoy my story. One night when my two sisters and I were upstairs we heard something biting on a box in the next room. We took the lamp and went in there. We saw a mouse on the shelf and the mouse wouldn't run. One of my sisters went up to it and pulled its tail and it ran down on the next shelf behind some books. We took the books away and it stayed right there. Then my sister put her hand almost on its nose and it didn't run then. Then she pulled its tail again. Then it jumped off of the shelf almost on my other sister, standing by the door. It frightened her so bad she screamed and that was the last we saw of the mouse.

MILDRED CRANDALL, age 12.
Mystic.

A School Reunion

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell about our school reunion. The school house where I go is nearly a hundred years old. My mother, father and grandfather all went there. They have a reunion there every year. Those who have been to school and those who have taught come. Most all of the older ones give a little talk. It is quite interesting to hear them tell of th different things that happened when they were going.

This year a man came whose name is Samuel Lamb. He said he went to school there 80 years ago, and he started when he was seven years old. Later he taught school, and said he was the first one who taught history there.

They have been repairing the school house this summer. So they had to stay out of doors this time. There are plenty of rocks around there, so they found seats enough to sit on.

It was a fine day and I think they all enjoyed it.

BERNICE WATROUS, age 11.

Thought She Caught a Fish.

Dear Uncle Jed: I had an exciting experience this summer while I was at Ocean Beach for my vacation. My father and mother were there too. We all had our vacations together and we had a dandy time. But one day I was fishing off the dock for little fish. I had just baited my hook and thrown the line in when I felt was I thought was a tug. I pulled up quickly but only a tin can was hooked on the hook. Someone threw it overboard and it got caught on the hook and the tide, which was going out made it act just like a fish would. I threw the can out as far as I could and kept on fishing. Before supper time I had caught three fish. They were so small that my mother said to throw them away. I wanted her to cook them for my supper but she said they were too small. I hope I'll be able to go to Ocean Beach again next summer.

JANE NAVORSKY. Age 11.
Waterford.

A Ride.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written a story to you. I will tell you about the time we had on Tuesday evening. I and my friend, and his sister, and my sister and brother, all went for a ride on our old wagon. We started to go go around a corner but we were going so fast we nearly tipped over, and it threw us al lout.

CLIFTON A. WATROUS. Age 12.

At The Springfield Fair.

Dear Uncle Jed: I went to Springfield fair last week. They call it the Eastern States Exposition but it is held in Springfield so I call it the Springfield fair. We made the journey in our automobile and got there about noon time. Part of the afternoon we visited the cattle show and the horse show and saw the pigs and other animals. My dad was interested in the cattle as he has some of his own. He said the cattle he saw at the fair were much nicer than the ones we own. Then we visited the exhibits in the large building. Then we saw the races, etc., from the grand stand and then we had supper in a big restaurant. We stayed for the evening and had a great time. This is the second time I have been to that fair. I have seen the Norwich fair too, last year.

Here On A Visit.

Dear Uncle Jed: I wonder if a visitor to Norwich can join the Wide Awake Circle? So I am writing a letter to you. I have been here since June, visiting my aunt and uncle. My mother is not feeling well and so my aunt and uncle are looking after me until she is well enough. She has been in bed for a long time but the doctor says she will be able to get up and will be all well again soon. I think I may go back home next month. I have had a nice time here and have met lots of nice boys and girls. They told me they will write to me when I go back home. I live in Boston and it is a pretty large city. I didn't like Norwich when I came first because there were no elevated trains or subways or big crowds, but I like it pretty well now. After I go home I think I'll come back again. There is more fun here playing than there is in Boston because we haven't any yard to play in. We live in an apartment house, four stories up. It is a six story building. We have to go up and down in an elevator. I will be glad to be home again but I will be sorry to leave here. My father came here two weeks ago to see me and he took me to a movie show. I had a good time at the show.

Wants To Be a Lawyer.

Dear Uncle Jed and the Wide Awakes: I want to be a lawyer when I grow up. The reason I want to be a lawyer is because they know a lot and make lots of money. I want to make lots of money so that I can buy a farm some day and have chickens and horses and cows, and grow stuff like potatoes, and cabbage and other things. My father used to own a farm but he sold it and he works in a mill. I liked the farm but I don't like the city as well. I mean we haven't any place to play in and my mother says not to play in the street because I will get hurt by an automobile. I like to fish and used to go fishing in a big pond near our farm. Some people from New York bought our farm. My father says he will take me out to visit the farm sometime. He knows the people that bought our farm. We had a horse, a lot of chickens, some ducks and a few turkeys. There are a lot of berry bushes on the farm we sold. I like to pick berries but it is hard work. I used to sell the berries I picked to my mother. She used to give me five cents for every bottle full I picked.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(AP)—Ingot production of the U. S. Steel Corp. took a sharp rise of about 6 per cent in the last week, crossing 85 per cent of capacity. Independent companies also increased operations, but the gain was not as large, some of the smaller units not moving ahead as rapidly as the larger companies. Bethlehem Steel is running between 85 and 86 per cent, while Republic is credited with slightly higher figures. Youngstown Sheet & Tube and Inland Steel also have increased their activities.

Simon Guggenheim, president of American Smelting & Refining Co., said on his return from abroad that the outlook for improvement in the copper industry was most encouraging. The current price of 18 1-4 cents a pound was the best indication that the industry was better off than it has been for several years. He saw nothing to indicate that the present quotation would average any lower. He looked for larger earnings for the company this year than in 1927, when net income was $15,477,769, or $19.64 a share on the common.

August surplus of the Pere Marquette moved up to $1,283,663 after charges, from $1,083,063 in August last year, but for eight months was slightly under a year ago, $4,634,140 against $4,753,956.

You've Seen Nothing to Compare with the NEW 1929 CENTURY HUPMOBILES

With a majority of 1929 models revealed, Hupmobile relinquishes not one iota of the style and value leadership it has held among fine cars since the first Century models were announced last fall. Brilliantly refined in tailored metal appearance and luxury of appointments, the new 1929 Century Six and Eight now more than ever present the century's greatest advance in mechanical excellence, body design and beauty. By direct comparison and your own sense of values, you will select a new Century Six or Eight as the most modern development of twentieth century transportation. ¶Forty-two body and equipment combinations, standard and custom on each line. Six of the Century, $1345 to $1645. Century Eight, $1825 to $2125. All prices f. o. b. Detroit.

MRS. LOCARNO, MOTHER OF 7, DIES AT NEW LONDON HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 26—Mrs. Julia Locarno, 37, wife of Enrico Locarno, of Niantic, died last night at Lawrence-Memorial hospital of septic poisoning, the result of a criminal operation alleged to have been performed recently by Mrs. Kate Ramistella, 55, also of Niantic. Mrs. Ramistella was presented before Justice of the Peace Charles Watrous at Niantic last evening charged with performing a criminal operation and the case was continued to Thursday evening. Mrs. Ramistella furnished a surety on her bond of $5,000 and when she is presented in court later in the week the charge against her will have been amended to that of manslaughter. Mrs. Locarno, who is the mother of seven children, was taken to the hospital the latter part of last week as a medical patient. She had been receiving treatment there but a short time when the physicians recognized in the patient's symptoms, indications of the poisoning and it then developed that the woman had submitted to the abortion a few days before. When Acting Medical Examiner George P. Cheney was informed of the nature of the patient's illness and condition, he notified Coroner C. J. McKay at Norwich and Sergeant Henry Albright, state police of Groton barracks. Coroner McKay and Sergeant Albright took the woman's ante-mortem statement, in which she named Mrs. Ramistella as having performed the operation. The latter was arrested at her home by Officers Frank Webber and Louis Albright. She was identified at the hospital by Mrs. Locarno. Mrs. Locarno's condition took a change for the worse during Sunday night for she lapsed into unconsciousness, in which condition she remained until her death.

TO DATE $1,402 DONATED TO RED CROSS RELIEF FUND

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 26—New London citizens to date have contributed $1,402 toward the relief fund for Porto Rico and Florida, being raised by the local Red Cross. The quota set for this city is $2,000 and officials of the organization feel confidant that it will be oversubscribed. During the next few days boy scouts will assist the Red Cross workers in the drive, making a house-to-house canvass for worn clothing to be sent south.

STEPHEN HOPPE ROBBED IN NORWICH AND NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 25—Stephen Hoppe of South Boston, is facing a trial for his life in the neighboring state on a charge of shooting down a policeman in Quincy, Mass. Local police believe that Hoppe is the person who performed wholesale burglaries on automobile agencies here, some few months ago. It is also alleged that he is the man who performed similar robberies in Norwich and held up the Palace theatre there.

Fifteen tables of whist were in play when members of Lodge Scandinavia, Order of Vasa, held a party in the lodge rooms the other night. Those who won prizes were Mrs. Regina Johnson, Miss Annie Hansen, Mrs. Balburg Olsen, Carl Nilson, Arthur Sand and Mike Olsen. The affair was in charge of Mrs. Hannah Larsen assisted by Mrs. Peter Peterson, Mrs. Clara Hansen, Allan Nilson, Eric Carlson and Hilding Carlson.

Patients dismissed at Home Memorial hospital today were Ashby Fitzgerald, 188 Broadway, Norwich; Mrs. Evelyn Perry and daughter, 270 Connecticut avenue; Mrs. Peter Bertinsky, 60 Cedar Grove avenue, Harold Griffin, 20 Hempstead street.

A reward of $25 has been offered for information leading to the arrest of Anthony Edward Gillis of the destroyer Maury and John C. Murdock of the submarine base. Both men are posted as straggiers. Each is 20 years old.

A small fire was caused last night on Walbach street when sparks from a passing locomotive started a blaze in a pile of ties owned by the New Haven Railroad company. A still alarm was answered by the Oxford Hose company. Through the use of chemicals the fire was quickly extinguished.

Jack Frost, with unexpected suddenness swooped down upon this city last night and left a warning that winter is approaching. Temperature as low as 32 was reported and a coating of frost was on lawns and fields.

Miss Alice Elizabeth Ganey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Ganey of Lincoln avenue will become the bride of Harold J. Beattie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Beattie of Leete's Island, tomorrow morning. The wedding will be held at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, the rector, Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley solemnizing the marriage.

At the meeting of Pythian Sisters to be held in Union lodge rooms tomorrow night, committees to take charge of the various activities planned for the coming winter will be named.

Judge Frederick N. Dimock of Waterford town court disposed of five auto cases yesterday morning. Edward Clancy and Albert Burgess of Waterford were charged with having defective mechanical equipment on their cars. The case against each was nolled when costs were paid. Ernest Brousseau of East Lyme was fined $15 and costs on a charge of operating a car with improper markings. Leonela Prudel of Providence received a fine of $25 and costs on a charge of reckless driving.

At the annual meeting of the Sunday school board of the Methodist church last night, Mrs. Robert A. T. Bitgood was reelected superintendent of the school. Other officers elected were: Superintendent of junior department, Mrs. W. D. Harris; assistant, Mrs. W. D. Harris; superintendent of primary department, Mrs. Harry M. Holmes; superintendent of beginners' department, Mrs. William Krauth; secretary, Donald Bradshaw; assistant, Mary Winchester; financial secretary, Henery S. James King has sold a house and lot on Whittlesey street to Fred L. and Charlotte M. Williams.

CHILDISH SPITE CASE REPORTED TO POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 25—There was no session of the police court today. A case scheduled to be tried was continued to tomorrow. It is that of Charles Phillips, 136 Cedar Grove avenue, charged with blocking traffic and breach of the peace, upon complaint of Alex Simms, 20 Bank street and 36 Colt street. Simms made complaint to Patrolman George Bruhns yesterday that Phillips on several occasions had driven his automobile in front of Simms car, then reduced speed and prevented the passing of it by the Simms car. Simms said that he had been given much annoyance and caused inconvenience through the acts of Phillips.

There was petty thieving going on last night and from the nature of the thefts reported at police headquarters it would appear that the perpetrators were intent on stealing anything they could lay their hands on. Tony Bystazak, 110 Winthrop street complained that a dozen chickens had been stolen from his hennery. Arthur Bussell, 163 Norwood avenue, reported that a suit of pajamas was stolen from a clothes-line in the yard of his home. MOTORISTS ON TOUR LIABLE TO ACCIDENTS

Visitors from town to town or from state to state were involved in 50 per cent of all automobile accidents in Connecticut during June, July and August of the past two years, a "check-up" by the state motor vehicle department shows. About 40 per cent of all cars involved were from towns in the state other than those in which the accidents occurred, and 10 per cent were owned out-of-state.

In these three months this year, there were 12,095 cars involved in accidents. Of these, 6,050 were owned in the towns where the accidents happened. Out-of-state and out-of-town cars numbered 6,046. Practically the same ratios were true in the corresponding three months of last year. Of 13,649 cars involved, 6,832 were owned locally and 6,817 were foreign to the place of the accidents.

While there were more out-of-state cars involved last year there were more accidents then, and the percentage for visitors from othr states in accidents is practically the same for each of the years.

There were 1,202 out-of-state cars, about 10 per cent, in a total of 12,096 involved this year. Last year there were also about 10 per cent, or 1,377 in a total of 13,649.

This equality of percentages for the two years also applies to out-of-town cars. There were 4,844, or about 40 per cent, of the 12,096 cars involved, from other towns this year, and 5,440, also about 40 per cent of the 13,649 last year.

Weather and bad road surface conditions have been slightly less to blame for accidents this summer than last, another study of statistics reveals. In the three months past there were 7,716 accidents. Of these 1,529, or a little more than 19 per cent, occurred when there was rain, fog, or the road surfaces were wet because of rain. The other 6,187 occurred in clear weather with dry road surfaces.

A year ago the percentage of wet weather accidents was about 8 per cent higher, of 7,983 accidents, 2,189, or 27 per cent, occurred when it was raining or the roads were wet and slippery. Seventy-three per cent, or 5,794 happened in clear weather.

SEA SLED CO., PROPOSAL STIRS UP GROTON MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 25—The annual meeting of the town of Groton, held last night in the town hall, Poquonoc, was one of the hottest that the citizens have attended in a long time and before all of the business had been transacted, there was a near-riot and even challenges to combat. Practically all of the recommendations for the budget were favorably acted upon; but when it came to the recommendation for the appropriation of $600 for compiling the town tax book by a certified accountant, C. A. Ladden made a motion that Hibbard N. Alexander, tax collector of New London, and a certified accountant be employed. Ladden's motion met with opposition and after a discussion it was voted to appropriate $200 and that the accountant would be one of the selection of the town officials. The fireworks started when a petition was presented, signed by Ladden and 24 others, requesting that the town permit the sea sled manufacturing concern at West Mystic to erect a gate and thereby close the entrance to the public right of way, which divides property of the sea sled corporation and extends from Maxson street, West Mystic, to Mystic river, for a period of five years. Harry Brogaw, counsel for the town, when requested to give legal opinion regarding the matter, stated that the town had no right to close the right of way, but that the selectmen could do so and that action would have to be taken by the town on the selectmen's move. Ladden, an employe of the sea sled corporation stated that his firm's desire for obtaining the closing of the right of way was that more room was needed for handling its boats and that the property was too open to the general public, besides being a public dressing place for youths and girls in going swimming. Ladden said that his company paid $203,000 in wages last year and could save time on its shipments by the corporation locating in Providence or Boston. One of the attendants yelled, "at 40 cents an hour," while another of the hecklers yelled "why don't they move?" Ladden concluded his remarks amid a series of boos. P. J. McNamara, in addressing the gathering, referred to those who had heckled Ladden as "a bunch of curs." Some of those in the rear of the hall invited McNamara into the open to battle. He did not accept the defi and he was greeted with such outburts of disorder that McNamara was forced to refrain from further attempting to address the body. Dr. L. M. Allyn, L. P. Allyn, Mrs. Carl Cutler and James P. Gillogly, also addressed the meeting. Ladden finally requested that an amendment to the petition be adopted changing the time suggested in the closing of the right of way to one year, not five. The matter was finally disposed of by a motion to table and that action was taken. It was evident that practically all from the east side of the town were opposed to the closing of the right of way. The current year book was made up by G. L. Nye and is the most satisfactory the town has ever possession. Altogether the meeting voted appropriations of $260,235.

Patrolman Walter O'Neill was unable to perform duty tonight, being confined to his home on Ashcraft road because of illness.

Mrs. Ray Allen, 34 Brewer street, reported to the police this evening that during her absence from home a thief had gained entrance and had sacked the house. ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

"Fleetwing," a fascinating romance of an Arabian dancing girl, and tingling with adventurous action will open the double feature program at the Breed Theatre for today and Thursday.

The heart of Thirya, the little dancer is laid bare. A pawn of fate, the girl is but a toy, to be played with and then flung aside. However, fate shows a new hand in the game and brings happiness to Thirya, when it introduces Jafaar, a sheik, into her life.

What transpires in this absorbing drama is told in a vivid manner. Dorothy Janis, a new-comer to the screen, gives a splendid portrayal as Thirya. Barry Norton who will be remembered for his remarkable performance as the mother's boy in "What Price Glory," plays the desert sheik.

A dog picture of unusual merit, abounding in thrills, excitement and the emotional appeal of a beautiful and faithful dog will be the added feature. It is "Fangs of the Wild," an FBO production starring Ranger and made under the direction of Jerome Storm.

New London County Fair

All that is needed now to make the 1928 Norwich fair a great success is pleasant weather and a banner attendance. The management of the fair this year has gone out of its way to make the fair bigger and better than ever. If Norwich is to continue this old fair of hers, a feature of eastern Connecticut life since great grandma's childhood days, then the people of this community are the only ones that can make it possible.

Throwing all caution to the winds and staking all on the response of the thousands who love to visit the old fairgrounds every year, the New London County Agricultural society has attracted to the fairgrounds the largest midway, best cattle, sheep, swine and poultry exhibits, the biggest farm produce show, and the greatest mercantile attraction, ever brought to Norwich. Everyone has been pushing and pushing hard for the success of the fair this year. Now it is up to you whether or not these efforts shall be in vain.
